A case in point when outsiders were again fooled as to the amount and varied business done in Onsted was exemplified this week, when the Pure Food Inspector called on Mrs. Baker and laid down the new law which went into effect last May.

He had passed through the town several times, but because of its size concluded there was no such thing as an ice cream manufacturer in it.

However, murder and other information will out. An admirer of Mrs. Baker's ice cream brand at one of the lake resorts unsuspectingly gave the information away and Mrs. Baker in consequence received a call from the aforesaid inspector with the result that she must make the cream after the state formula and pay a license of $5.00 or buy it elsewhere. To pay the license and be compelled to use the extra amount of cream demanded, Mrs. Baker finds it cheaper to buy wholesale from Tecumseh, so in the future will supply her trade from that source.

THE JULY ATLANTIC.

Every one who reads the Atlantic Monthly for July will be struck by the compact and telling appeal which A British Marine Officer makes to America to build and support a national merchant marine, so that our flag may not utterly disappear from the seas of the world. Other lessons which America may learn from foreigners are exemplified in this number by a suggestive article on "The German Way of Making Better Cities," by Sylvester Baxter, and A. F. Sanborn's significant paper on "French Conservatism."

The first place in the issue is given to Charles M. Harvey, who takes Champlain's tercentenary as a text for a breezy paper on "Champlain as a Herald of Washington."

The two historic series now running are represented in this number by two important chapters: General Schaff brings his reminiscences to the heart of the Wilderness campaign, while "The Dairy of Gideon Welles" recounts the happenings of the intensely anxious summer of '63.

THE DESIGNER FOR AUGUST.

"What We Women of The World Find Out," by Gabrielle Stewart Mulliner, a New York lawyer, is an article which readers of the Designer for August will find extremely interesting, for the writer does not hesitate to criticize the weakness of her sister women. "The Etiquette of the White House," by Mrs. Helen Corrine Hambridge, will be found most illuminating by those who have never had occasion to call on the President. Other features of the month include: "Your Boy and the Y. M. C. A." "What My Court Work Has Taught Me about the Home," and "Letters of an Athletic Girl."

"Summer Shopping in New York" will tempt shoppers to brave the heat and sun in order to obtain the bargains and study the new fashions described by Mrs. W. Harrison Black.

The fiction of this month is of a delightful quality. There is a new serial, "The House on the Hill," by Theodosia Garrison; and "Polly of the Circus," by Margaret Mayo goes merrily on. Two short stories, "His Last Circus," by Bertha Esterbrook Goodler, and "The Violet Lady," by Naomi Harroun, will be much enjoyed.

The Pitt Diamond.

While Pitt, the grandfather of Lord Chatham, was governor of Fort St. George in 1698 he became acquainted with a jewel merchant named Jamchund, who brought a diamond of great size for sale. He asked £30,000 for it in the rough. It should, of course, have been bought on behalf of the company, but Pitt, seeing money in it, could not resist the temptation of making a private bargain. He became the possessor of the stone for the sum of £20,400, and he was quite satisfied that he had behaved honorably when he paid the man, who on his part was also content. But the diamond was known to be worth more than Jamchund had received, and the transaction gave rise to a good deal of gossip, which in no way decreased when later on Pitt had the stone cut in England and sold it to the regent of France for £135,000. Even that enormous sum did not represent its true value. The stone was set in the royal crown of France. It weighed 410 carats in the rough, but the cutting reduced it to 136 carats.—Mrs. Penney's "Fort St. George, Madras."

A Tartar Courtship.

Among the Tchulian Tartars a curious mode of "popping the question" exists. The Tchulian bachelor in search of a wife, having filled a brand new pipe with fragrant tobacco, stealthily enters the dwelling of the fair one upon whom he has bestowed his affections, deposits the pipe upon a conspicuous article of furniture and retires on tiptoe to some convenient hiding place in the neighborhood, focal etiquette requiring that he should execute this strategic movement apparently undetected by the damsel of his choice or any other member of her family. Presently he returns without further affectation of secrecy and looks into the apartment in a casual sort of way. A single glance at the pipe he left behind him enables him to learn the fate of his proposal. If it has been smoked he goes forth an accepted and exultant bridegroom; if not, the offer of his hand and heart has been so irrevocably rejected as not to be even worth a pipe of tobacco.

EXELBY DRAIN SOLD

Went in Sections of Forty Rods Each.

Last Monday Drain Commissioner James Sloan sold what is known as the Exelby drain in the township of Ridgeway, the drain being a mile and three-eighths in length or 440 rods, and extending west along the south sides of sections 9 of 10, emptying into the Schroeder drain. The drain was sold in lots of 40 rods each, those contracting for the sections being Thomas Gettis, section 1, for $50; Edgar Exelby, sections 2, 6, 7, 8, and 9, for $284; C. B. Exelby, section 3 for $60; Wesley Exelby, sections 4 and 5, for $128; Paul Kellar, section 10, for $26; Frank Taylor, section 11, for $40.

Last week there were two other drains sold, the Sutton drain on Friday and the Chauncey Dibble drain on Thursday. The former is a mile and a quarter in length and the latter five and a half miles. Both are in Ridgeway, the Sutton drain emptying into the Chauncey Dibble drain at the southeast quarter of section 16, and the Chauncey Dibble drain emptying into the Little Raisin at the southwest quarter of section 14.

Pride does not measure happiness, as much by its own conveniences as by the miseries of others; and would not be satisfied with being thought a goodness none were left that were miserable, over whom she might exult.—Sir T. More.

It is only fair to warn people who prefer fiction of the gloomy, risque, or generally horrible kind that they will not be interested in the July Lippincott's. Not that the contents are entirely frivolous—there is, as there should be, a leaven of seriousness; but the general tone is joyous, uplifting, encouraging the reader to cheer up and view the world "through rose colored glasses," as did the naive little heroine of the complete novel—"Color of Rose," by Dorothea Deakin. Like all writers' this author's work varies in quality, but none of it has ranked very low, and some of it—including the present story—deserves a very high place indeed. There are half a dozen clever short stories in the issue. "That Little Dinner at Larrabee's," by John Kendrick Bangs, is in this genial humorist's best vein. "To the Manner Born," by Grace MacGowan Cooke, is a story of quality, enlightening and enlivening. "The Jealousy of Anna Karenina," by Lucy Copinger; "A Cup of Cold Water," by Edith Morgan Smith; and "Sixty Minutes," by George Wetherill Earl Jr., are all fully up to the usual high standard of this magazine's short stories. Mrs. La Salle Corbell Pickett's sketch, "The Old Man Reflects," is worthy of mention.

MATRIMONY AND MUFFINS

have a closer relation in reality than they have in epigram. To manage a husband requires skill and discretion and patience. To make muffins requires these same qualities of mind. Furthermore, the woman who does one can usually do the other. A Circuit judge of Cook County who heard thirty-eight divorce cases in one morning wearily said that he thought the solution of the divorce problem might be a square meal for both parties.

But the art of managing husbands has filled libraries of books—usually written by women who have never had husbands—the art of making muffins may be acquired in a day and explained in a paragraph. The patience necessary demands that you take your time in making the measurements. The skill is in mixing your batter correctly, so that it won't be too stiff. The discretion, which is most important of the three, is in the choice of the ingredients, especially of the baking powder.

The best muffins are made only of the best baking powder. No substitutes and no inferior article will accomplish the result. Perfection is attained only by the use of perfect materials. And the only perfect baking powder is Calumet, which received the Highest Award at the World's Pure Food Exposition. It is perfect in quality and moderate in price.

HOME TRADE IS BEST.

Here is a good one from the Galesburg (Ill.) Mail, which says: The mail order catalogue is a thing for beauty but not a joy forever. Indeed, there is many a sting and and disappointment in its alluring pages, and its votaries do not always wear perpetual smiles. Some articles they can and do sell cheaper than local merchants, and they are few when the whole cost of freight and delivery is considered and their cheapness is as often in the quality as the price. A local merchant dare not usually sell inferior goods. His customer has a telephone and a voice, also a memory. If his customer is displeased he cannot replace the lost customer with a new one, for his field is limited. He must please or quit business. The mail order house has the whole country for its field and can view the loss of a customer with complacency. A little advertising of cheap prices will bring two in his place. The customer comes to the local merchant, handles his goods, tastes his coffee, fruit or vegatables, looks over the joints and surfaces of his furniture, takes his cloth to the light, tests its strength, weight and quality, and selects with discrimation. When the goods are deliver if they are not satisfactory the customer is free to return and exchange, and may do so with little if any inconvenience. If he is dissatisfied with his bargain with the mail order house, and, having had no previous experience, writes about it some time he will get the curt information that he ordered Catalog No. J869757G from page 483 of of catalog 76; that the article described by Catalog No. J869757G from page 483 of catalog 76, was sent him and advised to stop kicking. There is satisfaction in trading at home. Disappointment, vexation, delay, and in the end loss, lurk in the pink pages of the mail order house. Home trade is the best trade.

Fiction and serious articles are pretty evenly balanced in the July Century, with the second of the anonymous "Thirteen at Table" stories to pique curiosity—anonymous in the sense that the reader may judge whether each story is written by Margaret Deland or Dr. Weir Mitchell or Owen Wister. This second tale—called "The Waiting Hand"— is based upon a gruesome extract taken from a singular will, actually drawn in Maine in 1874. How the prophecy of the will is fulfilled makes an unusual and startling story. The author has given the story's gay, fashionable, motor-tourist characters a dramatic setting against a generation-old New England tragedy. Leading place in the magazine is given to a complete novelette by Dr. S. Weir Mitchell, a tale of strange doings in Paris during the Third Empire entitled "The Society of the Guillotine." There are other short stories, abounding in fun, by Lucy Pratt and Charles D. Stewart.

CALCULATING INTEREST.

One of the shortest and simplest methods known for calculating Interest is to multiply the principal by the number of days, and divide as follows:

For 4 per cent., divide by 90.
For 5 per cent., divide by 72.
For 6 per cent., divide by 60.
For 7 per cent., divide by 52.
For 8 per cent., divide by 45.

Then point off four decimal places. For instance, to find interest on $360 for 92 days at 8 per cent., multiply $360 by 92, divide by 45 and point off four decimal places. The result is $7.36.

Friendship is the wine of life and no man can get enough of it to become inebriated.

It took the rig between trees and telephone poles that one would scarcely believe a buggy could pass between, knocked over a steel hitching post, broke every wheel on the rig and finally cleared itself of it entirely, making for home. Mr. Smith got a livery rig of Dr. Gibson and followed.—Adrian Times.

AERO CLUB

DETROITERS WILL FORM AN AERO CLUB OF MICHIGAN.

The organization will have their own balloon next year.

P. W. A. FITZSIMMONS OF TECUMSEH IS ONE OF THE CHARTER MEMBERS.

At a banquet in Detroit, before the automobile tour, Mr. Charles J. Glidden took up the topic of aeronautics and suggested the formation of a state organization to be affiliated with Aero Club of America. Many were impressed by his remarks and steps were taken toward organizing the club, and among the charter members the following have been enrolled: P. W. A. Fitzsimmons of Tecumseh, A. A. Shautz, E. D. Ellis, Harry L. Cunningham, Chas. Monson, S. L. Depew, C. A. Grant, W. E. Metzger, E. S. George, E. H. Jewett, H. C. Severence, J. E. Peters, W. C. Anderson Mayor Philip Breitmeyer, F. E. Wadsworth and a number of others from Detroit.

Mayor Breitmeyer has taken a great deal of interest in aeronautics and has been invited to become one of a party, who will make an ascension early in September. The balloon to be used belongs to Chas. J. Glidden of Glidden tour fame and beside the Mayor and Mr. Glidden, the Mayor of Lowell, Mass., where the ascension is to be made and William Metzger of Detroit, president of the Detroit Aero Club will be in the basket.

President—W. E. Metzger.

Vice president—Christian H. Hecker.

Secretary and treasurer—E. A. Skae.

Mr. Metzger says they will not confine themselves to any particular kind of aeronautics, but will do what they can for all of them. The study of the navigation of the air is interesting as it opens a great field for endeavor. It is the purpose of the club to do what it can to encourage the sport in their vicinity, and they hope to have some regular flight before a great while.

Admirable as had been Dr. Hale's career as a journalist, clergyman, philanthropist, author, and educator, it was as "professor of America" to his generation that he had done his best and most unique works. By birth of the best New England stock, having as a boy, the historic Common as a playground; early made aware by conversation in his father's home of the inner meaning of the burning issues of the hour, and privileged to hear history and politics discussed by men like Daniel Webster, Edward Everett, and other Whig leaders who were making history and shaping politics; in youth an ardent conspirator for the triumph of liberty in Kansas,—his whole career, whether you consider the influence of heredity or environment, or his free choice of friends and pursuits, had made him an American sui generis and had fitted him to do for the American public what he conceived his "professor of America" as doing in a college,—namely, showing men that there "is such a reality as American thought, that there are certain principles which belong to the American Government, that there are certain feelings which are experienced by none but an American."—From "Dr. Hale's Busy Career," by George Perry Morris, in the American Review of Reviews for July.

Don't neglect to win your boy's confidence. Happy is the boy who dares at home to pour out his heart about the girls he knows and likes, and most unhappy is he who, through mistaken zeal on the part of misguided parents, is compelled to keep his thoughts on such matters a secret.

LIFE 100,000 YEARS AGO

Scientists have found in a cave in Switzerland bones of men, who lived 100,000 years ago, when life was in constant danger from wild beasts. To-day the danger, as shown by A. W. Brown of Alexander, Me., is largely from deadly disease. "If it had not been for Dr. King's New Discovery which cured me, I could not have lived," he writes, "suffering as I did from a severe lung trouble and stubborn cough." To cure Sore Lungs, Colds, obstinate Coughs and prevent Pneumonia, its the best medicine on earth. 50c and $1.00 Guaranteed by C. A. Wright & Son. Trial bottle free.

HER LIFE IN DANGER

If you have catarrh or weak lungs read this carefully.

"Some five years ago I was taken with a bad attack of bronchitis. I was affected with a bronchial cough and cold. The cough was very bad at night and I would wake up choking and gasping for breath and there seemed to be a terrible stoppage in my throat and tubes.

My throat was tender and irritable and had an aching sensation which was especially bad at times. I doctored and used several different remedies but never received any permanent relief that kept the malady from coming on until I used Hyomei. This remedy which to me is certainly infallible, cured me and to it I ascribe the cause of my being alive.

Hyomei certainly saved my life and I accord it the credit it deserves. There is nothing too strong for me to say of Hyomei."—Mrs. Ada Hopkins, 8 Cutter Ave., Coldwater, Mich.

Hyomei (pronounced High-o-me) is breathed into the lungs through a hard rubber inhaler and this soothing antiseptic air as it passes over the inflamed membrane soothes the inflammation, kills the microbes and cures catarrh.

Complete Hyomei outfit $1.00, including inhaler, extra bottles 50 cents at C. A. Wright & Son, who guarantee it.

Better than Pills for Liver Ills

FOR SALE BY B. J. BULVER, TECUMSEH, MICH.

A failing tiny nerve—no larger than the finest silken thread—takes from the Heart its impulse, its power its regularity The stomach also has its hidden, or inside nerve. It was Dr. Shoop who first told us it was wrong to drug a weak or failing stomach, heart or kidneys. His prescription—Dr. Shoop's Restorative—is directed straight for the cause of these ailments—these weak and faltering inside nerves This no doubt clearly explains why the Restorative has of late grown so rapidly in popularity. Druggists say that those who test the Restorative even for a few days soon become fully convinced of its wonderful merit. Anyway, don't drug the organ. Treating the cause of sickness is the only sensible and successful way. Sold by all dealers.

ONLY ONE BEST.

Tecumseh people give credit where credit is due.

People of Tecumseh, who suffer with sick kidneys and bad backs want a kidney remedy that can be depended upon. The best is Doan's Kidney Pills, a medicine for the kidneys only, made from pure roots and herbs and the only one that is backed by cures in Tecumseh. Here's Tecumseh testimony:

Mrs. Jeanette Teachout, Onetda St., Tecumseh, Mich., says: "I again take pleasure in recommending Doan's Kidney Pills to persons afflicted with kidney trouble. Last fall my kidneys began to bother me and I suffered from pains in the small of my back extending into my shoulders. When I stooped, sharp twinges seized me and for a few seconds I was unable to straighten. The frequent passages of the kidney secretions annoyed me greatly and the doctor seemed unable to give me any relief. Doan's Kidney Pills were so highly spoken of, that I procured a box and began their use. I was so greatly relieved that I continued taking this remedy until the pains disappeared." (Statement given on Dec. 10, 1906.)

On Sept. 5, 1908, Mrs. Teachout added to the above: "I still use Doan's Kidney Pills at times and they always bring the best of results. I feel justified in recommending Doan's Kidney Pills to other kidney sufferers."

WESTON IN 'FRISCO.

Walked Across Continent In One Hundred and Five Days.

San Francisco, July 15.—Edward Payson Weston, the veteran pedestrian, reached here late last night on his 100 day walk across the continent. He is five days behind schedule.

This morning he presented to the postmaster here the message which he conveyed from New York's postmaster. Weston is pretty well tired out.

Worse Than His Own.

A gentleman who owns one of the finest estates in the north of England while in his gardens one morning noticed one of the laborers very badly clad and asked him:

"Have you no better clothes than those, Mat?"

"No, in troth, yer honor, worse luck," replied Mat.

"Well, call at the house this evening on your way home," said the gentleman. "I'll leave an old suit of mine with the butler for you."

A few days later when showing a party of visitors through the gardens he was much annoyed to see Mat looking if possible more a scarecrow than ever.

"Why are you still wearing these old clothes, Mat?" he asked.

"Sure, yer honor, they're the best I have," replied Mat.

"But did you not get the suit I left for you the other day?" asked the gentleman.

"Indeed, an' I did, thank yer honor kindly," replied Mat; "but, sure, I had to lave them at home to be mended."—London Tatler.

She Did So.

"Always," said papa as he drank his coffee and enjoyed his morning beefsteak—"always, children, change the subject when anything unpleasant has been said. It is both wise and polite."

That evening on his return from business he found several of his flower beds despoiled and the tiny imprint of slippered feet silently bearing witness to the small thief.

"Mabel," he said to her, "did you pick my flowers?"

"Papa," said Mabel, "did you see a monkey in the city today? We had a—"

"Never mind that. Did you pick my flowers, Mabel?"

"Papa, what did grandma send me?"

"Mabel, what do you mean? Did you pick my flowers? Answer me, yes or no."

"Yes, papa, I did, but I thought I would change the subject."—London Tit-Bits.

When Baseball Was an Infant Industry.

It was a crude game, but merry. In theory the pitcher was there only to give the boys a chance to "soak the ball." "First bound" was still out. The unfortunate catcher, handling a heavy, lively ball without mask, glove or protector, stood up near the bat when men were on bases if he had the skill and courage. The early guides recommended him to do so when he could. Had not the pitcher been restricted to an artificial throw scarce a catcher would have lived to tell the tale. Many catchers took everything "on first bounce" and managed at that to prevent much base stealing. Base running also was in its infancy. "Smith," says the Spirit of the Times, "caught a remarkable game, having but five passed balls scored against him." Here and there we get a glimpse which shows how crude it all was, what a matter of hit and miss natural force. In the fifties Dicky Pearce shone without a peer as an infielder. He used to stop grounders with his hand and foot! —Will Irwin in Collier's.

Look After Your Property.

It is a safe rule in this world to look carefully after the details of your own property. Be sure your title deeds are recorded, that your insurance is kept up, that you alone have the key to your strong box in the safety vault. Do not leave your securities with your broker. If he is doing a conservative business he has no need of them. If he isn't you don't want him to handle your property. The wonder is that with all the confidence reposed in financial matters there are so few defalcations. There is no use in making it easy for some one to get your property. In this world it is hard for most persons to acquire anything, and they should be careful to the last degree in seeing that they are fully protected in it.—Philadelphia Inquirer.

Extracting Wood Oil.

Chinese wood oil is obtained from the nut of the wood oil tree by pressing or extracting. The color of the oil varies with the method of extraction. In China it is usually heated strongly and is consequently very thick and black. Wood oil forms a very durable lacquer for wood, far surpassing boiled linseed oil in hardness and permanence. The oil possesses the peculiarity of drying more quickly in damp than in dry weather. The residue of the nuts left after the removal of the oil is a good fertilizer, which possesses the valuable property of destroying insects which feed on the roots of plants.—Scientific American.

Stop That Cold

To check early colds or Grippe with "Preventics" means pure defeat for Pneumonia. To stop a cold with Preventics is safer than to let it run and be obliged to cure it afterwards. To be sure, Preventics will cure even a deeply seated cold, but taken early—at the sneeze stage—they break, or head off these early colds. That's surely better. That's why they are called Preventics.

Preventics are little Candy Cold Cures. No Quinine, no physic, nothing sickening. Nice for the children—and thoroughly safe too. If you feel chilly, if you sneeze, if you ache all over, think of Preventics. Promptness may also save half your usual sickness. And don't forget your child. If there is feverishness, sleeplessness, Hefore probably lies Preventics' greatest efficiency. Sold in 25c boxes for the pocket, also in the boxes of 45 Preventics. Laxative for Women Free

There is a great difference in the purposes to which a laxative should be put. Tablets and pills, salts, etc., are usually violent purgatives or cathartics, and altogether too powerful for the average person.

A woman can at all times needs only a mild laxative—in fact, none other is needed by anyone, weak or strong though they may be, for the object is simply to move the bowels, and if a gentle laxative will do it, what is the use of a violent one?

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin has earned a well-deserved vogue among women and children and old folks—people who must necessarily be careful of what they take.

It is a liquid laxative tonic and admittedly the greatest stomach, liver and bowel remedy before the American people. The price is only 50 cents or $1 a bottle, as it comes in both sizes, and all druggists sell it. Its pleasant taste and gentle action make it an ideal remedy for women in constipation, torpid liver, sour stomach, sick headache, heartburn and such like digestive complaints. Its use for a short time will remove the trouble entirely so that future medication will be unnecessary. Its tonic properties build up the stomach and intestinal muscles so that they act naturally again. That this is so is the experience of many heads of families, like Mrs. Brannan, of Alvarado, Va., Mrs. K. L. Stout, of Louisville, Ky., (and numerous others) in fact, way out in Williams, Cal., ad Mrs. J. B. Blackmore, of that place, writes, the whole town seems to be using it.

If the remedy is new to you and you want to make a trial of it before buying, send your name to the doctor's address as below and a free test bottle will be sent you. Then, if results are satisfactory you can buy it of your druggist.

If there is anything about your ailment that you don't understand, or if you want any medical advice, write to the doctor, and he will answer you fully. There is no charge for this service. The address is Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 500 Caldwell bldg., Monticello, Ill.

Berlin, July 15.—Prince Von Buelow, chancellor of the empire, has retired from office and was succeeded by Dr. Von Bothmann-Hollweg. The latter was succeeded by Herr Delbrueck, as minister of the interior and vice chancellor; Herr Sydow, secretary of the imperial treasury, has been appointed to the department of commerce, while Herr Wermuth, under secretary for the interior, is the new secretay of the treasury.

Herr Von Trott Zu Solz, president of the province of Brandenburg, succeeds Ludwig Holle, Prussian minister of public instruction, who has retired on account of ill health. Various other minor changes have been made, after conferences which the emperor had with his ministerial advisers.

BRUNT OF FIGHT FALLS ON THEM

Aldrich and Payne Must Settle Tariff Struggle.

TAFT WILL BE THE REFEREE

Objections Raised by House Conferees Against Senate's Maximum and Minimum Provision—Senate Finance Committee Replies to Critics About Revising of Tariff Upwards.

Washington, July 15.—Strenuous objections were raised by the house members of the tariff conference Wednesday to the senate provision in the maximum and minimum feature of the tariff bill, which gives to the president authority to employ such persons as he may desire to aid him in enforcing the tariff laws and which will be useful to congress in tariff legislation in the future. This opposition was all that prevented practically all of the sections dealing with the administration.

The provision which provides for the establishment of a court of customs appeals was adopted. It is intended that this court shall deal with all cases of appeal from the board of general appraisers, and that its judgments shall be final.

The big disputes over the tariff bill will be fought out between Senator Aldrich and Representative Payne of the senate and house respectively, with President Taft acting as referee so as to prevent any drawn battles. This was decided by the conference committees appointed by the two branches of congress.

The first real struggle over the schedules to come up in the conference will be over cotton goods.

Turning upon critics who have charged that they are revising the tariff upward, members of the senate finance committee have denied that such is the case. A statement was prepared by the committee's experts and was given out by Senator Smoot. Commenting upon statements that have been made, Senator Lafollette said that the senate bill is 5.65 per cent above the Dingley law, based upon the importations for 1907. Senator Smoot said that it all depended on methods of computation.

Reports that there was dissatisfaction in the tariff conference with the corporation tax amendment and that it might be dropped out of the bill, reached the ears of President Taft. In consequence of these rumors Senator Aldrich and Representative Payne left for their homes they would not discuss what had transpired. The president undoubtedly made it clear that he has not changed his mind about the advisability of taxing the earnings of corporations for the purpose of producing additional revenues.

WELCOMED IN MADISON.

Glidden Tourists Given Reception in Wisconsin City.

Madison, Wis., July 15.—Automobiles running in the Glidden endurance test arrived late Wednesday, checked in and lined up on Main street adjoining Capitol park, having finished the third run of the tour. Numerous red lights illuminated the park, and the band played until a late hour last night, while a reception was held under the auspices of the Madison Automobile club. Merchants decorated their places of business with flags and bunting.

The run of 175.2 miles from Chicago was finished ahead of the time limit, with only heat and dust to annoy the drivers.

Car No. 110 (McIntyre), driven by Frank Goodwin, accompanied by A. O. Janisse, experienced an accident. When 72.3 miles out of Chicago the car was thrown into a ditch north of Racine. The right front wheel was demolished. Janisse's back was badly wrenched, but Goodwin escaped unhurt. The car will continue the tour as a non-contestant.

Other penalties were a total of 179.3 points on No. 104 (Brush).

PRIEST'S SISTER SHOOTS TWO MEN

Row In Alpena Catholic Church Ends Disastrously.

Alpena, Mich., July 19.—The long standing feud between the parishioners of St. Mary's Polish church and Rev. Fr. Stephen Nowakowski, pastor, came to a climax Sunday afternoon, when Miss Mary Nowakowski, sister of the priest, shot away the jaw of Philip Kaniecki and put a bullet in the neck of Miko Kaniecki, in the parish residence of the church, in defending her brother from the assaults of his angry parishioners. The two shots were the only ones fired. The girl was arrested.

Sunday afternon confirmation services were held in the church by Bishop Richter of Grand Rapids. After the ceremonies the bishop repaired to the parish, with several of the Catholic clergy of the city and a goodly number of the church members, to receive a committee that wished to present its grievances against the priest. It is claimed that when the door was opened to admit them to the house a crowd rushed in and seized Fr. Nowakowski and handled him roughly. His sister, who is twenty-two years old and his housekeeper, then opened fire. In the melee which followed the girl was badly bruised. The police were notified of the shooting and were quickly on the scene. Nowakowski was badly beaten, and his head was bleeding.

The two brothers shot are prominent in Polish circles.

BISHOP WILLIAMS WONDERS

Questions Whether Young Rockefeller Ever Reads the Bible.

New York, July 19.—The Right Rev. Charles D. Williams, Protestant Episcopal bishop of the diocese of Michigan, in a sermon Sunday at St. Bartholomew's, said he wondered if John D. Rockefeller, Jr., "ever read the bible which he professes to teach."

He referred to young Mr. Rockefeller not by name, but as "a scion of wealth who recently applied to human relations the figure of the gardner's treatment of a rose bush when he cuts off all but the hardiest buds. And that doctrine," the bishop added, "was advanced, not in a board meeting, but before a bible class. They say a rose by any other name will smell as sweet, but the odor of that rose smacks very strongly to me of petroleum."

Mr. Rockefeller recently used the rose illustration to his bible class at the Fifth Avenue Baptist church in advocating the doctrine of efficiency.

AEROPLANE TAKES DROP

Frightened Amateur Receives Severe Injuries.

CURTISS MACHINE SMASHED

Member of New York Aeronautic Society to Which Aeroplane Was Sold Tries to Make Ascent—Lost His Head When Thirty Feet From the Ground, and Machine Drops.

New York, July 19.—A frightened amateur, sitting like a wooden man in Glenn H. Curtiss' aeroplane, has met with a serious accident after hovering a moment in mid-air, later crashing to earth. The beautiful craft in which Curtiss made his remarkable flight Saturday was badly wrecked, and the would-be aviator was lifted unconscious from the twisted frame, his left arm broken, his left thumb dislocated, his body bruised and his brain reeling. His injuries, however, are not serious.

The accident occurred on Hempstead Plain, Mineola, where Curtiss has been giving demonstrations for the New York Aeronautic society, to which he recently sold his aeroplane for $5,000. It was a member of the society, Alexander William, forty-two years old, who was injured.

Lost Control of Self.

While Williams had driven many an automobile, is familiar with gas engines and is somewhat of a machinist, he seemed to lose complete control of himself as the aeroplane soared upward, and when it had attained a height of thirty feet the craft careened sharply to the right, swooped toward the earth and, on end, turned completely over, then rolled on its back. Williams remained pinned in his seat until lifted out. He was delirious as a physician bent over him and muttered that someone had collided with him in the air.

Witnesses of the accident say it was simply a case of a man attempting something which taxes the nerves, the body and the brain simultaneously and that Williams simply had stage fright. His attempted flight followed a successful one made by Edward Foster Willard of New York city, also a member of the aeronautic society, who remained in the air twenty-eight seconds, making a short flight at an average height of twenty feet.

Williams had previously matched coins with Willard to decide who should make the first flight. During this he evinced such nervousness that a member of the party remarked that perhaps he had better not attempt to ascend. For some reason, however, little attention was paid to the incident.

A week's work, at least, will be required to patch up the flyer.

URGES INCOME TAX.

Manufacturers' Association Issues Statement Addressed to Congress.

New York, July 19.—The board of directors of the National Association of Manufacturers has issued an official statement, addressed "To the Congress of the United States," containing the following:

"The National Association of Manufacturers endorses any reasonable measure to secure by tax the requisite money which, together with the tariff duties, shall be sufficient to support this government.

"We therefore recommend, if necessary for income purposes, the enactment into law of measures providing a just and equitable tax upon all citizens exactly in proportion to their ability to assist in the support and receive the benefits of what we esteem to be the best government on earth. As an illustration, we suggest 1-6 of 1 per cent on all incomes."

Horse Racing Still Good Sport.

New York, July 19.—The mid-season of the running turf will be reached this week at the Empire City race track, and officers of the Jockey club say that results thus far have demonstrated that the "sport of kings" has survived the race track legislation and is making steady progress toward its old-time popularity. It is said that the associations have made money.

CHARGE FRISBIE WITH MURDER

Prosecutor Brown Gets Out Warrant.

INVESTIGATES AT THE FLATS

Things Which He Learned Transpired Preceding Murder of Rosenberg Lead Him to Believe Prisoner Knows More Than He Admits. Charge Comes as Surprise.

Port Huron, Mich., July 19.—A warrant charging Sam Frisbie, the young Cleveland man, with murder in the first degree in connection with the slaying of Louis Rosenberg at Joe Bedore's summer resort at the St. Clair Flats last week Wednesday has been issued by Prosecuting Attorney Brown, who has been investigating the case at the Flats.

Frisbie was arrested Thursday morning and has since been held at the county jail here pending an investigation of his story and the crime. He was with Elbra, the man who poisoned himself when the police took charge of the island resort, and who, Frisbie claims, beat down Rosenberg with the butt end of his revolver.

Frisbie sticks to his story that he is innocent and did no more than help Elbra drag the body from the water and dump it in the rushes about 400 feet from the dance pavilion, where it was found.

Would "Get" Rosenberg.

"From statements that have already been made, and from what evidence I could gather at the Flats during the last two days, I have decided that Frisbie should be charged with murder," said Prosecutor Brown. "Some of the witnesses claim that Elbra had stated in the presence of Frisbie that he would 'get' Rosenberg.

"I also learned that both Elbra and Frisbie had planned to leave the hotel the next morning following the crime. This, together with the fact that Frisbie remained with Elbra after the latter had brutally slain Rosenberg, and did not report the crime, has led me to believe that he knows more about the affair than he has told.

The defense of Frisbie, it is claimed, will be that he was intoxicated at the time of the crime and did not realize what Elbra was doing until it was all over. The charge against him is somewhat of a surprise here, as it was believed until the prosecutor's return that he would be released; in fact, the authorities said he would be unless further evidence to connect him with the killing of Rosenberg was secured.

Prisoner In Owosso Jail Learns Wife Killed Herself.

Owosso, Mich., July 19.—While reading a newspaper, in the Corunna jail, Thomas Pack, a prisoner, suddenly dropped the sheet and cried, "My God, my wife has killed herself." With the other prisoners crowding about him, he read how the body of Mrs. Pack had been found in a room over a saloon in Battle Creek and, as it had not been claimed, was sent to Ann Arbor.

Three weeks ago, Pack said, he quarreled with his wife and left his home in Kalamazoo and started for Ovid to visit his parents. En route there he was arrested and sentenced to jail for ten days for drunkenness on the same day that Mrs. Pack's remains were found. Pack said he had no money with which to recover the body from Ann Arbor, and did not know why his wife had killed herself. Pack is thirty-eight years old and was formerly an Owosso man.

MOTOR CYCLE BLEW UP DURING RACE.

Four Persons Killed and Others Hurt In Berlin.

Berlin, July 19.—Four persons were killed, more than twenty severely injured and a dozen others slightly injured as the result of the explosion of a motor cycle, and a fire which followed it, during a cycle race at the old botanic gardens. Thousands of spectators had gathered around the track.

The first race was over, and the second event, an endurance race, was on, some of the best known cyclists participating. After a few laps the tire of one of the pacemakers' motorcycle burst, and the rider lost control. The benzine exploded in a burst of flame, and the machine leaped into the air and hurled itself against the barrier, which broke down.

The rider was thrown off and fell against other competitors, who were pitched to the track, several of them being severely injured. So terrific was the speed of the motorcycle that it continued on its course after the explosion, crashing into the public stand, hurling spectators right and left and setting fire to many women's summer dresses. Two women were instantly killed and their bodies, saturated with flaming benzine, were burned to cinders. The wooden stand caught fire, and the flames flashed in the faces of bystanders, who, with clothing ablaze, rushed about shrieking with pain and fear, until cool-headed onlookers threw them to the ground and smothered the flames.

A panic ensued in which a great number of persons, including children, were badly trampled. Eighteen men and four women were seriously injured, two of the men having since died. The hospital surgeons say several others are in a hopeless condition.

BY THE STRATEGY OF SEIZER.

A Romance That Began With the Stealing of a Shoe.

By LOUISE JACKSON STONE.

[Copyright, 1909, by Associated Literary Press.]

Mr. Henry Brownlow understood thoroughly why the Widow Smithfield had taken the house next his and ignored her existence with frigid dignity. He kept that side of his dwelling closed and abandoned his favorite seat under the catalpa, smoking his evening pipe behind the clematis.

Nevertheless his unwelcome neighbor obtruded on him continually, for the woman had a child and a cat, and what with her own eternal singing, the chatter of the child and the prowling of the cat the quiet and peace of his life were destroyed.

And his dog Seizer was being spoiled, his disposition rasped by unending conflicts with the cat. He would scarcely settle himself, panting from a rush after her, when she would be back, calmly promenading their walk or sniffing insolently at their kitchen screen.

"Some day you'll catch and throttle her, old fellow," Mr. Brownlow encouraged. "But keep on your own premises. Mind that."

And Seizer promptly halted at the boundary fence until one day his ardor carried him through the broken paling in the wake of the streak of fur and up to the steps where the child sat laughing at the race. And that was his undoing, for the child patted his head, put her little arms about his neck and loved him, and the woman rubbed his silky ears kindly and asked him to come often. And when he returned to his lonely home he left half his heart behind and could not look his master in the eyes that night.

Thereafter the cat prowled unmolested, and Seizer often slipped through the paling for a surreptitious visit, which things Mr. Brownlow soon discovered and boiled with indignation.

"TAKE IT BACK INSTANTLY!" BROWNLOW ORDERED.

"Ha!" he cried. "That's her trick—subverting Seizer; stealing his affections, meaning, of course, to gain the master's finally! Go to her, if you choose!" he roared to Seizer. "But you can't belong to both of us!"

Seizer did not believe that. He loved both and felt that they had only to meet and understand each other to make it possible for him to belong to both. He would manage it!

Therefore, one evening as Mr. Brownlow moodily smoked behind his vines, glowering through them at the other house, Seizer trotted up and deposited something beside his chair, wagging expectantly.

"What it is, old fellow?" Mr. Brownlow asked genially, having forgiven Seizer's defection. It was the woman's fault, anyway—she was a beguiling creature. Even he felt that.

"What is it, old fellow?" he repeated.

Seizer picked up the object and offered it as if bestowing a fortune.

Mr. Brownlow's feet came down off the cistern pump with a bang. "What the—all creation does this mean?" He dashed the object from him as if stung. A woman's shoe!

Patient Seizer brought it back, looking eagerly down the walk. She would be here presently for her property. They would meet.

"Take it back instantly!" Brownlow ordered. But Seizer stood his ground, his ears cocked for her coming.

"Take it back! Take it back!" his master stormed, cuffing him severely, but for the first time in his life Seizer refused to obey and, when she did not come, lay down with his nose on his paws, gazing appealingly at his master.

"A pretty scheme—pretty scheme, indeed!" Mr. Brownlow exploded. "Put it into his mouth and sent him here with it. I'm to return it, of course, and she'll have her chance. Oh, I see through you, madam!"

He'd return it at once too. He snatched the shoe, which was nearly new, intending to fling it to her back door, but he found it was badly gashed with Seizer's teeth.

That would not have mattered could be be sure the dog had not stolen it. But the doubt made him pause, and he decided he could not pitch it back in that condition.

He worried over it all night, put Seizer into prison next morning and worried all day, went home the long way to avoid passing the widow's house and found the child at the fence comforting Seizer, who had barked himself hoarse.

The child defied his approach, which so offended him that he threatened the dog as he let him out with terrible things if he did not stay at home and mind his business.

After supper he fastened the doors, drew close the blinds, lighted up and contemplated the shoe standing impudently upon his desk. She had a neat foot, not too small for a woman of her size. He set it beside his own, then blushed hotly and backed away, studying it from a fresh viewpoint. She had a very neat foot, and she was a very good looking woman, too, with a bright smile and a cheery voice. The place had seemed unbearably dull when she and the child had been away once for a few days.

He blushed again at discovering these reflections, cuffed Seizer for his too interested espionage, slammed the shoe in a closet and retired.

Next morning he decided that he must get a new pair to replace the ruined shoe and send in such a manner that she could take no advantage even if she had planned the situation.

Then arose another worry. Everybody in his town knew that he had no womankind for whom he could be buying shoes. He would never hear the last of the sly bantering. Muttering maledictions, he journeyed to the city with the shoe, duplicated it in a pair of the best and mailed them to her.

For days after he made furtive attempts to ascertain if she wore them, and the impression that she was a very good looking woman deepened and with it great depression of spirits and dissatisfaction with his life. The torn shoe was locked in his drawer.

Mrs. Smithfield, peacefully enjoying her tea one day, was amazed at Seizer's walking in and presenting her with one of Mr. Brownlow's large, shining patent leathers. To his dismay, she cast it from her as if stung.

She called heaven to witness that she had been patient with the insolence of an old bachelor woman hater. He had made war upon her cat from the first merely to torment her. The dog was not to blame. He had put Seizer up to stealing her shoe merely to torment her; he had kept the shoe and insulted her by forcing upon her a flaunting pair in such a way that he knew she could not return them, merely to torment her, and now, most insolent of all, he sent one of his flatboats and was doubtless sniggering behind his old vines.

She snatched the shoe, rushed to the division fence and hurled it with all her strength into the face of Mr. Brownlow, who that instant bobbed around the house in search of Seizer, having missed his shoe. He dodged too late with a cry and staggered to a seat, the blood streaming from his nose.

In two seconds horrified Mrs. Smithfield was bending over him with a wet towel and tearful, incoherent apologies, which mingled with his spluttering reassurances in confused duet until, suddenly looking into each other's eyes, they were stricken dumb by a mutual discovery.

A little later they sat together upon his favorite seat under the catalpa, his arm around her, the child upon his knee, the cat caressing his legs and Seizer flying madly around them, shrilling his rapture to the heavens.

A Conjugal Duel.

Charles Coypeau, Sieur d'Assouci, a French poet and musician of the seventeenth century, relates in one of his "Adventures" that his father and mother were one day engaged in a discussion upon questions of law when a dispute arose between them with regard to the precise signification and bearing of a provision in Justinian's code with respect to the rights of brothers. Ultimately the quarrel waxed so furious that the disputants lost all control of themselves, defied each other to single combat and proceeded to settle their difference and determine the mind of the ancient legislator by a fight with swords.

This singular duel took place in their son's presence. Coypeau pere was an advocate by profession and a member of one of the French parliaments. Madame was exceedingly diminutive and had to wear exceptionally high pattens to approach the ordinary stature of women, but she was fierce and domineering in temper. The combat appears to have been a drawn battle, and the sense of Justinian remained as obscure and debatable as ever.

A Batch of Anecdotes.

Some interesting anecdotes and gossip, new and old, of the law courts are given in the English Illustrated Magazine. The writer of the article was once present in court when a juror, who opened the ball by saying, "This case, my lord, really lies in a nutshell," received the reply, "You crack it, then."

There have been times when clever witnesses have got the better of counsel in a skirmish of words. When the farrier was asked where he got his knowledge of the mare's age from he said, "From the mare's own mouth, sir."

Irish lawyers are generally endowed by Dame Nature with quick wits. Among them all perhaps Curran held the palm for lightness and vivacity When some one told him that no student should be called to the bar who did not possess a landed estate of his own, he retorted, "How many acres make a wiseacre?"

But it was a Scotsman, appropriately enough Lord Brougham, who, seeing his horses take fright, yelled to the coachman, "Drive into something cheap!"

Lucky.

Little Walter was whispering into the ear of his dog.

"What are you saying to Rover, dear?" asked his mother.

"Oh, I was just telling him how lucky he was," replied Walter, "'cause he didn't have to have his neck washed and his hair combed or go to school."—Chicago News.

DIVIDED WAYS.

What a Chance Meeting After Many Years Revealed.

By SUSAN H. MORLEY.

[Copyright, 1909, by Associated Literary Press.]

"There's not another such stretch on the whole sound," Lisa was saying gayly. "For miles it's this same way—so level that at low tide we could, if we chose, pass dry shod, like the children of Israel, to the other side, which means to yon island. In fact, it's our favorite"—

A whirring black cloud, startling the horses, rose suddenly from the edge of the water as they turned a sharp point, and Seth Eckles, who was no horseman, had all he could do to keep his seat.

"Stormy petrels," laughed Lisa. "The beach takes its name from them, they haunt it in such numbers, you know. If you could stay another month, Seth, we'd make a rider of you. It's a better sport any time, I warrant, than those new glossed games you talk so much about."

Eckles, who was comfortably settled in his saddle again, listened to the pounding of the hoofs on the hard, wet

"DO YOU KNOW YOU HAVEN'T SPOKEN FOR THE LONGEST WHILE?"

sand, his eyes on Lisa, whose small gray form seemed to blend and become a part of the lithe gray she was riding.

He admired her immensely, this stepdaughter of his aunt, and suddenly it seemed to him that mortal man could ask for nothing better than Lisa for a wife, and life in this out of the way but aristocratic and exclusive, self satisfied old town.

And Lisa was pretty. Not a girl he had ever known could compare with her in beauty, not to mention a certain rare grace of manner and an unusual, dainty wit.

She had money and lineage, too, back of her, and Seth Eckles was old enough and wise enough to know the value of such things.

"If silence is golden," she interrupted quizzically, "then your burden must indeed be heavy. Do you know you haven't spoken for the longest while?"

"I was—thinking," he stammered guiltily, ashamed that anything so sordid as family and money could for an instant have associated themselves in his mind with the girl herself. It was Lisa that he wanted.

"How late!" Lisa exclaimed with the booming of the sunset gun on the old fort across the channel. "If you but knew it, Seth, we're five miles from home. Then there's dinner and dressing, and I can't under any circumstances allow a guest to disgrace himself by arriving tardily at a function in his honor. We've got to run for it."

She wheeled and led off, Seth following and keeping up as best he could, but undaunted by the distance between them. Was there not the dance at the clubhouse yet before his train at midnight? At any rate, it was a chance.

And Seth made the best of it. The long galleries were bowers of palms and remote from the ballroom, and there, with the tide pummeling at the pier and tossing up sheets of spray, Seth told his story.

He was young and handsome and adept, and he pleaded his case well—so well that he and Lisa in the white radiance of a big moon and with the shimmer of water about them exchanged vows, convinced that each was intended for the other. That was the way life looked that night, but, of course, it would be the same a year hence when Lisa should be eighteen and the engagement made public.

Then Seth, fresh from a law school, established himself in New York. There was no tiresome, weary waiting for clients. From the very first luck held his hand, and business troubles, growling like hyenas at the doors of even older men, from him stood aloof.

Besides, he had full measure of amusements and pleasure. Friends he made everywhere. His hearty laugh and genial disposition kept him in demand.

Life was so satisfactory and success so easy that he was already well spoiled before he met Laura Norton, who was Lisa's exact opposite. Before he knew it he had forgotten his pledge to Lisa and was formally engaged to Laura, the engagement being speedily followed by marriage.

For awhile there were hours of gloom when he stood truly aghast at what he had done. In every conceivable light and with all honesty he argued the matter, convincing himself finally that he had nothing to regret. Lisa was young and susceptible. Probably she was already consoled.

In any case a man's maturer judgment was to be respected, no matter at what cost. And, too, he greatly admired his wife, her easy adaptability, her cleverness, her accomplishments. Besides, they were congenial. Her ambitions fully equaled his, and her penchant for politics was a factor in his career, pushing him into places he knew he could not have reached alone.

For a time honors seemed absolutely heaped upon him. He could scarcely keep step with fortune's pace, so fast and furiously did she mount. But, once started on the ladder, he continued to climb, even long after his wife's death and when his hair had grayed and Lisa was but a misty dream. And luck still held his hand.

He was in the running for governor, making, the press said, a phenomenal campaign. Men spoke of him as the brilliant light, the strong man of his time. Everywhere he was made much of, and it was at a reception for him in the old clubhouse at the end of the pier that a sleeping memory awoke.

Could it be possible that he was awake? Only an hour ago it might have been that he last saw the cool green of the ballroom, the long bowers of palms with lights twinkling among the black green foliage, the surf beating at the pier and the white foam dashing high. There was music, too, just as on that other night, but Lisa, shimmering in pale green, with the string of pearls close to her white throat and nestling in her yellow hair—Lisa—

"I claim the privilege of an old friend." A musical voice spoke close to his ear as he leaned on the railing, and some one touched his arm.

It was Lisa. He knew it before he turned to see her in pale, shimmering green, with pearls at her throat and in the same fair hair. She smiled at him, too, in the old way, with little dimples about her mouth and her sensitive lips moving ever so slightly, though her face was in repose.

How pretty she was! Incomparably prettier than that other night and with a sweet, womanly dignity which puzzled him. What had come to her to so beautify beauty, to so intensify loveliness?

He forgot the years and deeds that lay between that faroff night and this, like leaves between the covers of a book, remembering only as it were the preface that once she had loved him, that he still loved her, the crown of any man's life.

"Lisa!" he cried, his face aglow, his hands extended. "Lisa!"

"Dreaming!" she laughed. Then the little hand pulled at his sleeve as the other reached toward two men in the shadows. One of them was strong and fine and one was young and handsome. "I want you, Seth," she said, "to know my son and my husband."

Not Entirely Undisputed.

The case before the court was one involving the ownership of a tract of land, and the attorney for one of the parties to the suit was cross examining a witness. "Now, Mr. Grimshaw," he said, "the property on which you live was originally a part of the twenty acres in dispute, was it not?"

"Yes, sir."

"And your title is based on the original title to that land, I presume?"

"Yes, sir."

"How long have you resided there?"

"Over twenty-one years."

"Have you had—now, mark me—have you had twenty-one years' undisputed possession of that property?"

The witness hesitated a moment.

"Remember, Mr. Grimshaw," said the lawyer, raising his voice, "that you are under oath. Have you had twenty-one years' undisputed possession of that property?"

"It has been disputed once, and only once," answered the witness. "I found a nest of bumblebees in my back yard one day last summer."

In the general laugh that followed this answer the lawyer subsided.—Youth's Companion.

"RUBBER" KRAPP A COMER.

"Rubber" Krapp of the Flint club is winning steadily and it wouldn't be surprising to see him in one of the big leagues next season. Beside being a star pitcher, he is clouting the ball with a vengeance. He has broken up games when they seemed lost. It is mainly through his pitching that the club is in second place and crowding the leaders.—Detroit Journal.

GETS BIG ORDER FROM GERMANY

Interstate Manufacturing Co., of South Park, is rushed now.

The Port Huron Herald contained the following in regard to the Toy factory: The Interstate Manufacturing Co., of South Park, has just received a large order for a shipment of its toys to Hamburg, Germany, and another from St. Louis, Mo. In the letter from Germany it was stated that the merits of the toys manufactured by the Port Huron company were recognized in that country. The management is naturally much elated at receiving patronage from such a far away country. Between 30 and 35 men are now employed at the plant, and this number will be increased from time to time as the orders increase.

HOME CURE FOR ECZEMA

It really seems strange that so many people suffer year in and year out with eczema when it is now no longer a secret that oil of wintergreen mixed with thymol glycerine, etc makes a wash that is bound to cure.

Old obstinate cases it is true cannot be cured in a few days, but absolutely no sufferer from eczema who ever used this simple wash and did not find immediately that wonderful soothing calm, cool sensation that come when the itch is taken away. Instantly upon applying a few drops of the wash and did not find immediately that wonderful soothing, calm cool sensation that comes when the itch is taken away. Instantly upon applying a few drops of the wash the remedy takes affect, the itch is allayed. There is no need of experiment the patient knows at once.

Instead trying to compound the oil of wintergreen, thymol, glycerine, etc., in the right proportion ourselves we are using a prescription which is universally found the most effective. It is known as the D. D. D. Prescription, or oil of wintergreen Compound. It is made by D. D. D. Co of Chicago and our long experience with this remedy has given us great confidence in its merits.

CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH.

Services were held in the Congregational Church in Tipton last Sunday morning at 10:30 and were largely attended. Rev. Groves of Adrian College preached an excellent sermon, his subject being "The Crucial Hour." His text was found in the second chapter of John, 4th verse, "Mine hour has not yet come." Rev. Groves graduated last June from the college at Adrian and will now take a post graduate course, still retaining the charge at Tipton, driving out each Sunday. Miss Edith Wilson of Tecumseh delightfully rendered two solos during the services. Sunday school was held at the close of the morning worship.

THE MICHIGAN PACIFIC LUMBER COMPANY

Commenced operations April 1st, and reports are received from the Camp regularly. Logs are now being delivered to the mills at the rate of 150,000 feet daily at a profit of $6.00 per thousand feet; $900 per day, or $300,000 per year. These are facts, not estimates. The Company will market 300,000 feet daily next year—figure for yourself what the profits will be. At this rate it would take twenty-five years to cut the timber.

If you are interested in learning how money is made from operation in Timber, write us for copies of the reports as they come from Camp.

AUTO SLED

WILL BE COMPLETED THIS MONTH.

George Tiffany of this place the inventor

SLED WILL BE SHIPPED TO ALASKA AS SOON AS TESTED

An auto sled invented by Geo. Tiffany is being built at Brewer's foundry and will probably be completed this month. Mr. Tiffany expects to ship it to his son, Geo. Tiffany in Alaska as soon as it is completed and tested. The sled is rather crude looking being built of heavy timbers, but very practical for that country. As soon as the sled is completed Mr. Tiffany will test it, placing it on wheels for the test here, but when shipped to Alaska it will be put on steel runners. It is expected the auto will cover a route in a few hours which now takes several days to make. If the sled is found a success, Mr. Tiffany will build one on the same principle, but of lighter material for use in Canada.

CHURCH MESSENGER

A PAPER TO BE PRINTED BY THE MESSENGER BOYS OF THE PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH.

Will be printed every three months and sold by the boys.

WE PRINT A POEM BY THE PASTOR ON "IMMORTALITY."

The Church Messenger, a quarto printed by the Messenger Boys of the Presbyterian church, and edited by the pastor, were given the friends and members of the church last Sunday morning. The paper, reviewing the church work of the year, will be printed every three months, and beginning with the September number the boys will secure subscriptons for the paper. Thinking that the following poem, "Immortality" by Rev. J. W Dunning, pastor of the church, would be a help to some of our readers we print it in full.

IMMORTALITY.

O God
What is that small and restless spark within,
That keeps
Me toiling on to heights I cannot know?
That when,
The foothills reached, I long to reach the peaks;
And then,
The summit gained and all on earth below,
I fain
Would place my feet on yon bright twinkling star?
A Child,
I longed to reach maturer years of man,
But once
Attained, life is not all it seemed to be.
I see
On every hand men die with tasks undone;
I see
The true man wronged; the evil safely flee.
The weak
Are crushed beneath the cruel heel of might.
The good
Oft suffer here for crimes the guilty do.
And oft
A mother weeps for sins her son commits.
And all
About us here, is wrong of every kind;
And with
Unbalanced scales a partial justice sits.
Not thus
O God dids Thou intend it all to be.
The heights
We cannot reach, the men we strive to be
The tasks
Undone, the wrongs unrighted here on earth.
Toislong
Unending strife and struggle up to Thee—
All this
Convinceth me, of Immortality!

AN ATTRACTIVE FIGURE

All the skin foods, all the new fangled methods, all the exercise in the world, won't make a woman beautiful if her stomach isn't in good condition. It is the pure, nutritious matter which the digestive organs extract from your food that makes rich, red blood, and it is the rich, red blood that makes women perfect in form and complexion. Mi-o-na tablets are guaranteed by C. A. Wright & Son to cure dyspepsia, or money back. They give the most gratifying relief in few hours. They cure constipation by removing the dyspepsia which is the cause of constipation. They promptly relieve sea sickness, vomiting of pregnancy, and morning sickness after any dissipation of the night before and the price is only 50c for a large box.

"I have the best kind of an opinion of Mi-o-na. I used this reliable remedy for the cure of cramps and pains in my stomach and bowels, hard side and back aches and a kidney trouble. The best kind of relief was given me by the use of Mi-o-na and I praise it highly. This medicine helped me after the use of many others failed entirely." Ed A. A failing tiny nerve—no larger than the finest silken thread—takes from the Heart its impulse, its power its regularity The stomach also has its hidden, or inside nerve. It was Dr. Shoop who first told us it was wrong to drug a weak or failing stomach, heart or kidneys. His prescription—Dr. Shoop's Restorative—is directed straight for the cause of these ailments—these weak and faltering inside nerves This no doubt clearly explains why the Restorative has of late grown so rapidly in popularity. Druggists say that those who test the Restorative even for a few days soon become fully convinced of its wonderful merit. Anyway, don't drug the organ. Treating the cause of sickness is the only sensible and successful way. Sold by all dealers.

ONLY ONE BEST.

Tecumseh people give credit where credit is due.

People of Tecumseh, who suffer with sick kidneys and bad backs want a kidney remedy that can be depended upon. The best is Doan's Kidney Pills, a medicine for the kidneys only, made from pure roots and herbs and the only one that is backed by cures in Tecumseh. Here's Tecumseh testimony:

Mrs. Jeanette Teachout, Oneida St., Tecumseh, Mich., says: "I again take pleasure in recommending Doan's Kidney Pills to persons afflicted with kidney trouble. Last fall my kidneys began to bother me and I suffered from pains in the small of my back extending into my shoulders. When I stooped, sharp twinges seized me and for a few seconds I was unable to straighten. The frequent passages of the kidney secretions annoyed me greatly and the doctor seemed unable to give me any relief. Doan's Kidney Pills were so highly spoken of, that I procured a box and began their use. I was so greatly relieved that I continued taking this remedy until the pains disappeared." (Statement given on Dec. 10, 1906.)

On Sept. 5, 1908, Mrs. Teachout added to the above: "I still use Doan's Kidney Pills at times and they always bring the best of results. I feel justified in recommending Doan's Kidney Pills to other kidney sufferers."

SLOOP FLOPS IN A SQUALL

Ten Persons Lose Their Lives In New York Bay.

HAD BEEN ON PICNIC JAUNT

Only Twelve Survivors Out of Party of Twenty-two Swedes Who Chartered Little Craft at Brooklyn and Visited Neighboring Island—Nearby Tug Rescues Survivors.

New York, July 19.—Ten persons are dead, two of them little girls, as the result of the excursion sloop Roxana, carrying twenty-two passengers, capsizing in a sudden squall in lower New York bay.

The captain of the Roxana and the twelve survivors were picked up under great difficulties in a rough and choppy sea by the tug Lamont.

The Roxana, with her skipper, Captain Samuelson, was chartered at Ulmer Beach, Brooklyn, by a party of Swedes from Brooklyn, for a sail across the bay to Midland Beach, Staten Island, and back. The first leg of the voyage was made without mishap, and all hands piled ashore to make merry. Beer was served, and some of the survivors could give but a hazy account of the accident.

There was a stiff breeze from the southwest, which left a nasty cross-sea. The Roxana, reeling homeward across the bay under all the sail good judgment would permit to be carried, slipped into a squall.

The captain struggled to slash away his sheet, but there was no time for measures of relief. In one moment the Roxana was bottom-up, and the foam was black with bobbing heads. In another the Roxana had vanished, and one by one the heads began to follow her.

Fortunately the tug Lamont was keeping a sharp lookout. Captain Keyes saw the sloop heel over. Instantly he headed for the spot where the Roxana had been, but before he could reach her ten of the passengers had gone down. Life lines and buoys were thrown to those still afloat, and, after a few minutes, all in sight had been taken aboard the Lamont.

The survivors, thoroughly exhausted and half dazed, were taken to a hospital on Staten Island.

NEARING THE END.

Tariff Bill Expected From Conference Committee This Week.

Washington, July 19.—The tariff bill is nearing the end of its adventurous journey through the wilderness of conflicting political, local and commercial interests, in which, so to speak, it has been an imperilled wayfarer since the beginning of the extraordinary session of congress convoked by President Taft immediately upon his inauguration nearly five months ago.

The conference committees report is expected to be completed in the last part of this week. How long it will take the senate and the house to pass finally upon the work of the conference committee and what will be the ultimate fate of the measure as a whole is the subject of varying conjecture, but the general impression in quarters usually well informed is that the report of the committee will be adopted by both houses and will reach the hands of the president early next week.

Most people here expect that President Taft will sign the bill.

PRETENDER IS DEAD.

China Will Accept Crane.

STRIKERS BECAME ANGRY.

Did Not Like Appearance of Troops and Attacked Them.

Butler, Pa., July 19.—Taking the striking employes of the Standard Steel Car company completely by surprise, a detachment of state canstabulary arrived here from Punxsutawney to guard the company's property at Lyndora. The strikers, angered by the appearance of the troops, gathered around the plant yard, and in a clash with the mounted troopers one striker was probably fatally shot, two members of the crowd were wounded and over ten injured. Fifteen alleged strike leaders were arrested by the troopers.

Quiet at McKees Rock.

Pittsburg, July 19.—The turmoil and excitement and general sense of imminent riot and uprising which have pervaded McKees Rocks and the immediate vicinity of the plant of the Pressed Steel Car company for the past week gave way Sunday to peace and unbroken quiet.

She Knew the Day Well.

A poor little faded woman had been brought into court as witness in a case involving very important issues. The entire case depended on the fact that a paper had been signed on a certain day, and this the forlorn little woman was prepared to prove.

"You saw the paper signed?" asked the opposing counsel in cross examination.

"Yes, sir."

"And you take your oath that it was the 13th of August?"

"I know it was, sir."

The lawyer, who thought another date could be proved, assumed an exasperating smile and repeated her words.

"You know it was? And now be so good as to tell us how you know it."

The poor little creature looked from one countenance to another with wide, sorrowful eyes, as if she sought understanding and sympathy; then her gaze rested on the kindly face of the judge.

"I know," she said, as if speaking to him alone, "because that was the day my baby died."—Pearson's Weekly.

Five Drown in Ohio River.

Cincinnati, July 19.—A gasoline launch carrying a pleasure party from a day's outing up the river capsized off Coal Haven, Ky., on the Ohio river, five of the occupants of the boat drowning. Four others were rescued by rivermen.

Amos' Anodyne.

"We always wondered a little how Amos Dore and his wife got along—really," Aunt Em Macomber said frankly. "Some in the neighborhood said they'd never overheard a single loud or cross word on either side, but Lije Daniels always stuck to it that Amos was as mis'able at home as a man could be.

"He never spoke right out till Amos died and Mis' Dore went back up country to her folks. Then he let out."

"What?" queried Aunt Em's visitor.

"Well, Amos worked logging alongside of Lije every winter, and summers they hayed together most always, and it seems," said Aunt Em impressively, "that Amos complained of his shoes hurting him about all the time. Finally Lije asked why he wore tight shoes.

"'Why don't you get a pair big enough?' says Lije one day.

"'Well, I'll tell you,' Amos says. 'When I wear tight shoes I forget all my other troubles.'"—Youth's Companion.

Polishing a Diamond.

The polishing of a diamond is a very slow process, because of the great hardness of the material; besides this, the work must be frequently interrupted to allow the disk to cool out after it has become overheated by friction. Each time a new facet is to be cut the diamond must be removed from the dop and reset at another angle, and the diamond cutter trusts to his eye alone to guide him in this delicate adjustment, although in the case of very small diamonds a magnifying glass is necessary. The skill shown in placing the stone in the heated metal, sometimes with the bare hand, is surprising. The regular brilliant has fifty-six facets, besides the table and the collet—thirty-two above the girdle and twenty-four below—but as eight facets are first formed, both above and below, each of these being recut into three or four smaller ones, there are considerably more than fifty-six separate surfaces to be cut.—Dr. George F. Kunz in Century.

Opportunity.

In one of the old Greek cities there stood long ago a statue. Every trace of it has vanished now, but there is still in existence an epigram which gives us an excellent description of it, and as we read the words we can surely discover the lesson which those wise old Greeks meant that the statue should teach to every passerby. The epigram is in the form of a conversation between a traveler and the statue:

"What is thy name, O statue?"

"I am called Opportunity."

"Who made thee?"

"Lysippus."

"Why art thou on thy toes?"

"To show that I stay but a moment."

"Why hast thou wings on thy feet?"

"To show how quickly I pass by."

"But why is thy hair so long on thy forehead?"

"That men may seize me when they meet me."

"Why, then, is thy head so bald behind?"

"To show that when I have once passed I cannot be caught."

Dropping the Curtain.

"No, Mr. Slowun," said the fair possessor of the square chin, "I must respectfully decline to become your other half."

"But why?" asked the astonished young man, who had believed that he was the favored one.

"Because," replied the female extender of the frosty digit, "the man I marry must be brave and fearless. Tonight you let out the information that you have loved me for five long, weary years, but have not dared mention it until the present meeting. A man who has no more nerve than that would hide under the bed while his wife went downstairs to interview a burglar who was making a raid on the family larder. Therefore, Mr. Slowun, I will work the piano for a little slow music while the curtain drops on the farewell scene. You will find your hat on the usual peg of the hall rack. Good evening!"—London Mail.

Speculative Life Insurance.

A mania for speculative insurances on the lives of public personages prevailed in England during the eighteenth century. Warren Hastings, the pretender, the rebel lords or the unfortunate Admiral Byng answered equally the purpose of speculation, and there were also regular quotations on the lives of notorious highwaymen. Sir Robert Walpole at one period of his career, when his life was endangered by popular tumults, was insured for many thousands, and when George II. fought at Dettingen 25 per cent was paid against his return. Such speculative insurances were, however, largely checked by the gambling act of 1774, which made insurable interest a necessary condition for a valid policy.—Argonaut.

No Picnic.

A Junction City man told of a remark made by a woman at whose home a number of people took supper one night during a political campaign in Sumner county. This particular woman, though young in years, was the mother of seven children. Naturally the children were reasonably close to one size. When the "campaigners" went into the woman's house one of them noticed the bunch of children and said to the woman in a friendly way, "These all yours, or is this a picnic?" "They are all mine," she replied wearily, "and it's no picnic."—Kansas City Journal.

Tipped.

"Doesn't this boat tip a great deal?" asked a timid young woman of the steward.

"The vessel, ma'am," said the steward, "is trying to set a good example to the passengers."

She Knew the Saint.

Margery's cousin, Cecilia, was eighteen and pretty. She was also devoted to music and spent hours practicing on a large pipe organ. This, together with the fact that she invariably wore a rapt expression when so engaged, earned for her the nickname of St. Cecilia. It happened that Margery's mamma was called to town and left her five-year-old daughter in charge of an obliging neighbor. This lady undertook to amuse her young guest by showing her a collection of prints, among which was a copy of the familiar presentation of the patron saint of music seated at the organ.

"This, my dear," said the obliging hostess, "is a picture of St. Cecilia."

"It doesn't look a bit like her," spoke up the tiny visitor.

"Why, how do you know?" inquired the astonished owner of the print.

"How do I know?" returned the equally astonished Margery. "Why, St. Cecilia is my own first cousin. She teached me my prayers an' how to play jackstones."

When Children Smoked.

In the seventeenth century in England the practice of juvenile smoking was almost universal, at least according to Jorevin de Rochefort, a French traveler of that period. In an account published in 1671 he gives a description of an evening he spent in Worcester. He was catechized by one of the townsmen as to the habits of the French people. "While we were walking about the town," he writes, "he asked me if it was the custom in France as in England that when the children went to school they carried in their satchel with their books a pipe of tobacco, which their mother took care to fill early in the morning, it serving them instead of breakfast, and that at the accustomed hour every one laid aside his book to light his pipe, the master smoking with them and teaching them how to hold their pipes and draw in their tobacco, thus accustoming them to it from their youths, believing it absolutely necessary for a man's health."

Dobbin's Journey.

The family horse, who rejoiced in the eminently proper equine name of Dobbin, had earned a rest by long service and was accordingly sent away to the country to spend his declining years in the broad pastures of a farmer friend of his owner. The distance being somewhat excessive for his rheumatic legs, he was shipped to his new home by rail.

Little Edna, the family four-year-old, viewed the passing of Dobbin with unfeigned sorrow. She sat for a long time gazing disconsolately out of the window. At last, after a deep sigh, she turned with a more cheerful expression and said:

"Did old Dobbin go on the choo-choo cars, mamma?"

"Yes, dear," answered her mother.

A broad grin spread over the little girl's face. "I was just thinking," she said, "how funny he must feel sitting up on the plush cushions."—Woman's Home Companion.

No Business Good Business.

"Yes," said the quiet man, "business has been good with me this week—or bad—I don't know which you would call it. I have been busier than the company likes to have me."

"What do you mean by that? Is there an employer who does not like to have his employees work? Could I get a job there? It seems to me that such a position would suit my temperament exactly."

"The company doesn't care to have anything doing in my department. It would be glad to pay me my salary and never have me do a stroke of work."

"What an ideal job! What kind of a place is it?"

"I am an adjuster of death claims for a life insurance company."—New York Press.

Amateur Weather Prophets.

"The old weather prophets there are left now," remarked a Cleveland lawyer who was raised in the country, "are professionals. The good old fashioned amateur weather prophets that could tell you what the next day would be like just by sniffing the atmosphere and looking at the sky are no more. People are growing up to depend on the weather reports in the newspapers, and they don't develop any intuition in that direction any more. When I was a kid I used to ask my father what the next day's weather would be with just as much feeling of confidence in what he would tell me as I would have in an unabridged dictionary if I wanted to look up a word. And, as a rule, I wasn't disappointed."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

A Queen's Critical Brother.

Marie Antoinette's brother Joseph could not bear the rouge pot, and one evening when the queen was going out, being heavily rouged, the emperor was looking on. Pointing to a lady present who was excessively bedaubed with paint, Joseph remarked facetiously: "A little more under the eyes! Lay on the rouge like fury, as that lady does!"—Hassard's "Louis XVI."

Qualities of the Topaz.

The name of the precious stone inserted in the ring of Gyges has not been handed down to us, but it is probable that it was the topaz, whose wonders Philostrates recounts in the life of Apollonius. An attribute of the sun and of fire, the ancients called it the gold magnet, as it was credited with the power of attracting that metal, indicating its veins and discovering the treasures. Heliodorus in his story of Theagenes and Charicles says that the topaz saves from fire all those who wear it and that Charicles was preserved by a topaz from the fiery vengeance of Arsaces, queen of Ethiopia. This stone was one of the first talismans that Theagenes possessed in Egypt. The topaz at present symbolizes Christian virtues—faith, justice, temperance, gentleness, clemency.—Paris Figaro.

Called His Papa Down.

Little Willy is a bright boy and a saucy boy. His apt answers have often turned away wrath and often turned it upon him strongly. The other day his father was reprimanding him for some misdeed, and Willy was answering very saucily. The father became very angry and, seizing the youngster by the collar, said: "See here, young man, you must not talk like that to me. I never gave my father impudence when I was a boy." Willy was not feazed at all. With a cherubic smile he looked into papa's eyes and said, "But, papa, maybe your father didn't need it." 'Twas all off. Willy escaped punishment, while papa retired to another room.

This Vale of Tears.

The news that science had at length discovered the means of destroying the germ of the last ill which flesh was heir to called forth rapturous rejoicings throughout the world.

"Henceforth perfect health will reign universally!" people everywhere exclaimed and gave themselves up to congratulations.

But that was not to be. In the very next day's paper was the account of somebody having invented a microscope so powerful as to reveal a lot more germs, which meant, of course, that it would be no time at all until everybody was sick again.—Puck.

Chocolate.

Although the "drink called chocolate" did not appear in England until 1657 its restorative properties soon became generally known. Thus, on May 24, 1661, after an evening of carousing, Pepys "worked in the morning, with my head in a sad taking through the last night's drink, which I am very sorry for; so rose and went out with Mr. Creed to drink our morning draft, which he did give me in chocolate to settle my stomach."

On the Mend.

Bronson—I noticed your wife sitting by the window sewing this morning. I thought you told me yesterday she was ill. Woodson—So she was, but today she's on the mend.—Brooklyn Eagle.

Going Out.

Mr. B.—There, I've let my cigar go out. Do you know that it spoils a cigar, no matter how good it is, if you allow it to go out? Mrs. B.—Yes; a cigar is a good deal like a man in that respect.

His Start.

The World—Want a job, eh? What's your recommendation? Graduate—My A. B. The World—Sit right down, and I'll teach you the rest of the alphabet.—New York Life.

What the Jury Found.

Some years ago the body of a well dressed man was found in a field on the outskirts of an English town. There were no marks of violence, and it was doubtful whether death had occurred from natural causes or if the individual had committed suicide. In due course the body was identified, and a gentleman who had been acquainted with the deceased was called upon to give evidence at the inquest. Among other things, he stated that he had always considered him to be a man of marked idiosyncrasies, and his brain was continually excited by his irresistible fondness for chimeras of various kinds. The jury was evidently satisfied with his statement and immediately brought in a verdict that "death was caused by idiosyncrasies forming on the brain in consequence of excessive indulgence in chimeras," adding a rider that "it should be a warning to people to refrain from that and other intoxicating beverages."

WALL KEEPS OUT THE SEA

Galveston Escapes Disaster Similar to One of 1900.

HURRICANE SWEEPS DISTRICT

Waters of Gulf Driven In Upon City, but Masonry That Cost Millions Prevents Destruction—Mayor Sends Out Signed Statement of Greetings in Behalf of City.

Galveston, Tex., July 22.—Fortified behind her seventeen foot sea wall and elevated to a point above the danger line, Galveston has just passed safely through a hurricane that resembled the disastrous storm of 1900. Part of the island on which the city is situated was again inundated, the overflowing sea water reaching a height of seven feet or more. That portion of the island which has been protected suffered comparatively little harm. No lives were lost here and the property damage is not large.

Sweeping westward, the tropical storm, which had been central over the gulf of Mexico for twenty-four hours, struck Galveston. The wind attained a velocity of sixty-eight miles an hour and shifted to the northeast, heaving the waters of Galveston bay up against the island and flooding that quarter which had not been raised. The water backed up into the main streets of the city, but the principal damage was confined to the beach front, where bath houses and pleasure piers were swept away. Shipping was undisturbed.

A hurricane for east Texas was forecasted at the district weather bureau in New Orleans, and warnings were sent out. When wind and rain arrived several hours later they found Galveston prepared.

Although not a single life was lost in Galveston, it is known that ten lives were lost and that much property was destroyed at other places. With wires down and railroad communication destroyed, it is impossible to get news from other points.

Mayor Lewis Fisher has issued the following signed statement to the public:

"The city of Galveston sends greetings to her sister cities, the people of the United States and to the world that at this hour she has just passed through a formidable storm, manifesting in its course some of the most violent incidents of cyclonic disturbances. The city's great sea wall has completely vindicated its efficiency and protected the city again dangers from the seas, leaving only such insignificant damages as are incident to all storms. The city, its great business interests and its people have safely passed through a most severe hurricane; the sea wall proved a complete success; the city's great wharves and shipping interests suffered no damage, and not a life was lost."

MRS. THAW WRITES BOOK.

Scores Prosecutors of Her Son and Insanity Experts.

White Plains, N. Y., July 21.—The prosecutors of her son are criticized and insanity experts scored in a twenty page booklet which Mrs. Mary Copley Thaw, mother of Harry K. Thaw, has issued here. It bears the title, "The Secret Unveiled," and, besides giving a resume of the various court proceedings in which Harry Thaw has been involved, alleges the existence of a "cowardly combination" against her son and the taking of unusually oppressive measures in his case. His entire sanity at the present time is strongly asserted.

Mrs. Thaw says she recognizes that she has rendered herself subject to criticism by writing the book.

"But exceptional conditions," she declares, "demand exceptional treatment, and the fact that District Attorney Jerome has on four occasions left the quite sufficient responsibilities of his own district to pursue this case into a district within which, as he himself acknowledges, he has no jurisdiction, compels this unusual proceedure on my part."

COMMISSION IS BUSY.

Disposes of Seventy-three Cases in One Opinion.

Washington, July 22.—In one opinion just announced the interstate commerce commission disposed, finally, of seventy-three cases. All of the complaints requested reparation on alleged unreasonable charges for the shipment from eastern points of wooden furniture to San Francisco, Los Angeles and other points on the Pacific coast, and the majority of them were dismissed.

The complaints were instituted by several firms at the points of destination.

DINNER CAME TO NAUGHT

Taft's Tariff Feast Confab Does Not Bring Results.

RAW MATERIALS THE ISSUE

But Conferees Will Have to Settle Their Own Differences—Question of Free Hides Is Sticker—Banquet Took Place In Open Air—One of Swellest Ever Given at White House.

Washington, July 22.—President Taft's dinner to the conferees on the tariff bill and to several of his closest advisers probably will be written down in history as one of the most significant events of a purely political bearing that has ever transpired at the White House.

The dinner was served on the western terrace, or roof, of the low lying structure which connects the White House proper with the executive offices.

The president has grown fond of dining out of doors these warm Washington night. The long table, about which the warring conferees gathered as guests of the chief executive, was set in a miniature grove of bay trees. The president sat at the head of the long table, and altogether there were nineteen diners about the board.

It was felt that if some satisfactory working arrangement could not be made as a result of the conference and counsel of those who composed the evening's dinner party the hope of an early solution of the tariff tangle would be remote indeed.

The conferees worked diligently throughout the day to prepare a program for discussion with the president and his advisers last night. They started off at the morning session with the five big propositions which have caused the greatest worry and to dispose of which the president's aid has been invoked. These five problems are the proposed placing on the free list of hides, iron ore, oil and coal and a material reduction in the rates of duty proposed on lumber.

Free Hides a Hard Nut.

Each of the propositions is surrounded by its own series of difficulties, but the question of free hides has been the hardest with which the president and the conferees have had to deal. There was an indication when the conference adjourned and the conferees began to array themselves for the notable "feast of the tariff" that the very best the president could be offered was free ore, free oil and substantial reductions in the senate rates on hides, coal and lumber.

The real discussion of the tariff problems did not begin until after the dinner had been disposed of. It was said to have been one of the most carefully prepared banquets ever served from the famous old White House kitchens.

The dinner and conference ended at 11:30 o'clock, with the disputes over raw materials no nearer adjustment than they were before the dinner invitations were issued. Only one question was determined beyond appeal, and that was that the conferees will have to settle their own differences. Pains were taken, however, to convey the impression that this decision is not indicative of any absence of appreciation of the president's efforts. Briefly stated, the representatives of the house and senate practically admitted that they were unable to forecast its outcome.

LOOKS LIKE WAITING GAME.

Arbitrators For Strikers at Pittsburg Fail to Reach Agreement.

Pittsburg, July 22.—The strike of the employes of the Pressed Steel Car company has resolved itself into a waiting game on the part of the strikers and the car company officials. After two conferences held in the chambers of Judge Marshall Brown between counsel for the car company and counsel for the strikers it was announced that nothing approaching a settlement had been reached.

The conferences were explained as attempts on the part of the strikers to show the car company officials evidence of graft, under pay and general abuse received at the hands of minor employes of the car company at the Schoenville plant.

Find Hull of Old Ferry.

Detroit, Mich., July 22.—Tunnel workers digging through the bottom of th river have run into the hull of the old ferry boat General Grant, which was sunk in the Detroit river as a result of a sensational accident during the '70s.

Fell Seventy Feet.

Detroit, Mich., July 22.—John Marshod, a laborer who was working for Bryan & Detwiler, contractors, died soon after falling from the fourth floor of the Packard Motor plant. The distance was seventy feet.

BOURGEOIS TO BE PREMIER

Falleries Will Let Him Form New Cabinet.

Paris, July 22.—President Fallieres will offer the premiership to Leon Bourgeois, former minister of foreign affairs. This decision was reached late last night, but as M. Bourgeois is not expected to reach Paris from Hamburg until today his actual attitude with regard to the appointment is not known. Parliamentary circles, however, foresee he will decline the honor, as his health is far from robust. Nevertheless, the cabinet crisis promises to be of short duration.

The parliamentary leaders of the majority have told President Fallieres that M. Clemenceau's defeat was a personal reproof directed against the premier for his attack upon M. Delcasse, and that it would not check the policies of the government, which should be continued.

The entire political world remains completely stupefied at M. Clemenceau's action Tuesday. No one can believe that an old campaigner like Clemenceau did not realize that he was doing, and for this reason many advance the theory that he deliberately planned his own downfall.

MAKES SPEED TESTS.

Wright Goes at Rapid Rate Through Air.

Washington, July 22.—In two short flights in the Wright aeroplane last evening at Fort Myer, Va., Orville Wright closely approached the world's aeroplane speed record, attaining an average velocity of 54 1-2 miles an hour as computed by Wilbur Wright, who held the stop watch on the machine for half a dozen rounds of the course.

On the first flight the air craft remained aloft only 1 minute and 39 seconds, the aviator being forced to descend by losing a cog wheel on the magneto after making his second round of the course. On his second flight, after the cog had been replaced, the aeroplane swiftly circled a dozen times around the course, which is five-sixths of a mile in circumference.

Hughes Going West.

Saranac Lake, N. Y., July 22.—Governor Hughes has left his summer home here for Albany, preparatory to his trip west. The governor will leave Albany for the west Friday. He will visit Yellowstone National park on his way to Seattle, where he will arrive in time to take part in the ceremonies of New York day at the Alaska-Yukon exposition.

Indicted For Sayler Murder.

Watseka, Ill., July 22.—A special grand jury called to investigate the murder, on July 11, of John B. Sayler, a banker of Crescent City, has indicted Dr. William Miller, Mrs. J. B. Sayler and John Grunden, Mrs. Sayler's father, for murder. Ia Gunden, a brother, was indicted as an accessory after the fact.

BIG ROAD MERGER.

Reported Several Lines Are About to Join.

Flint, Mich., July 22.—Business and railroad circles are agog over the rumor of a big interurban merger affecting Flint, Saginaw and Bay City roads and which would, if culminated, greatly lessen the running time between Bay City and Flint.

The story was that the Saginaw and Bay City line would absorb the Flint and Saginaw road, and the two would be reconstructed so as to cut off thirty minutes between Flint and Bay City.

Thomas F. Stockton, attorney for the Flint and Saginaw line denies such a merger is in contemplation.

HIS ATTORNEY BUSY.

Frisbie Case at Port Huron Likely to Be Adjourned.

Port Huron, Mich., July 22.—The police court examination of Samuel Frisbie of Cleveland, who is charged with being implicated in the slaying of Louis Rosenberg, at the Flats, may not be held Friday, owing to the fact that Joseph Walsh, one of Frisbie's attorneys, is engaged in the trial of a case in Detroit. Unless the Detroit case is finished today an adjournment will be asked for.

Frisbie is anxious to have his hearing taken up.

Beats Dan Patch.

Grand Forks, N. D., July 22.—Before the largest crowd ever assembled in North Dakota, Minor Heir, 1:59 1-2, Wednesday beat Dan Patch, 1:55, in a race paced over the half mile track of the North Dakota state fair grounds. The course was heavy, and a terrific wind was blowing. Both of the pacers were in good condition for so early in the season.

MANY DEATHS IN THIS FAMILY

Two Double Funerals Within Two Weeks.

TWO SISTERS DIE SUDDENLY

Two Brothers Drown—Lose Their Lives In Lake Superior—All Had Come From Saskatchewan on Visit Father of Four Lost His Life by Drowning Near Where Sons Died.

Traverse City, Mich., July 22.—Two double funerals in two weeks—that is what Mrs. Juanita Breckenridge will have managed when this day is over, when she will oversee the burial of her two brothers, who were drowned at Duluth Saturday.

The other double funeral followed the death, on the same day, of her two sisters.

Sad events in the family history of Mrs. Breckenridge have followed each other grimly and rapidly within the last few years. At one time she, her mother (Mrs. William Hope), two brothers, two sisters, husband and three sons lived at Kingsley. The husband was drowned in Lake Superior, near Duluth. Then the remainder of the family moved to Saskatchewan, Canada.

Three weeks ago they returned to this part of the state for a visit. The two sisters went to Sparta; the rest of the family to Kingsley. Charles and William Hope, the two brothers, aged eighteen and seventeen years, went to Duluth shortly after reaching Kingsley.

Two days after they left, both sisters died at Sparta, after short illnesses. The mother was prostrated, and it fell to the daughter, Mrs. Breckenridge, to oversee the arrangements for the double funeral.

Then, Saturday night, came the news that both young men had been drowned while riding in a pleasure boat. The aged mother, just recovering from the shock caused by her daughters' deaths, was once more prostrated. The Breckenridge boys are young. So it fell to their mother to plan for the second burial of two bodies.

The Hope boys were drowned in almost identically the same spot in which Breckenridge met death several years ago.

Charges Husband With Desertion.

Flint, Mich., July 22.—William Jones, twenty-nine years old, a painter, who is alleged to have deserted his wife and a four-weeks'-old baby a month ago, has been arrested here.

Port Huron Woman Drops Dead.

Port Huron, Mich., July 22.—While working in her flower garden, Mrs. Addie Tripp, seventy-four years old, dropped dead of apoplexy.

MICHIGAN BRIEFS.

The Antrim County Pioneer society, organized two years ago, will have their annual picnic at Central lake Aug. 6.

The second fire in eight months partially destroyed the plant of the Traverse City Chair company, at Traverse City. The loss cannot be estimated as yet, but will be heavy.

W. H. Axford, aged fifty-nine, and for more than forty years a successful business man of Owosso, is dead of dropsy.

A. Riley Crittenden, editor of the Livingston Tidings, will deliver an address at the annual reunion of the Crittenden family of the United States, which will be held at Belle Isle, Detroit, Aug. 17. It is expected that over 300 people, from twelve states, will attend the reunion.

Rush Himes, alias William Carter, aged twenty-three, of Lansing was sentenced to from one to fifteen years in Ionia reformatory by Judge Weist. The man and a companion were captured while breaking into a Lansing store recently. Himes admitted his guilt, but declared that he was drunk at the time.

Thrown when the horse on which she was riding took fright, Miss Mabel Hearst of Hillsdale fell on a cement walk and received several painful injuries. Though bleeding from a number of cuts, she captured the animal and, mounting, rode to her home, where medicinal aid was summoned. Her injuries are not serious.

Rev. Edwin Shaw, who died last June at his home in Hastings, was long regarded as the oldest University of Michigan graduate, he having been a member of the class of 1852. A letter has been received from Rev. T. H. Palmer, a Baptist minister of National City, Cal., in which the latter declares that he graduated with the class of 1847. He is therefore entitled to the distinction of being the oldest graduate of the institution.

Tennyson Centenary

Part Second—Alfred Tennyson, the Man and Poet. His Broad Humanity. "Locksley Hall".....

By James A. Edgerton

Copyright, 1909, by the American Press Association

THE LAUREATE WAS A GOOD READER.

ONE of the most notable traits of Alfred Tennyson was purity. His style is pure; his writings are pure; his home life was pure; his politics, religion, thoughts and his entire being were pure. He loved the heroic, the lofty, the wholesome. He was never coarse, never ignoble. He was most human, but never in an unworthy sense. He walked on the mountains with God and yet walked in the valleys with man. He sang of the hidden things of the soul, the finest abstractions of thought, and again of the heart throbs of the people, the homely joys and sorrows of common life. He was equally at home in the castle and the hut. As he imaged the mountain and the sea, the forest, brook and meadow in nature, so he touched the heights and the levels of human life. He talked as he wrote and lived as he talked. He had in him the elements of the actor, the painter and the musician and was the artist in them all. He was little given to the crowd, but with those of kindred thought he was a boon companion and steadfast friend. His home life was that of a simple Christian gentleman without cant and without pretense. He was loved by his queen and loved as much by the servant about his estate. He was loved most by those who were nearest to him, who saw the innermost recesses of his thought or as much of them as everyday mortals may see of the soul of one who talks with the infinite.

Some one has said that Tennyson was the wisest man of his time. Bayard Taylor remarked his intimate acquaintance with science, his knowledge of the geologic formation of the region in which he lived. He was the friend of scientists and statesmen as well as of men of letters. That there was nothing little in his nature was shown by his appreciation of all contemporary poets worthy of the name. He was a boon companion of the Brownings and was in touch by letters and personal contact with men like Gladstone, Carlyle, Emerson, Longfellow, Fitzgerald, Tyndall and most of those who ruled the destinies and molded the thought of his time. Gladstone and Fitzgerald he knew from his youth. His freedom from pettiness is charmingly shown in a little poem to a brother bard who had sent him a spiteful letter.

Greater than I? Is that your cry?
And men shall live to see it?
Well, if it be so, so it is, you know.
And if it be so, so be it.

When I first read Tennyson's poems I was struck by wonder and admiration. When I read his letters I was drawn to him as to a big brother, but when I read his life I saw him as a bluff and manly man, touched with infinite tendernesses and living as near to the Christ ideal as we earth folk may well attain. His "In Memoriam" shows the love of an immortal for an idealized brother, filled with all the nobility of sorrow, with all the purity of love, with all the highest of faith and hope. In "The Princess" he shadows forth a nobler manhood and womanhood, a higher marriage, a sweeter and diviner civilization and breathes through it all such music, such an air from the eternal hills, such an atmosphere of the things of the soul and such a sense of the morning of the humanity that it must charm the world and win it to the fulfillment of his dream.

To me "The Princess" is his greatest poem. Others think his highest notes are struck in "The Idylls of the King." "The Princess" looks forward, "The Idylls" backward. One pictures the golden age ahead; the other pictures it in the past. Perhaps it is neither onward nor behind, but in the present, if at all. Tennyson himself said as much in "The Golden Year." Yet if we must place the goal at a distance I prefer it in the days that are to come rather than in those "that are no more." It is one thing to sigh for a glory that has gone; it is quite another to reach out for a glory that is to be. We have had our eyes too much on the past. Why not face to the sunrise? Tennyson believed in the cry of "Forward" in his younger days and only hushed it when an old man thinking "gray thoughts." Well, the rest of us are not all old and hope never to be old in spirit, so we may be permitted to keep the cry of "Forward" now and always. We prefer to follow Tennyson at his best, not his worst. "Locksley Hall Sixty Years After" is very well in its way except that it is too conscious of those sixty years. What are years to an immortal? What are a few revolutions of the sun to a race that is going onward to the heights? If Homer occasionally nodded, Tennyson may be forgiven a slight lapse into pessimism that hardly represented his true self. We are a strange combination of angel and beast, and sometimes the beast will speak in spite of us, which is true of the genius as well as the roustabout. "Locksley Hall" is the call of a bugle. Its echo, "Sixty Years After," is a wail. I prefer to follow the bugle rather than the wail. We have enough doubts of our own. We need the poet to give us faith, not despair. Yet the later poem is not all a plaint if read deeply. The boy was too eager, too impatient, for the millennium to arrive by lightning express. The old man is saddened by the fact that earth's "golden year" does not come in that way. Then, I fear, our laureate, great as he was, was so wedded to the old that he could not always interpret the new. Things did not progress in his way, and he did not stop to think that perhaps they were progressing in God's way and that all was well. Far under the surface tone in the "Sixty Years After" poem is a note of noble optimism. He had not despaired really, not in his soul. He only thought he had. Zoiaism and democracy, especially French democracy, were too much for him. He needed Walt Whitman right there to show him a little of the cosmic view. Publicity is a cure for crimes and vices, which thrive only in the darkness. The common humanity will make itself better by being forced to depend on itself. There is nothing to be feared from God's truth and God's people. They may seem in the gloom, but they are working toward the light. Be patient, O poet and dreamer, for the years are long and the tides are slow, but God moves upon the face of the human waters.

"JESUS HAD MORE COMMON SENSE THAN YOU OR I, MADAM."

So I love "The Princess" because it sounds the cry of "Forward." Especially does it peal the call to woman, who has heard and, thank God, is moving, moving all over the world, moving away from the false unto the true in society and in thought, moving from the narrower view to the larger life. The dream of "then reign the world's great bridals, chaste and calm," is not so far away as it was when Tennyson wrote, nor that other vision of the day when woman shall "set herself to man like perfect music unto noble words."

This article is not a catalogue or table of contents of Tennyson's poems. Neither does it pretend to be a criticism. I am only giving my own impressions in a random way. To be honest I must tell the things I like, not those that somebody else likes. I must confess that one of my favorites is "Maud," which raised such a storm among the critics when it appeared. Gladstone was one of those who found fault with it. Then he heard Tennyson read it and frankly said that he had misinterpreted the poem. This published retraction was so generous and manly that the Grand Old Man in turn won a tribute from Tennyson. "Maud," like "The Princess," has some of the sweetest lyrics in the English language. People have thought it glorified war. It does not. It is only true to its theme and to the character of the one speaking. A lot of people have tried to read the poet's own views and life history in his writings. Frequently they have erred. This is especially true of "Locksley Hall." Tennyson never had a Cousin Amy or any other cousin with whom he was in love. We can read a man's spirit in his writings, but there is danger in being too literal. This is as deadly in the interpretation of literature as the Master said it was in spiritual things. No one can see Alfred Tennyson who does not look behind the letter.

The description of madness in "Maud" has never been equaled unless it were in Shakespeare. Just as no poet since Shakespeare has been able to portray women as did Tennyson. Physicians have borne witness to the accuracy of the picture of the hero raving in his "cell of madness." "My life has crept so long on a broken wing!" he cried when he had emerged into sanity again. How graphic and how pathetic!

For a portrayal of the war between the baser and better selves where is there another poem equal to "The Two Voices?" What man of heart and sensibilities has not had to fight the same battle? Some one has said that one striking feature of this poem is that Tennyson does not attempt to belittle the voice of the sense self or to give it the worst of the argument. The beauty of the piece is that it rings true. The lower nature has the evidence of the senses on its side. The angel within us must depend on those finer and more elusive things, the intimations that come we know not how, the faith and trust that spring from perennial fountains within. By such seemingly weak yet truly mighty forces does the God in man win the battle with our sense illusions and our unfaith.

It is almost idle to extend the list. "Enoch Arden," with its picture of homely self sacrifice, the world knows by heart, as it does the many songs of humble life, of patriotism, of love and war. Throughout is a moral influence, a call to the heroic in men, a glimpse of the heaven that is so near to all our lives, if we would but see. The thought that

Howe'er it be, it seems to me
'Tis only noble to be good,

is ever present. Goodness is the pervading theme of this poet, as it is of Longfellow, as it is of all the truly great, whether singers, teachers or rulers of men.

Ring in the Christ that is to be, sang this poet-prophet, who saw with such a true vision what the Nazarene really taught and saw likewise how far the world is from realizing that perfect ideal.

In a conversation with a lady one day the talk turned upon a poet then dead, and Tennyson objected that the man lacked common sense. The lady urged that the same criticism might have been made of Jesus.

"Jesus had more common sense than you or I, madam," quickly rejoined the laureate. How long will it take mankind to see that truth?

Despite Tennyson's reputation for sadness, he was not without an element of humor that was playful and almost boisterous when the mood was on him. This appears in a criticism he made of one of Robert Browning's poems. The two were the best of friends, so there is no malice in the stricture. Tennyson said that Browning's poem was so obscure that he understood only two lines and they were both lies. These lines were the first and last:

Now shall you hear Sordello's story told.
Now have you heard Sordello's story told.

The laureate was a good reader and delighted in reciting his own productions. He read other poets equally well. Whenever he struck a fine line, either of his own or another, he remarked as much. This was not due to vanity, as he was notably free from that small vice. It was only the artist's appreciation. Most writers know whether they have done a thing well or not, and only a false modesty keeps them from saying so. Any man that can create stuff like that of Alfred Tennyson is entitled to praise it if he feels like it. An author who thinks his work "punky" is generally right. Tennyson knew his was not, and we all know the same. Why not say so? False modesty is only an inverted vanity. That Tennyson was not vain is shown by the fact that many of the songs he wrote—songs that would have made the fame of a smaller man—never saw the light, at least during his lifetime. If he knew what of his own work was good he also knew what was not up to the mark.

So fine a reader was the English laureate that his friends said he would have shone upon the stage. Others objected that he had a singsong voice, bringing out too prominently the rhyme and rhythm. These should only be suggested, say the professional elocutionists. Perhaps, but the elocutionist is not a poet. Tennyson was much of a musician, as all true poets must be, and rhyme and rhythm were prime factors in his equation. What wonder that he brought them out in his readings? Thomas Moore mentally sang his lines as he wrote them, and Poe has borne witness to the efficacy of the same method. A song must sing itself, else nobody will sing it.

"I HOPE TO MEET MY PILOT FACE TO FACE."

Lord Tennyson had many homes during his long life, but the most familiar was in the Isle of Wight. Here visited him those fortunate few whom he was minded to receive. While he was gentle ordinarily, it fared not well with those curiosity seekers who intruded without invitation. He was much of an individualist, was Tennyson, and had an Englishman's sturdy belief in the inviolable right of privacy. Fame, which he held a slight thing at best, made absolutely no difference in the matter. Because he had written a few things that others liked was no reason they could invade his sanctuary. He had plenty of reserve and dignity and was master of his own castle, not only the castle of his home, but that of his personality.

He was the poet to the last. He may have become more of a pessimist in his old age, but lost none of his power or genius. His last song, written but a short time before his death, at the age of eighty-three, is one of his sweetest.

I hope to meet my Pilot face to face
When I have crost the bar.

So it ended, and so ended one of the noblest voices that have ever made melody on the earth.

Horses In Pantaloons.

"Equine sunbonnets are very well," said a veterinary, "but what would you say to equine trousers? You'll see them in Guayaquil. There the mosquitoes and greenhead flies are so thick that horses and donkeys, unless their legs are cased in cloth, become unmanageable with the pain. Guayaquil is in Ecuador. It is directly under the equator. The heat there is insufferable. Up and down its narrow and foul smelling streets in bluish clouds of buzzing insects walk horses and donkeys in sunbonnets and pantaloons."—New Orleans Times-Democrat.

AN INTERESTING SUIT.

Lansing, Mich.,—Senator Fred C. Wetmore of Cadillac, who was recently appointed judge of probate for Wexford county by Gov. Warner, has been compelled to go to court in order to see if he is eleglible to draw his salary.

The suit is of a friendly nature, but County Clerk Felix Flynn refuses to issue an order for the new judge to draw his salary, holding that Judge Wetmore was a member of the legislature and that he was ineligible to draw another salary for holding another state office. As a result Judge Wetmore will mandamus the clerk to show cause why he should not pay his salary.

Judge Wetmore holds he is a county official while the clerk holds he is a state official. It is very likely that the case will not be settled until it has been taken to the supreme court.

ECZEMA CURABLE: PROVEN!

Attorney at Moline, Ill., Convinced by Oil of Wintergreen Compound.

There is nothing that will convince a lawyer except evidence.

Now, here is some rather startling evidence of a simple home cure for eczema which convinced one lawyer, F. C. Entriken, attorney at Moline, Ill. He tells how oil of wintergreen compound mixed with thymol and glycerine, as in D. D. D. Prescription, cured him in 30 days after 33 years of suffering.

"For 33 years," writes Attorney Entriken, "I was troubled with eczema, scabs all over my face, body and head. I could run a hair brush over my body and the floor would be covered with scales enough to fill a basket. I tried everything—salves, internal medicine, X-Ray—all without result."

"Just a month ago I was induced to try D. D. D. Prescription. The itch was relieved instantly; so I continued. It is just a month now and I am completely cured. I have not a particle of itch and the scales have dropped off."

"I can only say again cure discovered. I am now starting all eczema sufferers on the right track."

Cure after cure has been brought to our attention and always that instant relief from the awful itch.

OBITUARY.

Elizabeth McElroy was born in Antrim Co., Ireland, Nov., 6 1870, and died at North Adams, Mich, June 30, 1909.

At the age of ten she came to America with her parents and settled near Tecumseh, Mich. Here she united with the Presbyterian church at the age of fourteen, and soon commenced the work for which they will be long remembered as an angel of mercy seeking the lost and bringing them to Jesus the Good Shepherd. For ten years she was connected with the Central Presbyterian church in Detroit, during which time she was actively engaged in Christian work, especially in a Mission on Russell St., of which she was the founder. She was also president of the Christian Endeavor society for several years. This mission grew under her leadership until a church was organized and an edifice erected, on the corner of which was put her name with others of note.

She, for several years, visited and held relgious services in the jail on Sunday mornings. Many persons were blessed under her teachings and influence. These tendencies to Evangelism may be attributed largely to the fact that she was brought up in a Christian home, where both father and mother set her an example of piety and devotion to the Savior.

On Nov. 27, 1902, she was united in marriage to David Watson of North Adams. There in the home, society and the Methodist church of which she was quite an honored member and efficient worker, she gave evidence of excellent qualities of mind and heart, which endeared her to all who knew her. Her death brings sorrow to a large circle of friends and acquaintances.

The funeral was held at her late home on Friday, July 2, at 2:30 p. m., Rev. Geo. A. Odlum officiating, Mr. Geo. A. Erskine of Detroit, an intimate friend of Mrs. Watson, sang with great tenderness and power both in the house and at the grave.

In addition to a large concourse of neighbors who gathered out of love the following relatives and friends were there: Mr. and Mrs. John McElroy and daughter Florence, of Holloway; Hugh and May McElroy of Tecumseh, Mr. and Mrs. Edward A. Smith and son of Adrian; Earl and Clarence Watson, Geo. A. Erskine and sister, Mrs. Flero, of Detroit.

The mortal remains rest in hope in the local cemetery awaiting the call of Him who said "I am the resurrection and the life." To her family she is not dead. "That gentle spirit called influence will live forever."

Her infant son, Hugh Gorden, whose advent she looked forward for with a holy joy, and for whom she gave her life, remains to comfort the broken hearted father, and the two brothers, Earl and Clarence.

The state forestry reserve of 40,000 acres in Gladwin and Roscommon counties was examined during the past week by Secretary of State Martindale, Junius E. Beal and Secretary Carton of the new public domain commission. They will endeavor to ascertain the conditions of the reserve and in order to facilitate their work will employ a timber expert to determine the value of the timber on the reserve.

Life is a good deal of a puzzle, but if we were more resolute in our determination to enrich it by worthy service than we are in our desire to solve its mysteries we should be happier. If we put more into it we should get more out of it.—Epworth Herald.

Logs are now being delivered to the mills at the rate of 150,000 feet daily at a profit of $6.00 per thousand feet; $900 per day, or $300,000 per year. These are facts, not estimates. The Company will market 300,000 feet daily next year—figure for yourself what the profits will be. At this rate it would take twenty-five years to cut the timber.

If you are interested in learning how money is made from operation in Timber, write us for copies of the reports as they come from Camp.

Despite the "howl" that Michigan is broke, state employes welcomed the "walking of the ghost" as usual on the fifteenth, the good old state is not being trusted for postage stamps and incidental expenses are being met as usual. Besides, quite a sum of money was received during the week and the only hardship will be to the state institutions until the taxes come in when there will be ample to pay all indebtedness. The biggest wail of Michigan being broke is being put up by a few newspapers which evidently want to fill space rather than use "boiler" plate,

MEDICAL SOCIETY

LENAWEE MEETING HELD AT DEVILS LAKE TUESDAY.

Instructive and interesting papers were read.

The Lenawee County Medical Society met at Devil's Lake Tuesday, for their annual outing. Invitations were issued to physicians from away, and with the members of the society about 75 with their wives responded. Visitors were present from Jackson, Indiana, Detroit and Toledo. A delightful dinner was served at McUmber's Hall, after which an excellent program was rendered.

Dr. E. N. Palmer president of the Jackson county society gave the address of welcome. Dr. J. Metzger of Toledo read a very interesting paper on Treatment of Birthmarks by frozen Carbon Di-Oxide. Dr. Metzger had with him a little girl, whose face had been nearly covered with a birthmark, and whom he had been treating. The scar now is almost entirely invisible, only a small portion of it showing on the little one's face. Dr. T. S. Langford of Jackson read a paper on the Early Control of Eye Defects in Children, which was very interesting. Dr. Herschner of Detroit, Dr. Bulson of Jackson, Dr. C. N. Smith and Dr. Geo. M. Todd of Toledo made short and witty speeches interspersed with humorous stories, that were greatly enjoyed.

The Tecumseh people, Dr. and Mrs North, Dr. and Mrs. Hardy and Dr. and Mrs. Conklin arrived home about 8 o'clock, the four Toledo doctors who were in attendance at the meeting stopped off here, and visited the nickle theatres. They left for Toledo at 9:25.

I. Hurwitz & Co. of Cleveland, O., the new proprietors.

HAVE TAKEN POSSESSION.

On Wednesday, T. C. Harris, successor to Harris & Hiteshu, sold his entire stock of dry goods and shoes to I. Hurwitz & Co. of Cleveland. The firm consists of Messrs. Hurwitz, M. Regar A. Rosenzweig and G. Krohn. They have branch stores in Cleveland, Tiffin and Belleville. Mr. Harris came to Tecumseh with Calvin Hiteshue 22 years ago, bringing a stock of goods from Fremont, O., and occupying the Bidwell block. Since the death of Mr. Hiteshue about two years ago, Mr. Harris has continued in the business alone, but on account of poor health has decided that a change must be made. The firm has always been successful, giving their customers at all times a square deal. It is the intention of the new firm to maintain the reputation of the store. Mr. Rosenzweig of the firm, is in Tecumseh at present, taking charge of the store.

SUDDEN DEATH

WILLIAM MONTAGUE, A PROSPEROUS FARMER OF RAISIN TOWNSHIP.

Died Wednesday evening after a few hours illness.

William Montague, a prosperous farmer of Raisin township, died at his home Wednesday night after only a few hours illness. Mr. Montague was taken ill during the forenoon and Dr. Stephenson of Adrian was called who pronounced the trouble summer grip. Soon after the doctor's departure Mr. Montague was taken worse and died in a short time. Beside a wife and two sons, deceased leaves a sister, Mrs. D. H. Chase of this place to mourn his departure.

The subject of our sketch was born in Union county, Pa., and after the death of his father, with his mother, two brothers and one sister, came to Michigan. He remained with his mother for a number of years.

On December 22, 1869, in Raisin township, Mr. Montague married Miss Lydia Southworth, who was a native of Raisin township, and had been educated in the Raisin Valley Seminary.

In 1870 Mr. Montague purchased the farm where his death occurred, and where he has achieved considerable reputation as a grower of small fruits and vegetables. In this business he has been very successful.

The funeral was held from the home today at 2 o'clock, Rev. Kamm of the Baptist church officiating.

Both sons, Paul A. and J. Herbert Montague arrived home from Flint, Thursday.

HER LIFE IN DANGER

If you have catarrh or weak lungs read this carefully.

"Some five years ago I was taken with a bad attack of bronchitis. I was affected with a bronchial cough and cold. The cough was very bad at night and I would wake up choking and gasping for breath and there seemed to be a terrible stoppage in my throat and tubes.

My throat was tender and irritable and had an aching sensation which was especially bad at times. I doctored and used several different remedies but never received any permanent relief that kept the malady from coming on until I used Hyomei. This remedy which to me is certainly infallible, cured me and to it I ascribe the cause of my being alive.

Hyomei certainly saved my life and I accord it the credit it deserves. There is nothing too strong for me to say of Hyomei."—Mrs. Ada Hopkins, 8 Cutter Ave., Coldwater, Mich.

Hyomei (pronounced High-o-me) is breathed into the lungs through a hard rubber inhaler and this soothing antiseptic air as it passes over the inflamed membrane soothes the inflammation, kills the microbes and cures catarrh.

Complete Hyomei outfit $1.00, including inhaler, extra bottles 50 cents at C. A Wright & Son, who guarantee it.

Better than Pills for Liver Ills.

FOR SALE BY B. J. BULVER, TECUMSEH, MICH.

A failing tiny nerve—no larger than the finest silken thread—takes from the Heart its impulse, its power its regularity The stomach also has its hidden, or inside nerve. It was Dr. Shoop who first told us it was wrong to drug a weak or failing stomach, heart or kidneys. His prescription—Dr. Shoop's Restorative—is directed straight for the cause of these ailments—these weak and faltering inside nerves This no doubt clearly explains why the Restorative has of late grown so rapidly in popularity. Druggists say that those who test the Restorative even for a few days soon become fully convinced of its wonderful merit. Anyway, don't drug the organ. Treating the cause of sickness is the only sensible and successful way. Sold by all dealers.

ONLY ONE BEST.

Tecumseh people give credit where credit is due.

People of Tecumseh, who suffer with sick kidneys and bad backs want a kidney remedy that can be depended upon. The best is Doan's Kidney Pills, a medicine for the kidneys only, made from pure roots and herbs and the only one that is backed by cures in Tecumseh. Here's Tecumseh testimony:

Mrs. Jeanette Teachout, Oneida St., Tecumseh, Mich., says: "I again take pleasure in recommending Doan's Kidney Pills to persons afflicted with kidney trouble. Last fall my kidneys began to bother me and I suffered from pains in the small of my back extending into my shoulders. When I stooped, sharp twinges seized me and for a few seconds I was unable to straighten. The frequent passages of the kidney secretions annoyed me greatly and the doctor seemed unable to give me any relief. Doan's Kidney Pills were so highly spoken of, that I procured a box and began their use. I was so greatly relieved that I continued taking this remedy until the pains disappeared." (Statement given on Dec. 10, 1906.)

On Sept. 5, 1908, Mrs. Teachout added to the above: "I still use Doan's Kidney Pills at times and they always bring the best of results. I feel justified in recommending Doan's Kidney Pills to other kidney sufferers."

Else Strikers at Butler, Pa., Will Not Return to Work.

Butler, Pa., July 22.—Despite the assurances of the officials of the Standard Steel Car company, through Father Raczewski, that as soon as conditions warranted an increase in wages would be granted its employes, the striking workmen at the plants of the car company, the Butler Wheel company and the Standard Forged Wheel company, have voted to remain idle until their employers signed a written agreement granting them immediate increases in wages and refunds on back rentals of company houses.

As the state constabulary has left Butler for Newcastle, the situation assumes a serious aspect for the local authorities, as less than a score of police are available.

The car company officials declare themselves disgusted with the action of the strikers, who for the most part are foreigners.

One of Shaw's Criticisms.

"Before fame came to him," said a playwright, "that great rival of mine, George Bernard Shaw, wrote theatrical criticisms for the London Saturday Review. Now, those were criticisms indeed. Nobody could praise a good play so beautifully as this critic. Nobody could roast a bad play so tellingly. Listen. Here is a sample."

And the playwright read:

"I am in a somewhat foolish position concerning a play at the Opera Comique, whither I was bidden this day week. For some reason I was not supplied with a program, so that I never learned the name of the play. At the end of the second act the play had advanced about as far as an ordinary dramatist would have brought it five minutes after the first rising of the curtain, or, say, as far as Ibsen would have brought it ten years before that event. Taking advantage of the second interval to stroll out into the Strand for a little exercise, I unfortunately forgot all about my business and actually reached home before it occurred to me that I had not seen the end of the play. Under these circumstances it would ill become me to dogmatize on the merits of the work or its performance. I can only offer the management my apologies."

Why the Whistle Howled.

Passenger (on branch line)—Say, why does the engine always set up such a piteous howl at this particular spot? Guard—Ah! It was here the engineer first met his wife.—Kansas City Journal.

The Finale.

"It seems to me," said the Indian chief as he watched the white man's encroachments, "that all my property very soon will be a mental reservation."—Judge.

Chinese Filial Piety.

The following Chinese story illustrates the national regard for filial piety: A man and his wife maltreated the husband's mother. As a punishment the scene of the act was openly cursed, the active agents were put to death, and the mother of the wife was bamboozed, branded and exiled for her daughter's crime. The house in which the offenders lived was dug up from the foundations. Moreover, the scholars of the district were precluded from attending public examinations, and even the magistrates were deprived of their offices. These drastic measures were designed to render the empire filial.

Value of Laughter.

"Having vainly tried many and various remedies to restore to health a business man whom I know and who had fallen into a morbid condition owing to years of overwork, a famous Baltimore physician at last persuaded his patient to take a course of funny stories, one at each meal, with an extra two at dinner," said a Baltimore man. "The patient, a solemn and gloomy fellow, at first rebelled, but finally, falling in with the idea, adopted the course recommended and was in the end restored to health, the effect of laughter being entirely to change his mental and bodily condition. Laughter, in fact, is one of the cheapest and most effective of medicines, breaking up stagnation of mind and body and sending a healthy vibration through one's system. There is very little the matter with the man who can enjoy a hearty laugh."—Nashville Tennessean.

Taunting Him.

It was housecleaning time, and Mr. Stubb was removing the dusty pictures from the walls. The frames slipped, the stepladder creaked ominously, and the perspiration rolled from Mr. Stubb's brow. In the humor to bite a nail in half, he turned and discovered Mrs. Stubb laughing.

"That's it!" he roared as the stepladder swayed. "Laugh and show your gold teeth."

And still she laughed.

"Do you think there is anything funny in my moving these pictures?" he spluttered in fiery tones.

"No, indeed, John," said Mrs. Stubb soothingly; "but, you know, you look so funny it looks like a moving picture show."

Then Mr. Stubb swallowed a pint of dust and simply fumed.—Chicago News.

Wrong Diagnosis.

A song with the title "There's a Sigh In the Heart" was sent by a young man to his sweetheart, but the paper fell into the hands of the girl's father, a very unsentimental physician, who exclaimed:

"What wretched, unscientific stuff is this? Who ever heard of such a case?"

He wrote on the outside:

"Mistaken diagnosis; no sigh in the heart possible. Sighs relate almost entirely to the lungs and diaphragm!"

Laxative for Women Free

There is a great difference in the purposes to which a laxative should be put. Tablets and pills, salts, etc., are usually violent purgatives or cathartics, and altogether too powerful for the average person.

A woman at all times needs only a mild laxative—in fact, none other is needed by anyone, weak or strong though they may be, for the object is simply to move the bowels, and if a gentle laxative will do it, what is the use of a violent cost?

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin has earned a well-deserved vogue among women and children and old folks—people who must necessarily be careful of what they take. It is a liquid laxative tonic and admittedly the greatest stomach, liver and bowel remedy before the American people. The price is only 50 cents or $1 a bottle, as it comes in both sizes, and all druggists sell it. Its pleasant taste and gentle action make it an ideal remedy for women in constipation, torpid liver, sour stomach, sick headache, heartburn and such like digestive complaints. Its use for a short time will remove the trouble entirely so that future medication will be unnecessary. Its tonic properties build up the stomach and intestinal muscles so that they act naturally again. That this is so is the experience of many heads of families, like Mrs. Brannan, of Alvarado, Va., Mrs. R. L. Stout, of Louisville, Ky., and numerous others; in fact, way out in Williams, Cal., as Mrs. J. E. Blackmore, of that place, writes, the whole town seems to be using it.

If the remedy is new to you and you want to make a trial of it before buying, send your name to the doctor's address as below and a free test bottle will be sent you. Then, if results are satisfactory you can buy it of your druggist.

If there is anything about your ailment that you don't understand, or if you want any medical advice, write to the doctor, and he will answer you fully. There is no charge for this service. The address is Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 500 Caldwell bldg., Monticello, Ill.

Miss Lulu Palmer entertained a company of 80 friends at her home Tuesday evening in honor of her 13th birthday. A dainty lunch was served. She was presented with a fine bracelet and other gifts.

Miss Zellah Halsted of Syracuse, N. Yi, is visiting her cousin, Miss Fern DePuy.

Word comes from Dundee that Mrs. Susan Ball is very low at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Caswell.

Tuesday while working with the hay C. L. Lowe was struck on the breast with a hay fork which was drawing hay from the load causing quite a gash, though it is hoped it is not serious.

Indigestion

Stomach trouble is but a symptom of, and not in itself a true disease. We think of Dyspepsia, Heartburn, and Indigestion as real diseases, yet they are symptoms only of a certain specific nerve sickness—nothing else.

It was this fact that first correctly led Dr. Shoop to the creation of that now very popular Stomach Remedy—Dr. Shoop's Restorative. Going direct to the stomach nerves, alone brought that success and it was to Dr. Shoop and his Restorative. Without that original and highly vital principle, no such lasting accomplishments were ever to be had.

For stomach distress, bloating, biliousness, bad breath and sallow complexion, try Dr. Shoop's Restorative—Tablets or Liquid—and see for yourself what it can and will do. We sell and cheerfully recommend

An Indignant Beggar.

Flashing a roll of bills in the face of a haughty individual who had refused to give him alms and who had added further insults to this injury by heaping ridicule upon him, a very typical beggar at Coyoacan pulled off a stunt that brought down jeers upon the uncharitable young man. This beggar would have passed muster anywhere for one of the finished type and could safely have walked unarmed at midnight through a wilderness infested with thieves without his poverty once being questioned. There was not a whole thread in the warp and woof of his shirt that extended from seam to seam, and only an expert sartorial artist could have detected which openings were those originally made in the garment for putting it on and off. Just what portion of those rags was solid and strong enough to retain the roll of bills is a marvelous enigma.—Mexican Herald.

A Test of Friendship.

Just before Artemus Ward's death Robertson poured out some medicine and offered it to the sick man, who said, "My dear Tom, I won't take any more of that horrible stuff."

Robertson urged him to swallow the mixture, saying: "Do, now—there's a dear fellow—for my sake. You know I would do anything for you."

"Would you?" said Ward feebly, grasping his friend's hand for the last time.

"I would indeed," said Robertson.

"Then you take it."

Ward passed away a few hours afterward.—"Recollections of the Bancrofts."

A Great Career Ahead.

"Are you the professor?"

"Yes, sir. What can I do for you?"

"I have a daughter and I'd like to know what it will cost me to have her taught to sing. I think she will become a great operatic star if her voice is properly trained."

"Does she seem to have extraordinary gifts as a vocalist?"

"Well, no; we haven't noticed that her vocal gifts are out of the ordinary, but nobody seems to be able to manage her."—Chicago Record-Herald.

Freaks of Figures.

Some person of a mathematical turn of mind has discovered that the multiplication of 987654321 (which, you will observe, are simply the figures 1 to 9, inclusive, reversed) by 45 gives 44,444,444,445. Reversing the order of the digits and multiplying 123456789 by 45 we get a result equally curious—viz, 5,555,555,505. If we take 123456789 as the multiplicand and, interchanging the figures in 45 so as to make them read 54, use the last number as a multiplier the result will be 6,666,666,606. Returning to the multiplicand 987654321 and taking 54 as the multiplier again, the result will be 53,333,333,334, all threes except the first and last figures, which together read 54, the multiplier. Taking the same multiplicand and 27, the half of 54, as the multiplier, the product is 26,666,666,667, all 6's except the first and last figures, which together read 27, the multiplier. Now interchanging the order of the figures 27 and using 72 instead as a multiplier and 987654321 as the multiplicand we get as a product 71,111,111,112, all ones except the first and last figures, which together read 72, the multiplier.

ALMOST MOB THE UMPIRE

Twenty Hurt During Melee at Ball Park in Jackson.

ROTTEN DECISIONS ALLEGED

Angered Crowd Sought to Do Injury to Umpire Eldridge—Police Succeed in Spiriting Him Away—Fans Received Injuries When Railing Broke and They Fell Twelve Feet.

Jackson, Mich., July 26.—As the result of a riot at the Southern Michigan league baseball park Sunday afternoon fifteen or twenty persons were injured, several seriously.

Following what the audience, which filled the grandstand and bleachers and much of the available space between, considered rotten decisions on the part of the umpire, C. E. Eldridge, at the conclusion of a one to nothing game between Jackson and Adrian teams, the local nine losing, the crowd made a rush for Eldridge. A number of policemen hastened to protect the umpire, but despite their efforts he was struck by cushions and fists of maddened spectators before the players and officers finally rescued him.

Eldridge was chased from the park to a street car, which was taken possession of by the mob, the trolley being pulled from the wire in efforts to get possession of the umpire, protected by the police, who assumed a menacing attitude. Not until Eldridge was safely in his room at his hotel, about two miles from the ball park, did the mob disperse, and even then police guarded the entrance to the hotel, fearing a further attack.

Railing Gave Way.

When the excitement at the park was at its height, the railing of the grandstand gave way, precipitating fifteen or twenty persons to the ground below, a distance of twelve feet. All were more or less hurt, as were several who were standing below.

The most serious of the number injured are Alderman John E. McGraw, right leg broken in two places, and otherwise bruised; Thomas Seaman, injured internally, condition very serious; Howard Frank, ligaments of right arm and left leg torn and body terribly bruised; Frank Hodges, a finger almost severed, and cut and bruised; Charles Keiser's hands were lacerated.

A negress fell the entire distance of twelve feet, but got up and walked away.

STARVED TO DEATH.

Believed Unknown Man Met Such Fate in Detroit.

Detroit, Mich., July 26.—The body of a man, apparently about sixty years old, was found in the back yard of W. H. Williams, 22 Blackstone avenue. The discovery was made by Williams, who went to the pump and found the body stretched across the platform. It is believed that the man died of starvation, as a post-mortem revealed that no food had entered his stomach in days. He evidently went to the pump for a drink and collapsed.

Coroner Bennett was called and had the body taken to the county morgue. The man was dressed very poorly, and nothing was found on him to show who he was.

HER BABE DIES.

Mother Sought to Support Little One by Working in Field.

Saginaw, Mich., July 26.—The seven-month-old daughter of Mrs. Louise Ruisewicz is dead, revealing a story of wife desertion and the efforts of a mother to provide for two babies that has moved this city to sympathy.

A month ago the husband deserted his wife. She started work in a sugar beet field, laboring like a man to earn support for the baby and a three-year-old daughter. The baby died from want of care. The last penny the mother earned was spent for medicine.

Found Her Body in Woods.

Ann Arbor, Mich., July 26.—While gathering ferns, Dr. Charles Newcomer ran across the badly decomposed body of a woman in the woods. With this discovery the mystery surrounding the disappearance of Emelia Koenig is solved, for the body found is that of the unfortunate German woman who disappeared from her friends' home two weeks ago.

Raise Cash For Exhibit.

Muskegon, Mich., July 26.—A campaign will shortly be inaugurated by the Western Michigan Development association to raise a fund of $35,000 in the eleven counties of western Michigan that belong to the association to assist in meeting the expenses of the exhibit of the products of that section which will be made in the land and irrigation exposition at the Chicago Coliseum the last week of November.

No Accent.

Many stories are told of a former Canadian bishop who had passed his youth in Scotland, but flattered himself that not a hint of his origin could be gained from his speech or manner.

One day he met a Scotchman, to whom he said at last abruptly, "Hoo lang hae ye been here?"

"Aboot sax years," was the reply.

"Hoot, mon!" said the bishop sharply. "Why hae ye na lost yer accent, like myse'f?"

It Didn't Work.

"I haven't anything fit to wear," she said.

"Neither have I," he replied. "Let's stay at home."

Taken up thus, there was nothing for her to do but hurry and get ready.—Buffalo Express.

ALDRICH AND PAYNE ANGERED

Bitter Words Pass Over Tariff Schedule.

SQUABBLE IS OVER HIDES.

Senator Sought to Compel Vote on Motion to Make Them Dutiable at 7 1-2 Per Cent—Called House Leader "Obstinate"—Taft Puts in Busy Sunday—Sticks to Free Hides Demand.

Washington, July 26.—Bitter words between Senator Aldrich and Representative Payne just before the close of an hour's session of the tariff conferees last night are reported to have followed an attempt on the part of the former to compel a vote on a motion to make hides dutiable at 7 1-2 per cent, half of the existing rate. The session was adjourned until 2:30 p. m. today.

From the variety of reports concerning the incident, none of which can be confirmed unqualifiedly, it appears that the senate leader was angered by frequent statements made by the house leader that the country and the president were in sympathy in the action of the house in putting hides on the free list and that he did not purpose to be governed by what a majority of the conferees though about the question.

Mr. Aldrich is reported to have upbraided Mr. Payne for his "obstinacy" and to have said that he was "tired of dictatorial methods."

The story of the intense feeling exhibited leaked out through confidences given by conferees to other members of congress.

Washington, July 26.—Sunday saw no cessation of President Taft's tariff activities. His conferences with house and senate leaders covered practically the entire day. Even the customary Sunday afternoon ride through the parks was cancelled.

Although he admitted frankly to several of his callers that the situation was not all that could be desired, the president expressed the hope that another twenty-four hours would suffice to straighten out the tangle in the conference and that the report of the conferees would be presented in the house on Tuesday. It further is hoped at the White House that the report will be accompanied by a definite plan of action which will be acquiesced in by the house and senate and that congress may adjourn by the last of the week.

President Taft, it was learned, has not receded in any way from his demand for free hides. Just how the boot, shoe and finished leather schedules in the tariff bill are to be revised, when there are no differences between the house and senate for the conferees to act upon, was one of the puzzling subjects under discussion at the White House Sunday. It can definitely be stated that the president's chief concern now is as to hides. The other schedules apparently are being worked into acceptable shape.

GUESTS OF REIDS.

King and Queen of England Visit Ambassador's Country Home.

Silzoe, Eng., July 26.—The royal standard floats over Ambassador Reid's residence at Wrest park, and the precincts are the center of attraction for the country people, who come from miles around.

The king and queen, with the American ambassador and Mrs. Reid and several of the other guests, attended services at Silzoe church Sunday morning and received an ovation. A guard of honor, composed of several corps of boy scouts from neighboring villages, was drawn up outside the church and saluted the party when it entered.

Thousands of spectators, many of whom came on bicycles, crowded about the church and swarmed on fences and trees, cheering the king.

DEATH BEAT HIM.

Old Man Died While Preparing to Commit Suicide.

Philadelphia, July 26.—Sudden death prevented John P. Rodel, aged sixty-seven years, from committing suicide. After climbing on a barrel, tying a noose about his neck and attaching the end of the rope to a spike in the wall, he died from heart disease. His body was found on the barrel, with the noose hanging loosely about the neck.

GIVES BIRTH TO FIVE.

Quintet Born to Newark (N. J.) Parents Fail to Live.

Newark, N. J., July 26.—Mrs. Thomas Renwick, thirty-five years old, and already the mother of three children, has given birth to five infants, four living and perfectly formed, though very weak, the fifth malformed and dead. None lived more than fifteen minutes. Twins are said to run in her mother's family.

Labor Demonstration.

London, July 26.—A huge demonstration by the organized labor party was held in Trafalgar square Sunday to protest against the visit of the emperor of Russia to Great Britain.

Run Over Him.

"Oh, Mrs. Smith, do you know that your son Billy has been run over by a train?"

"Oh, dear, dear! My poor boy! Whatever shall I do? Where did it happen?"

"Underneath the railway arch. Billy's standing there now!"—London Telegraph.

Not In His Line.

"They tell me," said the new reporter, who was doing an interview, "that you have succeeded in forging your way to the front."

"Sir," replied the self made man coldly, "you have been misinformed. I'm no forger."

TWO PRISONERS GET OUT JACKSON

Men in Hospital Saw Bars and Escape.

Jackson, Mich., July 26.—The hospital ward of the state prison was the scene of a daring escape between 12 and 1 o'clock in the morning, when Arthur Noyes and Patrick Sullivan, sentenced from Grand Rapids for burglary, cut the window bars and by an ingenius use of a short rope lowered themselves three stories to the ground. The country in every direction is being searched.

Noyes was a patient in the hospital and Sullivan was the night nurse. In some way they secured a small saw and cut a hole in the bars large enough for one man to crawl through. The saw, it is believed, was smuggled to them from the shops.

Noyes had served five years of an interdeterminate sentence of from five to fifteen years, and Sullivan was "doing" a straight sentence of fifteen years.

She left a note addressed to her husband, telling him of her love for him, but there was nothing mentioned in it regarding her intention to end her life.

Tiger Mangles Him.

New York, July 26.—Mogul, a Bengal tiger at Coney Island, attacked his trainer, Henry Falkendorth, during a performance and injured him so badly that small hope is held out for his recovery.

TWO MEN DROWN.

Weeds Prevented Marshall Fishermen From Saving Themselves.

Marshall, Mich., July 26.—The mill pond of the Kalamazoo river, three-quarters of a mile southeast of this city, has just been the scene of a double drowning that took the lives of two of Marshall's well known young men.

James Comstock, Jr., and Benjamin Curtis were returning from a fishing excursion and were about to put their boat away when Curtis suggested that he try a new kind of casting bait that he had not used in the day's outing.

Curtis hauled the line in several times, then it caught in his trousers. He reached over to extract it, and Comstock became overbalanced and fell out of the boat, upsetting the craft.

The weeds are very thick at the spot, which is sixty feet from the shore, and both men were drowned floundering about in the weeds.

Young Boy Is Missing.

Cadillac, Mich., July 26.—Ira White, a twelve-year-old boy living near Millersville, is missing from his home. He was set at work Tuesday morning hoeing corn, but when towards night his sister went to call him he was not to be found.

FLIES ACROSS THE CHANNEL

French Aviator Makes First Trip From Calais to Dover.

STOLE MARCH ON RIVALS

Makes Flight in Early Morning Hours. Kept His Machine About 250 Feet Above Sea—Wins $5,000 Prize—Is First to Cross Water Separating France and England.

Dover, July 26.—This sleepy seaport town has just experienced the keenest thrill it has known in a generation. At sunrise a white winged, bird-like machine, with loudly humming motors, swept out from the haze obscuring the sea toward the distant French coast and, circling twice above the high, chalky cliffs of Dover, alighted on English soil. A calm Frenchman, Louis Bleriot, a portly and red moustached man of thirty-seven, descended from the saddle, limped on a bandaged foot which had been burned on a previous overland flight. Immediately two compatriots, who had been waving a big tri-color flag as a signal for the landing place, fell upon him enthusiastically, embracing him, shouting and pounding him on the back. They, with a few soldiers and others who happened by chance to be on the scene, were the only persons to witness the finish of a most remarkable feat.

M. BLERIOT.

Bleriot crossed the channel in his monoplane, one of the smallest monoplanes ever used. He crossed the channel in a little less than a half an hour, twice as swiftly as the fastest mailboat. His speed averaged more than forty-five miles an hour, sometimes it approximated sixty miles. He kept about 250 feet above the sea level, and for ten minutes, while about mid-channel, was out of sight of both coasts and the French torpedo destroyer which followed him, with his wife and friends aboard.

By his achievement Bleriot won the prize of $5,000 offered by the London Daily Mail for the first flight across the English channel and stole a march on his rivals, Hubert Latham and Count de Lambert, both of whom had hoped to make the attempt.

Calais, France, July 26.—Beliroit's feat has aroused the most intense enthusiasm in aeronautic circles, where the achievement is regarded as a well earned victory for daring. The French Aero club and the parliamentary aviation commission telegraphed their congratulations, the latter added: "Hosannah, for the peace of the world."

Bleriot is one of the oldest and most popular of aviators in France and is the winner of the Osiris prize of $20,000, in conjunction with Gabriel Voisin, the aeroplane manufacturer, for their contributions to the progress of aviation. Only Saturday he was decorated with the legion of honor. He is a graduate of a celebrated technical school of France.

WRIGHT PLEASED.

Had Predicted Bleriot Would Be First to Cross Channel.

Washington, July 26.—On the eve of making an aeroplane flight involving greater dangers than Bleriot risked in crossing the English channel, Orville Wright expressed great pleasure when he learned the success of the Frenchman.

"I have said all along that Bleriot would be the first to make the flight across the channel once he decided to attempt it," said Mr. Wright. "It was a great flight," he added.

That it was a personal triumph for Bleriot, however, rather than any indication of advancement in the art of flying was Wright's idea of the significance of the accomplishment. He spoke admiringly of Bleriot, saying he was one of the most daring of all aviators.

The Wrights are loath to discuss the comparative merits of the work and the aeroplanes of others. They take great pride in their own machine and believe that it surpasses all others.

Orville Wright's official speed trial, which is expected to take place at Fort Myer this week, is regarded here as decidedly more perilous and in some respects more difficult than Bleriot's channel flight.

The Loafer.

"Does the new office boy loaf or make mischief?"

"Loafs."

"Discharge him. We can direct a mischievous lad's efforts into some useful channel, but we can't do anything with a loafer."—Buffalo Express.

Bobby's Query.

"Father," asked little Bobby, "had Solomon 700 wives?"

"I believe so, my boy," said the father.

"Well, father, was he the man who said, 'Give me liberty or give me death?'"—Royal Magazine.

Men must sail while the wind serveth.—Dutch Proverb.

CUPID VERSUS HER ART.

After the Explanation the Studio Plans Were Abandoned.

By HELEN J. WOOD.

"See here, Connie, I can't go a step farther. If you want to carry out the rest of your program for today you will have to do it by yourself. I am tired out. And here are these home papers I have been carrying around all morning without even a chance to glance in them."

Mrs. Curwin emphasized her remarks by sinking down on one of the benches in front of the Pavillon des Arts Industrieux. Soon she was buried in her papers, quite forgetful of foreign surroundings.

One glance at the daughter showed that she was the general of the little exploring party. Filled with a determination to see everything at the exposition, she had been "personally inducting" her meek minded mother for a week. Mrs. Curwin was hankering for the allurements of the French shops, but Connie had been resolute. The exposition first and Paris afterward was her motto.

But today she was wise enough to overlook this sudden insubordination. Besides, she was tired herself. So there she sat, idly watching the stream of passing people. What contrasts in figure and costume met her eye—English, Turks, Hindoos, Japanese and, more numerous than all, Americans. Connie saw her compatriots with a thrill of pride—the girls so much more beautiful than their foreign sisters, the men so tall and broad shouldered. Oh, the American men! She would choose them every time. A tender smile parted her lips. Her mother's voice broke her reverie:

"Why, I can't believe my eyes! Well, well!" And she paused as if overcome.

Connie leaned over and read the exciting paragraph:

"Mr. and Mrs. Van Ingen announce the engagement of their daughter Maud to James Wortman Pennington of this city."

Connie started in spite of herself.

"Jim! And he never told me!"

"That's just what I'd like to know. How did he ever work it up in such a

THERE WAS NO MISTAKING HIM NOW. IT WAS JIM.

hurry? Why, we have been gone only two months, and before that he was always hanging round after you."

She fairly sputtered in her excitement, but a glance at her daughter's face calmed her. It wore the look of one stunned by the shock of a sudden blow.

"Of course," she went on more quietly, "it may have been going on for a long time. Maud is not pretty," with an admiring gaze at her own daughter, "but she is kind and pleasant. He might have done worse."

Connie had started to her feet.

"Yes, he might have done worse," she echoed. "But I shall write him a note tonight and scold him for not having told me before—me, whom he called his best friend. Now, mother, if you are determined not to see anything more today you can easily find your way home. I will follow out the program alone." And, picking up her guidebooks, she hurried off.

Mrs. Curwin gazed after her with a growing anxiety. Did Connie really care?

Meanwhile the trim little figure was hurrying down a long aisle. Her eyes passed over a kaleidoscopic succession of objects that somehow failed to make any impression on her brain. The exposition roared and flashed around her, and in her mind one train of thoughts kept repeating with a horrible persistency.

Jim engaged—her Jim! Yes, he had been her Jim, she said almost savagely; had been her best friend for ever so long. She had been coquettish and flirted with the other boys, but he had known all along, she felt sure. Had he only been flirting with her? No, no! But here he was, engaged to another girl! And then the whole miserable circuit began once more.

She came home to the pension so white and weary that her mother was alarmed, but she pleaded fatigue and went off to bed like a tired child.

Poor Mrs. Curwin was much perplexed in the days that followed. Connie seemed the usual Connie, but what had inspired the girl with this insane notion of staying in Paris to study art? She argued and scolded, but all in vain. Connie was a young person of a determined mind, and on this subject she was more than usually determined. Her mother finally resigned herself to the prospect of being an exile from her beloved native land, for, of course, where Connie stayed she had to stay, too, until Connie wearied of this latest whim. Mrs. Curwin devoutly hoped that it would be soon.

However, there was one alleviation for her misery. Connie seemed to have lost her enthusiasm over doing the exposition. She spent her time investigating art schools and studios, leaving her mother to plunge into all the delights of shopping, of which the good woman did not soon tire. To be sure, Connie might have shown a little more interest in her purchases. It was all very well to say that as an art student she would need few clothes. Mrs. Curwin knew better. Connie had always been fond of clothes, and some day she would wake up from her art dreams and find that her wardrobe was bare.

But her daughter's indifference "to her real interests" did not prevent Mrs. Curwin from entering eagerly into all her plans for the studio. If only they had brought some of their home furniture with them! Connie tried to explain patiently how out of place the heavy, elegantly upholstered pieces would be in a studio and how much more delightful it would be to pick up the necessary things one at a time in the various curio shops. This last idea was balm to her mother's ruffled feelings. It offered such infinite possibilities for shopping.

With this laudable object in view she soon became a familiar figure to all the curio dealers. Connie was usually the interpreter, but if, as often happened, she did not care to go Mrs. Curwin never lacked the courage to go alone. Each day she came home with some new treasure, and the girl had not the heart to spoil her delight by reminding her that they already had enough traps to fill two ordinary studios.

These were weary days for Connie, and yet she was too proud to confide her sufferings to her mother. What good would it do anyway to disturb that serenity? And she had had no word from Jim in answer to her note. Small wonder, for what could he say? And yet—and yet—he might have—

She had been sitting on a bench in the Jardin des Tuileries, and now she rose with a start and tried to enjoy the fountains splashing and glittering under the July sun and the pretty French children with their bonnes in peasant caps.

As she glanced down the path she saw a well dressed American looking from side to side as if in search of some one. Her heart gave a leap. He looked like— Nonsense! She was always imagining that she saw him.

The gentleman came directly toward her. There was no mistaking him now. It was Jim.

She gazed at him. Then the glad light died from her face.

"You! Here!" she said slowly.

"Just got in from New York," was the cheerful reply. "Found your mother on the Rue de Rivoli, so here I am." And he took her unresisting hand.

"You don't say you're glad to see me. That's rough when a chap comes so many miles to see you, dear."

The "dear" acted like an electric shock. Wrenching free her hand, she faced him with blazing eyes.

"You know you ought not to be here. You ought to be at Newport with Maud."

Jim seized both hands now. He had forgotten the people, forgotten everything but the white, tense face of the little American girl.

"Connie, dear, it's all a dreadful mistake, and I came over just as soon as I could arrange it to tell you the truth. It's Cousin James, from Colorado, who is engaged to Maud, and the stupid newspaper made the error. But I never guessed you'd care so much, dearest."

* * * * * * *

Mrs. Curwin found them at the pension sitting in the dusk. As usual, her arms were filled with bundles.

"Connie," she cried triumphantly, "I have found the greatest bargains for your studio—a pair of bellows and a leather cushion and"—

"Studio!" Jim interrupted. Somehow Connie had forgotten to tell him about her winter plans.

He listened to Mrs. Curwin's explanations with a smile.

"I guess we'll be making use of all these things in New York, won't we, Connie?"

And Connie smiled back a "Yes."

WIDOW JASON'S UNRULY HOGS.

The Way the Trouble Between the Neighbors Was Settled.

By PAUL CAREW.

Widow Jason was the relict of Farmer Jason, and she carried on the farm after his death with even more wisdom than he had shown himself possessed of. She was still on the brighter side of forty, fair to look upon and was at peace with all her neighbors until the one to the east of her sold out and a stranger moved in.

He was a man of middle age named Chisholm, and, being a widower, his sister managed the house for him. If the Widow Jason was one of those who wondered what sort of man he was, she was the first to find it out. Among her live stock that year were a dozen hogs, and it was the fault of her hired man that there were holes in the fence through which they made their way into the potato field of the new neighbor. She had just finished her breakfast one morning when Chisholm was announced. He had the courtesy to lift his hat and give his name, but he also had the bluntness to add:

"Madam, your infernal hogs have rooted up half an acre of potatoes for me, and if you can't manage to keep every one of 'em!"

She looked at him and saw that he was above the ordinary and felt that had she been introduced in the conventional way she would have been pleased to make his acquaintance. But his rude greeting angered her, and, being a woman with a mind of her own, she at once replied:

"I can pay for all the potatoes on your farm, and if you come here to threaten me you'll find a woman who doesn't scare!"

"Well, you keep your hogs at home."

"And you keep yourself in the same place."

That was the first tilt. The fences were mended and the hogs were in despair when a high wind blew a gate open, and the drove spent the night in the same potato field. Next morning Chisholm drove ten of them home and said to Widow Jason:

"Madam, there are dead hogs belonging to you in my field. Will you have them removed or shall I bury them?"

"You killed them, did you?" she asked.

"I did. I told you I would, and I did."

"Then I'll have the law on you."

"Go ahead."

She went to law, and there was a suit, and she was ingloriously beaten. Womanlike, she felt pretty bitter over it, but at the same time she had to give Mr. Chisholm credit for lack of any bitterness. He stated his case in the mildest manner and even spoke highly of her as a neighbor. When she returned home after the lawsuit she said to her hired man:

"Josh, if that man Chisholm comes on my land again I want you to throw him off."

"Yes'm, I'll do it," replied the sturdy Josh.

It wasn't a fortnight before Chisholm came. He was on his way to the house when Josh headed him off and ordered him back. He refused to go, and Josh laid hold of him to do the throwing act, but found himself a licked man in about three minutes. While he sat on the ground with a handful of grass to his bleeding nose the victor passed on to the woman, who had witnessed the fracas from the front steps. Lifting his hat, he said:

"Madam, those hogs of yours have been at it again—this time in my cornfield—and I've had to kill another."

"Have you dared to kill another of my hogs?" she demanded as her cheeks flamed and her eyes flashed.

"I have. Shall I bury him?"

"Sir, you are a scoundrel!"

"And you are a charming widow!"

She drove to town at once to see her lawyer. There was $10 in the case for him win or lose, and he advised her to sue. She sued and got beaten again. The defendant referred to her in the highest terms, but he also proved that her fences were out of repair. The lawyer saw $10 more in it, win or lose, and advised Josh to prosecute for assault and battery. Josh brought his swollen nose and black eye into court and was beaten by several lengths. He had provoked the encounter, and, if he had got the worst of it, the law couldn't help him.

It was a month before anything further happened. The fences around the hog lot were thoroughly repaired, and for four weeks the porkers had to make the best of their sad lot. Then Josh left the bars down one night, and as the widow was getting breakfast she heard the crack of a rifle. Half an hour later Mr. Chisholm appeared to say:

"Good morning, Mrs. Jason. Those wretched hogs of yours rooted up my garden last night, and this morning I killed another of them. If you want another lawsuit I'll drive you to town in my own buggy."

"And you—you've shot another?" she gasped.

"I have."

"Then I'd like to shoot you! You are the meanest man in the state of Ohio!"

"Yes'm," he replied, with a bow, as he turned away.

Widow Jason drove to town to consult her lawyer again. There was $10 in it for him, win or lose, but this time Mr. Chisholm was arrested for malicious persecution. In his testimony he referred to the plaintiff as "that lady" and exhibited no animus whatever, but he also proved that he was the one persecuted. The widow's hogs would not let him alone. She was beaten again, and this time a stout pen was built, and the hogs were shut up. The farmers had of course taken sides. Some contended that Chisholm had exhibited a mean and unneighborly spirit and others that the widow had been derelict in not mending her fences, and there were much talk and discussion. It occurred now and then that the two principals met on the highway or at the crossroads meeting house, but while Chisholm lifted his hat and bowed as if there was nothing on his mind the widow, except for her blazing eyes, seemed carved of stone.

That pen held the hogs for a long six weeks, but hogpens have their weak points, and patience and perseverance will seek them out. The hot sun warped a board and made an opening, and the industrious swine enlarged it until one night they all passed out and headed straight for the next farm. They fetched up among the cabbages, pumpkins, squashes, melons and carrots, and during the long hours of darkness they ran riot. They were missed from the pen early next morning, and the widow sat down on the doorstep and cried. She cried because she was vexed, and she cried because she was a woman. Every minute she expected to hear the crack of Chisholm's rifle, and she fully realized that any further appeal to the law would be wasted. She was vexed at the hogs, at Josh and at Chisholm. Her tears were still falling when the new neighbor stood before her and bowed and said:

"Mrs. Jason, those blamed hogs of yours damaged me a hundred dollars worth last night."

"And how many more have you killed?" she asked.

"None. I've just driven 'em home."

"But why—why"—

"Because I see how it is. I must either kill off your whole drove or build a pen myself. I shall come over tonight to talk to you about it."

He appeared an hour after supper, and it was 11 o'clock before he went home. Even then the "talk" was not finished. As a matter of fact, it required a great many evenings and was only concluded one winter's night when she laid her head on his shoulder and said:

"If you are really sure that you love me, then the farm, the hogs and I are yours."

A Written Opinion.

A portly and pompous man once held a commission as brigadier general of militia and a license to practice law, neither of which he had much occasion to use. He finally had a case before the supreme court and proudly hoped to see his name in the reports as counsel for the plaintiff above a long and elaborate opinion of the court.

When his case was called on opinion day he was enraged to hear the simple announcement from the bench, "Affirmed."

After the court adjourned he went to Judge McKinney, whom he knew well, and said, "Judge, I thought that the supreme court at least would obey the law."

"Wherein has the court failed?" asked the judge.

"The law requires that a written opinion be delivered in every case this court tries, and none was delivered in this case."

The judge had the rolled record brought to him and glanced at the bottom of the page. Placing his finger on the abbreviation "Aff'd," he said to the ambitious general: "See there! 'Aff'd.' Isn't that a written opinion?"

An Obstinate Maid.

Mr. Sappeigh—I wouldn't marry that Miss Gabby. She is terribly set in her ways. Mr. Softleigh—Is that so? Mr. Sappeigh—Yes, indeed. Why, she has refused me nine times! — Baltimore American.

The Treatment.

"Yes," said Mrs. Lapsling, "Johnny's all right now. When he was bitten by that strange dog I took him to a doctor's and had the wound ostrached right away."—Chicago Tribune.

OBITUARY

Mrs. Francis Tripp Eaton was born in Mooreville, Feb. 17, 1844, died in Ypsilanti July 18, 1909, of apoplexy. At the age of six years her mother died after which she lived with her father who was a practicing physician in Mooreville until his death which occurred four years later in 1854, at which time she was taken into the home of her aunt, Mrs. Hiram Day, near Ypsilanti, and her home has ever since been in or near this place excepting for short intervals during her girlhood orphanage with an aunt, Mrs. Samuel Rundell, mother of Mrs. Abner Wilson, in Franklin center, moving with them to Tecumseh where she resided a year.

Nov. 30, 1870, she was married to Ezra Eaton who died Jan. 10, 1871, six weeks later of typhoid fever. This occasion was a very sad and memorable one in this vicinity, as a brother's wife Mrs. John Eaton, died the 12th and their double funerals were held at the Eaton homestead. Many hearts were then united in love and sympathy with the young widow, who was prostrated with grief and friendships were sealed that remained through life. It was at this deathbed the Eaton parents and family took her into their hearts and home where she has ever remained a faithful member of their family. In March, 1879, she was married to his brother, Caleb Eaton, continuing to live in the Eaton home until eight years ago when they moved into their beautiful new home in this city on Hamilton street.

The afflictions of her early life, the loss of her parents and early love seemed to remain like clouds that lifted, but left their shadows to return at will, moulding her life into one of kind deeds and modest charity and her gentle quiet manner won her many dear friends.

Two years past her husband to whom she was greatly attached died suddenly with apoplexy while driving and she never recovered her usual self after the shock. It was like the clouds falling again never to rise in this life. She was a member of the Methodist church and died with hope of a life with God eternal in the heavens.

The funeral services conducted by the pastor, Rev. M. C. Hawks, were held at her late residence Tuesday afternoon. Covered with beautiful flowers surrounded by sorrowing freinds her dear form was laid to rest in their family lot in Hillside cemetery. Ypsilanti Daily.

April Snow.

A snow flurry in April is still looked upon as a blessing in some parts of New England, where plates, cups and all sorts of dishes are placed to catch the flakes. Every drop of the melted snow is carefully collected and bottled and labeled "April snow," for use as an eyewater. It was once considered an infallible cure for granulated eyelids and sties.—New York Tribune.

His wife looked up from her knitting with a bright smile.

"I suppose they steam the knots so that the poor sailors can untie them more easily," she observed tranquilly. —St. Louis Republic.

Lectured by Carlyle.

There are some amusing memories at Kylekin, in Skye, of a visit once made there by Carlyle, traveling in the train of Lady Ashburton. The Kyleakinses felt a lively curiosity concerning the distinguished author, and whenever he appeared in public he was surrounded by a crowd of admiring men, women and children who had heard sensational reports concerning his "cleverness as a scholar." Carlyle seemed to like this hero worship until those admirers clustered round him while he was in the midst of his sea bath one day. Then he assailed them in language much more emphatic than elegant, which soon made them take to their heels and scamper off with all speed out of his sight. Lady Ashburton had prayers with her daughter and servants morning and evening, but the sage was never present. During these periods, Neil MacInnes, the innkeeper, used to relate, "he would lead me to the coffee room and there, laying hold of me by the coat buttonhole, he would lecture to me for half an hour on end on all sorts of subjects, and he would be so intent on it that he wouldn't allow me to put in a word. Fancy," said Neil, "that I should be lectured to in such a way by Tommy Carlyle!"—London Standard.

Ant Hills and Flies.

A recent traveler in central Africa describes an interesting use of the soil of ant hills. It appears that it makes excellent bricks, of which houses are built. The natives tread it with water into a doughlike substance, which is shaped in rough wooden molds. It is then dried in the sun and afterward baked in native kilns. The same substance is found to make excellent tennis courts. It is mixed with water into a thick paste, spread on the ground and smoothed over with the hands. The same traveler tells us how the natives in the neighborhood of Lake Nyassa esteem a species of fly as an excellent article of diet. It is known as the "kungu" and appears to be peculiar to the lake. At certain seasons of the year these flies appear in enormous numbers and are sometimes blown in myriads over the land. If this happens near a village the natives come out eagerly to gather them up. They make them into what they consider a delicious confection.—London Standard.

Standing on His Rights.

The next witness was a hard fisted, resolute yeoman with a bristling chin beard.

"Mr. Gigson," said the attorney for the defense, "are you acquainted with the reputation of this man for truth and veracity in the neighborhood in which he lives?"

"I reckon I am," replied the witness.

"I will ask you to state what it is."

"Well, sir, his rep'tation fur vrassity—well, that's diff'runt. Some says he does and some says he don't."

"Witness," interposed the judge, "do you know the meaning of 'veracity?'"

"I reckon I do."

"What do you understand by the word?"

The witness twirled his hat in his fingers a few moments without replying. Then he looked up defiantly.

"I refuse to answer that question, judge," he said, "on the ground that it might discriminate me!"—Chicago Tribune.

"Jump Short Pie."

In a catalogue of out of the way dishes a feast of the Rev. R. H. Barham may be included. The author of "Ingoldsby Legends," his son relates, on visiting one of his parishioners was asked to dine and have some "jump short pie." He did so and made a hearty meal. "It's very nice—tastes like lamb. Why the odd name?" he asked. "Well, sir," said his host, "it is lamb. You see, the young lambs in the mesh try to get over the drains. A good many of 'em jump short, tumble in and get drowned. Then we hooks 'em out and puts 'em into a pie. Have another help, sir?" Barham declined. —London Tatler.

State Capitol Paragraphs.

A careful audit of the books of the Michigan State Prison at Jackson is being made by F. H. MacPherson, previous to the trial of the graft cases pending. The audit is being made in order to collect the shortage from ex-Warden Armstrong or his bondsmen.

Game Warden Pierce's deputies are doing some good work this year according to the reports that are coming in to the capitol. Reports show that there have been four convictions for dynamiting in Lapeer county, one at Cheboygan for having small fish and four at Escanaba for fishing without a license. Good fines were collected in most cases besides the costs.

INSTANTLY KILLED

INITIAL RIDE IN NEW AUTO FATAL.

CHAUFFEUR DWYER OF DETROIT SLIGHTLY INJURED WHEN MACHINE GOT BEYOND CONTROL.

John Hause 68 years old, a grain dealer of Clinton, was instantly killed and Chester Dwyer, of Detroit, a demonstrator, was slightly injured at 3 o'clock Monday afternoon when the automobile they were driving to Ypsilanti was struck by an express car the D., Y., A. A. & J. Division of the D. U. R.

Hause had just bought the machine, and had a receipt for $500 paid for the car in his pocket. He was driving toward Ypsilanti, with Dwyer showing him how to run the machine.

"I was leaning over to adjust the lubricator," Dwyer said after the accident, "and suddenly I felt a bump. The machine jumped. I looked up and the auto was in the middle of the track and a car coming towards us. I tried to jump, but it was too late."

Dwyer was hurled over the fence along the right-of-way, tearing off a board in his flight. He will recover.

Hause's body was badly cut. The auto was dragged 200 feet and was a total wreck.

Hause's wife was visiting in Ypsilanti when the accident occurred. James Hause, brother of the victim of the accident, arrived in Dearborn from his home in Clinton Monday night and took charge of the body.

Hause leaves a widow and one son, Claude Hause, who is 33 years old. One brother and two sisters also survive.

Justice Cady of Wayne, will hold an inquest Thursday evening.

MI-O-NA CURES

Perhaps you have read of the remarkable relief and cure that dyspeptics of Tecumseh are obtaining from Mi-o-na, the money back dyspepsia cure. Now you may be suffering from dyspepsia, either acute or chronic, and you may be skeptical in regard to the mighty curative powers of Mi-o-na. But did you ever stop to think that C. A. Wright & Son have been selling Mi-o-na for years on a money back guarantee for dyspepsia and all stomach troubles? And do you think they would continue to sell hundreds of packages monthly if Mi-o-na didn't back up the claim made for it? Try Mi-o-na at C. A. Wright & Son's risk. It relieves in 24 hours. It cures dyspepsia, sea and car sickness, vomiting of pregnancy and all stomach disorders. 50 cents for a box that will rid you of dyspepsia as well as skepticism.

"Indigestion had given me much irritation, annoyance and suffering for a long time and I was advised to try Mi-o-na and had a treatment procured. I used Mi-o-na for a time and the nausea vomiting, sourness and general stomach weakness left me, as also did the pains and distress. I can give a good recommendation to the use of Mi-o-na, as for stomach complaint, I know it to be all right." E. H. Crosby, Logan St., Tecumseh, Mich. Oct. 19, 1908.

A failing tiny nerve—no larger than the finest silken thread—takes from the Heart its impulse, its power its regularity. The stomach also has its hidden, or inside nerves. It was Dr. Shoop who first told us it was wrong to drug a weak or failing stomach, heart or kidneys. His prescription—Dr. Shoop's Restorative—is directed straight for the cause of these ailments—these weak and faltering inside nerves. This no doubt clearly explains why the Restorative has of late grown so rapidly in popularity. Druggists say that those who test the Restorative even for a few days soon become fully convinced of its wonderful merit. Anyway, don't drug the organ. Treating the cause of sickness is the only sensible and successful way. Sold by all dealers.

The average man no sooner does a kind act than he begins to feel big over it.

Everyone would be benefited by taking Foley's Orino Laxative for stomach and liver trouble and habitual constipation. It sweetens the stomach and breath, gently stimulates the liver and regulates the bowels and is much superior to pills and ordinary laxatives. Why not try Foley's Orino Laxative today? Sold by all druggists in Tecumseh.

ONLY ONE BEST.

Tecumseh people give credit where credit is due.

People of Tecumseh, who suffer with sick kidneys and bad backs want a kidney remedy that can be depended upon. The best is Doan's Kidney Pills, a medicine for the kidneys only, made from pure roots and herbs and the only one that is backed by cures in Tecumseh. Here's Tecumseh testimony:

Mrs. Jeanette Teachout, Oneida St., Tecumseh, Mich., says: "I again take pleasure in recommending Doan's Kidney Pills to persons afflicted with kidney trouble. Last fall my kidneys began to bother me and I suffered from pains in the small of my back extending into my shoulders. When I stooped, sharp twinges seized me and for a few seconds I was unable to straighten. The frequent passages of the kidney secretions annoyed me greatly and the doctor seemed unable to give me any relief. Doan's Kidney Pills were so highly spoken of, that I procured a box and began their use. I was so greatly relieved that I continued taking this remedy until the pains disappeared." (Statement given on Dec. 10, 1906.)

On Sept. 5, 1908, Mrs. Teachout added to the above: "I still use Doan's Kidney Pills at times and they always bring the best of results. I feel justified in recommending Doan's Kidney Pills to other kidney sufferers."

Not a Good Mark.

A French actor named Hyacinthe once illustrated the saying, "Discretion is the better part of valor." It was in the month of June, and a company of the national guard of which Hyacinthe was a sergeant was engaging a body of insurgents behind a barricade at the other end of a short street. One of the insurgents in particular, from a corner of the barricade, was making remarkably effective practice on the assailants. At that moment up came a general.

"We must get him to expose himself," said the general. "One of you must clamber up on top of the barricade; then, when our friend at the other end of the street shows himself to take aim, two or three of you fetch him down. Up with you, sergeant!"

"Beg your pardon, general, but perhaps, you see, an insignificant noncommissioned officer like myself may have no attraction for him, but a handsome, distinguished man like you, in that stylish and becoming uniform—he'd be more than mortal if he could resist the temptation. I'll lend you a hand, general."

A Quaint London Custom.

It is curious how few persons have noticed the ancient and quaint custom which is observed every evening during the term in the walks of the Middle Temple of sounding the call that warns members of the inn that it is time to dress for dinner in the hall at 6. The custom is as old as the Middle Temple itself, where it alone exists. At about 5:30 p. m. the warder on duty emerges from a side door of the hall with an old fashioned cow horn, richly ornamented with silver, and, commencing in Fountaincourt, blows a sustained blast on it, which he repeats in New court, Essex court, Brick court, Pump court, Elm court and at the entrance to Crown office row. The whole operation lasts about ten minutes, and when it is over the warder, who is a kind of beadle in plain livery, returns the horn to the butler's pantry. Nobody seems to take any notice of the horn blowing except small boys and ticket porters, who occasionally chaff the warder while he is engaged in his musical efforts.—Westminster Gazette.

She Was the Boiler.

Topnoody made up his mind that he was not going to be ruled any longer by his wife, so when he went home at noon he called out imperiously:

"Mrs. Topnoody, Mrs. Topnoody!"

Mrs. Topnoody came out of the kitchen, a dish rag tied round her head and a rolling pin in her hand.

"Well, sir," she said, "what'll you have?"

Topnoody staggered, but braced up.

"Jane, I want you to understand, madam," and he tapped his breast dramatically, "I am the engineer of this establishment."

"Oh, you are, are you? Well, William, I want you to understand that I," and she looked dangerous—"I am the boiler that will blow up and throw the engineer over into the next county. Do you hear the steam escaping, William?"

William heard it, and he meekly inquired if there was any assistance he could render in the housework.—Pearson's Weekly.

Wherein They Were Alike.

A country minister who in Scotland was notoriously defective and hesitating in his style of delivery in the pulpit was sitting having a cup of tea with one of the old spinsters connected with his congregation when he observed that the spout of the teapot was either choked or too narrow.

"Your teapot, Miss Kennedy," he remarked, "disna—disna rin weel."

"Aye, jist like yoursel', Mr. Broon," retorted the nettled lady. "It has an unco puir delivery."

Thompson—She thinks she does.

"You don't speak it, do you?"

"No."

"Then how do you know she doesn't?"

"I watched a French waiter's face the other day when she was talking to him, and I'll be blamed if he didn't look as if he had the toothache."—Detroit Free Press.

Land Assessment in England.

The evils of under assessment of land are perhaps more glaring in Cardiff than anywhere else. Cardiff castle, with its huge park, lodges and gardens, with a boundary wall of three-quarters of a mile situated right in the heart of the town, is rated at £924 a year. The land is worth millions. Within sight of the castle and not more than 200 yards away is a tailor's shop which is rated at £947.—London Chronicle.

The Only Way He Could Go.

A man fearfully addicted to stuttering stepped up to the ticket window at a railroad station and asked what it would cost him to go to New York by freight.

"By freight?" exclaimed the astonished ticket agent. "What in thunder do you want to go by freight for?"

"Bec-c-c-c-ause," stammered the man, "I c-c-c-can't exp-p-pres my-s-s-self very w-well, c-c-can I?"—Ladies' Home Journal.

No Reciprocity.

"Annie Nibbins is the meanest kind of a gossip."

"What variety is that?"

"She's the kind that doesn't tell anything herself, but gets you to tell all you know."

Ancient Greek Training.

The manner in which the Athenians brought up their children is worth remembering. At seven years of age the Athenian lad entered the palestra, which was essentially a playground. All the first and better half of the day was spent in gymnastics, dancing, games and play. In the afternoon there were singing, some writing, some reading, all in the open air, and then came a long period of play again. Such was the schooling of the Greek lad up to the age of ten or eleven, and it did not differ essentially up to the age of sixteen, except in the severity of the exercises. And yet the world has not ceased to marvel at the results of the Greek education. It produced the highest type of man, physically and intellectually, that the world has ever seen, which Galton says was as far in advance of the modern Englishman as the modern Englishman is in advance of the native African. In physical beauty, courage and patriotism, in philosophy, literature, architecture and art, the Greeks have been the unsurpassed models of the ages and are still the inspiration of our schools today. But they placed the emphasis upon hygiene, exercise, games and play, which are too much neglected in these days.—Kansas City Star.

Geographical Knowledge in 1492.

But very little was known in regard to the extent of the world in Aristotle's day, in the fourth century before Christ, and but very little more was known about it 1,800 years later, in the time of Columbus. In 2,000 years the world had in reality retrograded rather than advanced. It was the popular belief in the time of Columbus that the world was flat, though many contemporary scholars thought differently. The great civilizations of the world at that time were grouped around the Mediterranean sea, although England was a considerable power and the Scandinavians were a great maritime people. But Europeans at that time knew but little of Asia and but little of Africa, and America, of course, was undreamed of. Even after Columbus had discovered the latter continent he was perfectly oblivious of the fact. He thought Haiti was Cipango or Japan and for a long time regarded Cuba as a part of the mainland of Asia.

Cough Caution

Never, positively never poison your lungs. If you cough—even from a simple cold only—you should always heal, soothe, and ease the irritated bronchial tubes. Don't blindly suppress it with a stupefying poison. It's strange how some things finally come about. For twenty years Dr. Shoop has constantly warned people not to take cough mixtures or prescriptions containing Opium, Chloroform, or similar poisons. And now—a little late though—Congress says "Put it on the label. If poisons are in your Cough Mixture." Good! Very good!! Here, far for this very reason mothers, and others, should insist on having Dr. Shoop's Cough Cure. No poison marks on Dr. Shoop's label—and none in the medicine, else it must by law be on the label. And it's not only safe, but it is said to be by those that know it best, a truly remarkable cough remedy. Take no chance then, particularly with your children. Insist on having Dr. Shoop's Cough Cure. Compare carefully the Dr. Shoop package with others and note the difference. No poison marks there! You can always be on the safe side by demanding

Free Advice.

The telephone in the office of a prominent New York lawyer rang, and when a clerk answered it the lady on the other end refused to give her name, saying she wanted to see the lawyer himself on private business. As soon as the lawyer himself picked up the receiver, before he could make any inquiries, she began, "Oh, please tell me, must there not be two copies of a lease?"

"Why," he answered, "it is usual to give one to the landlord's agent and one to the lessee. But who are"—

"Yet the fact that the wife of the lessee had never seen a copy of the lease wouldn't keep it from being legally binding?"

"No," slipped from the lawyer, who quickly added, "But before I discuss the matter further may I ask to whom"—

There was a pretty little laugh. He admits it was pretty even now. "Oh, I'm Mrs. Brown, and I live on Broadway. You don't know me"—it was obvious likewise that he wouldn't—"but I've always heard your advice was so very valuable, and I wanted a lawyer, and so I just called you up. Goodby."

The Canary's Toilet.

Just watch your canary after he has had his daily bath. See how each separate feather is cleaned, pulled and looked over and how all the loose ones are taken out and dropped. All this is done by the bill, for a bird's neck is so flexible that it can be turned in all directions, but the bill cannot reach the head, and so Mr. Canary uses his foot. With it he combs his hair first on one side, then on the other, scratching very fast, as if to get all the tangles out. Then he uses his hair oil, for, although complexion powders are not known in the bird world, hair oil certainly is. Ladies and gentlemen alike carry it about with them. They have a little pouch or sack on the back near the tail for the purpose. When Mme. Bird wishes to use it she squeezes it out with her beak, just as you would press a rubber bulb. Then she lays the oil on her back just above her wings and rubs her head against it, turning her neck in all directions until every feather in her head is straight and shining.—Exchange.

Red Cheeks in Addison's Day.

It seems that the "beauty doctor" is by no means a modern invention. The Atlantic cites an amusing advertisement to this effect printed in Addison's Spectator:

The famous Bavarian Red Liquor: Which gives such a delightful, blushing Colour to the Cheeks of those that are White or Pale, that it is not to be distinguished from a natural fine Complexion, nor perceived to be artificial by the nearest Friend. Is nothing of Paint, or in the least hurtful, but good in many Cases to be taken inwardly. It renders the Face delightfully handsome and beautiful; is not subject to be rubb'd off like Paint, therefore cannot be discovered by the nearest Friend. It is certainly the best Beautifier in the World. Is sold only at Mr. Payn's Toyshop at the Angel and Crown in St. Paul's Church-yard, near Cheapside, at 3s. 6d. a Bottle, with Directions.

The Yaws.

On the west coast of Africa the natives call the raspberry a yaw. It happens that one of the pleasing diseases that come out from that quarter of the globe is characterized by dusky red spots that appear on the body and soon grow into ulcers about the size and looks of the raspberry. So this disease is called the yaws. It is contagious and downright disagreeable. White sailors bring it back with them to their own discomfort and the disgust of those at home. Yaws prevails also in the Fiji islands and in Samoa, but in these two places children mainly are attacked, and the natives regard the disease in the same light as civilized persons look at measles—almost a certainty to have and the sooner over with the better.

TRAIN PLUNGES INTO THE RIVER

Train Drops Through Bridge and Six Are Killed.

Kansas City, Mo., July 26.—Six lives were lost, three persons were probably fatally injured and some fifty were hurt in the wreck of a Wabash passenger train that plunged into the Missouri river thirty miles east of Kansas City.

Of the eight cars in the train five coaches and the locomotive are now in the river, with the water covering all of them except one end of a sleeping car. A chair car and two Pullmans remained uninjured.

At the scene of the wreck the river makes a bend, and the railroad follows it. For days flood waters have undermined the roadbed, making it too weak to hold up the heavy trains.

NOT A SUICIDE.

Sister of Sutton Anxious to Clear the Name of Naval Lieutenant.

Annapolis, Md., July 26.—"I am not vindictive; all I desire is to clear my brother's name of the disgrace of suicide."

So spoke Mrs. Rose Sutton Parker sister of Lieutenant James N. Sutton of Portland, Ore., the circumstances of whose death the court of inquiry will continue to investigate at the resumption of the hearing in the naval academy auditorium.

The inquiry thus far has been notable for the conflicting nature of the testimony adduced. With the opening of the second week of the investigation the pendulum is expected to swing, and witnesses will be called on "the other side" to refute the theory of suicide. Mrs. Parker will perhaps be the principal witness in that respect. Her testimony is expected to disclose several important points in refutation of the suicide theory, based on the facts obtained by her and her mother in their indefatigable work during the past two years which resulted in the reopening of the case.

IS READY TO FIGHT JEFFERIES

Pugilist Johnson In Michisan With His Auto.

WANTS FIGHT IN 'FRISCO

Says He Will Hasten to New York to Post Forfeit—Jeffries Posts Forfeit of $5,000—Will Fight Colored Man From Twenty to One Hundred Rounds.

Jackson, Mich., July 29—"I'll leave Chicago Monday night for New York and cover that forfeit," said Jack Johnson, the fighter, when shown a dispatch to the effect that Jeffries had posted a forfeit in New York of $5,000 to fight him.

Johnson is in Jackson with his automobile, en route to Detroit.

"How soon would you be willing to meet Jeffries?" he was asked.

"Oh, within five or six months, or sooner; I don't care how quick. I think I am in condition now to clean up on Jeffries within fifteen rounds."

JACK JOHNSON.

"Where do you prefer to meet him?" was asked.

"At San Francisco. That is the best place in this country."

New York, July 29.—Actual steps looking to a fight between James J. Jeffries and Jack Johnson for the heavyweight championship of the world have been taken. Jeffries, arriving from the west, has posted $5,000 as a forfeit to bind a match with the negro pugilist for a fight of anywhere from twenty to one hundred rounds.

Jeffries insists that the fight shall be held before the club offering the largest purse and that when articles are signed an additional forfeit of $5,000 shall be posted. The whole sum of $20,000 is to go to the winner of the mill.

Jeffries will leave for a short European trip in a few days. He will visit the springs at Carlsbad, in Bohemia, and will do a little preliminary training there. He plans to be ready to fight within five months.

WENT ROWING WITH GIRL.

Lost His Life In Attempting to Get Oars That Fell Out of Boat.

Bay City, Mich., July 29.—Lawrence Edwards, nineteen years old, of Standish, a printer, lost his life in Saginaw bay, off Winona Beach, while he was enjoying the water with Miss Belle Bachelor of Standish.

They were in swimming and, after paddling about in the water for several hours, went for a row with their bathing suits on.

Edwards lost the oars from the boat and jumped overboard to get them. The wind was blowing hard and drifted the boat away from him faster than he could swim to it with the oars.

Miss Bachelor said that Edwards finally started to swim ashore. That was the last she saw of him.

The body was not recovered.

BLERIOT LANDED.

Receives Enthusiastic Reception on Reaching Paris.

Paris, July 29.—Louis Bleriot, who made a successful flight across the English channel last Sunday morning has just returned to Paris and was given an enthusiastic reception. The city was decorated with flags as if for a national holiday. M. Barthou, the minister of justice, and M. Millerand, minister of public works, presented the government's congratulations to the aviator at the railroad station.

The municipal council and the aero club will tender a banquet to M. Bleriot.

STARTS PROCEEDINGS TO GAIN FREEDOM

Prisoner at Jackson Claims Sentence Has Expired.

Jackson, Mich., July 29.—Charles A. Wightman, sentenced from Alcona county in January, 1893, for killing a man, and whose term was afterward reduced, has instituted proceedings against the state to give him his freedom, saying that he has already served the term of years to which his sentence was commuted by Governor Warner.

He petitioned the circuit court for a habeas corpus order against the prison officials, citing them to produce him in circuit court so he could have a hearing. The order was granted, and Wightman will state his case.

On Aug. 15, 1906, Governor Warner shortened Wightman's imprisonment to twenty-five years. Two days later the pardon board paroled him. On June 5, 1907, he was brought back to the institution for violating the parole laws. Now he claims that he should have been released May 9, last.

The prison officials say Wightman's good time didn't start until his sentence was commuted.

REFUSED TO PAY FARE.

Sparta Man Makes Test Case Over Transportation Ticket.

Lansing, Mich., July 29.—C. H. Jackson of Sparta was before the state railroad commission Wednesday afternoon on complaint of the Pere Marquette railroad, who alleged that he refused to pay his fare while riding from Sparta to Grand Rapids. Jackson admitted before the commission that he didn't pay his fare for the reason that inadequate accommodations were provided and that he was advised by United States Senator William Alden Smith of Grand Rapids to ride, refuse to pay unless given a seat and thus make a test case of his probable arrest.

The commission did not render a decision, but it is said they will let Jackson off with a fine. In the meantime the commission has received a petition from the citizens of Sparta and that vicinity asking that better transportation facilities be given them.

Marshall Man Seeks Share In Big English Estate.

THAW MAKES GOOD SHOWING

Undergoes Six Hours of Questioning From Jerome.

SHIELDS NAME OF HIS WIFE

Declares He Has Always Been Sane Medically—Was Legally Insane For Few Minutes When He Shot White. Sometimes Feels Regret For His Act.

White Plains, N. Y., July 29.—Harry K. Thaw's fate lay in his own hands Wednesday. For six hours he occupied the witness stand, while District Attorney Jerome, the man who twice tried to send him to prison and who once already has thwarted an effort to release him from a criminal insane asylum, delved into his life history. Thaw emerged creditably from the ordeal. Whatever Jerome and his alienists may make of the examination, to the eye and ear of the layman Stanford White's slayer showed no signs of insanity on the stand yesterday.

Thaw, the members of his family and his retinue of attorneys and medical experts are unanimous in their opinion that he has proved his fitness to be at large. His friends believe that Justice Mills will have no choice but to grant his application for release from Matteawan.

But Thaw's ordeal is not over. He will remain on the witness stand. The state's alienists believe that if he is insane he will be more likely to betray himself toward the end when wearied by Jerome's continued hammering. Neither Thaw nor Mr. Jerome displayed anything but the utmost composure yesterday. Frequently the dialogue resembled the chat of friends at an afternoon tea.

Jerome strove to establish Thaw's insanity mainly on his alleged hallucinations regarding Stanford White's treatment of young girls. Time and again he asked the witness's own opinion of his mental status. Thaw's replies, in substance, were:

"I have always been sane, medically. When I killed White I may have been legally insane for a few minutes. I am sane now."

Thaw explained the evidence of his alienists at the trial in saying that in declaring him insane they had been misled. They were told, he said, that the charges he made against White were untrue, and they inferred that the charges must be delusions.

Three years' confinement do not seem to have embittered Thaw. He expressed regret for certain of the more unspeakable charges which he made in his will against the man he killed. Although frequently quoted in the past as not regretting his deed, he declared he sometimes felt regret, although any feeling of remorse and horror were diminished, he added, by the strain of the continued legal squabbling of the past three years.

Although it has been alleged that Thaw has broken with his wife, and that she is aiding the opposition, he showed a strong desire to shield her name. The young woman herself arrived in the courtroom during this part of the examination and rewarded her husband's evident consideration for her feelings with several radiant smiles.

Thaw swore that Mrs. Merrill's most damaging charges against him were untrue. She probably will take the stand again later.

Rush For Reservation Lands.

Spokane, Wash., July 29.—So great is the rush of applicants for Indian reservation lands to be drawn on Aug. 9 that land department officers have placed an order for 50,000 more registration blanks.

HARRY PULLIAM SHOOTS SELF

President of National League Clubs Attempts Suicide.

PUTS BULLET INTO TEMPLE

Continued Partially Conscious For Some Time—Could Not Give Reason Why He Shot Self—Bullet Destroyed Sight of Both Eyes—Attempt Took Place In New York Athletic Club.

New York, July 29.—Harry C. Pulliam, president of the National League of Baseball Clubs, has attempted suicide in his rooms on the third floor of the New York Athletic club.

Standing in the center of the room, Mr. Pulliam held a revolver to his right temple. He fired only one shot. It went in at the right temple and came out seven inches away on the left hand side of his head. The bullet destroyed the right eye and passed through the upper part of the left.

It is not believed that he can recover, although he continued conscious for some time after the shooting.

When discovered Mr. Pulliam, although still conscious and able to speak, appeared to be too confused to answer the physician's questions coherently.

Coroner Physician Snady, who arrived about half an hour after the shooting, assisted Dr. Higgins, club physician, in attending to the wounded man's needs. Both of them attempted to get some explanation of the baseball president's attempt to kill himself, but he continued too dazed to give intelligible answers.

The sight of both eyes was destroyed by the bullet.

Although Mr. Pulliam's act at this time was entirely unexpected some of his friends said that at the time of his recent illness it was known that he was subject to severe attacks of melancholia, and his attendants had been reported then as fearful that he would make an attempt on his life.

ENTERS PROTEST.

Mrs. Sutton's Attorney Goes to Navy Department, Opposing Court's Action.

Washington, July 29.—Protesting against the action of the court of inquiry which is investigating the death of Lieutenant James N. Sutton, U. S. M. C., Harry E. Davis, attorney for Mrs. Sutton, has appealed to the secretary of the navy to vacate the order of the court by which officers who were with the unfortunate man on the night of the tragedy should be regarded as defendants in the case.

In a letter, Mr. Davis reviewed the work of the court. He declared that while beginning its task in the form of an inquiry, which invited the cooperation of all persons having knowledge of the case, it has suddenly been changed into a prosecution, placing the several defendants upon their guard and forcing Mrs. Sutton and himself into the position of prosecutors. Mr. Davis' protest went directly to Assistant Secretary Winthrop. He will carefully consider the representations made by Mr. Davis and will probably render his decision at once.

"I am astounded, incensed and outraged at the court's ruling," said Mr. Davis.

ASSAULT WAS JUSTIFIABLE.

Case Against Senator Stone on Charge of Negro Waiter is Dropped.

Baltimore, July 29.—Declaring that in the circumstances the assault was justifiable, Police Magistrate Eugene Grannan of the central district has dismissed the charge against Senator William J. Stone of Missouri of having assaulted Lawrence G. Brown, a waiter on a Pennsylvania railroad train.

The case which brought to the bar of the central station perhaps its most distinguished prisoner grew out of an incident of the trip Tuesday of Senator Stone from Philadelphia to Washington and which was interrupted at Union station, this city, by the arrest of the senator. Brown charged the senator with having assaulted him.

FOREIGN SHIPPERS FAVORED

Reported Complaint Has Been Made to President.

Washington, July 29.—That a report has been made to President Taft declaring that American shippers are being discriminated against in favor of French, English and German shippers carrying supplies to the Isthmus of Panama is the report current here, although no official verification of the matter was obtainable. The report, it is said, was made by Bernard Baker, president of the Baltimore Trust & Guarantee company, who was sent to Panama by the president for the purpose of investigating shipping conditions.

The Planet Mercury.

Though Mercury is one of the smallest of the planets, it is perhaps the most troublesome to the astronomer. It lies so close to the sun that it is seen but seldom in comparison with the other great planets. Its orbit is very eccentric, and it experiences disturbances by the attraction of other bodies in a way not yet fully understood. A special difficulty has also been found in the attempt to place Mercury in the weighing scales. We can weigh the whole earth, we can weigh the sun, the moon and even Jupiter and other planets, but Mercury presents difficulties of a peculiar character. Le Verrier, however, succeeded in devising a method of weighing it.

He demonstrated that our earth is attracted by this planet, and he showed how the amount of attraction may be disclosed by observations of the sun, so that from an examination of the observations he made an approximate determination of the mass of Mercury. Le Verrier's result indicated that the weight of the planet was about the fifteenth part of the weight of the earth. In other words, if our earth was placed in a balance and fifteen globes, each equal to Mercury, were laid in the other the scales would hang evenly.—"Story of the Heavens."

When Her Turn Came.

The Journal had taken on a "woman editor," whose duty was to look after the "woman's page." Space being scarce in the "local room," a desk was given her in the managing editor's room, directly adjoining. For a week or two no fault was found with her work, but one morning the managing editor said to her:

"Miss Penfield, your style of writing is a little too terse and epigrammatic for the needs of your department. You must study expansion."

"Very well, Mr. Ringgold," she answered. "I will try."

Thereafter her work appeared to give entire satisfaction, for there was no further criticism. About six months later, however, the managing editor after a morning spent in working at his desk suddenly wheeled in his chair and said:

"Miss Penfield, I want a wife. I want you. Will you marry me?"

"Mr. Ringgold," she responded, with a mocking smile, "that is rather terse and epigrammatic. Don't you think you ought to study expansion a little?"—Youth's Companion.

A Word of Warning.

"You never proposed to her on your knees!" cried the veteran married man in dismay.

"Sure I did; sure," the youth repeated, a glad, proud light shining in his eyes.

"Well," said the veteran, "you'll regret it about twice a week for the rest of your life. After you get married the slightest argument, the first impatient word, will cause your wife to say, 'You weren't like this when you went down on your knees and begged me, with tears in your eyes, to marry you.'

"It's pretty bad to have an angry wife read out your old love letters reproachfully," said the veteran, "but that is nothing to being reminded of your kneeling proposal every week till you are a great-grandfather."

"You proposed on your knees yourself?" the youth hazarded.

But the veteran frowned and made no reply.—Los Angeles Times.

The Seven Wise Men of Greece.

The seven wise men of Greece were Thales of Miletus, Periander of Corinth, Cleobulus of Lyndus, Chilon of Lacedaemon, Solon of Athens, Bias of Prienne and Pittacus of Mitylene. Some fishermen of Miletus sold a draft of fishes to a bystander. When the net was drawn in it contained a golden tripod, and the purchaser claimed it was his, while the fishermen contended that they sold only the fish that might be in the net. The dispute was referred to the oracle of Delphi, who awarded the tripod to the wisest man in Greece. Thereupon it was taken to Thales, who declined it and suggested that it be given to Bias. He in turn refused to accept it, and thus it was successively declined by all the seven, and they were thereafter known as the seven wise men of Greece.

NICE TRIP.

LaVERNE WHEELER, FORMER TECUMSEH BOY, WRITES OF HIS TRIP TO SEATTLE, WASHINGTON.

Seattle, Wash., July 16, 1909.

My Friend, the Editor:

Would you like a brief and possibly inadequate description of my trip to this rather amazing city of the far West? Very well, I'll try to give you an idea of the things as I saw them.

So many have described the journey from Chicago to St. Paul that it were useless to speak of the beautiful scenes that constantly greet the eye, especially by the Milwaukee route. Not so many leave St. Paul by the Canadian Pacific way, and I can readily believe those who say that road furnishes by far the grander pictures to the tourist who delights in wild wonderful scenery. After leaving St. Paul by the Soo Line, through Minnesota till we reach the southeast corner of North Dakota it is a bewildering succession of hills and valleys and lakes. Through North Dakota and far into the Canadian Province of Saskatchewan there is little but a boundless prairie. All day on Sunday the 11th., it rained and it is hard to imagine a more gloomy and hopeless stretch of country than we we passed over.

For hundreds of miles there was only once in a great while that we caught a glimpse of a homesteader's hut or cabin. For hundreds of miles there was not a tree to be seen. Nothing but prairie and grass, not an animal of any kind. How pioneers can go into such a desolate land to locate is more than I can understand. And that day it seemed to us a most undesirable part of the world for everywhere was an excess of water. Where we saw plowed ground, it was half under water.

At Moose Jaw, Saskatchewan, our train passed onto the Canadian Pacific line, and from that point to Medicine Hat in southern Alberta it was a continuous treeless plain with scattered fram houses that were too far apart to look at all neighborly. As we neared Medicine Hat we tried to persuade the conductor to stop the train at that famous place long enough so that the passengers could inspect the Blizzard Incubator, but in vain. From the curt manner in which he refused our pleas we concluded that it was either too early in the season, of that the incubator was out of repair.

The region from Medescine Hat to the mountains was passed over during the night. As the rosy hues of dawn were beginning to tint the sky, I pushed the shade to my berth window up and looked out. What I saw made me decide to arise at once, and I did so with such vigor that the occupant of the "upper" uttered "What the —— is the matter down there?"

In a few moments I was seeking the observation car where I witnessed for the first time a sunrise in the Rocky Mountains. We reached Banff before it was light enough for photographic operations, but it was amusing to see the passengers hustle out on the station platform and begin making snap shots at the snow capped peaks that towered above us. If any one of them secured good results it would be a miracle.

From the time we left Banff till long after we had crossed the Great Divide the train moved at a snail's pace and at several points halted long enough for the kodac fiends to push the button to their heart's content. All day on Monday it was one continual excitement, the panorama of majestic peaks and dizzy whirls around the edge of cliffs that made one wonder if there would be anything left of the train if it jumped the track. At one place we did pass the wreck of a train of seven coaches, a baggage car and engine that had gone down the day before, and a wrecking crew was at work lifting a coach on trucks. The engine lay partially burried under a twisted and splintered mass of coaches. The train crew refused to answer questions as to how many of the passengers had been killed. All the information we could get was that the engineer and fireman had been crushed under the mass of wreckage. I had asked the conductor why our train went at such a slow rate of speed, and he had not vouchsafed a satisfactory reply, but the sight of the wreck was answer enough. At times passengers ran alongside the cars and grabbed bunches of flowers and then mounted the steps and waited for other opportunities to gather more of the floral beauties for their lady friends. One woman was adventurous enough to try the same dangerous feat, and had no trouble to gain the steps of the car after getting a particularly fine bunch of flowers.

At Field we passed into British Columbia, and again the train halted long enough for snap shots, and I joined the rest of the enthusiastic chameraniacs. I have not had a chance yet to see what the results were in my case

As we passed through a succession of famous peaks, St. Stephen, Mount Donald and others I wished that I might have time to photograph and paint for an indefinite period. At Glacier, where I was informed that we were over six thousand feet above sea level, we all took advantage of the fine menu at the stations, and then he photographed the famous glaciers that seemed too close for comfort. The Great Glacier seemed but a few yards distant, and almost on a level with the eye, but I was told that it would take a longer journey than I imagined to reach the mass of snow and ice. Those who had made the journey before were prepared with overcoats and wraps, others wished they had provided themselves with warmer clothing for this particular part of the trip.

After leaving the Rockies, the scenery was by no means of a tame nature. Shuswap lake, a body of water that we were told was anywhere from fifty to ninety miles long, reminded me of the large lakes in western New York. At times I could easily imagine myself on the shores of Lake Canandaigua. The names of some of the stations passed through amused the passengers: Spatzum, and Spuzzum, Ducks, and others too numerous to mention.

On Tuesday, after a forenoon's ride along the wonderfully beautiful Frazier river, where we were ever in sight of great, snow-capped mountains, we reached Vancouver, and were given over two hours to stroll around a part of that interesting city. Then we boarded the steamship, Princess Charlotte, and steamed away for Victoria, Vancouver Island, the capital of British Columbia. Here we had nearly three hours for sight seeing. Many of the passengers took the tourist autos and did the town. I strolled up town a short distance and then hastened back to the steamer and secured my camera and got busy. I went to the Parliament buildings and easily secured permission to ascend to the dome of the main building and take views. A more glorious vista it would be hard to find. In one direction Mount Baker appeared above the clouds. In every direction one could see lofty ranges of snow-capped hills.

Regretfully we returned to the Princess Charlotte when the warning whistle blew, and soon we were sailing for the last lap in the journey to Seattle. The ride from Victoria to the exposition city is not the least interesting part of the journey. To the south of the Sound stretches the Olympic Mountains, their tops plentifully sprinkled with snow.

It was nearly ten o'clock at night when our boat drew into the dock at Seattle, and a tired bunch of tourists took their several ways to a haven of rest. The view of Seattle as we approached from the Bay was a most charming one. The city rises on hills that glitter and glisten with the thousands of electric lights that illuminate the tiers upon tiers of homes. To describe Seattle worthily would take a more intimate acquaintance, and I will reserve that for a future letter. Enough to say, that I find Seattle far exceeds my expectations in point of interest and beauty of location. There is enough around here to keep one busy for a long time hunting up the beauty spots that really don't need searching for, as they are right at hand. All you need is to look. The Exposition will furnish subject matter for a later letter. Yours ever,

LAVERNE F. WHEELER, SR.

Mrs. Flora Pattison-Abbott.

The death angel passes no home without entering. At some time or other it makes a visitation to every family and covers some dear one with its black shroud and carries her away into the other world. Yet not all of that dear one is taken, for memories of her good deeds remain to console, in a measure, the bereaved family and friends whose life from now on must feel the loss.

The memories of Mrs. Flora Pattison-Abbott are golden threads snapped asunder when she bade farewell to this world and entered the better land. The dark hour came when she lingered in a Detroit hospital in the hope of regaining health last Saturday at 10 a. m. The message received here yesterday gave no particulars. The message is fraught with sorrow to many a heart in this community who early learned the blessing of her friendship. She made a visit at least once a year to the scenes of her childhood when friends were happy to see her and talk of old times.

She spent most of her early life at Devil's lake where her father, Nelson Pattison kept the landing, but at 25 she was married to H. J. Abbott. After spending some time in Tecumseh, they went to live in Detroit and during the remaing 13 years continued to make her home in that city. The funeral took place Wednesday from the family home 1297 Porter street, Detroit at 2 o'clock. Mr. and Mrs. Burdette Root attended from this place. Besides her husband, Norman 1 year and little Erwin three years old are left tomourn. Also a sister, Mrs. Nellie Jackson resides in Hood River, Ore, another Mrs. Clara Davis near North Adams and a brother, Geo. Pattison whose home is in the state of Washington.—Hudson Post.

The Use of Iron.

Iron has been known to men for a very long time. In the time of the Assyrians it was extensively used, iron saws, knives and other tools having been found by Layard at Nineveh. Homer refers to the forging of iron, while the hardening and tempering of steel appear to have been operations in common use among the early Greeks. The employment of a kind of bellows for the forging of tools, presumably of iron, figures in Egyptian sculpture of 1500 B. C. Cast iron appears to have been discovered about 350 B. C. Through the agency of the Romans the manufacture of iron was introduced all over the then known world and into those regions where it had not been previously known.—New York American.

Windsor, Ont., is to have a home-coming next week, and among the noted guests who are expected to attend is Seth Bullock, sheriff of Deadwood, Col. The Detroit Journal says:

Dreams.

"A remarkable and lucky thing happened to me once when I was dead broke," imparted the aspiring poet. "It was near to the Christmas holidays, and I, needing money badly, sent a poem to a certain magazine. On the third night after I dreamed that my poem had been accepted for $50. Of course when I woke up I was much disappointed. But the very next day, lo, there came the fifty dollar check for verses!"

"Ah, you were in luck."

"Wait. Two days subsequent back came my poem, accompanied by an explanatory epistle from the editor. In this he said that owing to a dream his treasurer had dreamed the third night previous (same night as mine) the treasurer, under the impression that his dream was a reality, forwarded my check on his own hook."

"Remarkable indeed! Did you return the check?"

"Oh, no! I sent back the poem, together with a note stating that under no circumstances could I dream of returning the fifty."—Lippincott's.

Sea Fleas.

The deep sea naturalist when preparing the skeletons of small birds and fishes for mounting calls the sea fleas to his aid. These active little crustaceans swarm on the bottom of the sea in both tropical and temperate waters and are possessed of voracious appetites. So the naturalist, after removing the skin and loose flesh from the specimen, ties it in a coarse net and lowers it into the sea until it hangs just clear of the bottom. It is immediately discovered by the sea fleas, and countless myriads of the little creatures come swarming to the work of denuding the bones. In a short time the skeleton is clean and ready to be packed or mounted. Care must be taken to haul it up at just the right moment, as if left too long to the sea fleas they will attack and devour the small bones as soon as they have finished the soft parts. A little watchfulness on the part of the naturalist will prevent this, however, and the tiny scavengers of the deep will save him a lot of unpleasant work.—Chicago Inter Ocean.

Early Trotting Races.

The earliest trotting or pacing race of which any record has been found was started from a New York road house called the De Lancey Arms. This wayside tavern stood in the Bowery lane, near what is now the corner of Fourth avenue and Eighteenth street. It seems to have been an all around sporting resort in colonial days, for in 1763 it was the scene of a bull baiting, and in the previous year it was the meeting place for four horses that raced up the road about half a mile to Watt's gate, near the present corner of Fourth avenue and Twenty-ninth street. The Jamaica turnpike was the first famous speeding ground in the vicinity of New York. Until the New York Trotting club's track came into existence, in 1826, it was the accepted course for the decision of match races, and as early as 1818 it was the scene of the first match against time of which there is any record.—Exchange.

A Famous All Potato Banquet.

One of the most remarkable menus ever drawn up must have been that of the feast in Paris to which Benjamin Franklin, Lavoisier, the founder of modern chemistry, and other distinguished men sat down as guests of Parmentier. Every dish at this banquet was made of potatoes, and even the brandy and liqueurs were the product of the same vegetable. This was Parmentier's final proof to his skeptical fellow countrymen that potatoes were not poison, as they persisted in believing. Louis XVI. himself was one of Parmentier's earliest converts, granted him land on which to grow his plants and did not disdain to wear the potato flower as a buttonhole. Then Parmentier cleverly posted guards round his potato fields by day and withdrew them by night, so that people were tempted to come then, steal, eat and be convinced. The all potato banquet was the climax of the great

THE MICHIGAN PACIFIC LUMBER COMPANY

Commenced operations April 1st, and reports are received from the Camp regularly. Logs are now being delivered to the mills at the rate of 150,000 feet daily at a profit of $6.00 per thousand feet; $900 per day, or $300,000 per year. These are facts, not estimates. The Company will market 300,000 feet daily next year—figure for yourself what the profits will be. At this rate it would take twenty-five years to cut the timber.

If you are interested in learning how money is made from operation in Timber, write us for copies of the reports as they come from Camp.

Better than Pills for Liver Ills

FOR SALE BY B. J. BULVER, TECUMSEH, MICH.

A failing tiny nerve—no larger than the finest silken thread—takes from the Heart its impulse, its power its regularity. The stomach also has its hidden, or inside nerve. It was Dr. Shoop who first told us it was wrong to drug a weak or failing stomach, heart or kidneys. His prescription—Dr. Shoop's Restorative—is directed straight for the cause of these ailments—these weak and faltering inside nerves. This no doubt clearly explains why the Restorative has of late grown so rapidly in popularity. Druggists say that those who test the Restorative even for a few days soon become fully convinced of its wonderful merit. Anyway, don't drug the organ. Treating the cause of sickness is the only sensible and successful way. Sold by all dealers.

The average man no sooner does a kind act than he begins to feel big over it.

Everyone would be benefited by taking Foley's Orino Laxative for stomach and liver trouble and habitual constipation. It sweetens the stomach and breath, gently stimulates the liver and regulates the bowels and is much superior to pills and ordinary laxatives. Why not try Foley's Orino Lazative today? ONLY ONE BEST.

Tecumseh people give credit where credit is due.

People of Tecumseh, who suffer with sick kidneys and bad backs want a kidney remedy that can be depended upon. The best is Doan's Kidney Pills, a medicine for the kidneys only, made from pure roots and herbs and the only one that is backed by cures in Tecumseh. Here's Tecumseh testimony:

Mrs. Jeanette Teachout, Oneida St., Tecumseh, Mich., says: "I again take pleasure in recommending Doan's Kidney Pills to persons afflicted with kidney trouble. Last fall my kidneys began to bother me and I suffered from pains in the small of my back extending into my shoulders. When I stooped, sharp twinges seized me and for a few seconds I was unable to straighten. The frequent passages of the kidney secretions annoyed me greatly and the doctor seemed unable to give me any relief. Doan's Kidney Pills were so highly spoken of, that I procured a box and began their use. I was so greatly relieved that I continued taking this remedy until the pains disappeared." (Statement given on Dec. 10, 1906.)

On Sept. 5, 1908, Mrs. Teachout added to the above: "I still use Doan's Kidney Pills at times and they always bring the best of results. I feel justified in recommending Doan's Kidney Pills to other kidney sufferers."

CONFERENCE REPORT PRACTICALLY READY

May Be Presented to House Friday.

Washington, July 29.—After working for nearly three weeks at what proved to be one of the longest and most arduous tasks ever experienced in tariff building, the majority members of the conference committee on the Payne-Aldrich bill brought their labors to a sudden close at 6 o'clock last night.

Without a moment's delay the senate and house leaders whose names are carried by the bill started away by automobile with the intention of laying their report before President Taft, who had gone to Fort Myer to see what had been intended to be the last official flight of the Wright brothers in their aeroplane.

All day long the conferees had struggled with the question of bringing down the house rates on gloves and the senate rates on lumber to figures they felt would meet with executive approval. In this effort the conferees failed.

Lumber was made dutiable at rates only a little below those named by the senate bill, and there was a very slight shading from the house rates on gloves of good quality.

Returning from the conference at Fort Myer, Messrs. Aldrich and Payne seemd to be entirely satisfied with the outcome of their mission, although neither would discuss the conclusions that were reached.

It was announced officially that the Democratic members of the conference committee would be called into session some time today. It has been stated also that the conference report would be presented to the house probably at noon Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Perrin of Chicago, are guests of Bert Allen and family this week.

Margaret Rubadeau came from Tecumseh Monday for a few days' visit with her grandmother, Mrs. Helen Gee.

The lady Maccabees swarmed Friday afternoon and were hived on reaching the home of Mrs. Eugene Cheever. As usual, as soon as invitations were given each one anticipated a fine time and were not disappointed for these ladies have the record of never doing things by halves, and each one did all she could towards making the good time that followed. As soon as supper time drew near they, accompanied by the family adjourned to the Maccabee hall where an excellent supper was served, covers being laid for 33. Mrs. Cheever has served as officer in the hive for several years and as an appreciation of her work, she was presented with a handsome set of bread and butter plates, the commander, Miss Flora Zeluff, making a neat little presentation speech. Mrs. Cheever in a few words expressed her thanks. After goodbyes were said, all returned to their homes happy, yet sorry that they are to lose one of their members, as Mrs. Cheever expects to leave soon for their new home in Tecumseh.

Are you going? Where? To the Moonlight Picnic of course on the night of Aug. 7 at Britton for I. O. O. F. Good programme and plenty of music. Everyone cordially invited to attend.

Weak Women

Take weak and ailing women, there is at least one way to help. But with that way, two treatments must be combined. One is local, one is constitutional, but both are important, both essential.

Dr. Shoop's Night Cure is the Local.

Dr. Shoop's Restorative, the Constitutional.

The former—Dr. Shoop's Night Cure—is a topical vaginal membrane suppository remedy, while Dr. Shoop's Restorative is wholly an internal treatment. The Restorative reaches throughout the entire system, making the rounds of all nerve, all tissue, and all blood affinities.

The "Night Cure", as its name implies, does its work while you sleep. It soothes sore and inflamed membranes, heals local weaknesses and discharges, while the Restorative, aiming nervous exhaustion, gives renewed vigor and ambition, adds to wasted tissue, brings back lost renewed strength, vigor and purity. Take Dr. Shoop's Restorative Tablets or Liquid—as a general tonic to the system. For positive local help, use as well

Elderly People Helped Free

The last years of life are the sweetest, and yet the most difficult to prolong. It is then that the greatest care is exercised in maintaining bodily health. But the chief care should always be with regard to the food you eat and whether you are digesting it properly. You should not allow yourself to become constipated.

No doubt you have tried salts and cathartic pills, purgative tablets, etc., and have come to the conclusion that they are violent in action and do but temporary good. Listen, then, to the voice of experience with regard to a wonderful and mild laxative. Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. It is not new, only we are trying to find new friends for it.

A. A. Felts, of Johnston City, Ill., suffered from stomach trouble for six years and found his cure in Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. His wife uses it too with success. We could name hundreds of others. Some heard of it first through neighbors or friends; others through the doctor's offer to send any sufferer from a stomach, liver or bowel complaint a free sample bottle for trial, without charge. If you will send your name and address he will send you a trial bottle direct to your home. If it proves itself as he claims then continue the treatment by buying a 50-cent or $1 bottle of your druggist as all of them sell it. Old people like children, should look for purity, and it is well to mention that the purity of this remedy is vouched for with the U. S. government. Also, though a free bottle is sent to prove its merits, results are always guaranteed from the regular bottles bought of druggists, who will refund your money if it does not satisfy you. Send at least for the free test bottle today.

If there is anything about your ailment that you don't understand, or if you want any medical advice, write to the doctor, and he will answer you fully. There is no charge for this service. The address is Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 500 Caldwell bldg., Monticello, Ill.

DIDN'T MAKE FLIGHT.

Wind and Accident to Machine Keeps Wright at Home.

Washington, July 29.—A persistent wind and a suddenly discovered stoppage in the gasoline feed pipe of his motor prevented Orville Wright from making, last evening, his final cross-country two-man test of the aeroplane.

After Wright had waited in supposed readiness for the start for an hour, with the aeroplane on the monorail, at Fort Myer, the wind died down at last to little more than a whisper, and then it was discovered that the fuel feed was obstructed. By that time it was dusk, and the flight was declared off for the day, the army officials granting him three days additional time for the test. The time limit under the original contract expired yesterday.

The failure of the trial disappointed an immense crowd, including President Taft and practically all of the most prominent government officials.

Force Aldermen to Attend.

Flint, Mich., July 29.—Mayor Selby has taken drastic measures to secure a quorum of the aldermen so a vote can be taken on the proposed bonding issue that has been hanging fire for some time. He notified the chief of police to have each alderman at a special meeting of the council this evening.

STEAMER SUNK IN THE CHANNEL

Cadillac Goes Down Off St. Clair Flats.

COLLIDES WITH AN UNKNOWN

Tips Over on Her Side, and Crew Roosts on It Over Night—Downbound Vessel Attempted to Go Between Cadillac and Another Craft. Sunken Steamer Owned in Cleveland.

Algonac, Mich., Aug. 2.—In a collision with an unknown steamer last night the steamer Cadillac of Cleveland was sunk in the channel opposite the St. Clair Flats. The crew of fifteen men camped over night on the boat, which lies on her side, one side out of water. She is laden with coal and bound to northern points.

The Cadillac was upbound, and when in the channel opposite Bedore's hotel an unknown steamer, also upbound, attempted to pass her. Another steamer, supposed to be the Thomas Adams, downbound, attempted to pass between the two upbound boats and rammed the Cadillac. A large hole was stove in her side, and she quickly filled with water and sank, striking the bottom of the channel and rolling over on her side. The woman cook was taken off in a launch, but the remainder of the crew preferred to remain on the boat for the night. The steamer Frances Hinton, downbound, put about and tried to render assistance to the Cadillac, but could do nothing. The steamer which collided with the Cadillac, it is said, proceeded down the river.

The Cadillac is 230 feet long and 37 feet beam. She is of steel construction and was built in 1892 for the Cleveland Cliffs Iron company.

SEARCHES FOR PAIR.

Cleveland Man Says Wife and Nephew Eloped.

Detroit, Mich., Aug. 2.—The story of a broken home and the anxious efforts of a husband to locate his erring wife is revealed in a letter received by Superintendent Downey from Hine Simpson, a wealthy fruit grower of Cleveland.

"I will give $50 to anyone who will trace my eloping wife and nephew to where they are stopping. I want to punish this ungrateful man for the terrible wrong he has done to me and my family. If they should be in your city arrest them, and wire me. I will come on the first train," wrote Simpson.

Simpson says his wife's name is Mary and she is forty-five years old. Five years ago she underwent an operation and has since been in poor health, and at times is mentally unbalanced, her husband says. When she left she took her eight-year-old son, Willie, with her. Simpson believes they might be in Detroit now.

POLISH BOY DROWNS.

Believed He Was Seized With Cramps While Swimming.

Jackson, Mich., Aug. 2.—Frank Simlilimiski, fourteen years old, a Polish boy living in Jackson, has drowned in the Grand river near the brewery mill pond. He was with a party of Polish boys, and the facts of the case have not as yet been learned by Coroner Herbest or the officers.

None of the companions of Simlilimiski are able to talk English. His younger brother, twelve years old, was in the party.

It was thought that Simlilimiski was seized with cramps.

DEATH WINS.

Special Train Rushes Injured Brakeman to Hospital.

Bessemer, Mich., Aug. 2.—Believing there was a possible relief and the saving of a human life if medical aid and tender care were to be had in time, a special train ran a race with death from Saxon to this city, having on board Harry Edwards, a brakeman who was run over by a South Shore Atlantic railroad locomotive at Saxon.

Edwards reached Haradis hospital, but died an hour later.

STILL FIGHTING IN BARCELONA

Alarming Reports Continue to Pour Over Frontier.

PROWLING REBELS IN POWER

Prevent Communication With Outside World and Allow No Newcomers. Official Madrid Announces Barcelona Is Tranquil, "Especially So in Center of City."

Paris, Aug. 2.—Although official Spain minimizes the Catalonian insurrection and insists that the revolt has been crushed, a far different story emanates from the frontier. Refugees and travelers declare that revolt is still rampant and that desperate combats continue at Barcelona, where fifty revolutionists are reported to have been wounded in a conflict which occurred as late as Saturday night.

Information concerning the actual situation in Barcelona and the rest of the province is rarer now than ever before. Although some of the news from the frontier is from revolutionary sources, and therefore open to suspicion, reliable intelligence indicates that although Barcelona is calmer the insurrectionists have taken to the suburbs and the outlying country, where they are sowing the seeds of revolt and inflaming the people to maintain the struggle to the bitter end.

Barcelona province is in the hands of prowling bands of workmen, heavily armed, who occupy the railroads and highways to prevent communication and who refuse entrance to newcomers. Cassen de la Selva is in the hands of the revolutionists, and at Palamos, where the monastery was fired upon and the monks tortured, the situation is described as alarming and the lives of foreigners endangered.

The opinion in semi-official circles here concerning Spain's internal situation is pessimistic, and the belief is expressed that the trouble is not yet over. Official Madrid announces that Barcelona is tranquil, but qualifies this statement with the words "this is especially so in the center of the city."

From Melilla, Morocco, comes the news of another Spanish convoy being ambushed and several of its officers being wounded before the troops succeeded in extricating themselves from the attack of the tribesmen.

Rumors are afloat of a general strike in Madrid and that a strike is being organized in the Biscayan region. All persons subject to military duty are forbidden to leave Spain, under grave penalty.

London, Aug. 2.—The Times correspondent at Barcelona, telegraphing Sunday, says there has been no firing there within the past twenty-four hours. All work probably will be resumed Monday. He adds that no foreigners suffered during the riots.

KILLS HER CHILDREN.

Chicago Woman Also Takes Her Own Life.

Chicago, Aug. 2.—Matrimonial troubles caused Mrs. Emma Michel to slay her children, Meta, fifteen years old, and Gustav, twelve years old, and herself by means of illuminating gas. The two children were found dead in bed, with every gas jet in the house open, and Mrs. Michael was found seated in the kitchen, also dead, with one end of a rubber tube, through which gas was flowing, in her mouth.

Mrs. Michel left a letter, giving family troubles as the reason for her act.

Saratoga Races Begin.

Saratoga, N. Y., Aug. 2.—The raid summer meeting of the Saratoga Racing association begins this afternoon. For the last twenty-four hours the village has been rapidly filling up with visitors.

THOUSANDS OF JAPS HOMELESS

Disastrous Was Fire That Swept Osaka.

Osaka, Japan, Aug. 2.—Confusion still prevails here as a result of Saturday's disastrous fire. Thousands of persons are homeless, and hunger is staring many of them in the face.

A system of relief has been organized by the municipal authorities, but it is inadequate to supply all needs. Outside cities and towns are generously sending in contributions to be used in alleviating the sufferings of the homeless and destitute.

The number of casualties has not yet been determined, but hundreds of injured persons are crowding the hospitals.

The latest estimates are that 20,000 buildings were destroyed, these including banks, the stock exchange, the museum, government edifices and factories. While at present it is impossible accurately to state the losses these are given roughly at several million yen. It is feared that some of the insurance companies will fail.

The conflagration lasted more than twenty-five hours, and today the burned zone presents a deplorable sight. The streets of the city are very narrow, and the houses are mostly of wood construction. Under a strong breeze therefore the buildings were easy prey for the flames, which jumped from one to another with great rapidity.

An area of over four miles square, containing some of the city's handsomest structures, including the Buddhist temple, the largest in the world, was entirely burned over before the fire was brought under control. The stock exchange, which was one of the most important in this country, was entirely destroyed.

TRY TO "CAPTURE" BOSTON

National Guards Will Play Big War Game About the Hub.

Boston, Aug. 2.—Not since the days of the civil war has Massachusetts seen such a gathering of armed men as will participate in the war game of Aug. 14 to 21. The troops defending Boston and endeavoring to stem the invasion of 9,000 men of the New York, New Jersey, Connecticut and District of Columbia national guards will consist of 7,000 members of the Massachusetts militia augmented by three troops of regular cavalry from the "Fighting Tenth," the colored regiment at Fort Ethan Allen.

The scene of the maneuvers is expected to be confined to the southern counties of Bristol and Plymouth.

The invaders are conceded the strategical ability to land their forces, whence they will attempt to fight their way through the state, but the defenders assembled in Boston will be notified promptly of the disembarkment and rushed to the scene. The further maneuvers are problematical.

The despatch of the defenders will be so arranged as to deploy the 7,000 of troops over a frontage of more than thirty miles. Major General Wood, U. S. A., assisted by members of his staff and other experts, will act as umpires.

RACES IN AIR.

"Week of Aviation" Opens at Rheims, France, Aug. 22.

Rheims, France, Aug. 2.—A summer's activity and progress in aviation in France which has exceeded the dreams of the most enthusiastic followers of the sport will be crowned by the assemblage of the most renowned aeroplanists at a "week of aviation" arranged to open at Rheims on Aug. 22.

The entries for the various events on the program include Latham (monoplane), Bleriot (monoplane), Delagrange (biplane, with tail), Farman (biplane), Sommer (biplane), Santos-Dumont (monoplane), the Count de Lambert and Tissandier, the apt pupils of Wilbur Wright; Demarest (monoplane), Esnault-Pelterie (monoplane), Gobron (biplane, with tail), De Rue (biplane with tail), Ruchonnet (biplane), Guffroy (monoplane) and Glen H. Curtiss (biplane), who will be the official representative of the Aero Club of America.

The nations taking part include France, America, Austria, England and Italy. The Wright brothers would not enter the races.

The principal race is the Grand Prix de la Champagne. For this $20,000 will be awarded to the pilot of the aeroplane which covers the greatest distance without a renewal of fuel or without coming in contact with the ground.

All Games Postponed.

Chicago, Aug. 2.—All games in the American league schedule for today were postponed because of the funeral of Harry C. Pulliam, the late president of the National league, by order of President B. B. Johnson.

NICHOLAS ON PEACE MISSION

His Visit to France and England Important One.

LUNCHES WITH FALLIERES

Great Crowds of People and Much Royalty at Cowes, Isle of Wight, in Attendance at Regatta and to See Emperor of Russia—Long Estrangement Comes to End.

Cherbourg, Aug. 2.—Sunday, the final day of the visit of Emperor Nicholas to France, was attended with beautiful weather. Crowds lined the shores of the harbor during the day to watch the spectacle of the imperial yacht and the various warships, and again at night to witness the illuminated fleet. Emperor Nicholas attended religious services on board the imperial yacht Standart in the morning and later took luncheon with President Fallieres on board the French battleship Verite.

In the afternoon the entire party landed on the breakwater, three miles from shore, and took tea under a tent, after which they returned to the Standart for dinner.

Emperor Nicholas left early this morning for Cowes to visit King Edward. He is accompanied half way by a divison of the French fleet.

The whole tenor of the official utterances of President Fallieres and

NICHOLAS II.

Emperor Nicholas during the visit has indicated that the Franco-Russian alliance remains the keystone of the policy of the two powers in the interest of peace.

Cowes, Isle of Wight, Aug. 2.—Large crowds have gathered here for regatta week, which this year will be greatly enhanced by the visit of the Russian emperor.

King Edward and Queen Alexandria and various members of the royal families of Europe spend the time in a round of visits at Osbourne House, King Edward's seaside residence.

The Indomnitable and two others, three battleships of the Dreadnought class, sailed to meet the Russian imperial yacht Standart and escort Emperor Nicholas to Cowes. This will be the first official visit of the Russian monarch to Great Britain, his visit in 1896 to Balmoral having been a private one. The coming of Emperor Nicholas today is regarded as one of the highest importance and of sealing the triple entente between Russia, France and Great Britain and indicating that the long period of estrangement and suspicion between Great Britain and Russia is now ended.

DOING THEIR DUTY.

To filter the blood is the kidney's duty. When they fail to do this the kidneys are sick. Backache and many kidney ills follow; Urinary trouble, diabetes, Doan's Kidney Pills cure them all. Tecumseh people endorse our claim. A. C. Aylesworth, retired farmer, W. Chicago St., Tecumseh, Mich., says: "About four years ago I had an acute attack of lumbago, caused by disordered kidneys. When I heard of Doan's Kidney Pills, I procured a supply at C. A. Wright & Son's drug store and began their use. In a short time I was relieved and I have had no return of the trouble since. I hope other kidney sufferers will see my statement and be led to give Doan's Kidney Pills a trial." For Sale by all Dealers. Price 50 cents. WELCOME WORDS TO WOMEN

Women who suffer with disorders peculiar to their sex should write to Dr. Pierce and receive free the advice of a physician of over 40 years' experience—a skilled and successful specialist in the diseases of women. Every letter of this sort has the most careful consideration and is regarded as sacredly confidential. Many sensitively modest women write fully to Dr. Pierce what they would shrink from telling to their local physician. The local physician is pretty sure to say that he cannot do anything without "an examination." Dr. Pierce holds that these distasteful examinations are generally needless, and that no woman, except in rare cases, should submit to them.

Dr. Pierce's treatment will cure you right in the privacy of your own home. His "Favorite Prescription" has cured hundreds of thousands, some of them the worst of cases.

It is the only medicine of its kind that is the product of a regularly graduated physician. The only one good enough that its makers dare to print its every ingredient on its outside wrapper. There's no secrecy. It will bear examination. No alcohol and no habit-forming drugs are found in it. Some unscrupulous medicine dealers may offer you a substitute. Don't take it. Don't trifle with your health. Write to World's Dispensary Medical Association, Dr. R. V. Pierce, President, Buffalo, N. Y.,—take the advice received and be well.

DAFFODILS IN TOWN.

They Brought Back Memories of Home and True Love.

By HENRIETTA CRAWFORD.

[Copyright, 1909, by Associated Literary Press.]

Everybody was sipping tea and nibbling cakes save Mildred. For her tea and cakes had no charm, perhaps because she had poured the one and dispensed the other steadily for the past hour.

She leaned back in her chair behind the tea table absently watching the little crowd of fashionably dressed men and women that were moving about the parlors, yet conscious nevertheless that the man beside her was observing her and enjoying her experience from his own standpoint, which was so different from her own that she often wondered how he could find anything in her to interest him.

In a low voice he was telling her about the people before her eyes—how the woman in gray velvet had recently come into a fortune, how another woman in rather shabby silk with wonderful silver fox furs had lost hers, how Mrs. Poynter had been Mrs. Somebody-else before divorce released her and how the girl in blue was sadly puzzled as to whether she would be happier with an American because she loved him or with an English eldest son because he was heir to a title.

She listened carelessly, scarcely replying. In reality her mind was busy with its own affairs. What did she care about these people, most of whom she had not seen before and might not see again? And what did they care about her?

She was merely their hostess' country cousin who poured tea and to whom Hills Hubbard was somewhat attentive. Cousin Nell had seen that her frock was appropriate, and she herself had been long enough in the gay world to learn that the majority judges one by one's raiment mainly. Yet Hills Hubbard seemed to judge her in different wise.

"You must be very nice to him," Cousin Nell had advised the first day Mildred was in the house.

"And why?" the girl had inquired.

"Because he is a good match, as good as there is to be had. That counts very much in my world, Mildred. It may be that you will charm him, being a type that he is unacquainted with."

Certainly it seemed that she had charmed him. Since the first day she met him he had been attentive to her, sending her flowers, taking her to ride in his motor and to lunch at the best places. Cousin Nell was delighted. And Mildred thought it fascinating business to be thus sought after by a man whom so many girls had tried unsuccessfully to capture.

She had been quite frank with him from the first in spite of Cousin Nell, telling him that her father was only a poor country doctor and this was the first time she had been asked to visit her cousin. He had seemed not to mind. Perhaps he had so much money himself that he did not care whether the woman he married had a dowry or not.

As she leaned back in her chair she was wondering how it would seem to always have plenty of money, to buy one's frocks at the best shops, to live in a house where the work was done as by magic, to go about in a blue and gold motor and be able to hear all the best music.

Just that afternoon Cousin Nell had said when she came in to inspect her toilet:

"You understand, Mildred, that Mr. Hubbard will have something to say to you before you go home. There is but one answer for you to make, and I am sure he expects that one."

"But—but I'm not certain I care for him enough," Mildred had stammered. Nell had stared at her.

"My dear child! Do you think that any one in these days marries for love alone?"

"I didn't know," the girl said humbly. Then she thought of her cousin's elderly husband, who was seldom visible save at breakfast time, and the hitherto concealed reason for Nell's strange marriage was suddenly revealed to her.

Mildred had indeed experienced much since coming into her cousin's house. None of the golden rules which her parents had taught her were applicable here. Other ideals were cherished, other aims kept in sight. At first it had been very mystifying to the girl to find that the teachings of her whole lifetime were of no account. It was as if she had taken great pains to acquire Latin only to find that French was demanded of her.

Her father and mother had married for love. Money they knew to be a great good which one could yet be happy without. The poorest person was as good as the wealthiest, provided he was of moral character. Yet, after all, when one was constantly meeting strangers how could one know more about them than their appearance revealed? Who cared whether Mrs. Poynter's first husband was living?

She was the wife of a notable rich man and very agreeable. In Harlin she would have been looked upon with suspicion, but here she was courted. Yes, money was a wonderful thing. It brought one so much. Even if she did not love Mr. Hubbard she could no doubt be very happy with him. To be able to wear a dress like that gray velvet and black furs with long silver hairs in them, each one of which represented a purseful of money, and rubies like Mrs. Ogden's!

The girl drew a long breath and stirred uneasily. What would her father and mother say? What would Tom think? She bit her lip as the memory of his brave yet tender face possessed her. She could almost hear him saying:

"Now, look here, Daffy-Down-Dilly, you are going up to town to visit your fine cousin, and she'll have some fellow picked out for you, I know. He'll be rich and—and different, and that will end my chance, which always was mighty poor, wasn't it, dear? If it wasn't you'd say one word, and then I wouldn't feel so entirely down and out as I will be if you go without saying it."

She had not said the word, and so she was quite free as far as Tom was concerned to marry Hills Hubbard if she chose. With a start she came back to reality and the sound of his voice.

"You can understand that everybody is watching Miss Steuben with a great deal of interest. But there is no doubt in my mind that the Englishman will win out."

"What makes you think so?" Mildred asked.

"Because. That's a woman's reason, I know; but, as I say, it involves a good deal. The American, you see, has only his business prospects and for the present an average living. The Englishman has a fine old home, ancestry of the best, acres and tenants and a coronet about to descend upon his aristocratic head."

Mildred sighed and looked again at the girl in blue. She was very pretty as she stood with her back to a great mass of daffodils particularly, but now something about them set her heart to beating quickly with memories of home. A month later there would be a great showing of them in the little garden she and her mother tended. The dear, dear things! Nell had ordered them simply because they looked well against the wall paper of her drawing room, but to Mildred's girlish fancy they were vital, appealing. They meant home, the country, springtime—yes, and Tom, walking toward her, his face full of joy at sight of her.

Oh, they had no business to be here in this hot, crowded room, jostled by furs and velvets, simple, open air blossoms that they were! No one apparently was aware of them save herself and the girl in blue, who had drawn one from the jar and was pulling it to pieces.

A woman came across the room, set her cup down upon the table, smiled at Mildred and leaned toward Hills Hubbard.

"I have something to tell you which I just now heard on the best authority," she said. "You have lost your wager, my dear boy. Love wins. Miss Bertha Steuben marries the American after all."

"Is that possible?" he exclaimed. "I would not have believed it of her."

"Nor I. Thank you, no more tea, my dear Miss Verrel. I am just leaving." She made her adieus and passed on gayly. Mildred's eyes, with a new expression in them, were again on the girl in blue.

He turned sharply.

"You would do it yourself?"

"Yes," Mildred said.

He studied her a moment.

"Yes, I believe you would," he said, "but in your case there are no parallel circumstances. May I come tomorrow when you are alone, dear, and explain to you what I mean?"

Mildred turned white, but she faced him bravely.

"No," she gasped. "No. It would be of no use. You see, I have just made up my mind to go home tomorrow. It's the best place for me, I think, and they want me, father and my mother and"— She stopped abruptly, with a vivid blush.

"Ah, I see!" Hills Hubbard said. He looked very straight before him for an instant.

In Mildred's ears were ringing the absurd old nursery rhyme with which Tom had teased her before she set forth to visit her cousin Nell:

Daffy-Down-Dilly has gone up to town
In her yellow petticoat and her green gown.

The Lady and the Cobra.

An Englishwoman residing in India one evening found to her horror that a huge cobra had coiled itself about her veranda rails, near which she sat playing the violin. She was too near the snake to run with safety, so she continued playing while she gradually edged away. At first her only idea was to keep the creature thus engaged while she escaped, but when she had gained a safer distance and perhaps fascinated by the unwonted sight a strange inspiration seized her. She played air after air of different characters.

The effect was magical. That snake behaved like an ardent, hot blooded disciple of Paganini. Every variation in the music, whether of volume or of tone, produced instantly a corresponding change in the attitude of the cobra. If she played a lively dance it swayed its body sideways in quick time and yet in graceful curves. Once she struck a number of false notes in rapid succession on purpose. The cobra winced and writhed in pain, as if suddenly struck with a whip.

Thus the creature behaved like a mad musician till the lady, getting tired of the sport, gradually moved herself farther and farther and then made a sudden bolt into her room and banged the door, leaving the cobra to wander disconsolate to its lair in the fields.—London Chronicle.

She Got a New One.

Bulletin For The Tecumseh Schools For 1909--1910.

REGARDING THE WORK TO BE CARIED OUT DURING THE COMING YEAR.

Below we give the bulletin issued by the Tecumseh School Board and Prof. McAlpine, in behalf of the Tecumseh schools for the year 1909-1910.

THIS bulletin is addressed especially to parents whose children have completed the work of the lower grades and are now prepared to do High School work. To such, and to others who are interested in education, we desire to speak briefly regarding the Tecumseh High School.

The ideal of the American High School is to present a course of study so flexible that it may be adapted to the abilities and needs of all classes of pupils. To this end the Tecumseh High School maintains courses of study intended to prepare young people for future work in literature, in the sciences and in the industries of life. It will be the policy of this school to strengthen the work in science in the future, and to give a more practical turn to the course designed for those who are not contemplating future work in college.

We wish in particular to call the attention of pupils from the rural districts to the fact that an elective course in Agriculture will be offered this coming year, if there is sufficient demand for it. This will be an elementary course and the development of a regularly organized department is contemplated for the future. Those who are interested in such a course are urged to communicate freely with the superintendent of schools, and are assured that he will gladly advise them regarding the purpose and scope jo the wos. rk

We wish, also, to emphasize the supreme value to the rural pupil, of mingling with others of his own age in the activities of school life. In the last analysis, we have to deal with people, and a recognition of this fact has caused education to place an increasing value on the various activities of student life as a preparation for citizenship. We encourage healthy athletics, because it is a good thing for boys and girls to put themselves under the discipline of training, and because hearty, sportsmanlike competition is a wholesome thing. Moreover, we have a care for the physical welfare of all pupils irrespective of individual athletic ability.

* * * * * * * * *

Now, do you not think that your boy and your girl would live a life more rich in satisfaction because of spending four years in a High School? Do you not think it is worth while to acquire some familiarity with literature, with history, and with scientific methods, and so make life's work a vocation and not a "job?" Do you not think it is worth while to consider boys and girls as future men and women, who will be happy or discontented, efficient or inefficient, one or the other, according to what they do now?

The Tecumseh High School stands most emphatically for the worth of these things and you are urged to give your most serious thoughts to the question of the training your boy or girl is to receive during the next few years. During that time their future will, in large measure, be determined, and it is a matter of too vital importance to be lightly dismissed.

If you should decide to give your child a course in the Tecumseh High School, you are assured of the following advantages:—

1. Adequate preparation for college.
2. Adaptation of courses to the needs of those not intending to go to college.
3. The use of the Carnegie Library for school purposes.
4. Wholesome school activities.
5. Conscientious care for the moral welfare of non-resident pupils while attending school.
6. Close personal association with instructors.

LEE ACCUSES NILES

EX-GOV. ANDREW E. LEE OF SOUTH DAKOTA OBTAINS WARRANT FOR W. E. NILES.

Niles was in St. Louis and returned to Chicago Friday.

Word comes from Chicago which says that Andrew E. Lee, president of the Northern Ohio & Michigan company, an ex-governor of South Dakota, secured a warrant yesterday against Wm. E. Niles, a broker, charging him with operating a confidence game by which Lee lost $16,500. The Northern Ohio & Michigan is the partly constructed interurban road between Toledo and Ann Arbor and until purchased recently by the Lee interests was known as the Toledo, Ann Arbor & Detroit Railway company. Niles is treasurer of the company. Lee claims Niles had made misrepresentations. The trouble has grown out of the affairs of the company.

John O. Zabel, local attorney for the Northern Ohio & Michigan was not in town today and James H. Southard said he was not familiar with the existing trouble although he knew that trouble existed. That portion of the Northern Ohio between Toledo and Petersburg is so nearly completed that a construction train will be in operation between this city and Lambertville in a few days. Andrew E. Lee and W. E. Niles were in Tecumseh last spring in the interest of the proposed electric line through Tecumseh.

The August Lippincott's marks the fivehundreth appearance of this interesting monthly magazine. Were statistics available, some interesting ones could be compiled as to the vast quantities of paper and ink used, the stories, the authors, the advertising, and various other features of the magazine's life since its inceptions. During those forty-odd years much history has been made, and the world has seen many important changes. If a prize were offered for the best story of the month, one of the contenders would surely be Owen Oliver, "The Man Who to Wanted Know," in the August Lippincott's. It tells of a man affaire du coeur solely to gratify his curiosity—and regretted it It is an original bit of fiction, remarkable for its heart interest and its human nature.

The August issue of the Atlantic Monthly is a midsummer number distinguished by the publication of a complete novelette entitled "Cecily." The story is by William J. Hopkins, the author of "The Clammer," which was one of the most successful short stories of the recent years. There are two papers of literary appreciation on "George Meredith" and "Oliver Wendall Holmes." Annie K. Tuell writes of Meredith with an insight and enthusiasm which makes her paper conspicuous among the many estimates of Meridith now appearing. Mr. Crothers writes of Dr Holmes with all his old-time charm, and ingenuously makes the Autocrat tell his own story and explain his own philosophy coptous quotations from his published works.

The leading article of the Augus Century, the Midsummer Holiday Number, is Mr. Richard Watson Gilder's "Grover Cleveland: A Record of Friendship," a sympathetic appreciation of the personality of Mr. Cleveland as revealed in an intimacy of many years. The reminiscenes will extend to some three instalments in The Century magazine. In them Mr. Gilder records a friendship of twenty-one years, extending from the time of the famous tariff message to the ex-President's death. These papers constitute the most intimate description of Mr. Cleveland's life and personal traits—as President and ex-President, at work and at play—that has yet been given to the world. Reproduction, in colors, of the Salmagundi Club's Thanksbox sketched, is an interesting and novel illustrative feature. There is also a frontispeice in color after Joseph DeCamp's charming portrait, "The Pink Feather."

THE STANDARD OF THE WORLD

WASHINGTON LETTER.

(From Our Regular Correspondent.)

Washington, D. C., July 31, 1909.

President Taft has won his fight for tariff revision downward. The "stand pat" forces of the Senate and the House have gone down to defeat. The unholy alliance between Speaker Cannon and ex-Representative Littauer has come to naught. The corporations of the country are to be made to subject their affairs to the clear light of publicity. Justice is to be done to the Filipinos. The people will receive some benefit from a genuine tariff revision and the Republican party under it's new leader, Wm. Howard Taft has demonstrated a capacity to withstand the influence of evil and present a solid front in opposition to the powerful pressure exerted by lobbies of the protected interests. These are the results of the agreement on the tariff bill which has finally been reached by the conferences and which remains only to be confirmed, as it unquestionably will be, by the Republican majorities in the two houses of Congress.

It required a letter from the President to the conferences in which, in simple but straightforward terms he declared that if the rate on rough lumber was placed above $1.25 a thousand feet and the rates on women's gloves were increased above the Dingley law he would "reject" the bill, to bring the conferees to their senses and induce them to provide for that measure of revision downward which Mr. Taft deemed essential. When the time came to write the letter the President did not hesitate to take the step, however, and the result is one of which all Republicans may feel proud. The number of reductions contained in the completed bill is far greater than is generally supposed or than the public has had any opportunity to discover. Chairman Payne has presented the results in an effective manner. He shows that the duties have been lowered on $5,000,000 worth of goods used by the people while they have been increased on only $850,000 worth. To arrive at this comparison he takes the year 1905 as basis of comparison which is entirely consistent with the position he has taken all along that the figures of 1907 do not present a fair basis of comparison for the reason that that was a decidedly exceptional year. Mr. Payne shows, moreover, that the increases fall on $579,000 worth of luxuries which constitutes two thirds of all the increases. In further exemplification of his contention that the bill constitutes genuine revision of the tariff, Mr. Payne points out that in a number of instances the duties were so high as to be prohibitive that therefore there were no importations and in calculating the reductions now and taking the importations of any year under the Dingley law as a basis it is impossible to show how much the people will be benefitted because the reductions made will greatly increase the importation of those goods which are necessities so that figures made a year hence for instance would show a still larger percentage of decrease on goods used by the people. The reductions in the metals schedule should benefit every citizen of the country for every one used metal in some form from a penknife to a plow. The rate on iron ore is decreased from 40 cents to 15 cents a ton; on pig iron from $4 to $2.50 a ton on scrap iron which is used to work over into metal articles which do not require the highest grades of wrought iron from $4 to $1 a ton etc.

There has been considerable disposition to oppose the adoption of the tariff report by certain members of the two houses who feel that the industries of their section do not receive sufficient protection, but the indications are that this will abate and the bill will be adopted without any prolonged struggle. There is so much food in the measure that large majorities of the Republicans in both houses will be strongly disposed to promote its enactment and as for the disgruntled "stand patters" the President has made it very clear to them that if the bill should fail he would convene Congress in special session next October and the very commodities which they are most anxious to protect such as iron ore, hides, lumber, etc., would be subjected to a merciless fire which could not but result in placing them all on the free list. In the Senate there will doubtless be some Republican votes against the bill.

The Department of State is watching with keenest interest the progress of events in Spain. Fortunately there are few American interests in the unfortunate country which is torn with internal dissensions and gravely menaced by a foreign war. Of course American officials cannot with propriety voice publically their opinion regarding the affairs of a friendly nation but it is no secret that the opinion is held in Washington that most of the riots, arson, bomb throwing, etc., are merely the work of anarchists, many of them foreigners who have no interest in the war in Morocco, who believe they see in the present situation an opportunity for unlimited loot. With the military forces engaged in a contest with the Moors, they believe that an era of theft and rapine will not entail that punishments of the perpetrators which they so richly deserve.

THE MICHIGAN PACIFIC LUMBER COMPANY

Commenced operations April 1st, and reports are received from the Camp regularly. Logs are now being delivered to the mills at the rate of 150,000 feet daily at a profit of $6.00 per thousand feet; $900 per day, or $300,000 per year. These are facts, not estimates. The Company will market 300,000 feet daily next year—figure for yourself what the profits will be. At this rate it would take twenty-five years to cut the timber.

If you are interested in learning how money is made from operation in Timber, write us for copies of the reports as they come from Camp.

WEDDING BELLS

RING TODAY FOR OUR VILLAGE POSTMASTER, CHARLES BIDWELL

And Miss Flora H. Hartbeck former superintendent of our public schools.

WAS MARRIED TODAY IN INDIANAPOLIS, IND.

Charles Bidwell, the Tecumseh postmaster, was married in Indianapolis, Ind., this morning at 9 o'clock to Miss Flora H. Hartbeck, former superintendent of the public schools at the home of the latter's sister. Mr. and Mrs. Bidwell will take a short boat trip and will soon be at home to their friends in Tecumseh in their newly furnished home on Logan street. They have the best wishes of a host of friends in Tecumseh. A large number of telegrams conveyed congratulations to the newly married couple today.

LADY SUPERINTENDENT.

Mrs. Ella Flagg-Young has been chosen superintendent of Chicago schools.

Mrs. Ella Flagg Young, principle of the Chicago Normal school, was selected unanimously by the board of education Thursday as superintendent of Chicago school system, and will receive a salary of $10,000.

There were five men in the race. One of the male candidates was chosen for assistant superintendent, who will be in training, in case Mrs. Young would wish to retire in a few years.

We see Chicago is following the example of Tecumseh, choosing a lady superintendent, and it is a wise choice.

Some one has suggested that the song of the "weaker sex," be revised.

MRS. J. M. HIENS

WINS IN THE FREE PRESS POPULARITY CONTEST.

Left today for Detroit and Wednesday starts for the trip across the country.

THEY WILL VISIT THE ALASKA-PACIFIC-YUKON EXPOSITION AND OTHER PLACES OF INTEREST.

Mrs. J. M. Heins of this place was one of the winners in the Free Press popularity contest, which closed last Wednesday. Fifteen ladies will enjoy a trip through the west and the Alaska-Pacific-Yukon Exposition. Mrs. Heins went to Detroit to-day and will leave that city on the western trip Wednesday morning at 7:45.

Ten ladies following the leaders in this great contest will enjoy a trip to the Thousand Islands. Miss Mildred Lawrence of Adrain makes one of this party.

The friends of Mrs. Heins are proud of her success, and trust that she will enjoy the trip immensely.

You may comfort yourself with the thought that after all your heirs will be responsible for the wording of your epitaph.

MI-O-NA CURES

Perhaps you have read of the remarkable relief and cure that dyspeptics of Tecumseh are obtaining from Mi-o-na, the money back dyspepsia cure. Now you may be suffering from dyspepsia, either acute or chronic, and you may be skeptical in regard to the mighty curative powers of Mi-o-na. But did you ever stop to think that C. A. Wright & Son have been selling Mi-o-na for years on a money back guarantee for dyspepsia and all stomach troubles? And do you think they would continue to sell hundreds of packages monthly if Mi-o-na didn't back up the claim made for it? Try Mi-o-na at C. A. Wright & Son's risk. It relieves in 24 hours. It cures dyspepsia, sea and car sickness, vomiting of pregnancy and all stomach disorders. 50 cents for a box that will rid you of dyspepsia as well as skepticism.

"Indigestion had given me much irritation, annoyance and suffering for a long time and I was advised to try Mi-o-na and had a treatment procured. I used Mi-o-na for a time and the nausea vomiting, sourness and general stomach weakness left me, as also did the pains and distress. I can give a good recommendation to the use of Mi-o-na, as for stomach complaint, I know it to be all right." E. H. Crosby, Logan St., Tecumseh, Mich. Oct. 19, 1908.

Oliver Chilled Plows

THE Nos. 0-98 and 0-99 STEEL BEAM
RIGHT HAND ONLY

For variable and difficult soils, including heavy clay and grit, mixed with gravel and boulders, these plows are particularly adapted. Where new ground is being opened up, the steel beam plow takes the lead, its great strength being a decided advantage when subjected to severe strain and rough usage. The slip-nose points and reversable wings are self-sharpening by use, and good work is therefore always the result. A wonderful saving in dollars and cents is also made possible.

The No. 0-98 is generally used with two horses. Size of furrow, 7x13 inches. The No. 0-99 is considered a two or three-horse plow. Size of furrow, 9x16 inches.

THE CHILDREN LIKE IT
KENNEDY'S LAXATIVE COUGH SYRUP

August time tells on the nerves. But that spiritless, no ambition feeling can be easily and quickly altered by taking what is known to druggists everywhere as Dr. Shoop's Restorative. Within 48 hours after beginning to use the Restorative improvement will be noticed. Of course, full health will not immediately return. The gain, however, will surely follow. And best of all you will realize and feel your strength and ambition as it is returning. Outside influences depress first the "inside nerves" then the stomach, heart and kidneys will usually fail. Strengthen these failing nerves with Dr. Shoop's Restorative and see how quickly health will be yours again. Sold by all dealers.

SHOT HERSELF.

Woman Had No Desire to Live Following Daughter's Death.

Lawton, Mich., Aug. 2.—"I want to die; since my daughter left me I have had no more desire to live," said Mrs. Lydia Barneau, aged forty-five years, of Kingsbury, Ind., Saturday night.

At 5 o'clock Sunday morning she arose from her bed in the home of her brother, Phillip Kelley, in this city, where she had been keeping house, and fired a bullet through her heart. Her wish was gratified one hour later.

Her only child, a daughter, died several months ago, following her husband, and since then she has brooked constantly over the double affliction.

ATTEMPTED TO SLEEP ON TRACK

Farmer Near Saginaw Ground to Pieces.

Saginaw, Mich., Aug. 2.—With a half emptied whisky flask in his back pocket as evidence of the reason for lying down on the railroad track, Alonzo Wolff, sixty years old, a farm hand employed on the Fifield farm, four miles east of this city, was run over and instantly killed by a westbound Pere Marquette freight train, a few miles out of this city, at 1 o'clock Sunday morning. The accident happened two miles from his home.

The engineer and fireman of the train saw a dark object lying across the track, but not in time to stop the train. Wolff used the rail as a pillow and laid his head on it.

A widow and two children are left in destitute circumstances.

Charlotte, Mich., Aug. 2.—Lawyers representing the heirs of the late Emma Glover of Grand Ledge have commenced suit in chancery court against William R. Clarke of Grand Ledge, an attorney who was administrator of the Golver estate. FIRST OIL WELL.

Golden Anniversary of Its Success to Be Observed.

Titusville, Pa., Aug. 2.—The eyes of oildom will be turned here during the latter end of this month, when the golden anniversary of the drilling of the first oil well in the world will be celebrated. Colonel Edwin W. Drake was the man to drill the first artesian well in search of the fluid on Aug. 22, 1859, just southeast of Titusville.

Dr. Drake located the spot for his first experiment on what is now the Emory farm, and on Aug. 28 the drill tapped a vein of oil sixty-nine and one-half feet below the surface. It is proposed to erect a suitable memorial over the site of the old Drake well.

THE END IN SIGHT.

Believed Tariff Bill Will Become Law by Last of Week.

Washington, Aug. 2.—Unless something happens to provoke heated discussions of a political character the new tariff bill should be enacted into law and the extraordinary session of congress adjourned before the end of the present week. Inquiry among senators opposed to the adoption of the conference report on the Payne-Aldrich bill indicates that the debate will not be as extended as it threatened to be before the conferees reported.

The senate met at 10 o'clock today. The session probably will begin at that hour each day and will continue until 6 or 7 o'clock daily until the report is adopted.

Senator Aldrich is determined that the conference report shall not be carried over into next week.

BRIEF DISPATCHES.

The Clan-na-Gael track and field games at Celtic park, L. I., Sunday were productive of a new world's record in the two hops and jump. Daniel Ahearn of the Irish-American Athletic club covered 50 feet 6 1-2 inches, which is six inches more than the recognized world's record made by Dan Shannahan of Limerick, Ireland, nearly twenty years ago.

Makes Record Aeroplane Flight.

Chalons-sur-Marne, Aug. 2.—M. Sommer has just made a flight of 1 hour, 50 minutes and 30 seconds duration in his biplane, beating the records of all of the French aviators.

Startled the Tailor.

A London tailor was once measuring Dr. Parker, who had a quaint sense of humor, for an overcoat, when suddenly the doctor broke forth in his most sepulchral voice:

"Can you measure the ineffable?"

The assistant looked up and saw that the doctor was extremely grave. He said:

"I beg your pardon, sir."

The doctor raised both his hands with a grand upward sweep and said: "Can you measure the ineffable? Can you comprehend the infinite?"

"We'll make you a nice coat, sir," returned the puzzled assistant. Tapping the doctor's shin, he said:

"That's about the length, sir?"

"Longer!" ejaculated the doctor in determined tones.

"There, sir?"

"Longer!" thundered the great man.

The tailor remonstrated. As a technical professional he could give points on tailoring to any preacher that ever wore a head.

"If you have it any longer, you won't be able to walk," he remarked conclusively.

The doctor looked on him compassionately and, once more extending his arms toward the skies, said confidentially:

"I don't want to walk; I want to soar!"

Lundyfoot and His Snuff.

The shop of a Dublin tobacconist named Lundyfoot was destroyed by fire. While he was gazing dolefully into the smoldering ruins he noticed that his poorer neighbors were gathering the snuff from the canister. He tested the snuff for himself and discovered that the fire had largely improved its pungency and aroma. This was a hint worth profiting by. He secured another shop, built a lot of ovens, subjected the snuff to a heating process, gave the brand a name and in a few years became rich through an accident which he at first thought had ruined him. It was Lundyfoot to whom the great orator and wit, John Philpot Curran, suggested the celebrated motto to the coat of arms emblazoned by the successful tobacconist upon the panels of his carriage, a motto which had its meaning in Latin and English and was significant in both, "Quid Rides" (who laughs). "Quid," it may be mentioned, was a nickname bestowed on tobacconists at the time, owing to a prominent article in their stock of trade.

The King of Instruments.

Restricted as is its range of dynamics, the violin has had for its votaries men of such widely differing temperaments as Paganini and Spohr, Wilhelmj and Sarasate, Joachim and Ysaye. Its literature does not compare with that of the piano, for which Bach, Beethoven, Schumann, Chopin and Brahms have written their choicest music, yet the intimate nature of the violin, its capacity for passionate emotion, crowns it—and not the organ with its mechanical tonal effects—as the king of instruments. Nor does the voice make the peculiarly poignant appeal of the violin. Its lowest note is the G below the treble clef and its top note a mere squeak, but it seems in a few octaves to have imprisoned within its wooden walls a miniature world of feeling. Even in the hands of a clumsy amateur it has the formidable power of giving pain, while in the grasp of a master it is capable of rousing the soul.—James Huneker in Everybody's.

Her Proposal.

"You've been courting me now for a number of years, George," remarked a girl to a young man, "and I want to make a little leap year proposal."

"I—I am not in a position to m-marry just yet," stammered the youth, "but"—

"Who said anything about marriage?" interrupted the girl. "I was going to propose that you stop coming here and give somebody else a chance."—Philadelphia Inquirer.

Man's Superiority.

"Woman," exclaimed the suffragette, "is the equal of man in every respect."

"Oh, I don't know," replied a man in the audience; "it takes a man to put an angleworm on a fishhook."—Detroit Free Press.

Weak Women

Be weak and ailing women, there is at least one way to help. But with that way, two treatments must be combined. One is local, one is constitutional, but both are important, both essential. Dr. Shoop's Night Cure is the local.

Dr. Shoop's Restorative, the Constitutional.

The former—Dr. Shoop's Night Cure—is a topical mucous membrane suppository remedy, while Dr. Shoop's Restorative is wholly an internal treatment. The Restorative reaches throughout the entire system, seeking the repair of all nerve, all tissue, and all blood affliction.

The "Night Cure", as its name implies, does its work while you sleep. It soothes sore and inflamed mucous surfaces, heals local weaknesses and discharges, while the Restorative, these nervous complaints, strengthened, vigor and ambition, builds up wasted tissues, bringing about renewed strength, vigor, and energy. Take Dr. Shoop's Restorative—Tablets or Liquid—as a general tonic to the system. For positive local help, use as well

Old Manx "Banknotes."

Speaking of the curious Manx banking lore of the past, the Liverpool Post says that a singular state of affairs was exhibited in "the island" at the close of the Napoleonic wars. Trade was brisk, money was more freely adventured, and all sorts of private persons began to issue notes. There was no occasion whatever to have sterling against them. All you had to do was to get some one to take them and pass them on. The fashion grew till even the humbler traders issued card "promises to pay," the values most in circulation being 5 shillings, a shilling and even sixpence. Once an advocate from Castletown went to Peel to collect a judgment of £350 from the coroner of Glenfaba. This worthy paid him 2,704 card notes, many of them worthless. They took several hours to examine and count, and their transport was an item of extreme difficulty. Finally they were put into a big sack, half shaken to one end and half to the other, and the whole slung over the back of a horse. The father of the horse, soaking through, spoiled nearly half the cards!

Clearing the Atmosphere.

In his capacity of dramatic critic Mr. J. Comyns Carr, the author, wrote a notice of the play of "Charles I.," in which Irving played under the management of Mr. Bateman. His production deeply incensed the manager. In order perhaps to find the opportunity of informing the critic of his disapproval, the manager invited him to a supper at the Westminster club on the second or third night of the production. When he thought the fitting moment had arrived Mr. Bateman led the conversation to the point at issue and, emphatically banging the table with his fist, declared in the loudest of tones that he did not produce his plays at the Lyceum theater to please Mr. Comyns Carr. There was a moment's awkward silence, which Mr. Carr confesses he did not feel quite able to break, but which was released by a wit of the company with the happy retort, "Well, dear boy, then you can't be surprised if they don't please him."

Wasted All Three Wishes.

An Irish legend has it that a good fairy once visited an old couple and promised them that any three wishes they would make would be granted. After racking their brains for some time in an endeavor to discover what they desired most the couple decided to visit the county fair to see if something there would suggest what they wanted. They did so, and, after rambling around all day and not seeing anything that exactly suited them, toward evening they found themselves before a display of kitchen utensils. Among them was a soup ladle, cheap, but likely to appeal to a woman, so the old woman in an absent moment said, "Oh, I wish I had one of those," and immediately she had it. The old man was so enraged because his wife had thoughtlessly thrown away one valuable wish that he retorted, "I wish that was stuck down your throat," and immediately this was done. Thereupon he was at once sorry at what he wished, and the only thing left to do was to wish the ladle out again. So all three wishes went for naught.

How Snakes Get Over Ground.

Although the snake appears to have no legs or feet, it may be said to be practically supplied with upward of a hundred pairs of them. In fact, each joint of the backbone bears a pair of ribs, which are mobile and have their points attached to the inner surface of one of the large transverse, platelike scales which clothe the undersurface of the body. Thus by the movements of the ribs attached to it each plate can be drawn forward and its margin applied to the ground. By the successive application of these multitudinous plates the body can be drawn forward in a straight line without its being thrown into undulations from side to side. But rapid movements are also effected by such undulations, and serpents can by pressure and appropriate muscular action climb trees and sometimes spring forward. They also swim easily by lateral flexures, but no serpents advance by vertical bendings of the body, though they are so often drawn in such an attitude.

Bolivia's Electrical Storms.

Owing to the peculiar topographical formation of Bolivia, electric and other phenomena are of constant occurrence, the principal zone where such disturbances take place being the Altiplanicie, or grand plateau. As the atmosphere is heavily charged with electricity both in summer and winter, dry or electric storms are of frequent occurrence both on the plateau and in the valleys. Before the rainy season sets in electrical accumulation becomes considerable on the plateau region, its most violent manifestations taking place toward the eastern section of the tablelands. An electrical storm in these regions is always a most imposing spectacle, as the tremendous force of the wind, almost equal to a hurricane, and the heavy electrical accumulation in the clouds produce terrible atmospheric explosions and violent detonations, while the surface of the ground sparkles and crackles.

He Got It Wrong.

A lady while going downstairs to dinner had the misfortune to step slightly on the dress of a lady in front of her. The man on whose arm the former was leaning said aloud, rudely, so that the couple in front might hear: "Always getting in the way, like Balaam's ass."

Upon which the lady whose gown had been trodden on, turning round, replied with a sweet smile:

"Pardon me! It was the angel who stood in the way and the ass which spoke."—Tit-Bits.

Sunset In "the Red City" of Bavaria.

The numerous entrances to the old town of Rothenburg are guarded by beautiful watchtowers, which are inhabited by impoverished old women, who rent their airy lodgings for a nominal sum. The red twinkle of their lamps high over the dusky streets of Rothenburg at night—for it is as mediaeval in its lighting as in many other ways—is very charming in effect. The walls of Rothenburg are a constant delight to visitors, who, by dint of much squeezing through narrow passageways and groping in darkness, are able to make a circuit of the city, getting glimpses on the way through loopholes of the green country outside. Wondrous views of the town are also to be had from many of the distant hills. At sunset the sight of its graceful towers and clutter of red roof tops is like a fair vision of romance. The city blazes for a moment in a fiery mist, then suddenly melts, mirage-like, in the gathering dusk, leaving a sense of something born of dream, the illusion of an enchanter's wand.—Rothenburg Letter to Vogue.

Thought She Had Arrived.

"I have moved into a perfect gem of an apartment on the sixth floor of one of those new houses," said the woman who paints china, "and am reveling in its liberal supply of fresh air and sunlight."

"But don't you find the stairs an overbalancing disadvantage?" asked an acquaintance.

"The thought of the cozy quarters at such moderate cost colors my climb with the roseate hue of optimism," laughed the artist, "but one of my customers, middle aged and filled with good food and the joy of living, evidently found it a harrowing experience.

"It seemed ages that I waited in the hall after the ringing of the lower bell, and upon hearing the labored breathing of my ascending visitor I ran back for the smelling salts.

"When I had administered all the means of resuscitation at hand she managed to articulate between gasps:

"'I thought St. Peter always opened the door.'"—New York Times.

Food of the Chinese.

In the Revue d'Hygiene Dr. Malegnon, who lived for many years in China, gives some curious details of the food of the Chinese. This is what he says of the sons of heaven and the way they eat eggs: "The Chinese are great eaters of eggs, which they take hard boiled. One finds them in all the roadside places for refreshment. The Celestials have an expression, 'Eggs of a hundred years.' The eggs are not always a century in age, but one is able to get them of many years' standing. The Celestials have a preference for the egg of the duck or goose. They are placed with aromatic herbs in slaked lime for a period, the minimum time of treatment being five or six weeks. Under the influence of time the yoke liquefies and takes a dark green color. The white coagulates and becomes green. The product of the eggs, which has a strong odor, from which a stranger betakes himself quickly, the Chinese eat as hors d'oeuvres, and it is said to have the taste of lobster."

Expense No Object.

During an inclement spell of weather a lady of the order of the newly rich was so unfortunate as to contract a painful affection of the throat, and she accordingly accepted the advice of a friend that she consult a great London specialist noted for his expensive fees.

"Your ailment is not a serious one," said the specialist after examination. "You'll soon be all right. I'll just indicate to your family surgeon precisely where to touch your throat with nitrate of silver, and I think that will meet the case exactly."

"Oh, doctor," protested the wealthy matron in a tone of mingled surprise and indignation, "do order him to use nitrate of gold! Expense is a matter, I assure you, quite immaterial to me!"—London Answers.

Spontaneous Combustion.

Spontaneous combustion can only occur when oxidation causes the temperature to rise to the ignition point of the material. Spontaneous combustion of the human body is impossible on account of the heat regulating effect of the 75 or 80 per cent of water contained. The enormous heat necessary to dry the tissues sufficiently would destroy life long before ignition could take place. An old idea was that the alcohol in a confirmed drunkard might promote combustion, but Liebig showed that even if the body could give off inflammable vapor and this could become ignited the body itself would not be set on fire.

Compensation.

"I must have an iron bedstead," declared a tourist at an inn.

"Sir," answered Boniface, "I am sorry there ain't a single iron bedstead in the 'ouse. But you will find the mattresses very nice and 'ard, sir!"—London Tit-Bits.

THE LANDLORD'S MISTAKE.

An American's Experience in an English Country Inn.

An American was journeying through England and encountered in a certain town a rather pretentious inn, at which he ordered turbot, a favorite dish in those parts.

The American had had a few days of dense fog, and his appearance and manner perhaps showed that he had become a little wheezy in consequence of the climate. He was indeed forced to have frequent recourse to his handkerchief.

When the turbot was brought the guest fancied, even before it reached his plate, that it was no longer fresh, and an attempt to eat it confirmed that impression. He called the proprietor, who at once sent a waiter for fresh turbot and removed the objectionable dish.

"I beg your pardon, sir," said the innkeeper, "but we got the idea, sir, as you came in that you 'ad a bad cold in your 'ead, sir."

"And suppose I had? What could that have to do with my being served spoiled fish?" demanded the indignant traveler.

"Heverything, sir. We 'as this rule in this 'ouse: Fish as is a leetle doubtful, like that 'ere, sir—them which 'as lost the flavor of youth, as I may say—them we serves to parties as appears to 'ave colds in their 'eads, sir, and we finds that, bein' as such parties can't smell nothink, they likes the fish just as well, sir, and hoften they prefers 'em."—Cincinnati Commercial Tribune.

LONG DELAYED PROPOSAL.

A Note in a Bouquet That Was For Years Unanswered.

One of the longest delayed proposals on record is related in a French story of a shy young subaltern who was ordered away to the wars. Not daring to speak, he sent a nosegay of yellow roses to the girl he loved, with a little note inside begging her if she returned his love to wear one of the flowers in her breast that night at the ball. She appeared without it, and he went away broken hearted.

Years afterward, when he was a lame old general, he again met his old love, now a white haired widow. One day his old sweetheart gently asked him why he had never married. "Madam," he answered somewhat sternly, "you ought to know best. If you had not refused to answer that note in the bouquet of yellow roses I might have been a happier man." "The note in the bouquet?" she repeated, growing pale.

She opened an old cabinet and took out from a drawer a shriveled bouquet of what had been yellow roses, among whose leafless stalks lurked a scrap of paper yellow with age. "See! I never had your note," she said, holding the bouquet up. "If I had I would not have answered it as you fancied." "Then answer it now," said the gallant old soldier. And the long delayed proposal was accepted at last.—London Telegraph.

Breakfast Hours.

A traveler stopped at a hotel in Greenland, where the nights are six months long, and as he registered asked a question of the clerk.

"What time do you have breakfast?"

"From half past March to a quarter to May."—Harper's Weekly.

Boring the Bores.

"What do you do to get rid of bores?"

"Just as soon as they come into my office I start in telling them of the latest cute thing my baby said."—Detroit Free Press.

But He Did.

Her Mother—I saw him kiss you! I am terribly shocked. I did not for a moment imagine he would dare take such a liberty. Herself—Nor did I, ma. In fact, I bet him a pair of gloves he daren't!

PLUCKING BATS.

A French Industry That Is Linked With the Restaurants.

"I plucked bats in Paris once at 4 francs a day," said a sailor. "Bats hibernate in the winter. What I mean to say is that they fall into a kind of drugged sleep. In this here sleep, clingin' together in big, black, soft bunches, they hang from the roofs of caves or the inside of chimbleys. See-h' I was down on my luck—I was studyin' art in them days—a restaurateur over in the Latin quarter, cr Cart-shay, as we used to say, guv me a job of bat pluckin'.

"He showed me the ropes the first day. I soon got on to it. It was dead easy. Just go into a cave, you know, locate a bunch of bats and then pluck 'em one at a time like grapes and drop 'em in your burlap bag. All that winter I'd set out from the Cart-shay with my big bag in the mornin', and on toward night you'd see me staggerin' back along the Bull Meesh, as we called the Boulevard Michel, loaded down with hibernatin' bats.

"'You don't feed these to your clientele, Jacques?' I said to the boss one night.

"'Maybe—oh, yes,' said he. 'They always figure in our farfamed one franc dinner.'

"I gave him a reproachful look.

"'Bat's meat is excellent,' he says. 'The meat is pink and very fine. Fried in butter with a parsley sauce, the gourmets in the Cafe Anglais could never, never tell it from venison.'

"'You wouldn't catch me eatin' it,' says I.

"He chuckled and nudged me in the ribs.

"'No?' says he. 'No? And yet, mon vieux, the bat largely figures in our excellent five sou navarin that you so dearly love!'"—Cincinnati Enquirer.

A New City a Thousand Years Old.

Budapest, whose front is circled with lights like a crown, whose hills rise dark and feathery above the river, whose parliament buildings run along the bank and are second to none but Westminster—Budapest, bright, flashing, gay, beautiful, modern and rich, ardent and executive, close built and amalgamative, blender of peoples—is the product of only a few decades, and yet at its last exposition it celebrated its thousandth birthday. Pest, to the right of the river—for the cities are twin and divided by the Danube—Pest dates back to 1200, and Buda was the Ofen of the Romans. Buda climbs up the opposite hill, today magnificently new, but sown round with green crumbling walls that mark the passing of the original founders whose painted galleys came up the Danube from the Black sea. The twentieth century civilization, sharply new and powerful, must for a moment be brushed aside and the Buda of mediaeval times put in its stead.—Marie Van Vorst in Harper's Magazine.

Gathering Cloves.

Cloves are now cultivated in many of the tropical regions of the earth. A clove tree begins to bear at the age of ten years and continues until it reaches the age of seventy-five years. There are two crops a year, one in June and one in December. The tree is an evergreen and grows from forty to fifty feet high, with large oblong leaves and crimson flowers at the end of small branches in clusters of from ten to twenty. The tree belongs to the same botanical order as the guava. The cloves, which are the undeveloped buds, are at first white, then light green and at the time of gathering bright red. Pieces of white cloth are spread under the trees at harvesting time, and the branches are beaten gently with bamboo sticks until the cloves drop. They are dried in the sun, being tossed about daily until they attain the rich dark color which proclaims them ready for shipment.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

The Wedding Buffoon.

The spirit which makes a wedding an occasion for rude practical joking and boisterous horseplay has long caused the judicious, even those who are endowed with a sense of humor, to grieve. Why should a man or woman who have just taken upon themselves a relationship momentous in the eye of the law and sacred in that of religion be regarded as fit subjects for annoyance and persecution at the hands of their friends and neighbors? And why, above all, should it be thought funny to annoy and persecute them?

Not infrequently serious injury has resulted from the rough antics of the wedding clowns, who are, of course, too ill bred to consider anything as intangible as the dignity and happiness of their unfortunate victims.

But cheering intelligence comes from Kansas. A charivari party in a town of that state recently dragged an unwilling bride and groom up and down the main street of the village in an open wagon. Incidentally they ran over a boy and broke his leg. Now the town must pay the boy examplary damages. The Kansas supreme court has decided that the exuberant humorists who pulled the wagon constituted a lawless and violent mob, which the police officers of the town ought to have dispersed. That the mob was "good natured" and "meant no harm" does not render the town less liable for the harm the mob actually did.—Youth's Companion.

The above article was handed to us by President Wightman, who desires all residents of the village to peruse it.

Mitchell "Ranger."

SAID MAJOR GEN. LEONARD A. WOOD TO MAJOR GEN. JOHN F. WESTON.

WELL, What He Did Say, is Contained in a Dispatch which Private Parrott N. Y. N. G. will carry from New York to 'Frisco in the Mitchell "Ranger."

(From Our Regular Correspondent.)

Washington, D. C., Aug. 5, 1909.

Major General Leonard A. Wood, commanding the department of the East has prepared an official dispatch to be delivered to Major General John F. Weston, commander of the department California, which is to be carried across the continent in an automobile by a military man who will endeavor to overcome numerous obstacles—constructive, from a military standpoint—adhere to a fixed running schedule, and visit such military posts on the long, transcontinental route, as the courier in charge of the expedition may elect to include in his itinerary.

M. E. Parrott of Poughkeepsie, a private in the New York state National Guard, a trained soldier, enthusiastic automobile tourist and graduate of a military school that made a specialty of training men for large military operations in the field, has been appointed to bear the dispatch from General Wood to General Weston.

The Mitchell "Ranger," in the estimation of the trained soldiers who will make this long trip, is especially adapted to the diversified highways and trails that will be used. With its clearance, road ability, and time tried motor and and breaking features, the dispatch car may be depended upon to go through with a "perfect score" each day.

UNITARIAN ANNIVERSARY.

Last Sunday was the anniversary of the Unitarian church here and was observed in a manner befitting the occasion. Part of the pretty little auditorium was decorated with flowers. The program was good all the way through. The two singers of Tecumseh, Misses Edna Gaston and Metta McKinney, in solo and duet charmed the audience. Miss Anna Ferguson of Tecumseh, gave a reading displaying much elocutionary ability. Rev. Barrow of the Jackson Unitarian church gave a scholarly address from the text "Quit ye like a man," and he entitled it, "The Test of Life". His gradation from inanimate to animate on up into man with the divine spark was done with eloquence, displaying deep thought and knowledge of the sciences. A good dinner was served in the church dining room at noon.—Onsted News.

If an orator will only talk loud enough every third sentence there are some people in the audience who will applaud him.

The man behind the gun is the man who wins life's battles.

COME IN AND SEE THE SEPARATOR THAT SEPARATES

The Improved Frictionless Empire

Your cream—all of it—from the milk. That separates you from the most work. That separates you from the least money. That separates you from all worry.

Selection of cream separators for this store was made only after a careful consideration of all lines. It was determined to have nothing but the best.

That's Why You Find the Empire Here.

You do not buy a separator as a straw hat to throw away at the end of the season. It is a permanent investment. You want returns. The guarantee of the makers and the guarantee of the store go with the Empire Separator. You will get returns in all the cream, in the best cream—no taint—no odor—in easy running, in easy cleaning, in simple operation—no complicated machinery to get out of order and worry the life out of you. But you are not asked to believe all this without seeing.

Come in and See How the Empire Works.

It almost runs itself. The bowl revolves with so little friction that it runs a full half hour after you stop turning the crank. And it is just as simple as it is easy. Nothing to get out of order, and no complicated parts to wash. Come in and see it.

Get also a supply of the sensible, interesting dairy literature free to you, waiting for you at this store. It doesn't take up much space and it's good reading. You'll be convinced.

A. S. Nusbaum, Batesville, Ind., writes: "Last year I suffered for three months with a summer cold so distressing that it interfered with my business. I had many of the symptoms of hay fever and a doctor's prescription did not reach my case and I took several medicines which seemed only to aggravate it. Fortunately I insisted upon having Foley's Honey and Tar. It quickly cured me. My wife has since used Foley's Honey and Tar with the same success."

How Moody Got Out of It.

Many were the interesting experiences belonging to the first Northfield conference called by D. L. Moody. One especially showed Mr. Moody himself in his varying phases. It was the conversation hour at noon, and about 100 men were sitting under the tent on Round Top.

Mr. Moody, leaning sturdily against the tent pole, led the meeting. Suddenly there came from him the plump question, "Brethren, how many of you have so grown in grace that you can bear to have your faults told?"

Many hands went up. Quick as a flash, but neither sharply nor insultingly, Mr. Moody turned to a young minister and said:

"Brother, you have spoken thirteen times in twelve days here and perhaps shut out twelve other good men from speaking."

It was true. The young man had been presuming and officious. He had held up his hand, but he could not bear to be chidden, and now he stoutly defended himself, only making matters worse. Then another minister broke forth and berated Mr. Moody for his bluntness. The latter blushed, but listened until the reproof was done. Then he suggestively covered his face and spoke through his fingers, "Brethren, I admit the fault my friend charges me with; but, brethren, I did not hold up my hand!"

World's Largest Barometer.

The biggest barometer in the world is in the city of Faenza, Italy. It is a monument to Torricelli, inventor of the barometer, who was born in that city 300 years ago. The scale of this barometer is on a basis of feet where the ordinary barometer is measured in inches. The liquid column is thirty-seven feet high at normal. It was intended to use a thirty-two foot column of water, but this was abandoned because water evaporated too quickly. Then glycerin was tried, but with this liquid the normal height was only twenty-seven feet, which was not enough. Olive oil was chosen finally. The tube rests against a monumental pillar of stone. Olive oil is the lightest liquid yet used for a barometer. When a lighter one is made available a taller barometer may be constructed. Pascal made barometers of water and wine mixed. Zophar Mills of New York made a glycerin barometer, and Jaubert set up one of water in the famous Tour St. Jacques, the weather bureau center of Paris.—Detroit Free Press.

Weak Women

For weak and ailing women, there is at least one way to help. But with that way, two treatments must be combined. One is local, one is constitutional; but both are important, both essential. Dr. Shoop's Night Cure is the Local. Dr. Shoop's Restorative, the Constitutional. The former—Dr. Shoop's Night Cure—is a topical ointment membrane suppository remedy, while Dr. Shoop's Restorative is wholly an internal treatment. The Restorative reaches throughout the entire system, seeking the repair of all nerve, all tissue, and all blood ailments. The "Night Cure", as its name implies, does its work while you sleep. It soothes sore and inflamed mucous surfaces, heals local weaknesses and discharges, while the Restorative, wages nervous and stomach, gives renewed vigor and ambition, builds up wasted tissues, bringing about renewed strength, vigor, and energy. Take Dr. Shoop's Restorative—Tablets or Liquid—as a general tonic to the system. For positive local help, use as well

Elderly People Helped Free

The last years of life are the sweetest, and yet the most difficult to prolong. It is then that the greatest care is exercised in maintaining bodily health. But the chief care should always be with regard to the food you eat and whether you are digesting it properly. You should not allow yourself to become constipated.

No doubt you have tried salts and cathartic pills, purgative tablets, etc., and have come to the conclusion that they are violent in action and do but temporary good. Listen, then, to the voice of experience with regard to a wonderful and mild laxative, Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. It is not new, only we are trying to find new friends for it.

A. A. Felts, of Johnston City, Ill., suffered from stomach trouble for six years and found his cure in Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. His wife uses it too with success. We could name hundreds of others. Some heard of it first through neighbors or friends; others through the doctor's offer to send any sufferer from a stomach, liver or bowel complaint a free sample bottle for trial, without charge. If you will send your name and address he will send you a trial bottle direct to your home. If it proves itself as he claims then continue the treatment by buying a 50-cent or $1 bottle of your druggist, as all of them sell it. Old people, like children, should look for purity, and it is well to mention that the purity of this remedy is vouched for with the U. S. government. Also, though a free bottle is sent to prove its merits, results are always guaranteed from the regular bottles bought of druggists, who will refund your money if it does not satisfy you. Send at least for the free test bottle today.

If there is anything about your ailment that you don't understand, or if you want any medical advice, write to the doctor, and he will answer you fully. There is no charge for this service. The address is Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 500 Caldwell bldg., Monticello, Ill.

Where Widows Commit Suicide.

Old customs die very hard in China, says a writer in the Wide World Magazine, and in several parts of the Celestial empire it is still considered a high act of virtue for a woman to commit suicide after the death of her husband. According to the law, the proceeding is actually legal in some provinces, and such is the state of public opinion that in districts where it is officially prohibited the authorities rarely interfere. These extraordinary voluntary sacrifices may frequently be seen, and I myself saw one take place. The widow herself, clad in white, the Chinese mourning color; the gallows erected for the occasion and the immense crowd gathered to witness the grewsome spectacle made a picture which I shall never forget.

Crushing a Snob.

There is an anecdote of the earlier years of King Edward VII. which gives an interesting side light on his loyalty to his friends. It was in the billiard room of a private house in London where the then Prince of Wales had been dining. The royal guest was about to help himself to a cigar from a buffet when a nouveau riche, pushing forward, extended his cigar case, saying, "Try one of mine, sir; they are much better." The prince replied, with his proverbial urbanity, "My dear, sir, if my host's dinner is good enough for me his cigars certainly are too."

Don't Abbreviate States.

"Your letter to Napoleon village went wrong, eh?" said the postmaster. "Well, it's your own fault. You should have written out the name of the state in full."

"Ah, what for?" snarled the complainant. "I put 'Tenn.' on the envelope. That couldn't be confused with any other state name."

"How about 'Penn.?'" said the postmaster. "Aren't 'Penn.' and 'Tenn.' a lot alike? Of course they are, and if people want their letters to go straight and prompt they ought always to write states out in full, for 'Cal.' and 'Col.' get confused continually; so do 'Nev.' and 'Neb.,' 'N. Y.' and 'N. J.,' 'Miss.' and 'Mass.' and 'Minn.,' 'Pa.' and 'Va.,' 'Me.' and 'Mo.'"—Cincinnati Enquirer.

History.

History is a running account of how King Somebody-or-other either did or did not get to a certain place, which nobody ever heard of, before King Somebody-else got there, from which we are usually supposed to conclude that it would have made quite a difference whether he did or not.

Like nearly everything else, history has two sides. The history of the garden of Eden depends upon whether it is related by a man or a woman.

The history of the American Revolution reads quite different in English books from the way it reads in our own books.

History is a bore, not only because you are unacquainted with the people who figure in it, but because it repeats itself.—Life.

Her Base Ingratitude.

When Duchenois, the great French actress, died some one met an old man who had been her intimate friend and who was apparently crushed with sorrow. Kindly meant professions of sympathy and consolation failed to cheer him. "For," said he, "it is not so much her loss which troubles me as her base ingratitude. Can you credit it? She left me nothing in her will, and yet, I dined with her at her own house three times a week regularly for thirty years!"

The Human Touch.

"But, my dear sir, your play does not even touch the chords of humanity!" remarked a theatrical lessee, referring to a comedy that he had deigned to scan.

"What! No human touch? Great Scott!" exclaimed the dramatist. "And the hero is always borrowing money from his friends!"

LINCOLN'S IRONY.

His Reply to a Petition For a Dishonest Boy's Pardon.

The Hon. Alexander H. Rice once paid a visit to President Lincoln on behalf of a Boston boy who had been imprisoned for robbing his employer's letters. After reading the petition, signed by many citizens of Boston, the president stretched himself in his chair and asked Mr. Rice if he had met a man going downstairs.

"Yes, Mr. President," replied Mr. Rice."

"His errand," said the president, "was to get a man pardoned out of the penitentiary, and now you have come to get a boy out of jail." Then, with characteristic humor, Mr. Lincoln continued: "I'll tell you what it is, we must abolish these courts or they will be the death of us. I thought it bad enough that they put so many men in the penitentiary for me to get out, but if they have now begun on the boys and the jails and have roped you into the delivery let's after them!

"They deserve the worst fate," he went on, "because, according to the evidence that comes to me, they pick out the very best men and send them to the penitentiary, and this present petition shows they are playing the same game on the boys and sending them all to jail. The man that you met on the stairs affirmed that his friend in the penitentiary is a most exemplary citizen, and Massachusetts must be a happy state if her boys out of jail are as virtuous as this one appears to be who is in.

"Yes, down with the courts and deliverance to their victims, and then we can have some peace!"—Boston Post.

The French Schoolboy's Hard Day.

French children are often on their way to school a little after 7 o'clock in the morning. If they have concluded their lessons by 9 o'clock in the evening it is only by dint of great application. Young men studying for the higher professions have appointments with their tutors at 5 o'clock in the morning in summer time; otherwise they cannot accomplish the mountain of work that lies before them. In all branches of art the labor of the tyro is immense. At the conservatory the strenuous life is carried to a point which provokes the astonishment even of laborious German students.—Pall Mall Gazette.

How High a Tiger Can Jump.

For the benefit of the prospective big game hunters a correspondent finally disposes of the theory that a tiger is unable to jump to any height from all fours. He records that he took refuge in a tree from a particular tiger. The beast, however, jumped up to him, "like an india rubber ball, a good seven feet," and it was only "by letting go with my right and ramming both barrels down his mouth that I did not have a very bad time of it."

The moral evidently is that when avoiding a tiger it is necessary to find a tree with its lowest branch at least sixteen feet from the ground.—India Field.

Vacation by Think.

Make a compact with your soul to take a vacation and the way is simple. There are portions of your time over which you have control. Probably your evenings and your Sundays are your own. Set apart a month or so. Eliminate the self assigned tasks for those hours out of business and give yourself up to the pursuit of pleasure. Get others to join you. Call a vacation club. Adopt a real vacation spirit and go in for a good time. Resolve never to speak of work out of business hours, but to fill to the full that time which is your own with recreations which most appeal to you. Did you ever sing? Sing now. Did you ever paint? Paint now. Remember nature's gifts to you and find occasion to praise nature within as well as without.—Exchange.

Herr Prof. Ignatz Moscheles, Pianoist, Composer & Conductor.

A Series of Reminiscences of Great Composers During a four years course of Study in the Lipzig Conservation of Music.

By Prof. James Gill of Chicago.

The following reminiscences of a great musician are written with the thought that they may prove interesting to all lovers of music and at the same time give a glimpse of musical life in a famous centre of music like Leipzig. The first and strongest recollection that rises in my memory is the sweet picture of Herr Prof. Ignatz Moscheles, and his wife. Both had pure white hair, and they could be found almost every day walking arm in arm to and from the Conservatorium. They always reminded one of young lovers. Moscheles at that time was over 70, and his wife but two or three years younger. No young lover could have been more attentive to his lady love, than Moscheles was to his sweet, beautiful wife, and no one could wonder why Moscheles loved her. Madam Moscheles had simply the face of a Madona with sweetness, purity and beauty beaming from every feature, her kind interest in all her husbands talented pupils, was shown in many a way that the world will never know. Moscheles and his wife were in fact an ideal couple, and many a student had his best bow always ready, when the Madam and the great teacher passed by. To have enjoyed the devoted love of all the students, must have given them the greatest of happiness. Madam Moscheles often came to the Conservatorium about the time her husband was through with his daily teaching, and then the two would always be seen walking home arm in arm. It was a sight; when once seen, could never again be forgotten. The first time I came personally in contact with Moscheles was one Friday evening after the student's weekly concert. We were walking down the Conservatorium stairs, when he turned to me and said, are you a Scotchman? I said yes. Ah, he said: "I knew Sir Walter Scott well, and have been at Abbotsford. Do you know my Op 6 3 and 75 on Scotch airs?" I told him I had that good fortune. After talking with him for a few minutes, in which he seemed to be full of praise for Sir Walter Scott and his family, and the beauty of his wonderful home, we parted the best of friends, and from that time I never missed a chance of improving my friendship with that great musician Herr Ignatz Moscheles had a most remarkable life. He came in contact with all the greatest musical men of his time, not only that, he enjoyed their friendship, he himself, being a most prolific writer in all the different forms of musical composition. He was the truest friend Beethoven ever had, and the last money Beethoven received came to him through the hands of Moscheles, at that time in London. Moscheles having heard that Beethoven, (the friend he loved,) was in great straits for the bare necessities of life, went round among his musical friends and raised $500 and sent it at once to Beethoven—this was the last money he ever received, for he died a few days later.

When Mendelsohn founded the Conservatorium in Leipzig, the first one asked to take charge of the Piano Department, was Moscheles, he could not resist the friendship of Mendelsohn, and so came to Leipzig, and from that time until his (Moschele's) death, he was identified with the Leipzig Conservatorium. The second time I came particularly in close contact with Moscheles, was through a young Scotchman by the name of Ferguson from Edinburgh, Scotland, he came to Leipzig to enter the music school, but as he came too late to go through the regular examination, he was sent to Moschele's house and I was appointed by the directors to take him there, and Moscheles would examine him. I had never been in Moschele's home, and so was delighted with the thought of going there, and seeing the home of the master I admired so much.

When we reached Moscheles house we were shown into a large parlor. At one side of the wall was an Erard upright piano. The walls were lined with pictures, some by Mendelsohn.

All around the room were innumerable tokens of friendship he had received from all over Europe, and in the center of the parlor was a large portfolio, evidently containing manuscipts.

Moscheles did not keep us waiting long. I introduced my scotch friend, who told Moscheles that he was prepared to play No. 1 of Mendelsohn's songs without words.

I saw in a moment that this pleased Moscheles, for anything that Mendelssohn had written was sure to give him pleasure.

My Scotch friend played his piece well, and Moscheles praised him for his talent, and presently going over to the large portfolio, already alluded to, he brought out and handed to us the original manuscript of the piece my friend had just played.

In Mendelssohn's own hand writing, then Moscheles said he would play the piece for us from the manuscript, and my Scotch friend opened his eyes when he heard how the piece sounded in the hands of such an artist.

After thanking Moscheles for his kindness, and admiring the beauty and clearness of Mendelssohn's writing, he saw we were interested in manuscripts, so he began to show us manuscripts by Mozart, Bach, Weber and other composers, when suddenly he turned to us and said, "new go down on your knees!" We stared at him and could not understand what he meant. Again he said, "down on your knees!" but my friend and I still could not understand why we should do this, and so remained standing. Then he put his hand into the portfolio once more and drew out along, thick manuscript and spread it out before us. We looked at the music before us, and could see very little that was intelligible in the confused mass of notes on the paper before us. It seemed as if some flies had got into an ink bottle, and then transferred their operations to the music paper. After a while we began to notice what looked like the beginning of a motive and here and there were characters that resembled notes. but it was evident nobody but the man who wrote this manuscript could possibly explain what was written there.

All this time we had had not one word of explanation from Moscheles. Then when he saw we were at our wits end, he said, "you are looking at the first sketch of the Ninth Symphony by Beethoven." Then we both felt like we were standing on Holy ground, and the expression on our faces convinced Moscheles that we realized the sacredness of the manuscript before us.

We left that parlor as if we were walking in air and it took us some time before our feet reached the earth, and for many a day the memory of that manuscript would come back to our mental vision and we would again see that hopeless puzzle of confusing notes dancing in every direction, but without a key to their meaning.

On a dark, bleak, snowy afternoon in March, a large number of sad hearted musical men and students wended their way to the dear home of Herr Prof. Ignatz Moscheles. where in the center of that large parlor, close to that portfolio he loved so well, lay the remains of our dear master in a casket. We sang two selections from St. Paul and Elijah by Mendelssohn. The service was of the simplest kind, and then we accompanied the dear departed to the grave, and as we cast the handful of earth down into the grave, we all seemed to remember that our friend had done his work well, and we could imagine the Heavenly Master saying, "well done, thou good and faithful servant, enter thou into the joy of thy Lord."

The Cold Water Cure.

If you feel a cold coming on, drink a glass of cold water, not iced, and repeat at half hour intervals until relief is felt. If hot water is easier to take, it can be substituted for the cold, particularly in the morning and at night. Taking an abundance of liquid matters more than its temperature. It is there where the patients fail short. They will drink a glass or two of water, then declare they can take no more and, ceasing, decide water cannot drive out a cold. This water cure is not so modern as the most of us think it. In an old prescription book of a famous physician of more than a hundred years ago this curious remedy for a cold is found: "Let ye patient who feels a cold coming on eat of a fine, big salt herring just before going to bed. This will make ye patient drink plenty of water." If you have not strength of purpose to drink freely of water for the cold's sake, make yourself thirsty as best you can—only take all the water possible.—Philadelphia Press.

The percentage of reports is somewhat lower than that for the preceding month.

Included in the deaths there were 458 deaths of infants under one year of age; 158 deaths of children aged 1 to 4 years, inclusive; and 826 deaths of elderly persons aged 75 years and over.

Drowning was responsible for 45 deaths during the month. There was also one death from chickenpox returned from the township of Warren, Macomb county.

There were 4,724 births returned to the Department as having occurred during the month of June, which corresponds to an annual birth rate of 21.7 per 1,000 estimated population.

Called His Bluff.

A young woman of smart wit and striking beauty presided at one of the stalls at a Paris charity bazaar. Among the small crowd which pressed round the fair vender was a young man of much assurance, who gazed upon the girl with freedom and affected to admire the various fancy articles exposed for sale, but bought nothing.

"What will you please to buy?" asked mademoiselle, with an exquisite smile.

"Oh," replied the young dandy, with a languishing look, "what I most wish to buy is unhappily not for sale."

"Tell me what you wish?" she responded.

"Oh, no; I dare not declare my wishes."

"Nevertheless let me know what you wish to buy," persisted the fair saleswoman.

"Well, then, since you demand it, I should like a ringlet of your glossy black hair."

She manifested no embarrassment at the bold request, but with a pair of scissors immediately clipped off one of her beautiful locks and handed it to the astonished youth, remarking that the price was only 500 francs.

Her audacious admirer was thunderstruck with the demand, but dared not demur, as by this time a group had collected and were listening to the conversation. So he took the hair, paid over the money and left the hall.

The Coughing Bean.

To the ordinary housemaid the falling of a house plant into a violent paroxysm of coughing is naturally disconcerting. Yet there are plants which will do this when the broom or the duster begins to make dust fly. This singular plant is the "coughing bean," known to the botanist as the Eutada tussiens. It is a native of warm and moist tropical countries and cannot and will not stand dust. When dust settles upon the breathing pores in the leaves of this plant and chokes them a gas accumulates inside the leaves and when it gains sufficient strength forcibly "blows off," clearing the pores of dust and making a sound exactly like coughing. At the same time the leaves tremble and the plant actually "gets red in the face" through the sinking of the green chlorophyll grains and the appearance of red particles on the leaves. This plant is sometimes used as a house plant, and sweeping the room sets it coughing, to the intense astonishment of persons not familiar with its peculiarities.—London Chronicle.

It Makes a Difference.

In Lever's "Charles O'Malley" the hero's boast while on his way to a duel, "I can break the stem of a wineglass at fifteen paces," was met by his friend and mentor, with the comment, "Yes, but the wineglass hasn't a pistol in its hand."

Fate.

"They used to say I was a man with a future."

"And now?"

"Now they refer to me as a man with a past. Wish I could have a present once."—Cleveland Leader.

THE BRADLEY REUNION.

The first reunion of the Bradley family was held Wednesday at the old Bradley homestead, now the home of Ray Gilmore, where Mrs. J. F. Gilmore was brought up and lived till a few years ago. Those present were Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Gilmore and daughters, Misses Lulu and Julia of Ridgeway, Ray Gilmore and family. Clarence Gilmore and family, Frank Gilmore and family, S. W. Boyce and family, Bradley Scudder and family, DeWitt Martin and family, Mrs. Lillie Gray, Eustis, Fla., Ray Pocklington and family, and Wm. Gleason of Saline, Mrs. Mead and family of Milan, James Craig and family and Eugene B. Gray of Macon, Miss Clara Gleason Ypsilanti, Hugh Douglas and Grant Douglas, Willis. It was decided to meet next year the first Thursday in Aug. at S. W. Boyce's. Executive and program committees were appointed and the following officers elected:

Bradley Scudder, President; J. D. Martin, Vice-President; Frank Gilmore, Sec. and Treas.

An Epitaph.

In the churchyard of Leigh, near Bolton, will be found a tombstone bearing the following amazing sentence: "A virtuous woman is 5s. to her husband." The explanation seems to be that space prevented "a crown" being cut in full, and the stonemason argued that a crown equals 5 shillings. —London Notes and Queries.

Musical Note.

"How do you sell your music?" asked the prospective customer.

"It depends on the kind you want," replied the smart clerk. "We sell piano music by the pound and organ music by the choir."

A Blowing Up.

"Now, Willie," said the teacher to a small pupil, "can you tell me what dynamite is used for?"

"Yes, ma'am," answered Willie. "It's used to blaspheme things with."—Chicago News.

Before and After.

"A woman is as old as she looks," quoted the wise guy.

"Before or after she is dressed to go out?" queried the simple mug.—Philadelphia Record.

Maori Women.

Maori women of New Zealand know nothing about kissing. Nose rubbing is their form of salutation, and when two friends meet they hold each other by their hands, bend their heads until their noses touch and then rub them gently from side to side. This form of greeting is not confined to the women, but is practiced by the men. They seldom meet without rubbing noses. In times of lamentation the Maori women will sit for hours with their noses touching and moan for the loss of some chief whom they have in all probability never seen. The loss of a brother or friend is enough to start them off for days, all moaning and howling piteously. They are essentially a sympathetic race, and the sorrows of one are the sorrows of all.

Too Good to Waste.

A churchgoer and a backslider met on the hillside. The churchgoer was bound double quick for the church at the foot. The backslider, oddly enough, was going up.

"Hi! You're going the wrong way!" called the churchgoer.

The backslider yelled back, but his answer was lost.

"Say," he demanded of the churchgoer the next day, "did you hear what I said?"

"No."

"Well, it's too good to waste. You said I was going the wrong way. I said you seemed to be going downhill pretty fast yourself."—New York Sun.

Gave Her Room.

A gentleman who had a very large nose while walking in a street in Leeds the other day was subject to a few remarks about it. The height of impudence, however, was reached when a woman stopped a few yards in front of him apparently to have a good look at it. The gentleman also stopped and, taking hold of his nose with his finger and thumb, pushed it on one side and calmly said:

"Now, then, missus, can you pass now?"

She went on.—London Tit-Bits.

A Pair of Bulls.

Here are a couple of Irish bulls. A son of Erin, seeing a very tiny coffin, exclaimed, "Is it possible that that coffin was intended for any living creature?" An Irish judge thus addressed a prisoner, "You are to be hanged, and I hope it will prove a warning to you."

Artificial Beauty.

One reason why women suppose the men are fooled by artificial beauty is that most of the men are too gallant not to pretend that they don't know the difference.—Chicago Record-Herald.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surface of the system thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

Address F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, O. Sold by all Druggists, 75c.

If a man washes the dishes for his wife the neighbor women pity him and envy her.

DOING THEIR DUTY.

To filter the blood is the kidney's duty. When they fail to do this the kidneys are sick. Backache and many kidney ills follow; Urinary trouble, diabetes, Doan's Kidney Pills cure them all. Tecumseh people endorse our claim. A. C. Aylesworth, retired farmer, W. Chicago St., Tecumseh, Mich., says: "About four years ago I had an acute attack of lumbago, caused by disordered kidneys. When I heard of Doan's Kidney Pills, I procured a supply at C. A. Wright & Son's drug store and began their use. In a short time I was relieved and I have had no return of the trouble since. I hope other kidney sufferers will see my statement and be led to give Doan's Kidney Pills a trial." For Sale by all Dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, Sole Agents for the United States. Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

After a man has mended the error of his ways it is astonishing how many forcible words he can think of while the dentist is working on him.

DeWitt's Little Early Risers, the pleasant, safe sure, easy little liver pills. A salve you may always depend upon in any case where you need salve, is DeWitt's Carbolized Witch Hazel Salve—especially good for Piles. Sold by C. A Wright & Son.

Take Kodol at the times when you feel what you have eaten is not digesting. Kodol digests what you eat so you can eat sufficiently of any good, wholesome food, if you will just let Kodol digest it. Sold by C. A. Wright & Son.

When a woman no longer questions a man's judgment she's a widow.

The best remedy we know of in all cases of Kidney and Bladder trouble and the one we always can recommend, is DeWitt's Kidney and Bladder Pills. They are antiseptic and at once assist the kidneys to perform their important work. But when you ask for these pills be positive that you get DeWitt's Kidney and Bladder Pills. There are imitations placed upon sale to deceive you. Get DeWitt's. Insist upon them, and if your dealer cannot supply you—refuse anything else in place of them. Sold by C. A. Wright & Son.

Seared With A Hot Iron,

or scalded by overturned kettle—cut with a knife—bruised by slammed door—injured by gun or in any other way—the thing needed at once is Bucklen's Arnica Salve to subdue inflamation and kill the pain. It's earth's supreme healer, infallible for Boils, Ulcers, Fever Sores, Eczema and Piles. 25c, at C. A. Wright & Son.

A very dishonest thing about a woman who is married for her money is not to have it.

The Crime Of Idleness.

Idleness means trouble for any one. Its the same with a lazy liver. It causes constipation, headache, jaundice, sallow complexion, pimples and blotches, loss appetite, nausea, but Dr. King's New Life Pills soon banish liver troubles and build up your health, 25c. at C. A. Wright & Son's.

If most men could have played base ball when young as well as they can talk about it now they would be stars in the big league to-day.

Bradford Suggs says it may be merely his imagination, but he thinks a married minister puts a great deal of emphasis on the preliminary advice he gives bridal couples.

Lots of men would take a cold bath every morning if they weren't afraid they would get the habit of bragging about it the rest of the day.

THE STANDARD OF THE WORLD

ROUND ABOUT US.

The new "Lincoln pennies" are making their appearance and are proving quite a curiosity. The design is decidedly artistic. One side is a bust in low relief, of the familiar face of the great president with the motto, "In God We Trust," the word "Liberty" and the date 1909. On the obverse is the national motto, "E Pluribus Unum" and "One Cent—United States of America." The coins are not milled, but there is a raised edge, leaving the bust and inscriptions in the effective low relief.—Ex.

After lying at the bottom of the river for 9 years, a double-barreled shot gun formerly owned by Chas. Bycraft of Ypsilanti, was found Wednesday by Henry Hall of that city while he was fishing. Bycraft was drowned nine years ago while hunting, but efforts to recover his gun had been unsuccessful. His name on the weapon remains legible through the rust.—Saline Observer.

Helen Shields, 9 years old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Shields of Dexter, while playing Thursday afternoon with a corn crusher got her right hand crushed between the cogs. Her parents being away, her sister did the hand up. During the night it pained her and her mother examining it found blood poison had set in. She was taken to the U. of M. hospital Friday morning and her thumb was amputated.—Ex.

Godfrey S. Paul, 42 years old, a prominent farmer of Pittsfield township, Washtenaw county, killed himself in his home seven miles southeast of Ann Arbor, on Wednesday of last week. His body was found standing erect with the head almost entirely shot off, in his bedroom by his housekeeper at 3 o'clock. From appearances he had placed the muzzle of a single barreled shotgun against his mouth and pulled the trigger with his foot. Brooding over the death of his wife, who passed away six years ago and pains from a nail scratch four weeks ago that, it is believed affected his mind, are attributed as the cause.—Milan Leader.

The Flint Journal published a yarn to the effect that a good citizen took his scythe and moved the weeds along his fence. As a quick reward he uncovered a bottle of fine whiskey very little used, which some careful local optionist had secreted, and now half the men in Flint are out at daylight every morning mowing weeds. What a great fire a little match will kindle.

The Michigan crop report for July says wheat is of an excellent quality and the yield somewhat above the average; the prevailing opinion of the greater number of correspondents is that the final estimate which will be made October the first will considerably exceed the present figures. The average estimated yield per acre in the southern counties is 19 bushels, in the central counties 16, in the northern counties 15 and in the State 17 bushels. The per cent of plowing done for wheat in the State, southern and central counties is 11 and in the northern counties 10.

ECZEMA CURABLE: PROVEN!

Attorney at Moline, Ill., Convinced by Oil of Wintergreen Compound.

There is nothing that will convince a lawyer except evidence.

Now, here is some rather startling evidence of a simple home cure for eczema which convinced one lawyer, F. C. Entriken, attorney at Moline, Ill. He tells how oil of wintergreen compound mixed with thymol and glycerine, as in D. D. D. Prescription, cured him in 30 days after 33 years of suffering.

"For 33 years," writes Attorney Entriken, "I was troubled with eczema, scabs all over my face, body and head. I could run a hair brush over my body and the floor would be covered with scales enough to fill a basket. I tried everything—salves, internal medicine, X-Ray—all without result."

"Just a month ago I was induced to try D. D. D. Prescription. The itch was relieved instantly; so I continued. It is just a month now and I am completely cured. I have not a particle of itch and the scales have dropped off."

Cure after cure has been brought to our attention and always that instant relief from the awful itch.

Life is a good deal of a puzzle, but if we were more resolute in our determination to enrich it by worthy service than we are in our desire to solve its mysteries we should be happier. If we put more into it we should get more out of it.—Epworth Herald

TRIUMPH OF A NEW IDEA.

About the quantity of reading matter furnished in the average Sunday newspaper there is no reason to complain—unless it be on the score of toomuchness—but the quality often leaves much to be desired. The only shining and unqualified exception to this rule is found in the unique Sunday Magazine of THE CHICAGO RECORD-HERALD. There is nothing else like it in the whole range of American journalism. It is a real magazine that is regularly issued as a part of the Sunday paper. It is filled with first-class fiction, able articles, choice pictures and a wide range of good miscellany, all by popular or really famous authors and artists. When writers such as Conan Doyle, Anthony Hope, Jack London, Sewell Ford and Cyrus Townsend Brady are counted among the contributors to a Sunday paper its triumph can no longer be doubted.

The Sunday Magazine of the Record-Herald is far and away the best literary treat offered to newspaper readers in the United States to day. The largest monthlies and independent weeklies cannot surpass it in quality or sustained interest. You will always find one of the finest serials of the year in its pages, often captured from the big monthlies at record prices. Its short stories, including those of the delectable Shorty McCabe, can't be surpassed.

J. C. Hazlett left for Chicago Saturday evening where he will attend the annual meeting of the alumni of the Croonborg cutting school from Monday to Thursday.

The great evil of this anti-peek-aboo-waist crusade is that it calls our attention to the large number of skinny women.

Genius manifests itself in many ways, but all of us envy the man who can drive a pig in the direction he wants it to go.

RICH, RED BLOOD.

You can't have it unless your stomach is right.

In order to keep the blood pure and the body healthy, it is absolutely necessary that the gastric juices in the stomach be thoroughly mixed or churned with the food. When the stomach is run down, the walls have lost their elasticity, and have not energy enough to properly mix the food, then dyspepsia sour stomach, distress, heartburn, sick headache and other annoying ills are bound to result. There is only one logical way to cure such a condition, and hat is to build up the worn out stomach walls. That's exactly what Mi-o-na tablets do, and that's why C. A. Wright & Son are willing to give you your money back if Mi-o-na does'nt cure dyspepsia, whether acute or chronic. Large box, enough to make life bright for the ordinary dyspeptic, only costs 50 cents. Get a box to-day.

"Mi-o-na cured me of indigestion of months' standing and has from me a hearty recommendation and endorsement. Mi-o-na, in my case, worked wonders and in a very short space of time. Prior to using Mi-o-na, I had doctored and used several remedies without help or benefit." Mrs. John McCann, Tecumseh, Mich., Oct. 16, 1908.

A. S. Nusbaum, Batesville, Ind., writes: "Last year I suffered for three months with a summer cold so distressing that it interfered with my business. I had many of the symptoms of hay fever and a doctor's prescription did not reach my case and I took several medicines which seemed only to aggravate it. Fortunately I insisted upon having Foley's Honey and Tar. It quickly cured me. My wife has since used Foley's Honey and Tar with the same success."

Suburban Suburos.

A dat dweller, having selected what he thought was a pretty good thing in one of the suburban towns as a place of residence, took his wife out to look at it. The rent was delightful, but the house was on the very rim of the town. The wife disapproved.

"What's the matter with it?" he asked testily, for he had had a hard time finding it.

"Well," she replied with feminine firmness, "I am willing for your sake to live in a suburb of the city, but I positively will not live in the suburb of a suburb. It's asking too much, George, and—and"—

She didn't cry, but George prevented it only by superhuman efforts.—New York Press.

Had Sure Chance.

A patient with a malignant disease of the throat consulted a London specialist. The surgeon recommended the removal of the larynx. The patient expressed a fear that the operation was dangerous.

"Oh, no!" said the surgeon. "You are sure to recover."

"But," said the patient, "I understood that the operation was serious indeed."

"Well," said the surgeon, "my reason for saying that you are sure to recover is this: The mortality is nineteen out of twenty, and I've had nineteen deaths already."

Another Way to Escape.

"Papa."

"What is it, Theobald?"

"May I ask you a question?"

"Certainly you may, my child. It is only by asking questions that we can improve our minds and prepare ourselves for our work in the world. I am glad to note a spirit of inquiry in you, and I hope you may never arrive at the place where you think you know it all and cease to solicit information from others. What is your question, my son?"

"I forget, papa."—Newark News.

HER CONQUERING FAITH

It Overcame the Scheming of a Selfish Sister.

By ARABELLA NASMYTH.

(Copyright, 1909, by Associated Literary Press.)

The indisputable fact which has so often sadly surprised people that two and two will not make five was staring the Anslem girls in the face.

It was a year after the death of their father, and many evasions and putting off of the fatal day had gone for naught. They were face to face with the knowledge that they could no longer afford to keep up the old family home and, moreover, must do something to add to their infinitesimal income.

"In some way," said Regina, looking up rather wearily from her pencil and paper—"in some way we've got to have money. We've got to go to work."

Regina was twenty-six, with rebellious dark hair and a firm chin which always amazed people by the dimple they discovered in it. Regina was the one who always did things in the family. Nobody had ever taken time to call her a beauty, so she had never quite realized the fact that she came very close to being one and could devote her leisure to accomplish results.

Of course with Esther it was different. From the time her first fluff of golden hair had made itself manifest and her big blue eyes had first glanced appealingly at humanity it had been decided that Esther was a beauty, and the decision had clung to her through life, though at maturity it is doubtful if she would have been thought more than an ordinarily good looking fresh young girl had not those around her been so educated in the other view.

But as a beauty Esther had always been waited on and put forward, and even when time went on and girlish petulance and fickleness and caprice degenerated into pettishness and selfish inconsiderateness nobody ever expected Esther to do anything but exist.

And now she was thirty, for in spite of belledom the men who had wooed her seriously had been few and, with her aspirations, beneath her consideration. At her sister's flat Esther drew her brows together fretfully.

"Work!" she said. "You are ridiculous! It's all very well for you to talk, but how could I work? What could I do? Regina"—

She hesitated a little, for there was something in the straight browed face meditatively surveying her as though she were seen for the first time that bid her pause. "Regina—if you would—it would be very easy for you to place both of us beyond all money cares forever. I'm sure"—

The voice died away before the sparkle of anger in the dark face across the table. Regina bit her lip before she spoke in a repressed voice. "I won't pretend to misunderstand you," she said. "It's like you to propose offering something else than yourself! Understand once for all that I'll never marry Dr. Brightright! He is selfish, he has a cruel and vindictive nature with all his surface and polish, and he is sixty years old."

"Also he owns the most magnificent country place in the state and is a millionaire," breathed Esther as her sister stopped. "Really, Regina, for a grownup person you are distressingly silly! I'm sure Dr. Brightright is no worse than lots of men, and think what you'd have!"

"Which you, of course, would share," said Regina coldly. Her face took on an immobile expression as she looked down at her sister. "Understand, I'll never marry him. I'll find work to do."

"It's Neal Maxwell!" the older girl flashed angrily. "You'd be glad of the chance if you weren't eating your heart out for a man who threw you over and never cared anything for you! You"—

But Regina had swept from the room, her head in the air, her hands clutching mechanically the papers covered with their rows of discouraging figures.

She was hurt as only a proud person can be hurt, and the sure knowledge deep in her heart that Neal Maxwell had indeed, beyond all doubt, cared for her, in spite of the opinion voiced by her sister and shared, as Regina knew, by nearly all her acquaintances in the town, did not help much in bearing the taunt.

It was a year since Neal had gone abroad as foreign representative for his firm and eleven months since his letters had stopped abruptly, without warning. Her two letters of inquiry bringing no response, pride had stepped in and she had made no further effort to hear from him beyond learning from his firm he was alive and well.

And when he left they had been engaged. She could hardly remember when she and Neal had not intended to marry one another, so many had been the years of their more than friendship. In spite of her indignation and her secret grief, in spite of his mysterious neglect, Regina still clung whatever had happened, Neal still must care for her just as day must follow night.

And she was of too strong a nature to seek to cover her jilting by accepting the man who had haunted her footsteps for the past year, Dr. Brightright, whom she instinctively disliked and steadily shunned, to the furious exasperation of Esther. This had not been the first difference they had had upon the subject.

This night she was tired, very tired, and discouraged. Sympathy, understanding or help from Esther she felt she never could expect. The weakness, the shallowness, that were her sister's were forcing themselves on her recognition against her will.

If only Esther had been of a different mold their situation would even now be vastly improved. Encouragement and energy at her elbow would have given Regina the strength of ten. Instead there were bitterness, complaint and reproach weighing her down, and beneath it all the old longing for Neal, the hurt wonder that he could have failed her!

Sunk in her thoughts, absentmindedly making preparation for the night, Regina stood for several minutes staring at what she had uncovered at the bottom of the long utility box on her dresser without a complete realization of what the discovery meant.

First it dawned on her bewildered mind that the box was blue instead of pink, as it should have been. Then if it were blue it belonged in the next room on Esther's dresser. The woman who had swept and cleaned for them that day had probably mixed them. And at the bottom of the blue box, under all the handkerchiefs and ribbons which Regina had mechanically disarranged in her search for a particular ribbon, lay, with a rubber band binding them, the last two letters she had written to Neal Maxwell inquiring as to his silence and which he had, of course, never answered.

Regina leaned against the dresser, breathing heavily, clutching the letters, trying to think. The face that looked out at her from the mirror was white with excitement. Some one had kept her letters from reaching Neal—some one—

In the doorway stood Esther, still petulant from the scene downstairs. As she walked toward her sister Regina turned and faced her silently, the letters in her outstretched palm.

With a little gasp Esther saw, crumpled into a chair and began to cry in a frightened way.

"I did it for your own good," Esther wailed. "Neal never will be rich, and we want—we need—so much! I thought—I thought you'd see how much better a position Dr. Brightright could give you—I thought you'd forget—I wrote Neal you were going to marry the doctor and hadn't courage to tell him yourself and that you did not want to hear from him again. I—I got your letters both times by taking them to slip into the drop while I asked you to get stamps or cards at the window—do you remember? I—I did it because I thought you would be happier, Regina!"

The tall, stern girl, standing like an avenging goddess, looking down on the hysterical, weak woman huddled in the chair, did not speak for some minutes.

"Why didn't you destroy them when you got them?" she asked abruptly.

"I didn't dare," wept Esther. "I was afraid it was criminal of something."

The faint flicker of humor which swept Regina's face even in her moment of righteous wrath spread to her generous heart.

"We won't talk about it again, Esther," she said quietly. "You'd better go to bed. And now—now I'm going to write to Neal."

Paid For the Kiss.

Lord Northcote was once made curious use of while governor general of Australia, says London M. A. P. Strolling one night through an avenue of somber trees to a friend's house to dinner, he was suddenly pounced upon by a maidservant, who kissed him effusively and pressed a little parcel into his hand. "Here's a sausage for you. I can't come out tonight, as master has company," she whispered and as mysteriously disappeared. When he got to the house he found one of his servants loitering by the gate. "What are you doing there?" asked Lord Northcote. "I'm waiting for my sweetheart," the man stammered. "Where is she?" "In service here." "Ah, then, I am right. Here is a sausage from your sweetheart, and she wishes me to tell you that she cannot come out tonight, as her master has company." Seeing that the man looked nervous, he added kindly: "She also gave me a kiss for you, but perhaps you would rather wait until you see her. Here is 5 shillings instead."

LAKE SHORE RY.

HE COMPROMISED.

A Story John B. Gough Told in His Temperance Lectures.

John B. Gough, the temperance lecturer, was noted as a story teller, and his stories were always well suited to his argument. W. A. Mowry in his "Recollections of a New England Educator" recalls one of them:

Compromise, compromise! What does compromise mean? I will tell you. A colored man met a friend one day and said:

"Sambo, Sambo, do you know dat toder night I was sorely tempted? You know I used to steal. Well, since I j'ined de church I stopped stealing, but you know Mr. Jonsing's shoe store? Well, toder night I was in dat shoe store, and I looked on de shelf and I see a pair of boots, jes' de nicest pair of boots—jes' my size, No. 14.

"Dere was de debil, and he say, 'Take 'em, take 'em.' Den de Lord say, 'Let 'em alone; dat's stealin'.' But I wanted dem boots; mine all out at de bottom and sides. Dere was de debil and me, and we both say, 'Take 'em.' But de Lord say, 'Don't you take 'em; dat's stealin'.' Now, dere was a clear majority of two against one.

"Jes' den Mr. Jonsing he leeb de store, and he leeb me all alone. Den de debil say, 'Take 'em quick and skedaddle.' I could take dem boots and chuck 'em under my coat and go right 'away an' Mr. Jonsing would neber know nottin' about it. But, bress de Lord, I 'stood de temptation! I compromised and took a pair of shoes instead."

HER LOST COAT.

The Sequel to a Ladies' Afternoon Card Party.

A number of women were putting on their wraps preparatory to going home from an afternoon card party in the upper residence district of New York one afternoon last winter when a valuable fur coat belonging to one of them could not be found. There was, however, another fur coat of inferior quality in the dressing room, which the hostess said had evidently been left by mistake by the woman who had taken the other garment. The available coat was taken away by the woman whose wrap was missing in the hope that the mistake would be rectified without much trouble.

Several days passed, and no claim was made for the coat the guest had worn away from the house, and the woman took it to a dealer, where her garment had been purchased, hoping that some mark on the substituted coat might be found by which the owner could be identified. The plan was successful, and, much to her amazement, she discovered that the inferior coat was the property of her card hostess.

The "lost" coat was found, and on its return the matter was to be hushed up, but the promise of silence was evidently poorly kept. No more invitations for afternoon card parties have been issued from the house where the "mistake" was made.—New York Tribune.

Cough Caution

Never, positively never poison your lungs. If your cough—even from a simple cold only—You should always heal, soothe, and ease the irritated bronchial tubes. Don't blindly suppress it with a stupefying poison. It's strange how some things finally come about. For twenty years Dr. Shoop has constantly warned people not to take cough mixtures or prescriptions containing Opium, Chloroform, or similar poisons. And now—a little late though—Congress says "Put it on the label if poisons are in your Cough Mixture." Good! Very good! Here's for that very reason mothers, and others, should insist on having Dr. Shoop's Cough Cure. No poison marks on Dr. Shoop's labels—and none in the medicine, else it must by law be on the label. And it's not only safe, but it is said to be by those that know it best, a truly remarkable cough remedy. Take no chance then, particularly with your children. Insist on having Dr. Shoop's Cough Cure. Compare carefully the Dr. Shoop package with others and note the difference. No poison marks there! You can always be on the safe side by demanding

AIRSHIPS ARE TO RACE

ROY KNABENSHUE AND LINCOLN BEACHEY AT MICHIGAN STATE FAIR.

World's Famous Aviators Will Contest for $5,000 Stakes—No Similar Contest Ever Before Held in the United States.

The Michigan State Fair has arranged for an airship race between Roy Knabenshue, who is known all over the continent for his daring work above the clouds, and Lincoln Beachey, another equally famous aviator, who made successful flights at the Michigan State Fair last fall. This race was brought about in a rather strange manner.

Mr. Beachey happened to be in the city early this week and in a conversation with General Superintendent Doherty the latter casually said:

"Beachey, would you race Roy Knabenshue if the Michigan State Fair offered a purse of $5,000, $4,000 to go to the winner and $1,000 to the loser?"

"Make the offer and see," responded Beachey.

"All right, we'll do it," said Mr. Doherty.

"You can't challenge Knabenshue too quickly for me," replied Beachey.

Mr. Doherty immediately wired Knabenshue at Toledo, and the latter responded so quickly that even Mr. Doherty was surprised.

"Tell Beachey I will race him at the Michigan State Fair or around the world, if he wants to," Knabenshue responded.

The latter was then called to Detroit, and after discussing the preliminaries the contract was signed for the most exciting race that has ever been held in the United States.

Other airship races have been planned, but none like that arranged for the Michigan State Fair. Two years ago a race against time was held in St. Louis, but the aviators did not start at the same moment.

The contest between Mr. Knabenshue and Mr. Beachey will be the real thing. The aviators must start side by side from a given point and rush to the eastward, passing over the grandstand to a large tree two miles away, and on the top of which will be erected a large flag. After circling this tree the ships will return, sailing to the westward until the grandstand is reached.

It is agreed that seven heats shall be run, beginning on the afternoon of Sept. 4 and each afternoon thereafter until Sept. 10. The aviator who wins four of these heats will be awarded $4,000, while the loser will be given $1,000.

It required considerable act on the part of Mr. Doherty to arrange details satisfactory to both parties. Mr. Knabenshue at first wanted to use the big ship he sailed so successfully last winter in California. Mr. Beachey objected, because his ship is not of the same dimensions. Mr. Knabenshue finally declared that he would build a new ship similar to that owned by Beachey. That settled all difficulty and the contract was signed for the most exciting race ever held in the United States.

It was stipulated in the agreement with these two aviators that they shall give exhibition flights every forenoon during their races, beginning on Sept. 4.

RAILROADS AID EXHIBITORS.

Easy Facilities and Direct Home Shipments Are Granted to Cattlemen and Others Who Are Coming to Michigan State Fair.

The Michigan freight committee, representing the different railroads doing business throughout the state, have recommended new rules governing the shipping of exhibits to the Michigan Fair that will greatly facilitate stock raisers and everyone else who plan to contest for premiums.

Under the proposed rules exhibitors are allowed to ship to the first fair, paying full charges one way, then to the next fair and receive credit for half the money paid. After he has made his circuit of the fairs, he may ship by the nearest route home, paying only half rates. Heretofore exhibitors have been compelled to pay full rates one way and then return free, providing they returned over the route from whence they started, which was usually inconvenient and consumed considerable extra time. According to the new plan they will pay half fare each way and return home by the nearest route.

These proposed rules are due largely to the efforts of I. H. Butterfield, secretary of the Michigan State Fair, who first suggested the plan in an effort to save the delay and expense of exhibitors. The scheme no doubt will largely increase the exhibits at the fair in Detroit, which when it opens on Sept. 2, will be one of the largest of the kind ever held in the State of Michigan.

Genius Rewarded.

A schoolmaster not famous for his personal beauty swooped down on the inattentive boy and found him drawing caricatures. He picked up one and asked the boy in a voice of thunder, "Is this meant for me?"

"Please, sir," said the victim, in a state of terror—"please, sir, I did not mean to make it so like."

The master destroyed the picture and let the matter drop.—London

THE TARIFF BILL.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

(From Our Regular Correspondent.)

Washington, D. C., Aug. 7, 1909.

The tariff bill, such as it is, is finally passed, Congress has adjourned and the President and his cabinet have left Washington for the remnant of the summer. Seven Republican Senators stood steadfast to their convictions to the last and voted against the conference report on the tariff bill and one Democrat, Mr. McEnery of Louisiana, practically voted for it. That is, he was prepared for it. President Taft, although obviously disappointed that the measure did not go farther in the direction of revision downward, approved the measure and made a public statement voicing his qualified approval. Mr. Taft says that the measure will be taken as evidence that his party made an honest effort to revise the tariff downward. In that he may be mistaken, although every unprejudiced observer must admit that it is a good deal for Republicans, elected to Congress by the funds and influence of protected interests, to make any reduction of the tariff and possibly that is the charitable view which the President takes of it. Reading between the lines of the President's statement it is possible, however, to see that there are other things in the tariff bill besides reductions of the duty which especially gratify him. For instance he points to the measure of free trade accorded to the Philippines as especially gratifying to him, saying that it is something for which he has been working consistently for ten years. What ever Mr. Taft's critics may say of him, no one can charge him with a lack of loyalty to "the Little Brown Brother," whose cause he has always espoused, and his fidelity to the interests of his Filipino wards is to many the occasion of sincere admiration.

Next to the personal gratification afforded him by the granting of a measure of justice to the Filipinos, the so-called tariff commission provision affords the utmost satisfaction to the President of any feature of the bill, unless it be the corporation tax. Both of these he has contended for against fearful odds and he has finally won, although many members of Congress thought they had emasculated the commission feature. As if in immediate answer to Senator Hale of Maine, who declared in debate that Congress had not authorized the President to ascertain cost of production, Mr. Taft took occasion in his formal statement on the tariff bill to express his gratification that he was empowered to ascertain just these facts and incidentally he intimated how little regard he has for the information submitted to the committees of Congress by interested manufacturers by saying of the facts to be gleaned by his commission that the information will be gathered "under circumstances favorable to its truth." That statement made the old line Republicans wince and some of them besought the President to strike it out, but without avail.

On the day following the passage of the tariff bill, the President held a cabinet meeting at which the chief topic of discussion was the tariff commission. He instructed the Secretary of the Treasury immediately to investigate the qualifications of certain men whose names have been suggested for the commission and delared his intention of calling it into existance at once. He also told Secretary MacVeagh that he wanted the experts to go to the bottom of things and procure for him every fact that had any bearing on the tariff. "Congress does not want the information", he is quoted as saying, "but that will not prevent my laying it before it in an annual or a special message if it is of a character which seems to demand further reduction of the duties." Again, when the question of a name for the new organization was under discussion and Secretary MacVeagh remarked that it would make it especially unpopular with Congress to term it tariff commission, the President said "I don't care what you call it. A rose by any other name would smell as sweet to me,—and I guess it would be Eugene Hale." The Secretary of the Treasury has announced his intention of issuing on Panama bonds under the recent authorization of Congress, which delegated to him authority to issue bonds to the amount of $375,000,000 to pay for the canal. The Secretary is a business man. He does not believe in borrowing money when it can be avoided by economy, and he does not like long term notes. He had decided, therefore, if it compelled to borrow at all, to do so on Treasury certificates which are payable within one year.

STATE FAIR'S MIDWAY

GREATEST AGGREGATION OF SHOWS EVER GATHERED FOR EXHIBITION.

Mammoth Hippodrome, Wild West, Flea Circus, Animal Congress, Palace of Illusions, Human Laundry, and Lots of Other Interesting Features.

The Midway at the Michigan State Fair this year will be one of the prettiest attractions to be found anywhere on the grounds. The shows are owned and managed by Frank Spellman, of Cincinnati, a well-known amusement man. The midway court this year will be in the shape of a hollow square. The front will be one solid section and entrances to the different attractions have the appearance of theater doors. Everything about the scheme is elaborate, even to the illumination. The apparatus used for this was secured from the city of Cincinnati and used to illuminate Fountain Square in that city during the recent Turner convention. It consists of thousands of lights radiating from a common center, that make the Midway court as brilliant as day. The following are some of the attractions that will be seen on the fair Midway:

Hippodrome and Wild West—Show contains rough riding, cowboy scenes, breaking wild and untamable horses, trick riding, broncho busting, and in fact all big scenes as seen by the leading Wild West Shows, carrying a company of 30 people and 12 head of horses.

The Spellman Show.—The most unique and pretentious show ever produced in the way of equipment; built at a cost of $1,500 for equipment. This is a new idea in the way of an open front and contains four platform shows combined into one show, and one price of admission is charged to all four shows, namely 10c. It is called "Congress of World's Novelties" and includes the two fattest women in the world, also the two smallest midgets in the world, a three-legged boy and one other clean freak as yet to be secured.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

DOING THEIR DUTY.

To filter the blood is the kidney's duty. When they fail to do this the kidneys are sick. Backache and many kidney ills follow; Urinary trouble, diabetes. Doan's Kidney Pills cure them all. Tecumseh people endorse our claim. A. C. Aylesworth, retired farmer, W. Chicago St., Tecumseh, Mich., says: "About four years ago I had an acute attack of lumbago, caused by disordered kidneys. When I heard of Doan's Kidney Pills, I procured a supply at C. A. Wright & Son's drug store and began their use. In a short time I was relieved and I have had no return of the trouble since. I hope other kidney sufferers will see my statement and be led to give Doan's Kidney Pills a trial." For Sale by all Dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, Sole Agents for the United States. Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

When a woman no longer questions a man's judgment she's a widow.

The best remedy we know of in all cases of Kidney and Bladder trouble and the one we always can recommend, is DeWitt's Kidney and Bladder Pills. They are antiseptic and at once assist the kidneys to perform their important work. But when you ask for these pills be positive that you get DeWitt's Kidney and Bladder Pills. There are imitations placed upon sale to deceive you. Get DeWitt's. Insist upon them, and if your dealer cannot supply you—refuse anything else in place of them. Sold by C. A. Wright & Son.

The Crime Of Idleness.

Idleness means trouble for any one. Its the same with a lazy liver. It causes constipation, headache, jaundice, sallow complexion, pimples and blotches, loss appetite, nausea, but Dr. King's New Life Pills soon banish liver troubles and build up your health, 25c. at C. A. Wright & Son's.

Party of Six Thrown From Automobile.

Miss Alma Bigelow, niece of Mrs. George N. Stacy injured.

NO ONE SERIOUSLY HURT.

The most serious automobile accident that has occurred in this county this season took place about 5:30 o'clock, Tuesday afternoon in Marquette, at the corner of Pine street and Fair avenue, when six occupants of A. B. Eldredge's Mitchell touring car were thrown out and badly shaken up, though fortunately all escaped serious injury. The car was driven by Ralph Eldredge and the other occupants were Clay Hamilton, of Topeka, Kan., who has been visiting in the city a number of weeks, Miss Charles, a guest of Miss Edith Eldredge, Miss Edith Eldredge, Miss Frances Mathews and Miss Alma Bigelow.

The party had left the city for a spin around Presque Isle. Ahead of the Eldredge car on Pine street was C. C. Van Iderstine's E. M. F. car, driven by Dr. Van Iderstine. Ralph Eldredge planned to pass the Van Iderstine car at the intersection of Pine street with Fair avenue, he assuming that the Van Iderstine party was also on its way to Presque Isle. Dr. Faught, of the Normal faculty, was, however, a passenger in the Van Iderstine car and it was the intention to take him, to his home on Presque Isle avenue, by turning to the left on Fair avenue.

As the corner was approached, the Van Iderstine car was turned on a curve on to Fair avenue, but it was seen that the Eldredge car was coming up at a rapid speed, and Dr. Van Iderstine again threw his car to the right, to the right side of the Pine street road. As the Van Iderstine car turned to the left, toward Fair avenue, Ralph Eldredge also threw his car to the left. It approached the curb too closely, and the left front wheel struck the curbing with force enough to buckle in the spokes, dropping the axle to the ground. Under its considerable momentum the car skidded around the corner of Fair avenue, finally stopping at the north side of that street, some yards in front of Pine street.

The Van Iderstine car was immediately turned around and relief given the members of the Eldredge party. The Misses Eldredge, Bigelow, and Charles, who were most severely shaken, were quickly taken to St. Luke's hospital. Miss Bigelow suffered three fractured ribs, and the other young ladies were unnerved by the accident. It was reported last evening that there no serious results for any of the party.

The accident was learned of with regret by the friends of the young people, and there were many inquiries during the early part of the evening as to their condition.

PICKEREL STORY.

Largest catch of the season made Wednesday by two of our well known sportsmen.

Newberry Satterthwaite and J. E. Newburn of Cleveland, made a trip up the Raisin above the Red mill last Wednesday. Man Satterthwaite was fortunate enough to get one of the best strikes of the season, but in landing his prey the line broke. Man Newburn was there with his gaff and succeeded in rescuing the fish and from the scales the pair learned that that pickerel weighed 15 lbs., 10 oz., it being the largest one caught this season. A dispute arose between them as to which one was responsible for the honor of the catch, resulting in an agreement that the subject be returned to the waters, and their angling ability demonstrated by going after it again. Both rebaited their hooks and started in. As we passed by looks of determination was on both their faces. Here's hoping that one of them was rewarded.

LIQUOR LAW PROVISIONS.

Lansing, Mich., Aug. 12.—Under the new liquor law which was passed at the last session of the legislature, and which goes into effect September 2, a great many saloons in Michigan will have to discard expensive signs, electric signs, etc., which hang over their front doors. The law prohibits the display of a sign advertising liquors upon the outside of any part of a building used for retailing liquors.

Many places will also have a problem to face in deciding the limits of districts where saloons may be located, the act prescribing that no new bar or saloon can be established within 400 feet along the street line from the front entrance of a church or public school house, or to establish a new bar or saloon in any residence district without the consent of all the property owners within 300 feet. Just how to define a residence district is a matter which will probably be up to many councils to decide in many cities.

'Twas A Glorious Victory.

HARTBECK-BIDWELL.

On Tuesday, August 3rd, at 8:45 a. m., Charles A. Bidwell was married to Miss Flora H. Hartbeck at the home of Mr. and Mrs Otto Neerman, 555 Jefferson Ave., Indianapolis, Ind. Mrs. Neerman is a sister of the bride. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. C. E. Boyer, pastor of the Grace Mission Evangelical church. The wedding ring was carried by little Miss Christine Neerman, a niece of the bride. The rooms were decorated with palms, ferns and garden flowers. Only the immediate families were present, consisting of Mr. and Mrs. John Kotch and family, Miss Esther L. Houk, all from Indianapolis, and Dr. and Mrs. Magenheimer of Moorsville, Ind. While the ceremony was in progress, a telegraph messenger boy reached the house, heavily weighted down with telegrams of congratulations from friends in Tecumseh, Michigan. One of the messages contained the characteristic statement, "Glory Hallelujah!" Mr. and Mrs. Bidwell will make Tecumseh, Mich., their home after a two weeks' wedding tour.

The Hindu Woman.

From her role of half-toy, half-slave to man, penned up in the seclusion of the zenana (woman's apartments), the woman of Hindustan is rising to equality with man. India is daily getting anxious to accord its women a humane and a just treatment. Sex inequality had decreed that while the widower was allowed to marry, even permitted to indulge in polygamy, the widow was forced to remain a widow. This injunction is no longer being faithfully obeyed. Widows of the highest castes are being allowed to marry. Moreover, Hindus, are making special efforts to establish homes where young and old widows are kindly treated and taught how to be nurses, doctors, teachers, and missionaries. The aim of these institutions is to inspire the widows to help toward the uplift of East-Indian society and also to make them capable of supporting themselves instead of being charges on their relatives, as has been the case heretofore. Polygamy was never very common in India, but to-day it is doomed. To-day the woman of India is leaving the privacy of her apartments, going to modern schools for education, and entering the arena of public activity, to help along the evolution of Hindustan. Schools and colleges, especially designed for girls, and neighborhood centers meant for the advancement of matured women, are coming to be pronounced features of East-Indian cities.—From "India in Transition," by Saint Nihal Singh, in the American Review of Reviews for August.

TROUT SEASON.

The open season for brook trout and other kinds of trout found in the inland waters of the State will close this year on August 15. Many people in all parts of the state have the impression that the new law, passed at the recent session of the legislature, making an open season from May 1st to September 1st, has the effect of extending the open season this year until September 1st. Others think that the season will close August 15 and then reopen on the 19th and remain open until September 1st. Still others think that the season will close August 15, reopen on September 1st and remain open until September 15th. The laws passed at the last session of the legislature will not go into effect until the first day of September; therefore the new law cannot affect the season this year, which will close finally August 15. After this year the open season will be from May 1st until September 1st. C. S. PIERCE, State Game, Fish and Forestry Warden.

The Quippy Ink Thief.

"Women prisoners is quippy," said the jailer. "One had a quip toward writin', and she was always swipin' ink out of the schoolroom.

"She swiped ink in her thimble. She'd fill the thimble up to the brim and then stand it carefully in her hair. Mighty good balancin' was required on the way back to her cell. Still, what if she did spill a drop or two on her scalp? A female convict ain't on view like a society woman, is she?

"Of course as soon as we got on to the thimble game we put a stop to it. That didn't put a stop to the ink stealin', though. I says to her one day on the way back from the schoolroom:

"'Well, Russell, no more poetry writin' with ink what don't belong to ye, hey?'

"She just smiled and mumbled somethin'.

"'Speak up,' says I. 'Do ye miss yer ink—yes or no?'

"'Hub-ub-uh,' says she, tryin' to brush past me. But I grabbed her arm. I noticed a thin black thread of sump'n tricklin' from her lips. Yes, sir! Would ye believe it? She was stealin' the people's ink now in her mouth!"—New Orleans Times-Democrat.

Poor Billiards.

"One summer in the country," said a well known amateur billiardist, "another man and I were overtaken by a storm and had to go into a tavern for shelter. The rain fell steadily. We had three or four long hours before us. Time began to hang heavily on our hands.

"'Landlord,' said I, 'do you happen to have a billiard table?'

"'Sure,' said the landlord. 'Sure. Just step this way, gents.'

"He proudly threw open the door of a dark, stuffy room. We saw an antiquated table with a patched cloth, and in the corner was a rack of crooked cues.

"'Any balls?' said I.

"'Sure,' said the landlord, and he unlocked a closet and laid on the table three white balls, all alike—there was no spot, you know.

"'But, see here,' I remonstrated, 'how do you tell these balls apart?'

"'Oh, that's all right,' said he. 'You soon get to know 'em by their shape.'"—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

To Be Sharp.

The Aryan root "ak" meant "to be sharp," and the idea of sharpness has followed it at least through 10,000 years into all of the family of languages of that tongue. It is quite likely that the property of sharpness was conceived of by these ancestors from handling shells, the first knives that man knew. That cutting edge was referred to by "ak" long before the most primitive people had learned to put an edge on flint. When these Aryans wanted to express the idea of sharpness of mind they used the same word. This root went into the Greek, where it became "akros," meaning pointed. In Sanskrit it is "acre," meaning the same thing. In the Latin we find "acrimonia," signifying sharpness, from which our "acrid" comes. The Latin also has "acer," meaning sharp, and "acus," a needle. In the Anglo-Saxon it became "eag," an edge. So the idea of sharpness runs all the way through, and we have it in our "acid," "acute," "edge" and "ax" as well as in "acrid" and "acumen."—Argonaut.

Liver Trouble Remedy Free

Any intelligent person can be his own doctor in the ordinary case of liver trouble, for the symptoms cannot be mistaken. If the white of the eye becomes yellowish, if the skin becomes sallow, if pimples and blotches appear, if the bowels do not move, if you have sick headache, if you are bilious, you may be sure that your liver is torpid or inactive.

The quickest and surest remedy yet found for the cure of liver trouble or any of its symptoms is Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, the great herb laxative compound. This wonderful remedy is not only a laxative, but a tonic as well. It will start the flow of gastric juice, thereby soon enabling the liver to do its work naturally. A bottle of this great liver remedy can be bought of any druggist for 50 cents or $1, and in many cases a single bottle has cured a chronic case.

For example, John W. Lee, 618 S. Pennsylvania ave., Indianapolis, Ind., had a stubborn and very long-standing case of liver trouble, with pimples, blotches, jaundice, etc., and it cured him. Mrs. B. Flinchum, Jackson, Ky., says the same of it. Thousands of families keep it in the house against just such an emergency, as you can never tell when some member of the family will need a good laxative.

In order to have you or any other sufferer from the liver make a test of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin without personal expense, Dr. Caldwell will send you a free test bottle if you will send your name and address. The sample will show you how pleasant it is to take, how gently it works. It will start you on the cure of your trouble and convince you that you have found a cure. That is the object of the sample, and the doctor urges you to send for it today.

If there is anything about your ailment that you don't understand, or if you want any medical advice, write to the doctor, and he will answer you fully. There is no charge for this service. The address is Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 500 Caldwell bldg., Monticello, Ill.

Hanged For Violating Smoke Law.

Curious and little known facts about the house fire were mentioned by E. H. Blake, addressing the surveyors' institution on warming and ventilation. Fires were at one time a great luxury, he said, and even the right to use the fire had been bequeathed. Thus the will of one Richard Byrchett (1516) read:

"I will yt sayd Nell my wyfe shal have ye chamber she lyes in and lyberte at ye fyer in the house; all yese thyngs shal she have so long as she ys wido."

Coal, continued Mr. Blake, was first imported into London at the end of the thirteenth century, but the smoke produced by burning it in improperly constructed grates caused such a prejudice against it that in 1306 a law was passed making it a capital offense to burn coal in the city. The Tower records give details of a man's trial and execution for the offense.—London Graphic.

Not the Kind He Wanted.

Professed politicians who have reduced public office to an exact science find the independent voter a sad stumbling block, a fact which is amusingly disclosed by a story found in the life of the late George Monro Grant, the eminent Canadian educator and clergyman.

Toward the end of Sir John Macdonald's life he and Principal Grant, then the head of Queen's college, met at a dinner at the house of the premier's brother-in-law, Professor Williamson.

"How I wish," the premier said to the principal, "that you would be a steady friend of mine."

"My dear Sir John," the principal replied, "I have always supported you when you were right."

The premier's eyes twinkled, and he laid his hand upon the shoulder of the principal.

"My dear man," said he, "I have no use for that species of friendship!"

No success is attained by a leap and a bound, but by patient plodding and many resolves.

Cards and Their History.

Cards are square shaped pieces of pasteboard printed with various devices and employed as a business medium by money changers. They are usually made up in packs of fifty-two, one for each week of the year. A good many people play cards for pleasure, in which case their opponents are said to be buying experience. In most card games the rule is that the cards may be cut, but not otherwise marked. This rule is not strictly observed in games in which only three cards are used. Indeed, the marking of cards has attained a high degree of perfection since the introduction of numerous card index systems. Fashions change in card games as in everything else. Old maid, for instance, is nowadays seldom played in the best clubs. Playing cards should not be confused with score cards, which are rather larger, or with visiting cards, which are smaller.—Fry's Magazine.

Indigestion

Stomach trouble is but a symptom of, and not in itself a true disease. We think of Dyspepsia, Heartburn, and Indigestion as real diseases, yet they are symptoms only of a certain specific Nerve sickness—nothing else.

It was this fact that first correctly led Dr. Shoop in the creation of that now very popular Stomach Remedy—Dr. Shoop's Restorative.—Going direct to the stomach nerves, alone brought that success and favor to Dr. Shoop and his Restorative. Without that original and highly vital principle, no such lasting accomplishments were ever to be had.

For stomach distress, bloating, biliousness, bad breath and sallow complexion, try Dr. Shoop's Restorative—Tablets or Liquid—and see for yourself what it can and will do. We sell and cheerfully recommend

LANSING BOY SHOOTS GIRL WIFE

Then Swallows Carbolic Acid, With Fatal Effect.

A REFORM SCHOOL GRADUATE

Nineteen-year-old Husband Ends His Stormy Life—Shoots Wife Through Temple—Was Angered at Her Application For Divorce—Had Threatened Girl's Father Many Times.

Lansing, Mich., Aug. 16.—Angered by her efforts to secure a divorce and his recent arrest for non-support William Graulich, nineteen years old, formerly of Detroit, shot and killed his wife, Clara, nineteen years old, and then ended his own life by swallowing acid, shortly before midnight Saturday. The tragedy occurred in the home of the girl's sister, Mrs. Charles Spanola, 634 Michigan avenue, whom Mrs. Graulich had been nursing for the past week, and is the climax of a short and stormy matrimonial career.

Reared in the State Industrial school, where he was sent from Detroit for truancy, Graulich met his young wife soon after his release.

They were married in Detroit in October, and shortly after she returned to Lansing and went to her parents' home. She told her father that Graulich beat her and she was forced to leave him. Last Wednesday she instituted proceedings for a divorce.

Graulich blames the girl's father for his troubles, and the latter claims his life was threatened on several occasions. The husband attempted to persuade the girl to drop the proceedings.

Saturday was circus day in Lansing. Graulich called on his wife's father and asked for his wife. He was told that she was at her sister's home, but the father claims the fellow evidently didn't believe him, for he followed him to the circus, and on several occasions made a movement for his hip pocket, which led him to believe he carried a gun.

Saturday night Graulich appeared at the Spanola home. He knocked at the door and asked for his wife. The pair talked for several minutes, the sister says, and then she heard the girl exclaim, "Oh, Will, let me go, let me go." Immediately after a shot rang out, and the sister, rushing to the door, found the dead body on the floor, with a bullet hole through the left temple.

Graulich, it is believed, swallowed the acid before he left the house, for spots were found on the floor beside the body. He rushed to the street and to the next corner, where he met a policeman.

"I've shot my wife and swallowed carbolic acid," he told the officer.

A patrol wagon was summoned, but before it arrived the young man was dead.

CHINESE WOMAN KILLED.

New York, Aug. 16.—Chinatown boiled over again early Sunday on discovery of the murder of the most beautiful of the few Chinese women in New York, Bow Kim, twenty-one years old, who came here from San Francisco about a year ago witn an Americanized Chinaman, Chin Len, thirty-one years old.

It was about 2 o'clock Sunday morning, just as the usual Saturday night revelry was quieting down, that Chin Len dashed out of a tenement house at 17 Mott street, crying, "My woman has been murdered." The street, filled with loitering Chinamen and parties of American "sightseers," all of whom quickly recalled the sensational murder of Elsie Sigel, the missionary girl, was thrown into excitement. A policeman and a detective hurried into the house under Len's direction. In a bedroom the murdered woman lay on the floor, stabbed in a dozen places. Her slender neck was ringed with bloody finger marks, indicating a struggle with her assailant, and beside her lay a crusted hunting knife.

Regatta in England.

The first regatta in England was in 1775, and it was imported into that country by Lady Mary Wortley Montagu, who had been impressed by the water show of Venice. There was no series of races. There was a procession of city barges to a "temporary octagon," where there was reveling that night and well into the next day. Only seven of the company were drowned on the return journey, which speaks well for the average sobriety of the crowd.—London King.

SEVERE STORM HITS DETROIT

Only One Fatality, but Thousands of Hats Spoiled.

Detroit, Mich., Aug. 16.—One man instantly killed and another badly injured by lightning on Belle Isle, a young man and woman blown out into the river in a canoe and believed to be drowned, the windows of the Detroit Yacht club blown in and the cupola of the county building struck by lightning and a hole about three feet square torn in the roof were a few of the accidents resulting from the thunder storm which passed over this city about 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon.

Street car traffic was delayed, telephones were put out of commission, trees blown down all over the city, buildings struck by lightning, and late last night the damage was so great that even a rough estimate of the amount could not be formed.

The storm was the most severe on the river, but owing to the twenty minutes' warning given by threatening clouds the majority of the boats went ashore and were uninjured.

N. T. Bristow, 1908 St. Clair avenue, Cleveland, O., was struck by a bolt of lightning and instantly killed as he ran for shelter on Belle Isle when the storm suddenly broke and hurled sheets of water from the river over the island. Charles Arnold, who was with him, was also struck by the bolt and badly injured.

A BIG MEETING.

New Driving Club at Lansing Will Hold a Grand Inaugural.

Lansing, Mich., Aug. 16.—The entry secured by the new Lansing Driving club for its inaugural meeting, Aug. 17 to 20, is the largest in proportion to the number of events of any mile track in the country up to date. The racing card calls for twelve contests, three each afternoon, and the entry foots up just 143, an average of almost twelve to the race. This is way beyond the successful meeting which just closed at Grand Rapids and is much larger than the grand circuit tracks are having this year.

MICHIGAN INSPECTORS.

List of Men Who Will Have Charge of the Census in Michigan.

Beverly, Mass., Aug. 16.—President Taft has announced the following appointments of inspectors of the census in Michigan:

Third district, Fred W. Stuart; Fourth district, Charles Foster Davison; Fifth district, Jno. L. Boer; Seventh district, Hugh H. Hart; Eighth district, John Baird; Ninth district, John A. Sherman; Tenth district, C. R. Jackson; Eleventh district, Sylvester Perry Younge; Twelfth district, James T. Bennett.

Earthquake Devastates Central Japan.

Tokyo, Aug. 16.—Reports received here concerning the earthquake in Central Japan show that there were a number of fatalities and that great damage was done to property. The dead at present are said to be thirty, though it is feared that the fatalities will be greatly increased when the outlying districts are heard from. The number of persons injured is eighty-two. Thus far 362 buildings, including many temples, are reported to have been destroyed and more than 1,000 others badly damaged.

Canea, Island of Crete, Aug. 16.—The British battleship Swiftsure arrived Sunday in Suda bay, in the western portion of the island.

The Cretan government has resigned, and the administration of the island has been entrusted to provisional committees. These committees have had the armed peasants expelled from the fortress, which they occupied Saturday night intending to resist the order of the powers that the Greek flag be lowered. The committees, however, have not had the flag hauled down.

KILLS SELF AND BABIES.

Mother of Seven Turns on Gas In Bathroom While Husband Sleeps.

Chicago, Aug. 16.—Mrs. Marie Handgel turned on the gas in the bathroom and committed suicide and slew her three boy babies. She carefully bathed and dressed her three children, one four years old and twins two years old, and carried them into the bathroom. She had closed the bathroom door and turned on the gas. The smell of gas awakened her husband. He broke open the door of the bathroom and found the four dead bodies. The twins, wrapped in a quilt, were lying in the tub, while the elder boy was clasped tightly in the mother's arms.

NEW SPEEDWAY IS TRIED OUT

The Finest Motor Track In the World Is What They Call It.

Indianapolis, Aug. 16.—Automobile enthusiasts thronged the motor speedway Sunday to watch drivers of racing cars trying the course in preparation for the races to be held on Thursday, Friday and Saturday to dedicate the new track, said to be the most completely equipped automobile track in the country.

The crowd, sweltering under a burning sun, sent up a mighty cheer when Ziengal hurled a Chadwick Six around the great white stone course of two and one half miles in 2:02, an average of 73.74 miles an hour. Ziengal was only one of a score of drivers of national reputation who took advantage of the opportunity to open the throttle in the first trial flights, and good time was made by all.

The drivers, after sweeping around the wide, banked turns, declared that the construction engineers had achieved success.

Sixty-five cars already have been entered for the races, and more are expected to enter before the list is closed on Wednesday. Purses worth approximately $15,000 have been offered.

Nothing has been overlooked in the building of the speedway that would tend to the convenience of the public and the contestants. Each entrant has been provided with separate garage, and a pit for exercise has been installed at the track side.

The speedway has its own hospital and ambulance service, clubhouse and restaurants. Opposite the main grandstand a great indicator shows the time made by the drivers. Near this indicator is a three story press stand, provided with telegraph equipment and photographers' dark rooms.

Trans-Mississippi Congress at Denver.

Denver, Aug. 16.—A gathering, the influence of which should be far reaching, will be the twentieth annual session of the Trans-Mississippi Commercial congress here this week. The meetings will open today and continue through the week. Governors, mayors, representatives of chambers of commerce and other similar organiations thoughout the country will be present.

BRIEF DISPATCHES.

A Chicago Great Western freight train Saturday night ran into an automobile at Ortonville, Minn., and probably fatally injured three of the occupants, Theodore Seeley, Fred Adelman and Gug Craig. Frank Phalen, Matt Hamburg and Frank Kraft were also hurt.

Everything points to a most successful week for the sixth annual tournament of the Ohio State Rifle association at Camp Perry, O. More riflemen are here than were in attendance on these matches last year or the year before, attracted by the unusually rich prizes and the variety of the matches.

Baron Takahira, Japanese ambassador to the United States, is in Seattle on his way home from Washington. "I expect to return to the United States in the fall," he said. "I am going to Japan on leave of absence, but while I am there I may be consulted regarding the trade relations with the United States, and I may be asked for advice in the framing of commercial treaties."

A design for a monument to the women of the "Lost cause" is completed at Atlanta, Ga. It is the work of Miss Belle Kinney of Nashville, Tenn., twenty-two years old, and has been accepted by several states. It is probable that all the states which left the Union in he civil war will adopt the design and that replicas of the monument will be placed in the capitols of each state.

KILLED IN TENT.

Fatal Quarrel Over the Price of a Dish of Ice Cream.

Flint, Mich., Aug. 16.—In the presence of 200 frightened spectators who crowded the big tent restaurant on North Saginaw street shortly after Saturday midnight, Frank E. Lind, thirty-eight years old, a painter, formerly of Detroit, was shot and instantly killed by Eber Lamble, proprietor of the place. The shooting was the culmination of a quarrel over the price of a dish of ice cream, in which four companions of Lind and Lamble's brother, John, thirty-six years old, participated. Lamble made his escape ater the shooting and has not been captured.

NO POLITICS FOR CENSUS TAKERS

President Taft Hands Down 184 Commissions

AND ATTACHES A WARNING

Insisted That No Active Partisan Be Named and No Machine Built Up in the Census Bureau—One Hundred and Thirty-four Additional Supervisors Added to Already Long List.

Beverly, Mass., Aug. 16.—In a letter addressed to Secretary Nagel of the department of commerce and labor, President Taft served notice that any man engaged in the taking of the thirteenth census of the United States who engages in politics in any way will immediately be dismissed from the service. Outside of casting their votes the president believes that census supervisors and enumerators should keep clear of anything that savors of politics, national, state or local.

The president orders that the secretary of commerce and labor and the directors of the census embody in the regulations governing the taking of the census the rule so forcibly laid down in his letters.

Mr. Taft says that in appointing census supervisors it has been found necessary to select men recommended by senators and congressmen in their districts. He says he realizes that this method of selection might easily be perverted to political purposes, and it is to take the census out of politics, so far as the actual work is concerned, that he has explicitly expressed his desires as to the regulations.

President Taft has told the representatives and senators who have urged various men for census places that he would insist that no active partisan should be named and that no attempt should be made to build up a political machine in any state or district through the distribution of the census patronage.

One hundred and thirty-four additional supervisors of the census w announced Sunday. President Taft was busy until late at night signing the commissions of the successful candidates. Altogether 184 of the 330 supervisors now have been commissioned, and Mr. Taft's task is a little more than half completed. Practically all of the appointments have been agreed upon, but some are being held up temporarily on account of protests.

LUCANIA BURNED.

Famous Cunarder in the Mud at Liverpool Docks.

Liverpool, Aug. 16.—The Cunard line's steamer Lucania lies submerged at the Huskisson dock after having been almost gutted from her funnels forward by fire which broke out at 7 o'clock last Saturday evening. The flames are supposed to have originated in the saloon kitchen. The fire brigade of the vessel, with two powerful motor engines, turned out immediately at the first alarm and found the saloon burning fiercely from end to end. Despite their efforts the flames worked forward until they reached the steerage, consuming every particle of the woodwork there and then played havoc with the forehold. At this time the heat was tremendous, and the flames attracted thousands of persons to the side of he river, where they remained throughout the night.

At 3 o'clock in the morning it was decided to flood the vessel, turning water into her from the dock. Soon she heeled over, and her funnels came in contact with the cranes on the dock and were badly damaged. A half dozen firemen who were on the gangway at this time were thrown into the water, but all were rescued. A fleet of tugs then was brought into requisition, pulled the lines upright and held her until she settled firmly on the mud bottom.

1809—The Year of Genius—1809

Holmes the "Autocrat"

Poet, Novelist, Optimist and Humorist, Born a Century Ago—Incarnation of the Spirit of Sunshine.....

By James A. Edgerton

Copyright, 1909, by the American Press Association

LIKE A THREE CENT PIECE IN A BUNCH OF PENNIES.

HOLMES was an incarnation of the spirit of sunshine. He was many things—doctor, lecturer, good fellow and author—but his chief vocation was that of optimist. His humor was not of sudden surprises, but of diffusive geniality. He was a little chap—five feet four or thereabout—and once when in the company of many larger doctors, all six footers or more, said he felt like a three cent piece in a bunch of pennies. This mot has been attributed to other men, but Holmes said it first. He was lecturer on anatomy at Harvard for thirty-five years and carried his warmth and glow into the class room, so much so that the "undergrads" set up a shout of delight whenever he hove in sight. In his old age he was likened to a little withered red cheeked apple, but the comparison was made in love and not in scorn. In his day Holmes was about the most universally loved man in Boston, and when one can win the affection of Boston he has the whole world at his feet. The autocrat shone everywhere—as a practitioner, scientist, teacher, essayist, novelist, poet, after dinner speaker, conversationalist and society man. When the famous Saturday Night club had its monthly spreads, with such far shining ones as Emerson, Longfellow, Hawthorne, Agassiz, Sumner and Whittier about the board, it was Lowell and Holmes who carried off the conversational honors. Perhaps if our doctor-poet had not spread his glow over so many fields it would have been more intense, but we are thankful for it as it was. The divine spark was there, and that is good for the ages, whether it gleams in many places or in one.

Holmes came in with that wonderful constellation of genius that reached the earth in 1809, and was born on Aug. 29, only a few days after Alfred Tennyson. His father was a strait-laced New England preacher of the old school, but his mother was touched with the humanities, the geniality and the culture that afterward charmed the world in her son. He took his rise in Cambridge, Mass., so that he was not only Harvard bred, but Harvard born, so to speak. He always lived in Boston except for two years spent in Paris studying medicine. In his boyhood he hesitated between three vocations—law, medicine and literature—studied law for a year, then switched to physic and in the end found himself in literature. He had followed Paul's injunction and had tried all things, or nearly all, and held fast that which was good. While he was still on earth he and his friends debated whether he had rendered the greater service to the race in an essay he had written on puerperal fever or in his novels, essays and poems, but the ages will only recall that he wrote on puerperal fever, if indeed they recall the fact at all, because he wrote the novels, essays and poems. The same Paul already dragged into this article by the heels made tents. He likewise indited various epistles. The earth has been full of tentmakers, but it has only one thirteenth chapter of Corinthians. In like manner learned folk have written on fevers for some thousands of years, but there is only one "Chambered Nautilus."

This was not the only fever episode in the life of Holmes. When he first hung out his shingle his native humor got the best of him, and he said something about small favors and fevers—being thankfully received. This queered his practice at once, as people will not have a doctor who makes fun of their diseases. If there is anything the average man or woman wants taken seriously it is his or her ailments. The young doctor finally did get patients, but in a few years took to lecturing in the colleges. Then he discovered that, after all, he was a poet, when he was still happier and the world likewise.

It was Lowell who literally dragged Holmes into literature, much against that gentleman's wish and only when he was forty seven years old. Lowell was offered the editorship of the Atlantic and said that he would consent only on condition that Dr. Holmes became the chief contributor. The result was "The Autocrat of the Breakfast Table," which made Holmes and the magazine at once. When this series of delightful papers was started the author had no very definite idea how or when it would end, but merely kept on writing as fancy led. That perhaps is the chief charm of the work. Many of the best writers have borne witness to the effectiveness of the same method. They let their plots work out themselves, the characters bobbing up at unexpected times, just as they do in life. The world does not like to be imposed on by machine made spontaneity. It prefers that the thoughts force the author rather than that the author force the thoughts. In his novels, his essays and his poems the autocrat's words bubbled from his heart.

Before the Atlantic episode Dr. Holmes had already made some reputation as a poet. The year he was studying law he had written pronounced his best effort and that President Lincoln often recited.

But now his nose is thin,
And it rests upon his chin
Like a staff,
And a crook is in his back
And a melancholy crack
In his laugh,

has always struck me as especially pat. His later poems, "Bill and Joe," "Dorothy Q.," "The One Hoss Shay," which was written to ridicule a certain school of logic, and many others have passed into the common speech of the race. To my mind "The Nautilus" is the noblest of all, especially the inimitable last two stanzas:

Thanks for the heavenly message brought by thee,
Child of the wandering sea,
Cast from her lap forlorn.
From thy dead lips a clearer note is born
Than ever Triton blew from wreathed horn.
While on mine ear it rings
Through the deep caves of thought I hear a voice that sings:

Build thee more stately mansions, O my soul,
As the swift seasons roll!
Leave thy low vaulted past!
Let each new temple, nobler than the last,
Shut thee from heaven with a dome more vast
Till thou at length art free,
Leaving thine outgrown shell by life's unresting sea!

From no conceivable standpoint can serious fault be found with that poem. For classic diction, pleasing form, music, clearness, imagery, mystic touch, deep thought and noble appeal it is as well nigh perfect of its kind as our human things attain. Whatever may be said of his other work, "The Chambered Nautilus" makes Oliver Wendell Holmes a member of that

Choir invisible
Whose music is the gladness of the world.

It is a rare privilege to chat with the unborn and to talk into the ear of the ages.

Dr. Holmes belonged to what he was fond of calling "the Brahman caste of New England." Other people speak of it as "the Cambridge school of poets," the greatest group America has produced and one of the greatest in the history of letters. "The Autocrat" outlived all the rest. He was eighty-five at death, truly "The Last Leaf."

And if I should live to be
The last leaf upon the tree
In the spring
Let them smile, as I do now,
At the old forsaken bough
Where I cling.

Strong Healthy Women

If a woman is strong and healthy in a womanly way, motherhood means to her but little suffering. The trouble lies in the fact that the many women suffer from weakness and disease of the distinctly feminine organism and are unfitted for motherhood. This can be remedied.

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription

Cures the weaknesses and disorders of women. It acts directly on the delicate and important organs concerned in motherhood, making them healthy, strong, vigorous, virile and elastic.

"Favorite Prescription" banishes the indispositions of the period of expectancy and makes baby's advent easy and almost painless. It quickens and vitalizes the feminine organs, and insures a healthy and robust baby. Thousands of women have testified to its marvelous merits.

It Makes Weak Women Strong. It Makes Sick Women Well.

Honest druggists do not offer substitutes, and urge them upon you as "just as good." Accept no secret nostrum in place of this non-secret remedy. It contains not a drop of alcohol and not a grain of habit-forming or injurious drugs. Is a pure glyceric extract of healing, native American roots.

But they did not smile. No. Their eyes shone too much for smiles. There was a suggestion of tears in the look; also of affection and reverence, both for the gray poet and for his mighty brethren who had passed on and of whom he was the one remaining symbol.

"Say this," he once charged an interviewer, "and you will say something worth coming for: We made American literature American when there was no truly American literature. I am glad that the younger writers today are so inclined to write what they themselves as Americans think and see and feel. I believe in being American."

There he sounded a note that must keep on ringing until there is an American literature greater than the world has seen till now. The Cambridge group were the prophets of some mightier school that is to be. All our accomplishments in other fields point to an equal achievement in this. A new era of invention, a new industrialism, a new politics and a new self reliance and self upbuilding are coming into birth here, and they must have an adequate voice. These poets of the nineteenth century were the singers of the dawn, heralding the fuller burst of melody. They did make an American literature and made that literature respected the world around. In this they rendered a greater service than they could have known. When the fuller chorus breaks it will fulfill and reveal the old. We shall then see how much they accomplished who laid the foundations of the temple of American letters.

Like his great associates, Dr. Holmes' home life was white. He married Amelia Lee Jackson, whose unselfishness, loyalty and tact made her an ideal wife for a man of letters. Mrs. Holmes and two children the aged poet saw laid in the grave before him. One son only survives him, and he, too, is named Oliver Wendell Holmes and is a justice of the supreme court of the United States.

In the close of the "Autocrat," when that worthy was taking his last walk with the schoolmistress, occurs this touching scene:

"I think I tried to speak twice without making myself distinctly audible. At last I got out the question, 'Will you take the long path with me?' 'Certainly,' said the schoolmistress, with much pleasure. 'Think,' I said, 'before you answer. If you take the long path with me now I shall interpret it that we are to part no more.' The schoolmistress stepped back with a sudden movement, as if an arrow had struck her. * * * 'Pray, sit down,' I said. 'No, no,' she answered softly. 'I will walk the long path with you.'"

"I BELIEVE IN BEING AMERICAN."

Dr. Holmes has gone upon a longer path, that through the eternities, but the world will ever remember him for the sunshine he trailed behind him as he passed this way.

FIRST "AVIATION WEEK."

Huge Crowds Gather to Watch the Flying Machines Get Ready.

Rheims, France, Aug. 16.—Huge crowds throng the aerodrome as a foretaste of next Sunday's opening of "Aviation week," during which aeronauts from the United States, France, Italy and Austria will compete for various prizes, chief of which will be the international cup given by James Gordon Bennett.

Several new entries have been received for the races, making a total of thirty-eight, and there is every promise that the meeting will be the greatest event of the sporting year, replacing in interest the automobile grand prix, which has been abandoned this year.

Glenn H. Curtiss, the American aviator, took a rest yesterday. His machine is nearly set up, and the finishing touches will be put on it today. Other competitors were busy, however.

At Chalons Sur Marn, M. Sommer made a magnificent flight of an hour and a half, but M. Ruchonnet, another French entrant, came to grief, smashing the frame of his machine by making a too abrupt landing. Henry Farman was badly scalded on the face by water from a defective radiator, at Mourmelon. As a consequence he will be forced to lay up for several days.

Otto Lagoni of Niles shot his twelve-year-old son in the shoulder Saturday night, after the lad had got up to get a drink, thinking he was a burglar. The lad will recover.

Frank LeClare of Lansing, aged eighteen years, freshman at the Michigan College of Mines, Houghton, was drowned at 4 o'clock in the afternoon while bathing in Portage lake, near the college, being seized with cramps.

An attempt was made to release the prisoners from the Ionia jail by George Lawton of Belding, in jail on the charge of larceny from the Wilson offices at Belding. Lawton admitted the act. He was being watched, as an attempt to get a saw into the jail had been discovered.

While preparing his horse to drive to Watson to attend a family reunion John Sage was stricken with apoplexy Saturday morning and dropped dead. He was about seventy years of age and had lived many years in this county.

of a published article, on which hangs an interesting coincidence:

Of most public characters it is possible to take a summary view which shall be fairly comprehensive and impartial. This is literally impossible in the case of Mr. Gladstone for these reasons: His unexampled multifariousness demands consideration in detail if a just estimate is desired. His unique mentality must be understood before the results of its processes can be rightly seen and judged, and these together utterly fail to portray the Gladstone of history unless we study them as influenced by the mighty upheavals, economic, social, political, religious and in international relations, that marked the Victorian era, of which for nearly two generations he was the most conspicuous figure. No single student of Gladstone is to be trusted, whatever his estimate may be. Even history is unlikely to do full justice to one who was not one, but many in one, many contradictory units in an enigmatical whole.

A few weeks later was published the masterly monograph, "William Ewart Gladstone—His Characteristics as Man and Statesman," by the Right Hon. James Bryce, author of "The American Commonwealth" and now British ambassador at Washington. He served in Gladstone's cabinet and was president of the board of trade in Lord Rosebery's ministry. These are his opening sentences:

No man has lived in our times of whom it is so hard to speak in a concise and summary fashion as Mr. Gladstone. His activity spreads itself out over many fields. No account of him could be

AMUSEMENTS.

"Teddy" the acting bear, who is a very active member of "The Moonshiner's Daughter" company which plays at the Bradley opera house on Monday, Aug. 23, has a history such as befalls to the lot of but few of his kind. When President Roosevelt's son first conceived the idea of a hunting trip down among the cane-brakes of Mississippi, "Teddy" was a promising cub of two weeks, the pride of his mother and the envy of two little bear brothers of the same age. The usual life of a bear was all that "Teddy" looked forward to, until one day while the mother bear was out foraging, the President's young son happened across the cozy home in the rocks where "Teddy" and his brothers lay fast asleep. A couple of casting nets soon made "Teddy" and his brothers prisoners and they were carried to camp, fed on milk and eventually shipped to a zoological garden in the East. "Teddy's cute tricks soon won him a host of friends among the visitors of the Zoo, among them the manager of "The Moonshiner's Daughter", who after much dickering succeeded in purchasing the little fellows from the authorities. A trainer was secured for him, and under his patient teaching, "Teddy" soon became a clever actor.

The annual picnic of the Tecumseh, and Tipton Knights of Pythias will be held at Sand lake Wednesday, Aug. 18. Great preparations are being made for the occasion.

THE LADIES' WORLD.

In the August number of The Ladies' World there is a very interesting installment of the serial story, The Fairy's Janet, besides several short stories that are most enjoyable for midsummer reading. The Gardens of Memory, by Shirley Carson, with illustrations by Rosenmeyer, is one of those delightful romances that envelop another, as it were, there being really two complete stories. A love tale with a very unusual turn is The Pot of Gold, by Louise J. Starkweather, the illustrations being by W. M. Berger. Hearkening to the Call, a strong piece of work by W. Y. Sheppard, a new writer, is a summer tragedy—a struggle between worth and position, in which the latter wins. In special articles there is a very interesting one on Oliver Wendell Holmes, whose centenary occurs next month, by Clara E. Laughlin, one on summer Work for Women, by Laura A. Smith, in which some rather unusual lines of employment are discussed, and one on Nursing at home, by Wealtha A. Wilson. The Household department contains Sensible Summer Living, by Anna W. Morrison; Summer Drinks and How to Make Them, Household Information and Economies, and Family Problems; and there are besides How to Make the House Dress, by Helen D. Pardy; Answers to Questions on Dressmaking, The Latest Accessories of Dress, Filet Net and Embroidery, Fancy Work for Summer Afternoons, Children's Stories, Health and Good Looks, Ways of Society, etc., etc. —[New York: Fifty Cents a Year.]

GOATS AS TRAIL MAKERS.

The brush eating instinct of the Angora goat is being successfully demonstrated on the Lassen National Forest in California, where they are cutting trails for fire guards through the brushy areas on the slopes of the mountains.

The animals, which number 3,000, have been divided into two bands and under the care of the herders are grazed within certain well defined areas so that their work may be concentrated on the brush within those limits. The result is that they have practically killed nearly all the brush in the course, either by eating it up entirely, or by barking, as in the case of the heavy manzanita bushes. At the beginning of the experiment there was some doubt as to the goats' willingness to eat the manzanita, but it has been found that where there is little else, they will just as readily attack it as any other bushes.

The grazing season was so late this year on the Lassen Forest that the goats did not begin operations until about the middle of June, but since then they have made rapid progress and the result promises to be a success from every point of view. The trails will first be opened and then kept free of sprouts by the goats, saving the government considerable labor in cutting them out by hand as has been done heretofore, while the brushy forage which otherwise would have been wasted will support 3,000 goats very comfortably.

BANKING LAW CHANGES.

Lansing, Mich.—Banking Commissioner Zimmerman is sending out to all state banks a circular letter calling attention to the law pertaining to the transaction of commercial and savings bank business, which requires that the two departments be separated. The new law takes effect September 2.

Some of the provisions of this law are that section 23 prohibits lending to exceed 50 per cent of the capital stock in mortgages or other form of real estate security, while section 24 provides that commercial banks may allow interest on accounts or certificates of deposit, but all deposits in such banks shall be payable on demand without notice except when the contract of deposit otherwise provides. Banks are required to keep on hand at least 15 per cent of their total deposit, except that in cities of over 100,000 population they are required to keep at least 20 per cent of their deposit on hand.

Under the law the reserve must be kept separate on the books of the bank, but no physical separation of the cash of the departments is required. The law requires that five per cent of the deposits must be in cash in the vaults of the bank 10 per cent of deposits may be held in reserve banks, 34 per cent may be invested in collateral loans and 51 per cent may be invested in bonds for real estate securities.

The commissioner's department has prepared the necessary blanks for carrying out the new provisions, and these will be sent to all the banks of the state affected.

CRETAN AFFAIRS BECOME ACUTE

Warships Are Sent From All Directions.

GREEK FLAG IS STILL FLYING

Peaceful Solution Seemed to Have Been Reached Last Week, but Turkish Handling of Situation Has Been Awkward — Greek Press Opposes Hostilities.

London, Aug. 16.—A peaceful solution of the Cretan situation appeared practically to have been secured last week through the intervention of the four protecting powers and the scrupulously correct attitude adopted by the Greek government in its diplomatic intercourse with Turkey, and despite the fact that the Turkish government, under the pressure of national agitation, handled the diplomatic difficulty in an unsuitable manner in demanding fresh guarantees from Greece. The Young Turkey party plainly mistrusts the present Turkish ministry and fears that Turkey will lose suzerainty over Crete as she has lost that of Bulgaria. This feeling has led to a very strong movement among the Albanians against the Turkish government and to a serious boycott against Greek trade.

At the same time the population of Crete has shown such strong Greek sympathies as to induce Crete to defy the order of the protecting powers, Great Britain, France, Italy and Russia, to haul down the Greek flag, which was raised when the troops of the powers recently evacuated the island. As a result of this latter difficulty the situation again has become acute. The powers have ordered warships to Crete and probably will reoccupy the island in order to force compliance with their wishes. In this event it is not unlikely that fresh negotiations will ensue with a view to placing the Cretan question on a more settled basis and prevent a recurrence of the disturbing events.

Perfect confidence still is felt that peace between Turkey and Greece will not be disturbed.

S. D. Williams, editor of the Modern Maccabee, the newspaper representative of more than 100,000 members of that organization in Michigan, who is something of a student and philosopher in various directions, declares that it looks like a good time for the farmer boy to stay on the farm. He approaches the conclusion which leads him to believe that for some years to come farming will be almost the most profitable industry that man can engage in, through a review of the increased production of gold and silver and through the further fact that this country's cheaper labor is drifting toward the cities. "Unless you have a good and sure thing in the city you had better bide a wee bit with dad on the old farm, for the pendulum is swinging that way," is his concluding admonition.

THE RED DEVIL.

Weight--49,000 Pounds.

There are red devils, and red devils, but certainly Tecumseh now has the king Bee of Red Devils, in the trench machine which was ordered for digging the sewer, and arrived in Tecumseh a short time ago. It was unloaded from the car Monday morning and backed off by its own power, moving an inch to a foot at a time, and, Mr. Southworth informs the Herald that he expects to begin digging on East Chicago street this afternoon. The fairy weight of this machine is 49,000 pounds. The rapidity with which it can excavate can be regulated at the will of the person in charge, slowing down so the movement of the machinery is imperceptible. It will certainly be of interest to everyone to watch the machine in operation. The files are being distributed over the city, and it really looks as if the sewer was assured.

Two little girls were seriously injured and three others had narrow escapes Friday afternoon when the Wall street bridge, condemned three years ago, crashed down on Mrs. Geo. Mann and four neighbor's children, who were driving with her. The bridge sank and the heavy steel girders that rise above it crashed down on the buggy in which the five were driving. The buggy was splintered, but one wheel remaining intact. The accident to the bridge did not throw them into the Huron river. Five minutes before the disaster occurred two heavy wagons loaded with gravel passed over the bridge. The bridge was built 20 years ago, but was repaired two years ago after it had been condemned. It is thought the structure was weakened by ice jams last spring.—Chelsea Standard.

In order to keep the blood pure and the body healthy, it is absolutely necessary that the gastric juices in the stomach be thoroughly mixed or churned with the food. When the stomach is run down, the walls have lost their elasticity, and have not energy enough to properly mix the food, then dyspepsia sour stomach, distress, heartburn, sick headache and other annoying ills are bound to result. There is only one logical way to cure such a condition, and that is to build up the worn out stomach walls That's exactly what Mi-o-na tablets do, and that's why C. A. Wright & Son are willing to give you your money back if Mi-o-na does'nt cure dyspepsia, whether acute or chronic. Large box, enough to make life bright for the ordinary dyspeptic, only costs 50 cents. Get a box to-day.

"Mi-o-na cured me of indigestion of months' standing and has from me a hearty recommendation and endorsement. Mi-o-na, in my case, worked wonders and in a very short space of time. Prior to using Mi-o-na, I had doctored and used several remedies without help or benefit." Mrs. John McCann, Tecumseh, Mich., Oct. 16, 1908.

FAIR PROSPECTS ENCOURAGING.

Everything Points to the Greatest Exhibition Ever Held in Michigan; Sec'y Butterfield Pleased; Grounds More Beautiful Than Ever.

Secretary Butterfield of the Michigan State Fair, which opens this year on Sept. 2, says that never were the prospects so encouraging as during the present year and he has been connected with the executive department of this institution for the past thirty years. Entries are coming in earlier, and more of them, than any time in his history. Interest in this big fair seems to increase each year and the great difficulty now is to take good care of all the exhibits with the present facilities. It was thought when the present buildings were completed they would answer all purposes for years to come, but there is already a lack of buildings.

As in former years a complete catalogue will be issued, containing a list of all the entries, the number, the owners, location, attractions, race program, and in fact everything that anyone would want to know who attends the fair.

The state fair buildings are now undergoing a thorough renovation for the opening. When the exhibition starts on Sept. 2 everything will be in fine condition. The grounds never looked better. The nursery firms have an enormous line of shrubs and flowers that will be in full bloom during the exposition and make the grounds more attractive than ever. These plants were started early in the season and after much labor have been brought to perfection. With the flower beds and foliage plants maintained by the State Fair itself, the grounds are made to appear like a great city park.

CHILDREN AT THE FAIR

THURSDAY, SEPT. 7, HAS BEEN SET APART AS DAY FOR THE LITTLE FOLKS.

Program of Games and Other Features Have Been Arranged — Liberal Prizes Will Be Awarded to the Successful Contestants — Admission Free to Those Under 12.

Tuesday, Sept. 7, has been set apart by the Michigan State Fair this year as children's day. It is estimated that at least 35,000 youngsters will avail themselves of the invitation to attend the fair on this date. Every child in Michigan under the age of 12 years who comes to the gate on Sept. 7 will be admitted free, no ticket being required. A program prepared especially for the little folks will be announced later, which provides for one continuous round of pleasure from morning until night. Besides the attractions prepared especially for the little folks there will continue the regular fair features that will fill every hour of the day.

Children's day last year was one of the greatest events of the fair. Thousands of parents from every part of the state attended and brought with them the children.

Special attention will be given to lost youngsters. A department of the fair will receive every stray child and care for it until it is safely returned to the parents. Ample police protection will constantly be maintained and parents need have no fear of harm coming to their little ones.

Officials of the Michigan State Fair announce that the grounds will be turned over to the children on Sept. 7, and that there will be no "keep off the grass" signs to hamper the pleasure of the event.

MOTOR CYCLISTS TO RACE.

Michigan State Fair Offers Big Prizes for Those Engaging in Exciting Contest.

One of the interesting attractions at the Michigan State Fair this year will be the motor cycle races, which are scheduled for Sept. 3. President Hunter, of the Detroit Motor Cycle Club, with other officials of that organization, have mapped out a list of events that is attracting riders from all over the country. The State Fair has appropriated five hundred dollars, which will be turned over to the motor cycle club, to be used for the purchase of prizes. Added to these, cycle manufacturers from scores of cities are donating valuable articles.

President Hunter says it is planned to award a prize to every rider who enters. Liberality is giving the event a high place among the motor cyclists because they know they will get something even though they finish last.

While these races are in progress Kopp's celebrated band from Cincinnati will furnish music. This a concert organization and has a reputation all over the country for fine music.

Over in the grounds other attractions will be continually in progress. There will be something of interest everyone and no one who visits the fair this year will experience a dull minute.

The Hayrack clowns will be a funny feature. They will visit every part of the fair and even venture down into the city, where they will make fun at various times during the day. While being very funny they will also do some thrilling tumbling on a hay wagon.

These races will be the real thing, and records no doubt will be broken. The State Fair management plans to make this event one of the most exciting of the many attractions booked for this year. The races will be held two days—Friday and Saturday, Sept. 3 and 4.

He has been married 40 years," said an editor, writing the obituary of a deceased citizen, "and was prepared to die.

FLEE CIRCUS IS THE LATEST.

Little Insects Trained to Do Wonderful Things on the Michigan State Fair Midway.

When Frank Spellman, of Cincinnati, who has charge of the Michigan State Fair Midway, told Assistant General Manager Slocum that a flea circus was to be a feature of the Midway this year, Mr. Slocum looked Mr. Spellman over and asked if the latter was undergoing mental deterioration.

"It's a fact," declared Spellman, "and I will show you."

And, sure enough, Spellman made good and has proven to every official of the Michigan State Fair that a flea can be trained and will perform at the coming state exposition. These fleas are not the miserable creatures that cause troublesome lumps while one is enjoying the evening air in the north end. They are known as the German flea, and grow to be quite large. They are intelligent and very apt pupils in the hands of a skillful trainer.

Prof. John Ruhl, who is master of the flea circus in Mr. Spellman's Midway, has something like 500 performers, and their diversified acts are simply marvelous. Acrobats, gymnasts, dancers, tight-rope performers, dramatic actors, soldiers, artisans, builders, etc., are members of Prof. Ruhl's aggregation. One of the most pleasing features is the grand ball given by Mr. and Mrs. Astorbilt Flea, to which are invited one hundred of the upper crust in the flea real society. The costumes worn are of extreme elegance, and the dances beautifully executed, whether a square dance of the olden times or the modern waltz or two-step. The gentlemen fleas are gallant, while the ladies are graceful, coquettish, and not a few are veritable flirts. The acrobats and jugglers are expert in their work, holding the spectators spellbound in amazement as the little performers promptly respond to their master's word of command.

Prof. Ruhl has two fleas that were trained many years ago by his great-grandfather about the time when Napoleon crossed the Alps. Five other fleas were trained by his grandfather in the days when King William was only a schoolboy, and with some of his companions visited the exhibition of trained fleas presented in those days by Prof. Carl Ruhl, the elder.

SCULPTOR TO WORK BUTTER.

Carlo Romanelli Will Carve Out a Farmhouse With Yards, Cattle and Barns for Peter Smith & Sons, Detroit; Will Be Seen at State Fair.

The famous sculptor, Carlo Romanelli, has been secured to do more of his famous "butter sculpture" at the Michigan State fair, which opens at Detroit on September 2 and continues until September 10. Peter Smith & Sons, the Detroit grocers, have signed a contract whereby they will spend $1,000 for the reproduction by Mr. Romanelli of a miniature farmhouse with yards, barns and cattle.

Peter Smith & Sons have also contracted with a well known butter manufacturer for 1,000 pounds of that product. Specifications call for the best butter that can be made. No salt will be used and after the design is completed it will be placed in refrigeration until the opening day of the fair.

Mr. Romanelli starts for Europe in a short time and it is necessary for him to begin the work as soon as the butter is made. It will take some time and is said to be a difficult piece of work. The butter has to be kept at a certain temperature and a change is liable to ruin everything the sculptor produces.

After the fair is over this 1,000 pounds of butter will be sold for grease. Peter Smith & Sons are also arranging for other beautiful features in their fair exhibit.

The offer of $1,500 in prizes by the Michigan State Fair for the automobile races has brought out a flood of requests for entry blanks from fast drivers all over the country. Scores of automobile manufacturing concerns are going to enter cars. Among the first to make their entries are the Chalmers, Buick and Maxwell concerns.

POLICE AND FIREMEN AT FAIR.

Every Precaution Will Be Taken at Michigan's Annual Exhibition to Protect Lives and Property of Everyone Who Visits the Grounds.

The management of the Michigan State Fair, which opens this year on September 2, at Detroit, and continues until September 10, has planned to give the exhibition city every facility for safety. This applies both to police and fire protection. This is as it should be, as thousands and thousands of dollars worth of property are taken to the grounds during the week of fair. The Detroit police and the sheriff and his deputies have planned this year, as heretofore, to make the exposition as safe from disorderly characters and thugs as is done down in Detroit. Gambling will not be permitted and everything that tends to lower the high standard of the fair will be eliminated.

The protection against fire is as complete as any section of Detroit. An engine house with a full equipment of metropolitan fire fighters from the Detroit department will again be constantly on duty during the exposition. With such facilities as these, it is almost impossible for a fire disaster to occur. The Michigan State Fair is practically an organized city and every comfort will be given visitors that can be secured down in Detroit.

CHILDREN TO SING AT FAIR.

Miss Gertrude Sackett to Lead Chorus Consisting of Sixty Little Folks at Michigan's Annual Exhibition, This Year.

One of the most pleasing features of the coming State Fair is the children's chorus to be arranged by Miss Gertrude Sackett, of Detroit. A contract was closed with Miss Sackett for this pleasing feature at a meeting of the fair officials held the present week. This energetic young woman has arranged to train sixty little girls, ranging from ten years and upwards, so that they can sing without music or words. They will appear all in white in the big grandstand in the grove, west of the main building, every day at the noon hour. The children's program is composed of patriotic songs both new and old and some novelties will be interspersed. These children will come from every part of the city, and a few from the suburban towns.

The Ladies' Navassar band will accompany the children in their singing, which will make one of the finest features of this big exhibition. This band will come to Detroit direct from Toronto and besides accompanying the children's chorus, they will play every afternoon and evening. Kopp's band, the big Cincinnati aggregation, will be heard principally in the grandstand during the races, the horse show and the free acts. This is one of the finest musical organizations now appearing before the public, and has made a great success during the past summer.

LADIES' BAND IS TO PLAY.

Michigan State Fair Engages Two Big Aggregations to Furnish Music at the Coming Fair—Both Bodies Composed of Artists.

Visitors at the Michigan State Fair, which opens this year on September 2, will have the pleasure of enoying two of the largest and most celebrated bands in the United States. Kopp's aggregation, from Cincinnati, with thirty-five pieces and the Navassar Ladies' band, with forty pieces, have been engaged for the entire exhibition.

Those two musical organizations have reputations all over the country for playing thrilling music with climaxes that bring audiences to their feet with a bound. The Navassar Ladies' band will come to Detroit direct from the Toronto exhibition, where they have been engaged to play during the first week of that fair.

Each of these organizations is filled with artists of international fame. The fair management engages these two bands for their educational value as well as for entertainment. Eminent soloists will also sing at various times during the fair, which is an added treat not usually enjoyed at such exhibitions. The Michigan State Fair is really an educational institutional, and as such the management is planning to make it the very best, through the means of high class talent and exhibits.

Rheumatism

I have found a tried and tested cure for Rheumatism! Not a remedy that will straighten the distorted limbs of chronic cripples, nor turn bony growths back to flesh again. That is impossible. But I can now surely kill the pains and pangs of this deplorable disease.

In Germany—with a Chemist in the City of Darmstadt—I found the last ingredient with which Dr. Shoop's Rheumatic Remedy was made a perfected, dependable prescription. Without that last ingredient, I successfully treated many, many cases of Rheumatism; but now, at last, it uniformly cures all curable cases of this heretofore much dreaded disease. Those sand-like granular wastes, found in Rheumatic Blood, seem to dissolve and pass away under the action of this remedy as freely as does sugar when added to pure water. And then, when dissolved, these poisonous wastes freely pass from the system, and the cause of Rheumatism is gone forever. There is now no real need—no actual excuse to suffer longer without help. We sell, and in confidence recommend

INCREASE OF 75.7 PER CENT

Agricultural Business Has Made Rapid Strides In Last 12 Years.

DEPARTMENT'S YEAR BOOK OUT

Farm Laborers Have Fared Better Than All Other Workmen In Matter of Wage Increase—Farmers Can Always Provide for Increasing Population.

Washington, Aug. 19.—During the last twelve years, the period covering the administration of Secretary of Agriculture James Wilson, the agricultural balance of trade in the United States increased from a yearly average of $234,000,000 to $411,000,000, or 75.7 per cent, according to the department's year book, just made public.

This wonderful improvement is only in keeping with the progress that has been made along all lines of agricultural activity. At the same time, it is stated, many conditions affecting the lives of the farmers of the country have advanced in even greater ratio until many of the undesirable features of farm life have been eliminated.

During those twelve years there has been a great diversification and geographic extension of products, apart from the cultivation of new land. Although there has been a decreasing production of what was only recently virgin soil, there was an increased production per acre of the entire country.

Citing the increase in population based upon statistics of native born, Mr. Wilson declares that no one need have fear that the farmers of this country will ever be unable to provide for its population.

From 1895 to 1905, he says, farm wages increased faster than did prices. In the matter of wage increase the farm laborer has fared better than the workingman employed in manufacturing and mercantile industries.

RIFFIAN REBEL CAPTURED.

Sultan of Morocco Says He Will Complete Chastisement of Spanish.

Tangier, Aug. 19.—A courier who left Fez August 13 has arrived here and confirms the reported capture of Roghi, the rebellious subject of the Sultan of Morocco, and says he probably will be brought into Fez. Roghi's chamberlain and many of his followers captured in the recent encounter with the government forces were decapitated while others were tortured. Large numbers of Roghian prisoners are being taken to Fez.

According to the courier, the sultan has warned the Riffian delegates that he himself would complete the chastisement the Riffians had commenced of the Spanish.

Spanish Press Impatient.

Madrid, Aug. 19.—A portion of the press is impatient at the delay in the advance at Melilla, but many of the newspapers insist that General Marina be given full swing in order to insure full success to the army. A new army balloon has been ordered sent to Melilla from Paris.

CLOUDBURSTS IN COLORADO

Heavy Rains Convert Rivers Into Raging Torrents.

Pueblo, Colo., Aug. 19.—Cloudbursts at Howard and in Ute canons made raging torrents of tributaries of the Arkansas river, causing the worst flood in years along the main stream. At Canon City the Arkansas river was five feet higher than ever before in its history and is still rising. This flood is due here some time today and preparations were made to avert great possible damage.

At Florence the entire population worked throughout the entire night carrying goods to higher ground in the expectation that practically the entire town would be submerged.

The extent of the damage at Howard has not been learned, as communication was cut off by the storm.

Warnings have been sent out all along the river between Canon City and Pueblo and even below here to let the people know of the approaching flood.

The Colorado Midland tracks were washed out near Manitou, tying up traffic completely.

ARMSTRONG STOOD MUTE

Plea of Not Guilty Entered, and Case Goes Over Till September.

Jackson, Mich., Aug. 19.—Allen N. Armstrong, ex-warden of Jackson prison, appeared in the circuit court Wednesday morning and was arraigned on the eight indictments returned against him by the grand jury and the information and complaint filed by Gen. Fred Green, of Ionia.

The information and seven of the indictments charge him with accepting a bribe. The other indictment charges Armstrong, together with Milton A. Daily, the Chicago salesman, and A. J. Emminger, of Miamisburg, O., president of the Hoover & Gamble Co., with defrauding the state of Michigan by false pretenses in the purchase of second-hand binder twine plant machinery.

Armstrong waived the reading of the documents and stood mute when asked to plead on the separate charges. The court ordered that a plea of not guilty be entered for him and that his case be brought up at the September term for trial. Bail in the amount of $10,000 on the Green complaint was furnished by Archie Peck and Herbert S. Reynolds, of this city. Armstrong was released on his personal recognizance on the indictments.

WRECK ON PERE MARQUETTE

Fireman Killed and Many Passengers Hurt When Boiler Blows Up.

Grand Ledge, Mich., Aug. 19.—One man, the fireman of the train, was killed, and several persons were hurt half an hour after midnight when the boiler of the engine of the Pere Marquette excursion train blew up here.

The engineer of the train was blown through the air a distance of several car lengths. His leg was broken and he suffered many minor injuries. Many of the passengers were injured more or less severely, arms and legs were broken, and they were cut by broken glass and bruised, but first reports say none of these was injured fatally.

The wrecked train was the excursion flyer from Detroit to Petoskey. The wreck occurred one and a half miles east of Grand Ledge.

STATUE FOR BLISS.

Popular Subscription Move Started In Saginaw.

Saginaw, Mich., Aug. 19.—Having its inception with William E. Crane, a movement is on foot and is meeting with approval to erect a handsome equestrian statue of the last governor, A. T. Bliss, who was one of Saginaw's best-known citizens.

The plan proposed is in the nature of a popular subscription, to which every citizen of the city might subscribe funds, an amount no matter how small. The statue would be erected in Bliss park, one of the beauty spots of the city, where hundreds of people would gaze upon it daily.

FLINT LINEMAN ELECTROCUTED

Terrible Charge Passes Through Willis Bowerman's Body.

BADLY BURNED AND SEARED

Fell From Twenty-two Foot Telephone Pole, Fracturing Skull in Two Places—Had Recently Arrived Here From Saginaw—He Leaves a Young Widow.

Flint, Mich., Aug. 19.—Willis B. Bowerman, 32 years old, foreman of the construction crew of the Bell Telephone company in Flint, was electrocuted at 3 o'clock Wednesday afternoon at the top of a 24-foot pole. He fell to the ground, striking his head on a boulder and fracturing his skull in two places.

Bowerman, with two other workmen, Floyd and William Amey, were detailed to cut a line into a cable box at Clifford and Fourth streets. Bowerman ascended the pole first, with William after him. When the latter was half way up the pole he heard a sizzling noise and glancing up saw Bowerman throw up his hands and fall. He dodged and the body just missed him.

Coroner Stuart was summoned as a physician and hurried the man to the Hurley hospital in his automobile, but he died within a few minutes. The physician stated that either the 2,300 volts which passed through his body or the fall would have caused his death, but he believed Bowerman was dead before he struck the ground. His right shoulder was terribly burned and his right leg was badly seared.

Bowerman came here from Saginaw last Monday, where he was employed by the Bell company. He was married June 24. His young wife resides in this city. Bowerman's father died in July and his mother's home is in Berrien Springs, where the body will be taken for burial Thursday.

KILLED AT CROSSING.

Engine Crashes Into Ice Wagon, Resulting In Death to One.

Detroit, Mich., Aug. 19.—One man dead, another probably fatally hurt and a third injured is the result of an accident on the Lake Shore railway crossing on Beaubien street Wednesday afternoon when an engine crashed into an ice wagon belonging to the Pittmans & Dean Ice Co.

William Duff, foreman of the company's ice-making plant at Hastings street and Trombley avenue, received a fracture at the base of his skull, and this, with internal injuries, caused his death in Harper hospital a few hours after the accident. John Burgess, 311 Parkman avenue, an ice cutter, sustained concussion of the brain, a fractured leg and internal injuries. His death is momentarily expected. Stanley Kenesey, 334 Frederick street, the driver, had a miraculous escape and received only external injuries, which are not serious.

Lawyers Engage In Fisticuffs.

Saginaw, Mich., Aug. 19.—Justice McDonald's court room was the scene of a brief but lively fistic encounter between Attorneys E. A. Snow and F. W. Newton, opposing counsel in a replevin case. After a few moments of fierce fighting in which Newton was struck in the forehead and both had their faces scratched and clothing disarranged, while they rolled on the floor, overturning tables and other furniture, the men apologized to each other and the court.

BIG SAVING TO GOVERNMENT

Mail Carriers Must "Double Up" During Vacation Season.

Washington, Aug. 19.—By requiring letter carriers to "double up" their routes during the dull season of July and August instead of employing substitutes, Postmaster-General Hitchcock expects to save the government not less than $250,000 in the cost of carriers' vacations during the present fiscal year.

SPEEDWAY DEDICATED

Fred J. Wagner of New York Started Events at Noon Today.

NOTABLE DRIVERS ON HAND

Five Events on Program This Afternoon, the 250-Mile Race Being Feature—Indianapolis a Mecca for Automobilists — Colossal Course In Fine Shape.

Indianapolis, Ind., Aug. 19.—The largest and most representative field of space annihilating racing machines ever brought together in a single carnival started in the contest with time at noon today.

The new speedway track is more than 60 feet wide and two and one-half miles in circumference, with a straightaway course of more than a mile at the finish. The practice work augurs well for the smashing of records. Zengel, driving a Chadwick, covered the circuit in two minutes yesterday and drove a mile in 47 3-5 seconds, any of the score or more drivers on the track completed the circuit close to that time.

Oldfield, Strang, Demitt, De Palma, Chevrolet, Miller, Ryall, Burman, Momsen, Lytle, Heina, Aitken, Bourque, Denison and two amateurs, Arthur Greiner and Ed Hearns of Chicago, are among the leading drivers that will compete in the three days' races.

There are five events on the program for today. The 250-mile race is the feature of the day, but the 10-mile free-for-all handicap, which has 29 entries, is expected to furnish enough thrills for the most blase spectator.

Starter Fred J. Wagner, of New York, who has had the honor of starting all the big events in the automobile world during the last few years, formally dedicated the speedway at noon when he started the seven machines in the five-mile stripped event.

Indianapolis has become the Mecca of the automobilists of the country, and every hour brings more in machines and on trains. Hundreds from nearby cities are driving their car into the capital, and many easterners are here. A caravan of about 75 machines arrived from Chicago last night.

GREEK FLAG LOWERED.

Protecting Powers Have Returned to Island, and All Is Serene.

Canae, Island of Crete, Aug. 19.—The Greek flag raised three weeks ago by the people of Crete in defiance of the sovereignty of Turkey and as an evidence of their desire for union with the kingdom of Greece was lowered at sunrise Wednesday morning by a party of international bluejackets. There was no resistance on the part of the Cretans and the function was carried out without disorder and in accordance with the prearranged program.

A landing party from the battleships of Great Britain, Russia, Italy and France, the protecting powers of Crete, who evacuated the island July 27 last, came ashore before sunrise, proceeded to the fort over which the flag was flying and removed the Hellenic emblem from its staff.

The action means that the protecting powers have returned to the island, and the situation is again much as it was before July 27.

RIVER SWALLOWING CITY.

Dera Chazi Khan, In India, Is Gradually Disappearing In Indus River.

Bombay, Aug. 19.—The fate of the prosperous Punjabi city of Dera Chazi Khan, which for months past has been gradually slipping into the River Indus, is now regarded as definitely sealed. Nothing can be done to prevent the encroachment of the water. The process of erosion is going on very rapidly. From 50 to 100 feet of the river front is being swept away every day, and one by one mosques, mansions and hovels are disappearing in the swift stream. Every effort of competent engineers to devise a way to protect the city has been futile. Dera Chazi Khan has a population of 25,000.

Awaits Favorable Weather.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

DOING THEIR DUTY.

To filter the blood is the kidney's duty. When they fail to do this the kidneys are sick. Backache and many kidney ills follow. Urinary trouble, diabetes, Doan's Kidney Pills cure them all. Tecumseh people endorse our claim. A. C. Aylesworth, retired farmer, W. Chicago St., Tecumseh, Mich., says: "About four years ago I had an acute attack of lumbago, caused by disordered kidneys. When I heard of Doan's Kidney Pills, I procured a supply at C. A. Wright & Son's drug store and began their use. In a short time I was relieved and I have had no return of the trouble since. I hope other kidney sufferers will see my statement and be led to give Doan's Kidney Pills a trial." For Sale by all Dealers. Price 50 cents. THE GIRL WHO DARED

A Wild Ride and What Happened to the Culprit.

By AMELIE DELANCEY.

[Copyright, 1909, by Associated Literary Press.]

For six months the Widow Penrose had been planning an addition to her country residence, but absence and a rush of orders had prevented her nephew, Gordon Gordon, from running down and taking the work in hand.

Finally he appeared in his auto, driven by himself, and the machine was left at the gate. It had rested there less than half an hour when along came three young ladies with fish poles on their shoulders and one poor little fish to show that they had not visited the lake in vain that forenoon.

The sight of an auto was more familiar to them than that of a carriage. They were residents of the city and friends at home and were summering at good Aunt Mary's boarding house, a quarter of a mile away.

"An auto!" they cried in chorus as they came to a halt.

"And the owner is in the house!"

"And we can take a ride without his knowing it!"

"Yes, but none of us can run it."

"Girls," said Miss Dorothy Flint, with whom this story has mostly to do, "I have ridden in autos so many times that I believe I could run one. Yes, I know I could. It's just like steering a boat after you get started. I believe you turn the crank in front first. That ignites the spark or something. Then, after you get in, you pull this lever back, and away she goes. I think the auto belongs to a doctor. Doctors are always good hearted men, and I'm sure this one won't begrudge us a little spin. Get in."

But the command was in vain. They hadn't confidence in her experience and skill as a chauffeur. If she could run an auto, why not drive the machine to the lake and back? She hesitated and was jeered at. She made as if to turn away and was "dared."

Perhaps Miss Dorothy's grandfather was one of those who fell at Lexington or lay wounded on the field of Bunker Hill. At any rate, the "dare" had hardly been dared when she was at the crank, and as soon as the whizzing noise came to prove that the dead machine had come to life she climbed in and gave it a start.

She went off with a whew and had not covered a hundred feet when she wished she had not gone at all. But it was too late. There were a dozen "Oh, mys!" behind her, and she forgot everything but holding the wheel with a grip of death.

If she had ever heard that an auto could be stopped she forgot it now. It was a hard, wide road, and she was out of sight in three minutes.

The other two girls stood there with mouths and eyes wide open and feeling helpless even to scream out when a young man came down from the house, raised his hat, looked around and inquired somewhat anxiously:

"Have you seen a stray auto round here?"

"It's run away," answered one after a moment.

"With a g-gurl," added the other as the tears came to her eyes.

"What! Do you mean that some girl is driving my auto up or down the highway without my permission?"

"Y-yes!"

"And who is she, may I inquire?"

"A Miss Flint."

"Well, Miss Flint has nerve. Is she used to driving autos?"

"We—we guess so, but she seemed scared when she started off. Won't you run after her, sir? You see, we dared her to."

"And she wouldn't take a dare? Well, there's a $4,000 auto gone to wreck and a girl lying somewhere beside the road with a broken neck. Run after her! Why, she may be fifteen miles away by this time! How could she be so foolish!"

"But if she is d-dead, sir, some one must bring home her—her mangled remains!" said one of the girls as both broke down and wept.

"Well, I believe there's a saddle horse in the stable, and I'll set out in pursuit. Young ladies, let this be a solemn warning to you—very solemn."

He was a young man of two or three and twenty and did not look a bit like a doctor. Besides, he was not a stranger to the house from which he had emerged. He tried to look very dignified and serious as he uttered his warping, but it was a failure. Any young man of that age would have made a failure of it.

Even though the girls were tearful and anxious as they walked along home they agreed titteringly that he didn't look a bit solemn.

He brought out the horse as soon as possible and galloped away, but at the lake the highway forked. There were three diverging roads, and he must and did take his chance of hitting the right one. He had galloped down the left hand one for three miles before a farmer replied to his hail:

"No; haven't seen no gal scootin' by here in an auto at fifty miles an hour. If I had I should have flung a rock after her. Beats all how different the gals of this age are from those of forty years ago. Why, when my wife was a gal"—

But the pursuer waited to hear no more. He returned to the lake and, finding the right hand road a little better than the middle one, took it and galloped ahead. When he had gone a distance of two miles he drew rein to speak to a farmer's wife weeding a flower bed in the front yard.

"A gal and an auto, eh?" she queried. "No; I don't think I've seen 'em. Might have seen 'em, but if so it has slipped my mind. What was the color of the gal's hair?"

"But you have either seen them or not!" exclaimed the young man petulantly.

"That's so—that's so. Waal, I guess they took the other road. That is, they did if they didn't take to the fields. Think it's goin' to rain this week?"

By the time young Gordon had returned to the lake his horse was in a lather, and he decided to go back to his aunt's in the hope that the auto might also have returned. His hope was vain. The horse was leg weary, and the rider entered the house and called up a farmer on the middle road four miles away.

"A gal and an auto?" repeated the man at the other end of the line. "You bet your boots I've seen 'em! Went by here three hours ago like a whirlwind. Struck one of my hogs lyin' in the road and knocked him a hundred feet. Whew, but that old machine was glidin' some!"

"And the girl herself—did she seem frightened?"

"Scared most to death, I guess. Her eyes seemed to be hangin' out, and maybe she was prayin'. She was holdin' the machine in the middle of the road, however. If she lives to get to the Red bridge she'll be stopped there by the constable. He's stationed there to look for speeders."

The girl who "dared" lived to reach the bridge. It was an act of Providence. From the moment the auto got its speed, which was thirty miles an hour, she was dumb, frozen and helpless to do anything but hold the wheel.

She saw nothing but the white road ahead of her. She passed vehicles and overhauled others, but she was scarcely conscious of it. As she approached the bridge the strain was too much, and her fingers unclutched from the wheel, and the auto dashed its way through the roadside fence and came to a stand-till in a field. Then Miss Flint fainted away.

When she came to her senses the constable was sprinkling water in her face and saying:

"Come, now, none of your tricks with me. You are just playing possum because I have caught you. It's a case for Squire Johnson, and I shouldn't wonder if you got jail for it."

"What, what are you going to do?" asked the girl as she staggered to her feet.

"Put you in the village lockup and notify the squire, of course. Take my arm and come along. The machine is pretty well busted, and we can't use it. Wonder it didn't blow up and send you sky high. Were you eloping or something of that kind?"

"I—I was just taking a ride," was the humble answer.

"Just making the dirt fly thirty feet high and scaring folks and horses half to death. Well, the squire will be tickled to see you. He's been aching for the last week to get hold of a speeder and give him a good dose of county jail. How dare you take the chances—how dare you?"

"Would you take a dare from two girls?" asked the prisoner as she released her arm and faced him.

"No-oo, I guess not."

"Well, I wouldn't, and so there! If they want to send me to jail let 'em do it!"

She was taken to the office of the village justice of the peace and arraigned. By the way there the constable's heart melted. He saw that she had had a bad scare, and he liked her defiant spirit. Therefore, while he had to make complaint against her, he did not put the speed at thirty miles an hour. To this he added the statement that if the auto hadn't struck a stone in the road it would not have struck the fence.

Then he turned and winked at the wondering, shivering girl to put heart in her.

It may have been one of his honor's soft days. He delivered a lecture on the rise and fall of the Roman empire or some other equally interesting subject and concluded by suspending sentence. Then the constable invited the ex-prisoner home with him to dinner and set about arranging to send her back to her friends.

Evening had come, and she was about ready to start when Gordon came galloping up. When he had introduced himself as the owner of the smashed auto he asked grimly:

"And who is to pay the $500 damages? And who is to pay for my trouble? Why, if the justice had known all the circumstances he'd have sent you to jail for a year!"

"But the other girls dared me to do it!" protested the culprit, with trembling lip.

"Say, young man," said the constable as he drew Gordon aside, "you just get even by daring the gal to marry you. She ain't the kind that takes a dare. See? You can drive her back in the buggy, and you just keep daring her all the way. Lord, but I wish I was in your shoes!"

It was a fine moonlight ride. It was not too fast. The situation was a little strained at first, but after awhile the farmers heard laughter as the buggy passed.

Perhaps there was one dare, perhaps a dozen. The society paper which announced the engagement a few months later didn't specify. Society papers don't always go into minute particulars.

Her Preference.

"I—aw—want to give you—aw—a little pwesent on youah birthday, doncher know," said young DeSappe. "Would you—aw—pwefer something—aw—sensible?"

"Oh, my, no!" answered Miss Dimpleton. "I prefer presents that are characteristic of the people who give them to me."—Chicago News.

Steeplejack In Wrong.

Bob and Jim were Jacks of all trades and worked together. One summer's morning Bob came round to Jim's house at the early hour of 3 and managed to wake him.

"Now, then," he cried, "hurry up. There's a big factory chimney wants pulling down about a mile away from here, and I got the tip from the factory foreman that if we could knock twenty feet off it before the authorities were about it would save the factory the expenses of a scaffold and it would mean a five pound note apiece for you and me."

"What, ho!" cried Jim. "Let's go."

Their destination reached, they climbed to the top of the chimney, and soon masses of brickwork were falling to earth. A man who lived near was disturbed by the noise and started to make a fuss. "Here, Bob," cried Jim, "you climb down and quiet that fellow. Keep him talking while I finish this job up here." So Bob climbed down and engaged the indignant man in conversation.

Suddenly Jim heard Bob calling to him and, looking down, saw his friend gesticulating wildly and beckoning him to come down. So down Jim came. "What's the matter?" he asked.

"Let's go home, Jim, thundering quick. We've been pulling down the wrong chimney."—London Answers.

D'Auber is a big, healthy, bearded man who looks as though he could lift half hundredweights in each hand as easily as he picks up his palette.

An elderly rustic, who had been standing watching him painting by the roadside, approached him.

"No offense, sir," he began, "but is there anything the matter w' yer?"

"No," answered D'Auber. "What makes you ask?"

"Yer hain't lame, are yer?"

"Lame! Good gracious, no!"

"Yer hain't 'ad a misfortune in any way—the cattcar or lumbager—that's l'ad o' laid yer by?"

"No, I'm as well as I have always been."

The rustic drew himself up and gazed scornfully at the artist.

"An' yer call yerself a man an' can sit theer a-doin' o' that?" he said. "Well, I'm blest!"—Exchange.

UNION PICNIC

KNIGHTS OF PYTHIAS AND PYTHIAN SISTERS OF TECUMSEH AND TIPTON.

Enjoy a picnic at Sand lake, Putnam's Grove Wednesday.

Seventy-five members of the Knights of Pythias and Pythian Sisters of the Tecumseh lodge and 150 from the two lodges in Tipton attended the picnic at Sand lake, Putnam's grove, Wednesday. Among the chief amusements of the day was the tug of war between the Pythian Sisters of both towns and the Knights of Pythias. In both cases the Tipton lodges won. Again in the exciting ball game between Knights chosen from both lodges, the Tipton nine won by a score of 9 and 6. At the close of the ninth inning the score stood 8 and 8, but the Tecumseh boys became too excited, allowing the Tiptonites to run in 6 scores.

Dancing was enjoyed both morning and afternoon, the Tipton band furnishing music. A picnic dinner was served in the grove at noon, everyone enjoying the good things provided. Boating and swiming proved an excellent amusement for the younger ones.

BRIEF AND BREEZY.

Many a man, however, has hesitated as to whether he really ought to whip or tip the porter.

Yes and there are times when we feel as if a few snatches from Mr. Roosevelt would be dirt cheap at $1 per word.

John D. Rockefeller recently transferred $3,000,000 worth of realestate to his son for $1. In the words of the prophet, "Them as has gits it."

There's only one joker in the ordinary deck of playing cards, but the interests have evidently stocked the tariff bill with about fifty-one.

Colonel Roosevelt is a brave man, but when he went hunting in Africa, he kept well away from the preserves of King Leopard of Belgium.

Spain seems to be in about the predicament of the boy who has to contend with green-apple cramps while fighting yellow jackets.

CIGAR MEN MUST BE PHARMACISTS.

If a drug, tobacco must be handled by only registered druggists.

If cigars and tobacco are ruled to be a drug in the cases pending in the magistrate's court, wherein a couple of Port Stanley fruit merchants are charged with violating the Sunday laws, Crown Attorney McCrimmon will prosecute dealers in the cigar business who have not taken out a license under the Pharmacy Act. The recent amendent to the act allows merchants, not druggists, to sell an enumerated list of medical commodities like senna, salts, paris green and drugs in general use in farm households, but cigars are not mentioned. The including of cigars in the druggists pharmacopea by a decision of the court may give tobacco a virtue hitherto unknown to the public. Tobacco as a drug has the official recognition of the United States chemists. Compelling the cigar dealer to become a member of the Royal College of Pharmacy would undoubtedly work a hardship. But the crown attorney says there is no help for it if a judicial declaration comes from the bench that the weed has certain healing and curative properties and he will take action. The only saving of the cigar men will be to have the legislature make their product a pure and simple sedative and eliminate the qualifications put upon it by the court.

AMUSEMENTS.

"Teddy" the acting bear, who is a very active member of "The Moonshiner's Daughter" company which plays at the Bradley opera house on Monday, Aug. 23, has a history such as befalls to the lot of but few of his kind. When President Roosevelt's son first conceived the idea of a hunting trip down among the cane-brakes of Mississippi, "Teddy" was a promising cub of two weeks, the pride of his mother and the envy of two little bear brothers of the same age. The usual life of a bear was all that "Teddy" looked forward to, until one day while the mother bear was out foraging, the President's young son happened across the cosy home in the rocks where "Teddy" and his brothers lay fast asleep. A couple of casting nets soon made "Teddy" and his brothers prisoners and they were carried to camp, fed on milk and eventually shipped to a zoological garden in the East. "Teddy's cute tricks soon won him a host of friends among the visitors of the Zoo, among them the manager of "The Moonshiner's Daughter", who after much dickering succeeded in purchasing the little fellows from the authorities. A trainer was secured for him, and under his patient teaching, "Teddy" soon became a clever actor.

C. A. WRIGHT & SON SELL MONEY BACK CATARRH CURE.

Cost nothing to try.

Do you know what Hyomei is? Let us tell you: It is the concentrated extract taken from the pine and eucalyptus trees of inland Australia where catarrh, asthma, croup, hay fever or consumption were never known to exist. Pour a few drops of Hyomei into the hard rubber inhaler and you can then breathe into the lungs the very same antiseptic germ killing air as you would breathe in the Australian forests of pine and eucalyptus. And Hyomei is so pleasant to use; you'll like to use it; when you breathe it in it has such a soothing, healing effect on the inflamed and germ ridden membrane. In five minutes you get wonderful relief that you know that at last you have a cure.

A Hyomei outfit which consists of one bottle of Hyomei, a hard rubber pocket inhaler and medicine dropper and simple instructions for use costs only $1.00 and extra bottles of Hyomei if afterward needed cost 50 cents. And besides catarrh, remember that Hyomei is guaranteed by C. A. Wright & Son to cure asthma, croup, bronchitis, coughs, colds sore throat and hay fever, or money back.

THEFT.

Ella Waldron of Britton was robbed of Jewelry Amounting to $75, in Detroit Tuesday.

Man representing himself to be employee of Detroit Gas Company Committed the Act.

Officers located him Wednesday night.

Peter Waldron, who resides three miles southeast of Britton, was in Tecumseh Thursday Twenty years ago Mr. Waldron purchased a watch for his wife of Adamson Bros. in this village, and last week a daughter, Etta, who was going to Detroit to visit relatives, carried the watch with her. On Tuesday last, a man representing himself to be employed by the city gas company, called at the house to read the meters. He was allowed to do so, and shortly after he left the house, Miss Waldron had occasion to go to her room and discovered that her watch, five rings and a bracelet were missing. The theft was reported to the police at once, and Wednesday night, the officers had the man. Mr. Waldron was in Tecumseh to get the number of the watch, to assist in proving the property. The loss amounted to about $75.

INSPECTION TRIP.

Sanitary Engineers in Tecumseh yesterday inspecting outlet of Sewer.

Thomas S. Ainge, Sanitary Engineer of the Board of Health of Lansing, was here yesterday to look the ground over and inspect the outlet of the sewer. He was accompanied on his trip by Geo. S. Pierson of Kalamazoo, and Mr. Riggs of the Riggs and Sherman company of Toledo both of whom are considered experts and have a national reputation as sanitary engineers.

Atty. Bird, in the interest of the village of Tecumseh and Atty Baldwin representing the Raisin people, were here and accompanied the men on the inspection tour.

R. W. J. Bowen, who has been connected with the Tecumseh Telephone Co., for over six years, severed his connection with that Company Monday of this week. Six years is a long time to work for one company and speaks well for Mr. Bowen's faithfulness. His plans for the future have not been decided upon as yet.

The Council instructed President Wightman, and Clerk, Roy Goddling to obtain permission from the people owning property on Chicago street embraced in the two blocks of the business portion to place sewer at rear of buildings. This certainly is a good plan and no doubt will cheerfully be granted by all owners of property, thus avoiding having our main street torn up and saving a great deal of confusion.

A. S. Nusbaum, Batesville, Ind., writes: "Last year I suffered for three months with a summer cold so distressing that it interfered with my business. BRAZIL TO SHOW PRODUCTS.

South American Country Becomes Interest in the Michigan Fair; Coffee, Lumber and Various Other Things Exploited.

The government of Brazil will make an exhibit at the Michigan State Fair which opens this year on Sept. 2 and continues until Sept. 10. Clinton D. Smith, of the Agricultural College at Piracicaba, has shipped to Detroit a great collection representing various products produced in that southern country. It consists of about everything grown in the tropics and will be of great educational value to every one who attends the State Fair. Brazil is a great coffee country and furnishes many countries of the world with a fine product in this line.

Great varieties of this berry will be seen in the Brazilian exhibit. The berry will be shown hanging to branches in various stages of maturity. The lumber display will also be interesting. Mr. Smith in his letter to Secretary Butterfield says:

"The Brazilian exhibit will consist of the important kinds of lumber produced in the State of St. Paul. To keep this exhibit within bounds, yet to show the quality of timber, the specimens are relatively small and shown in the rough. It contains one hundred kinds of wood which the Michigan people will want before many years are past. After the fair is over this collection is to be sent to the Michigan Agricultural college.

"The exhibit also contains the various kinds of coffee grown in Brazil. This will require some expense to get into shape but I authorize Prof. Taft to attend to this and the Brazilian government will pay all bills. The State of St. Paul is producing as good coffee as can be found anywhere in the world, but it is also raising some very poor stuff. Most of the latter is kept for home consumption, but it is included in the samples. This coffee collection ought to be of value to Detroit merchants, and I suggest that it be kept in your chamber of commerce just to show what can be obtained here. With the coffee exhibit are samples of the soil, rich in iron, yet not poisonous to vegetation. I am also sending branches of coffee trees laden with fruit so the people can see just how the thing looks in nature."

LOW RATES FOR STATE FAIR.

Michigan Passenger Association Decides to Sell Tickets to Detroit for One and One-Half Fare, Round Trip.

The Michigan Passenger Association, which passes on the matter of granting special rates over railroads, has decided this year to give a rate to the Michigan State Fair, which opens in Detroit on September 2 and continues until September 10, of one and one-half fare for the round trip, from any given point in the state. This rate will be good all through the exhibition, and the tickets thus purchased may be used on returning as late as September 11.

The railroads, through this concession, will aid largely in swelling the crowds at the state fair and making it one of the greatest successes in the history of Michigan.

The management of the State Fair is now hard at work perfecting plans and arranging for the big fall event. Concessions are still being booked and some of the finest attractions to be secured will be seen at this fair.

There seems to be a strife on among the majority of states this year to make the annual exhibits more interesting, and attractive than usual. Michigan has absorbed the same spirit and by the aid of enthusiastic officials, the event in Detroit will be worth traveling the entire length of Michigan to witness.

With cheap passenger rates and liberal shipping facilities for exhibitors, the management of the Michigan State Fair is planning for a great display the coming fall. It is suggested that persons who contemplate a trip this summer, defer such pleasure until fair week, take advantage of the low railroad rates and attend the big exhibit.

Weak Kidneys

Weak Kidneys, surely point to weak kidney Nerves. The Kidneys, like the Heart, and the Stomach, find their weakness, not in the organ itself, but in the nerves that control and guide and strengthen them. Dr. Shoop's Restorative is a medicine specifically prepared to reach these controlling nerves. To doctor the Kidneys alone, is futile. It is a waste of time, and of money as well.

If your back aches or is weak, if the urine scalds, or is dark and strong, if you have symptoms of Brights or other distressing or dangerous kidney disease, try Dr. Shoop's Restorative a month—Tablets or Liquid—and see what it can and will do for you. Druggists recommend and sell

FAIR WILL PLEASE EVERYONE.

The modern state fair, such as that which will open in Detroit on Sept. 2, and continue until Sept. 10, is not a commercial enterprise nor a money-making scheme, but a place where views can be exchanged and information "swapped." Farmers and others will meet and discuss their common troubles and tell of their success and failures. Men show what they have done and others learn what can be done. A modern fair also promotes industry by giving to all who attend a larger view of the possibilities of life. This is an industrial era and if the farmer, merchant, mechanic and professional man wish to keep pace with the times they must know what is being done in all the avenues of trade, commerce and manufacture. One way to do this is to take part in the annual Michigan State Fair. This institution is planned to educate and incite the producer to higher ideals of perfection. That this is true is evident from what the fair has accomplished all through the state during the many years it has been in existenee.

There is also the amusement feature, which cannot be overlooked. There is an immense value of the most practical kind in wholesome recreation and amusements such as those afforded at the Michigan State Fair. Men, women and children must be entertained in some way. The elevating character of fine music is everywhere recognized. Good racing and feats of skill of all kinds are always enjoyed.

The Michigan State Fair has something for everyone. It is for the young and old, the serious and the gay, rich and the poor—at once an education and an opportunity.

A Constipation Remedy Free

There is no action of your daily life of greater importance than to see that your bowels move. They should move at least once a day naturally, and by that is meant without any help. If they do not move at least once a day you can consider yourself constipated and it is time you did something about it.

You will be glad to know there is a way out of the difficulty. Lemual Landerville, an old soldier at Quincy, Ill., Elmer McMillan, of Speed, Mo., Mrs. Monahan, of Stonewall, Miss., and many others were as you are now. But one day they awoke to the fact that Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin was curing their friends, so they bought it too and it cured them. Today they are loud in praise of it.

What Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin did for them it could do for you. Surely your constipation is no worse than theirs, one of whom had it since '63. If only remains for you to realize that salts are of but temporary good, and what you want is a permanent cure; that purgative tablets, cathartic pills and such violent things make a great show of doing something, but do nothing that is lasting. Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is a gentle preparation, a laxative-tonic, in fact a syrupy liquid that contains ingredients that not only cure the constipation, but tone the intestinal muscles so that they learn again to work without help. A bottle can be bought at any druggists for the small price of 50 cents, and there is a dollar size for families who have already found out its wonderful value in stomach, liver and bowel troubles, in old or young.

Send your name and address to Mr. Doctor and a free trial bottle will be sent you so that you can test it at your home.

If you are suffering about your ailment that you don't understand, or if you want any medical advice, write to the doctor, and he will answer you fully. There is no charge for this service. Address is Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 500 Caldwell bldg., Monticello, Ill.

LIVESTOCK SHOW TO BE GREAT.

Superintendent Tyler of the Michigan State Fair Declares It Will Be the Greatest Display Ever Held.

C. A. Tyler, superintendent of cattle at the Michigan State Fair, is planning something new in the way of stock parades for Wednesday, Sept. 8. While Mr. Tyler has always excelled in this feature, he again has something new planned, but refuses to give even a hint as to what it is. The usual livestock parade will be put on at 10:45 o'clock Wednesday, Sept. 8. Then as a grand conclusion will follow the big feature which Mr. Tyler declares no one shall know until the last minute. He says it is a humdrum and will excell anything of the kind ever attempted by a state fair. Mr. Tyler answers all questions by saying:

"Just wait and I will give you something to talk about after this parade and exhibition is over.

"I want you to understand," continued Mr. Tyler in talking state fair exhibits, "that this exhibition is not simply limited to Michigan farmers. It is open to the entire world and anyone can come in here and compete for the prizes. We will have fully as many cattle exhibitors from Ohio and surrounding states as there will be from Michigan. Unusual facilities are at hand this year for distant exhibitors to compete. The cattle display opens Tuesday, Sept. 7, and permission has been given exhibitors to reach the grounds as late as Monday, providing they are in readiness to show their stock promptly when the display is open to the public on Tuesday morning. This is a privilege not granted heretofore by the Michigan State Fair officials. It simply means that scores of cattle men from Ohio and other surrounding states are going to show at this fair.

"I have personally visited many parts of the state in the interest of the fair. I never saw such fine cattle. They are a marvel even to me. The fine condition is all due to the excellent grass yield this summer. Heavy crops have also made the farmers prosperous and given them ample resources for attending the fair. It will be the greatest display of farm products ever held in this state."

A Rhineland Legend.

There is a Rhineland legend of three German robbers who, having acquired by various atrocities what amounted to a very valuable booty, agreed to divide the spoil and to retire from so dangerous a vocation. When the day appointed for this purpose arrived one of them was dispatched to a neighboring town to purchase provisions for their last carouse. The other two secretly agreed to murder him on his return, that they might divide his share between them. They did so. But the murdered man was a closer calculator even than his assassins, for he had previously secreted a part of the provisions, that he might appropriate to himself the whole of the spoil. This precious triumvirate were found dead together.

Take one quart of milk and add to it one dessertspoonful of flour. Boil five minutes and pour over in the dish in which it is to be baked. Bake twenty minutes.—Boston Post.

TRAIN AND AUTO CRASH

Former Detroit Young Lady Killed Near Milwaukee.

BRIDE OF TWO MONTHS

Mrs. Harry Pawling, Wife of Wealthy Young Man, Receives Fractured Skull, Which Causes Her Death. Husband and Brother Save Their Lives by Leaping From Car.

Milwaukee, Wis., Aug. 23.—Mrs. Harry Pawling, who was Miss Violet Stone of Detroit, is dead from injuries received when an automobile in which she was riding was run into by a Milwaukee road train at Forest Junction, near Waukesha.

Together with her husband and his brother, Robert Pawling, the victim was on her way to the Pawling summer home at Pewaukee. When near the railroad crossing Mrs. Pawling told the chauffeur to put on full speed. The Milwaukee train was only fifty feet away. The Pawling brothers and the chauffeur succeeded in jumping, but Mrs. Pawling was thrown about fifty feet and was picked up in an unconscious condition. She was hurried to the Emergency hospital at Waukesha, where her skull was found to be fractured. She did not regain consciousness.

Mr. and Mrs. Pawling were married at Racine about two months ago. Her wedding to the wealthy young Milwaukeean was one of the society events of the season. Pawling's father is a wealthy manufacturer, and the summer home at Pewaukee is one of the most beautiful in this vicinity. Mr. and Mrs. Stone have arrived from Detroit, and it is probable that interment will take place at Detroit.

EDITOR'S DAY AT THE FAIR.

Thursday Has Been Appointed as the Day to Entertain the State Press.

Detroit, Mich., Aug. 23.—The Michigan state fair officials have designated Thursday, Sept. 9, as Editors' day, when every publisher of a newspaper in the state will be admitted free to the grounds. They will practically be given the key to the institution. Every courtesy will be shown them, even free admittance given to all the midway and other concessions. At the same time they will be served with dinner at one of the best establishments to be found on the grounds. It is also planned to entertain them in other ways.

Every editor in the state is expected to be in Detroit on Thursday, Sept. 9. He can bring his family, and all will be shown the greatest courtesy.

WASHED OVERBOARD.

Wife of Chicago Newspaper Man Drowns in Spring Lake.

Grand Lake, Mich., Aug. 23.—Mrs. Matilda Hall, fifty years old, wife of a Chicago newspaper man, was washed overboard from the motor boat Peter Pan in Spring lake and drowned.

The accident occurred while the boat was traveling at a high rate of speed. The boat carried five other passengers, and as another boat passed the swells dashed completely over the Peter Pan.

IN NEW BUILDING.

Roosevelt African Hunt Trophies Will Be Placed.

Washington, Aug. 23.—The largest and most ornate exposition building in the United States has been completed just in time to receive the unique trophies of the hunt gathered by Ex-President Roosevelt in Africa, now about to be unpacked in this city.

This building of granite, with floor space of approximately nine and one-half acres and costing three and a half millions of dollars, has been erected by congress for the national museum and is today being put in order for the proper exhibition of various objects that have been collected, chief among which are the Roosevelt trophies.

While no definite arrangement has been made, it is likely that rooms on the first floor will be the future home of the Roosevelt specimens. Considerable time will be required to prepare these skins, which are packed in brine in metal casks.

As soon as these eighty-two pelts gathered by Mr. Roosevelt are taken from the casks they will be tanned as the best process for their preservation "for all time."

STEAMER SINKS OFF DETOUR

Two Vessels Collide---Crew Make Their Escape.

Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., Aug. 23.—The steamers Senator and Norman B. Ream met in collision off Detour. Both vessels were downbound. The cause of the accident has not been learned owing to strict orders being given to the men to say nothing about it. The Senator sank immediately, her stern settling to the bottom, only the forward end remaining above the water. Later the Senator broke up amidships and nearly disappeared.

No difficulty was experienced in getting the crew off. All are now at Detour. The Ream was not so severely damaged, and she proceeded on down after an examination had been made.

The steamer Senator is owned by the Wolverine Steamship company and controlled by the P. H. McMillan interests in Detroit.

RESCUES ANOTHER LIFE.

Ship's Mate With Long Record Saves Boy From Drowning.

Detroit, Mich., Aug. 23.—Regardless of danger to himself, just as his boat, the Britannia, was nearing the dock at Joseph Campau avenue, J. J. Klentworth, first mate of that vessel, plunged into the water and rescued eight-year-old Cornelius Sullivan, son of J. F. Sullivan, 606 Champlain street.

The boy, in company with another lad of about the same age, was playing about the dock, and the Sullivan boy was reaching out from the landing in an attempt to pick up a floating can. He lost his balance and fell headlong into the river.

Just as the Britannia pulled up to the dock Klentworth heard loud sounds and, glancing alongside the boat, discovered the cause of the excitement. Without a moment's hesitation he plunged into the water and brought the lad safely to land.

Klentworth, during his service on the waters of the Detroit river, has succeeded in saving the lives of thirty-nine persons.

VICTIMS OF CARS.

One Man Killed and Three Others Injured in Detroit.

Detroit, Mich., Aug. 23.—As the result of street car accidents one man is dead and two others are confined to their homes by injuries.

Albert J. Laurencelle, thirty-eight years old, 656 Baldwin avenue, who was struck by a Michigan car at Gratiot avenue and Orleans street Saturday night, is dead at St. Mary's hospital. Coroner Bennett was called and will investigate the circumstances.

George Gors, twenty-six years old, 179 Wight street, was struck by a Jefferson car while riding his bicycle on Jefferson avenue near Adair street. He was severely bruised, but was able to go to his home.

E. T. Cole, 66 Winder street, was struck by a northbound Woodward car at Woodward avenue and Winder street. He was able to go to his home.

SIX AEROPLANES FLY.

Remarkable Exhibition Took Place at Rheims Sunday.

Rheims, Aug. 23.—The spectacle of six aeroplanes simultaneously winging their flight in huge circles over the plain at Betheny was a remarkable feature of Sunday, the opening day of aviation week. At the finish of the flight there was a great burst of applause over this wonderfully impressive exhibition of man's mastery of the air which dispelled all doubt in the minds of the thousands present that a new era of locomotion confronts the world.

Only Lefebvre, who less than two months ago adopted aeroplane pilotting as a profession, with a Wright biplane; Bleriot, Delagrange, Esnault-Pelterie and Captain Ferber braved the gusty puffs of wind. Lefebvre alone succeeded in negotiating the complete circuit of the course. He remained in the air for sixteen minutes.

Internal Revenues Increasing.

Washington, Aug. 19.—Treasury officials are much gratified over the receipts of the bureau of international revenue for the month of July—the first month of the new fiscal year which show an increase of $939,296 over last year. The receipts during July, 1909, were $22,968,642, and during July, 1908, $22,029,316. In the view of officials, this increase augurs well for the general prosperity of the country.

WELLMAN NOT DISCOURAGED

Will Again Attempt to Reach North Pole.

BY THE AERIAL ROUTE

Meets With Sad Mishap in Attempt to Go—Loses Provisions, and Airship Shoots into Clouds—Craft Later Blows Up, After Having Been Brought to Earth.

Camp Wellman, Danes Island, Spitzbergen, Aug. 16, via Christiana, Aug. 23.—To the general relief of the members of the polar expedition, Walter Wellman, although shaken by his misfortune, announces that he is more determined than ever not to abandon his plan, but would continue to wrestle with all the difficulties standing in the way of reaching the north pole by airship.

Mr. Wellman plans to build a new ship, longer and narrower than that which met with disaster, and of higher speed. Other improvements will be made, profiting by experience. Workmen have started enlarging the airship house and making all ready for another campaign.

All the members of the crew of the airship have the utmost confidence in the leader and in the ultimate success of his enterprise. They have asked to go with him on his next voyage.

After a long preparation and waiting for favorable weather, the opportunity came Sunday, and Mr. Wellman decided to make the start for the pole.

The great airship was brought out of its shed and the daring explorers took their places in the car. When the anchors were cast loose the airship ascended beautifully; the engines were set in motion, and everything seemed to work to perfection. The big air craft was turned to the northward, and it set out at a speed of twenty-five miles an hour.

Suddenly, after having covered some thirty-two miles, the leather guide rope, to which was attached a thousand pounds of provisions and stores, broke away. Released from this great weight, the airship shot upwards at a terrific pace until it was at a great height above the clouds. The pilots succeeded, however, in bringing her down near the earth, turning her about and setting out to fight their way southward against a strong wind. The airship proceeded slowly southward to the edge of the pack ice, where the steamer Fram was anchored.

A tow rope was gotten aboard the Fram, which started immediately to tow the airship to Spitzenbergen.

The America was brought back to the landing stage and within a short distance of where the start was made.

Just as the airship had reached the landing stage a sudden gust of wind caught the big inflated bag and snatched it away from its tow lines. It was carried careening over ice, and then it exploded. All the scattered parts of the airship were subsequently recovered, but the damage was so great as to preclude any further attempt to fly over the pole this year.

DECATUR SCORCHED.

Illinois Town Suffers From Fire Doing Damage Totalling $1,000,000.

Decatur, Ill., Aug. 23.—A score of business buildings have burned and a dozen others damaged by a fire that has swept along the business portion of East Main, Merchant and Water streets. The total damage is placed at $1,000,000, with insurance of about 30 per cent. The fire was the worst in the history of the city.

Moorehouse and Wells, in whose building the fire started, in East Main street, suffered the greatest damage. Their loss is complete and is said to total $300,000. Other individual losses range from $10,000 to $70,000. Rebuilding of the burned area will start just as quick as the ruins cool sufficiently to permit men to remove the debris.

WILD RIOTS IN SCHOENVILLE

Five Killed In Fierce Battle About Steel Car Plant.

MANY OTHERS WERE HURT

Some Fatally Injured—Rioting Followed Day of Quiet—Mounted State Troopers Rode Through Crowds, Pounding Rioters on Heads—Wholesale Arrests Made.

Pittsburg, Aug. 23.—One state trooper and one deputy sheriff and three foreigners were shot and killed last night in a wild riot at the Pressed Steel Car plant in Schoenville, whose employes are now on strike. At least a score of persons were seriously injured, ten fatally. The rioting followed a day of quiet and broke without warning.

The following partial list of dead and injured was made up from reports received from the morgue, hospitals and several physicians offices:

Fatally injured; John C. Smith, state trooper; Lucellan Jones, state trooper; seven foreigners.

The riot scene was practically indescribable. Mounted state troopers galloped indiscriminately through the streets, with riot maces drawn, cracking the heads of all persons loitering in the vicinity of the mill. Deputy sheriffs and troopers broke in the doors of houses suspected of being the retreat of strikers, and wholesale arrests were made.

TAFT CONSIDERS PARDONS.

Foregoes Sunday Duties to Hold Cabinet Session.

Beverly, Mass., Aug. 23.—The cares of state weighed too heavily on President Taft Sunday to permit more than an hour's absence from the summer White House, and it was not until the sun was setting that business gave way to pleasure and the big motor car whirled the chief executive away from a cabinet meeting for a drive with Mrs. Taft.

Even church attendance was omitted in the interests of humanity, for during the forenoon a long list of pardon cases were considered, while in the afternoon Secretary of the Treasury MacVeagh and Attorney General Wickersham and Secretary of the Navy Meyer discussed for an hour or more the intricate and delicate questions of the personnel of the new tariff board, the changes in the interstate commerce and anti trust acts and some economic measures which have been instituted in the navy department.

The makeup of the new tariff board was discussed in detail, and a list of forty or more names for the three places was carefully considered. The name of James B. Reynolds, assistant secretary of the treasury, was one whose name was dwelt upon.

Regarding the proposed changes in the interstate commerce act, it is stated that the efforts of the present administration will be toward lifting from the shoulders of the present board the work of investigating rates and alleged violations of the act and shifting such labors to the department of commerce.

A definite denial was made at the summer capital of the report that a reduction of the regular army was under contemplation.

SUTTON ALONE TO BLAME.

Inquiry Board's Verdict Made Public by Acting Secretary Winthrop.

Washington, Aug. 19.—With the publication of Acting Secretary of the Navy Winthrop's approval of the findings of the court of inquiry that Lieut. James N. Sutton, Jr., of the United States marine corps, was "directly and solely responsible for his own death at Annapolis, nearly two years ago," the famous Sutton case became a closed incident as far as the navy department is concerned.

Counsel for the Suttons intimated, however, after the court's decision had become definitely known, that they were far from satisfied with the verdict and that they probably would take the issues involved to congress with a view of having a full hearing of the case by a committee of that body.

Mrs. Sutton declined to discuss the result of the inquiry, which she sought in an effort to clear her boy's name from the stigma of suicide.

A MAJOR AND A MASHER.

The Gruff Old Soldier Conquered In Spite of Himself.

By SUSAN H. ENDICOTT.

[Copyright 1906 by Associated Literary Press.]

Major James Godfrey, U. S. A., retired and living in his own villa with wife and daughter, had several fads and fancies to keep the family and the neighbors busy, but one particular fad was destined to get him into trouble sooner or later.

He could read in his morning paper with the greatest equanimity of murders, robberies, assaults, thefts and burnings at the stake, but when he came across an item about a masher he fired up at once and shouted out that he would give $500 out of his own pocket to see the scoundrel lynched or sent to prison for life.

His daughter used to look at him in wonder when he broke out in this fashion, while the wife was discreetly silent. Perhaps the latter had flirted a bit before giving her heart to the major and he was remembering it in his old age.

For three months Miss Kate had wanted to attend an art school in the city and receive instructions. During those three months there happened to be an unusual number of "mashes" recorded in the papers, and the father would not hear of her even running up to town to do a little shopping unless he or the mother went along. He was as firm as the rock of Gibraltar.

After a time, however, the record began to peter out, and as he was pleased with what his daughter had already done with the brush and had hopes of her future the major finally gave his consent. It was only eight miles to the city, and then a street car would take her right to the doors of the school. All she had to do, going and coming, as the father told her over and over, was to keep her eyes cast down and her purse clutched tightly in her hand.

Unknown to her, he took the same train to the city with her for a week, and then, as nothing happened and his rheumatism got worse, he left her to make her way alone.

Two weeks had passed when Miss Kate came home one afternoon in a flutter. Her mother happened to be out, and she must tell some one. She therefore related to the father that while on the street car en route to the depot and home some thief had snipped the chain of her purse and borne the prize away. The prize held her return ticket and a dime.

At the depot she found her tears falling, but a good Samaritan had come forward and handed her change enough for the fare. She couldn't exactly say whether he was a grandfather or a young man, homely or good looking. He had spoken only a few words and lifted his hat and retired. It might have been a white hat or a black one—she could not tell. Obeying her father, she had kept her eyes on the floor, and they were filled with tears besides.

The major heard the story to the end, and then he roared. The man who had taken pity on her financial condition at the depot was a masher, of course. He had followed her home on the train. He would meet her again and make the matter an excuse for addressing her.

He was no grandfather, but a young man and no doubt a professional masher. Miss Kate should have repulsed him with scorn. She should have had him arrested. She should have hired a truck to bring her home or walked if all the trucks were busy.

For a quarter of an hour he scolded and growled and then wound up by saying that the art school business was at an end. She could attend no more. He would sit on the front veranda with a shotgun across his knees, and if that plotting masher ever passed the house he should carry away buckshot. Tears were shed and loving appeals made, but the rock of Gibraltar was right there.

Two weeks passed, and the masher did not appear. At least the major did not fire upon any of the young men driving or walking on the highway.

The daughter felt that the stranger had been actuated by the kindest motives. He had spoken just enough—not a word more. He had not offered his card. The fare was only 25 cents, but she felt ashamed that she could not return it. Had opportunity offered for a second meeting she would have insisted on doing so.

Two weeks passed away, and then the mother went to the city to do a little shopping. She also came home with a tale to tell. She thought she was telling it to her daughter alone, but it so happened that the major was just outside the window and heard every word. She had finished her shopping and reached the depot when she realized that she had spent all her money. A good Samaritan came forward. He smiled, raised his hat, and—that was all.

But Mrs. Major Godfrey's eyes had not been filled with tears and cast down. She had seen that he was a gentlemanly looking young man of twenty-five and that he took the same train as she did and evidently lived farther down the line. Then Miss Kate thought she remembered that in the one instant she had raised her eyes—quite involuntarily, you know—she had made out the same sort of man.

This decision had just been arrived at when the voice of the major was heard in the land. It was heard as it had not been heard since he led a charge in battle. He stormed at the two poor females until they were helpless with terror. A masher had appeared to break up his family, and his family were willing to be broken. Such carryings on might do for Africa, but this was America, and he wouldn't stand for them.

He talked the women upstairs, and he talked the cook out of the house, and the good Samaritan was responsible for a very bad night.

It was three days later, and things had settled down a bit, when the major announced that he had to go to the city on a business matter. There was another reason, but he kept it to himself. He wanted to meet that masher and make jam of him. He felt that he could identify him among hundreds, and once he was identified—

On arriving in the city the man of war called on a broker and pocketed some bonds he had invested in and then made calls at three different clubs to see old friends and drink cocktails to "auld lang syne." When ready to start for the depot and home he was in a condition known as mellow—thought everybody a good fellow, and he thought every good fellow an old veteran, and thus when a particularly keen looking good fellow asked him into a barroom on his way to drink to Old Glory there was no hesitation.

The major will remember to his dying day that he took brandy. He was drinking the last of it when he felt sleepy and the voice of the good fellow sounded far off. When he came to his senses again he was in bed at a hotel and a medical looking man was saying to a young man who didn't look medical at all:

"He'll do now, but there was a time when it was doubtful. He must have got an awful dose."

"Knockout drops, of course?"

"Oh, of course. Lucky for him he has a strong heart. He'll be nearly all right in the morning, but if you can spare the time you'd better see him home. He'll be trembly for two or three days."

The major heard that much and wondered and slept. He awoke again at midnight and sat up in bed to see a young man beside him. He got a dose of nitrite and then he suddenly exclaimed:

"Here, what's all this? Where am I?"

"Don't excite yourself, major," soothed the other. "You are at the Reform hotel and very much better than you were three hours ago. Sleep and quietness are what you need now. In the morning you shall learn all."

"But my bonds—my bonds!" shouted the patient.

"Right there before you on the stand, with your watch and pin—not a thing missing."

At daylight, when the man of Mars swung his legs out of bed, the young man sat by the window smoking and smiling. He advanced and presented his card and observed that he had the honor of already knowing the major's name.

"Now, then, what's this all about? And where's my wife and daughter?" was demanded sharply as the patient reached his feet to find himself so weak that he had to fall back on the bed.

"I beg pardon, major, but as you were on your way to the depot yesterday afternoon you met an old soldier and drank with him. He was a confidence man. I entered the place just as the knockout drops had put you into his hands. You lost nothing, and I brought you here and called a doctor. You are pretty near all right now, but I shall see you home after we have had something to eat. Don't object, please. You are weak and dizzy yet."

The idea that he had been a ninny grueled the major, but he was too weak to shout. He wanted to think, but his brain was too sluggish. He was, therefore, like a baby in the hands of the other for awhile. Strong coffee and a bite to eat and the ride to the depot braced him up, and as the train started he suddenly exclaimed:

"Good Lord, but what could they have thought of my not coming home last night?"

"Oh, I telephoned them from the hotel," was the answer.

"But—but— See here, young man, how did you know where to telephone to? By jiminy, sir, are you the masher that met my wife and daughter in the depot?"

"Well, major," said the other, "to tell you the truth, I am. But I'm no masher, and I was trying to get a chance to speak to you and introduce myself properly when I saw you accosted by that confidence man."

"And you've been of assistance to me! Why, sir, you've mashed the whole darned family! Come along with me—come along, sir—and meet my daughter Kate! Lord bless the masher!"

Not In Virginia.

The dusky manservant of a Washington official, being granted leave of absence to visit his home in Virginia, hied himself to a department store to purchase a valise. The salesman seemed to think the darky should purchase something in the way of a large bag. "Here's a fine one," he said—"the best alligator bag you can get. Only"—

"Look heah, boss," interrupted the darky impatiently, "I done tole yo' several times I don't want no alligator bag. I ain't goin' to Florida. I's goin' to mah home in Virginny."—Lippincott's.

What's In a Name?

Farmer Hayrick—Why are you going to charge the summer boarders more this year?

Farmer Corntassel—I've called the place a bungalow.—Puck.

One Way of Finding It.

A farmer was working in his hayfield when a neighbor came up and engaged in a chat, which developed into a dispute about something or other.

"It's like looking for a needle in a haycock," said the first farmer.

"And that's easy enough," said the neighbor.

"Easy, is it?" retorted the other. "I bet you 5 shillings you won't find a needle I'll hide in that there haycock in an hour!"

"Done with you for 5 bob!" cried his neighbor.

The first farmer thereupon hid a needle in the haycock and called "Time!"

His neighbor drew a match from his pocket, set fire to the haycock and rushed off at top speed to his own house. Back he came presently and found the haycock reduced to a heap of ashes. Flourishing a huge horseshoe magnet, he plunged it into the ashes and in a minute withdrew it with the needle clinging to it.

"The result of scientifick eddication!" he said proudly to the first farmer, who was gazing ruefully at the ashes of his haycock. "If you'd 'a' bin edgicated scientifickally up to date like me you'd be richer by 5 bob and the haycock."—London Answers.

Sneeze Without Winking.

Bobby came home one day covered with dirt and bruises and trundling a broken bicycle.

"What on earth have you been doing, my child?" exclaimed his terrified mother.

"I ran over a big dog and took a fall," explained Bobby.

"Couldn't you see him and give him the road?"

"Yes; I saw him and was turning out, but when I got within about ten feet of him I shut my eyes, and before I got 'em open again I'd run into him."

"For the land's sake, what did you shut your eyes for?"

"Couldn't help it. Had to sneeze. If you think you can hold your eyes open when the sneeze comes you just try it some day."

If the reader thinks Bobby's excuse was not a valid one let him try it some day "when the sneeze comes."—Youth's Companion.

Mrs. Monroe had quite a narrow escape from serious damage to her home on Currier street Wednesday by fire. She keeps her gasoline stove in the pantry and had started it to do some cooking. After getting things going she shut the door on account of the wind blowing and sat down to read a few minutes. She happened to hear a noise and upon opening the pantry door found everything on fire. She turned off the fire and quickly applied a liberal dose of flour to the flames which had the desired result. The whole pantry was badly scorched and will need a thorough renovation.—Clinton Local.

Masses of dead and dying fish floated down the Huron river to this place Friday morning. They came in such numbers that it was necessary to shut down the Metler mills and let the mass of fish through the mill race. There were many thousand fish in the lot and they made a dense body as they floated on top of the water. Nearly all kinds of fish known to the river in this section were in the mass and all were either dead or dying. It is believed that they were poisoned by the coloring matter in the refuse dumped into the river from the paper mills at Ypsilanti. The floating down of dead fish in the river is not uncommon here, but they have never been seen in so immense quantities.—Flat Rock.

THE STANDARD OF THE WORLD

Lynn Bell Breaks Into Big League.

FORMER MEMBER OF TECUMSEH INDEPENDENT TEAM SOLD TO ST. LOUIS NATIONALS.

$2,000 was the Price Paid for Him.

Considered an excellent second baseman.

It will be welcome news to the many friends of Lynn Bell to know that through a sale consumated recently he has become the property of the St. Louis Nationals. The sale was announced Friday morning by Pres. R. F. Kinsella, of the Springfield, Ill., team of the "Three I" league, of which team Bell has been a member this season as second baseman. The consideration named in the deal is $2,000.

Mr. Bell's base ball career has been very successful.

Playing on the Hillsdale college team for several seasons at short stop, he went into independent ball, playing on the Tecumseh team which was rated the leading independent team in the state prior to the formation of the Southern Michigan league. Bell then played two seasons with the Kalamazoo leaguers and was rated one of the best infielders in the state and a leading bataman. His work with the Springfield team has been marvelous and several scouts from the major leagues have been watching his work.

His ambition has been to get into the major leagues and he often said this season that if he did not get in this year he would drop baseball. His home is in Ypsilanti.

BASE BALL.

Tecumseh Took the Second Game of the Season from Manchester.

The Tecumseh Independents won their second game from Manchester Friday afternoon on the home grounds by a score of 13 to 2. Heesen was a puzzle to the visitors, who made but one clean hit off him, while Steiner was hit hard. The locals bunched their errors in the third after two were out, allowing one score. Ollie Hanna featured at bat. This makes two games each for these two teams. Score:

Manchester—	0	0	2	0	0	0	0	0	0	2	1	6

Batteries—Steiner and Sloat; Heesen and VanWinkle.

The Clinton base ball team with a crowd of enthusiastic rooters, came down Saturday afternoon for a game of base ball with the Tecumseh Independent team, the locals winning by a score of 4 to 1.

The visitors were shut out till the 8th inning, the locals out batting them. All of Tecumseh's runs were earned. Fry and Chas. Hanna featured at bat with triples. Tecumseh has won three out of four of the series of five games with the Clinton team. The locals are playing fast ball and are deserving of better support. Score as follows:

	1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9—	R.	H.	E.
Tecumseh	0	0	1	2	1	0	0	0	*	4	7	3

Batteries for Clinton, Marhle and Welch. For Tecumseh, Steiner and Heesen.

NO REVOLUTION IN MEXICO COUNTRY

Ambassador Receives Message From Minister.

Washington, Aug. 23.—"There never has been any fear of a revolution in Mexico," declares Senor Mariscal, the Mexican minister of foreign affairs, in a dispatch received at the Mexican embassy.

The Mexican ambassador, Senor De La Barra, as he handed the dispatch to an Associated Press representative, said that that ought to dispose of the rumors indicating the probability of an uprising in his country as a result of the approaching presidential campaign. The ambassador declared that the whole country will firmly sustain the candidacy of Diaz for the presidency for the next electoral term and that the patriotism of the people was such that they would not brook any interruption to the era of progress on which Mexico had entered.

The actual conditions, he said, had been very much exaggerated. Diaz, he continued, would be supported in his candidacy because of his honest, fearless and wise administration that has gained for him the respect of the people both at home and abroad. The political agitation over the vice presidency would not, by any means, produce any disturbance in the public peace of the country, he stated.

"The fear expressed in some quarters that the conflicts appearing at Guadalajara and other places were symptoms of a coming revolution," added the ambassador, "are without foundation. These conflicts are simply political manifestations incidental to all campaigns.

Senor De la Barra said that in the conflicts referred to there had been neither loss of life nor damage to public property, as had been stated.

IN RECEIVER'S HANDS.

Ionia Wagon Firm Says It Is Unable to Meet Its Notes Now Due.

Ionia, Mich., Aug. 19.—At the request of President John Thwaites, of the Ionia Wagon Co., a receiver has been appointed for the firm. The action caused some surpise in this city, for the firm until a year ago, operated by J. F. Bible, was thought to be on a sound financial footing.

In the petition Thwaites states that notes became due which could not be met because the present endorsers demanded the old endorsers back again. C. J. Rumsey, a large endorser, refused to renew without that compliance.

The assets are given as $400,000 with notes and open accounts of about $100,000. Gen. F. W. Green was named as receiver and will take charge today and keep the plant running.

St. Petersburg, Aug. 19.—A number of lawyers of St. Petersburg have protested to the ministry of justice against the method of conducting the trial before a military court at Orel of a group of social revolutionists accused of promulgating their views among the peasants. Throughout the proceedings in the court room the 26 defendants, including a number of former students and teachers, have been kept chained together in a helpless group. Shackles bound their feet and each man's hands were chained together.

About 2 o'clock a. m., Sunday morning occurred a fire in the office of Mrs. Dr. Green at Adrian, literally licking up the contents of her office. A few years ago she suffered a like misfortune. It is not known just how the fire originated. The supposition however, is, that it was caused by spontaneous combustion (she having quite a large quantity of chemicals stored there) or by rats coming in contact with matches; the building having the credit of being infested by the brutes. The Dr. suffered the loss of all her clothing together with a number of very valuable pieces of furniture, all her instruments, and her large list of medical books were either burned or seriously damage by water. We understand she carried only about $700 insurance on the property. She has the sympathy of many Tecumseh friends.

The designer of the profile of Lincoln on the new cent says: "If you look carefully at the coin you will see that I have made him smiling. I wanted to show the sunshine as well as the goodness of his life. My intention has been to present a situation in which Lincoln might have appeared at his best. Finally I imagined him as talking to a child. That is the face on the coin. A man or woman is natural when speaking to a child. When adults converse they are usually on guard, but in talking to children faces relax and are at their best. It was Lincoln who said that God must love the common people because He made so many of them."—Ex.

An Interesting Letter

GIVING AN ACCOUNT OF MANY POINTS AND VIEWS OF THE WESTERN COAST.

Read what our friend J. H. Smith Has to say about it.

Spokane, Wash., Aug. 15, '09.
Editor Herald:

We arrived here this morning after a long trip of sight-seeing. We found C. D. Smith and family well and pleased with their western home, also the Tecumseh Herald with news from home. This is a hustling business city, growing fast. We have been well during our trip and enjoyed every minute. Have visited many western cities, and met a number of former Tecumseh people, all extending their hospitality.

We visited Lincoln, Neb., Salt Lake, Los Angeles, Pasadena, San Francisco, Portland and Seattle, before arriving here.

At Helper, Col., we were surprised to meet Fred Rector and he accompanied us to Salt Lake, and on our arrival at Seattle, we first visited the postoffice for some word from home. Here, again, we met Fred Rector. We were also much pleased to meet Mrs. J. M Heins.

At Los Angeles, we were entertained by Mrs. Geo. Knapp and by her daughter and husband, Mr. and Mrs. S. Bartley Cannell at their country home, called "Sunny Slope," Pasadena. These two cities are certainly the most beautiful cities we have ever seen. To one with means, who desire climate, enjoyment and the luxuries for which life is worth living, I say go to Los Angeles or Pasadena. I cannot say the same of San Francisco. The city is building up wonderfully fast from the disaster by the earthquake and fire and will eventually and is now, a hustling commercial city, but it is a question if it is ever the city it formerly was. Many of the better class have their home in other cities of the state, which excell in climate and the comforts of life.

Portland, the rose city is properly named. Probably no city in the states equal it for roses, it is a beautiful substantial city, and to the tourist "don't fail to take the trip to Council Crest." Seattle is to be the metropolis of the Pacific coast without any doubt commercially. It is growing faster than all other coast cities together—being a railroad center for the northwest, the Pacific coast and Orient shipping port and depot for Alaska's products. The Alaska Youcon Pacific Exposition now being held at Seattle, is very good. It does not equal the World's Fair at Chicago in size, but is large enough and presents as good an appearance as did the World's Fair, and the exhibit is equally good.

We visited Mr. and Mrs. Abrams and Mr. and Mrs. Earl Sheldon at North Yakima, who extended their hospitality to us. Here are two Tecumseh men who are now counted among the substantial business men of the Yakima Valley. Mr. Abrams has a nice home in the city and a beautiful fruit orchard about six miles from the city which is certainly a very profitable piece of property. Mr. Sheldon is one of the substantial commercial men of the city, he carries the largest stock of buggies, wagons, harness and farm implements I ever saw assembled. I was astonished at its size and wondered what in the world he would do with such a stock in a city of 12,000 population, but when I had accompanied Mr. Abrams on a 25 mile drive over a small portion of the cultivated fruit section of Yakima Valley, and learned by a visit with one of the principal banks of the city, of which there are five, that the banks held deposits of over $4,000,000, and at a season of the year when so much money is invested in the coming crops, and a dozen or more large business buildings and 100 or more residents in course of construction, I realized to some extent the cause of the great amount of business being done and the wonderful production of the Yakima Valley. Certainly no place in all my travels offers to one with a few thousand dollars and a reasonable amount of energy, the prospects for accumulating a small fortune as does this valley.

I saw several fruit farms which four years ago were barren lands covered with sage brush, that today sell for from $600 to $1,000 per acre. The revenue from this land is estimated at $350 per acre after the fourth year. We shall remain here at Spokane a few days and then return via St. Paul and Chicago, to Tecumseh.

J. H. SMITH.

PEOPLE OF TECUMSEH

Here is what a resident says in praise of Mi-o-na, the mighty cure.

"For about two years I had a severe time from stomach trouble. The malady got me nervous and I could not sleep. Hearing Mi-o-na highly spoken of, I procured a treatment and after a short time the trouble left me. I can and have recommended the use of Mi-o-na, which is surely a wonderful remedy." Walter R. Eberly, Oneida St., Tecumseh, Mich., Oct. 16, 1908.

Mi-o-na cures dyspepsia. There isn't any doubt about it. Thousands of just such testimonials as the above from every city and town in America prove it. Mi-o-na does not digest the food in your stomach, but in a few days it tones up the walls of the stomach and makes it strong enough to digest its own food.

Digesters never cured dyspepsia and never will; they may help a tired stomach do its work temporarily, but that is all. Mi-o-na tablets are sold by C. A. Wright & Son for 50 cents a large box. And remember that Mi-o-na is guaranteed by C. A. Wright & Son to cure dyspepsia, sea or car sickness, vomiting of pregnancy, and all stomach ills, or money back.

KENNEDY'S LAXATIVE COUGH SYRUP

August time tells on the nerves. But that spiritless, no ambition feeling can be easily and quickly altered by taking what is known to druggists everywhere as Dr. Shoop's Restorative. Within 48 hours after beginning to use the Restorative improvement will be noticed. Of course, full health will not immediately return. The gain, however, will surely follow. And best of all you will realize and feel your strength and ambition as it is returning. Outside influences depress first the "inside nerves" then the stomach, heart and kidneys will usually fail. Strengthen these failing nerves with Dr. Shoop's Restorative and see how quickly health will be yours again. Sold by all dealers.

When a man tells the exact truth about what time it is when he comes home late it makes his wife suspicious of where he was.—New York Press.

No matter how long you have suffered, Foley's Kidney Remedy will help you. Mrs. S. L. Bowen, of Wayne, W. Va., writes: "I was a sufferer from kidney disease so that at times I could not get out of bed and when I did I could not stand straight. I took Foley's Kidney Remedy. One dollar bottle and part of the second cured me entirely." It will cure you.

A girl doesn't know what her graduating essay means, but she does know it doesn't have to mean anything to make her family proud of it.

For indigestion and all stomach trouble take Foley's Orino Laxative as it stimulates the stomach and liver and regulates the bowels and will positively cure habitual constipation.

The reason a woman likes to go out for dinner is so she can worry over whether her husband put the snap on the lock of the front door.

If you are all run down Foley's Kidney Remedy will help you. It strengthens the kidneys so they will eliminate the impurities from the blood that depress the nerves and cause exhaustion, backache, rheumatism and urinary irregularities which sap the vitality. Do not delay. Take Foley's Kidney Remedy at once.

The more suits of clothes a man needs to make an impression on the world the more his family wishes some of them were brains.

People with chronic bronchitis, asthma and lung trouble, will find great relief and comfort in Foley's Honey and Tar and can avoid suffering by commencing to take it at once.

A woman can love a man because some other one does when she could hate him under ordinary circumstances.

When a girl is going away on a visit the first thing she packs in her trunk is her photograph, in case she should become engaged.

A. S. Nusbaum, Batesville, Ind., writes: "Last year I suffered for three months with a summer cold so distressing that it interfered with my business. I had many of the symptoms of hay fever and a doctor's prescription did not reach my case and I took several medicines which seemed only to aggravate it. Fortunately I insisted upon having Foley's Honey and Tar. It quickly cured me. My wife has since used Foley's Honey and Tar with the same success."

Washington's Plague Spots

is in the low, marshy bottoms of the Potomac, the breeding ground of malaria germs. These germs cause chills, fever and ague, biliousness, jaundice, assitude, weakness and general debility and bring suffering or death to thousands yearly. But Electric Bitters never fail to destroy them and cure malaria troubles. "They are the best all-round tonic and cure for malaria I ever used," writes R. M. James, of Lonellen, S. C. HARRIMAN NOT WELL.

Keeps to His Room on Board Ship and Looks Pale.

On board S. S. Kaiser Wilhelm II. (by wireless via Cape Race).—E. H. Harriman has remained in his suite of rooms ever since he embarked at Cherbourge on Aug. 18, homeward bound after treatment at Badgastein. His last wish as he left France—"My only hope is that the voyage back will be as good as that coming over"—has not been realized.

The weather has been so rough and disagreeable that a stronger man might well wish to remain indoors. Nevertheless, Mr. Harriman shows need of the "after cure," which it is understood he will take at Arden, his country place, as soon as he lands. His movements, though not enfeebled, are those of fatigue. He is pale and has the appearance of having recently lost weight.

New York, Aug. 23.—The interest in E. H. Harriman's homecoming naturally is widespread in view of his importance in the financial and railroad world and because of the recurrent rumors concerning his health which have caused flurries in the stock market from time to time since his departure for Europe, June 1, last. Wall street particularly is anxious to know just how well or just how ill Mr. Harriman is; also, there is great interest in the report that he has obtained options on New York Central stock which will enable him to control the line so long held by the Vanderbilts, thus giving him an unbroken chain of rail from coast to coast.

High Tide Floods Barcelona.

Barcelona, Spain, Aug. 23.—A phenomenal high tide Sunday flooded the lower parts of the city. Great damage has been done.

Weak Women

To weak and ailing women, there is at least one way to help. But with that way, two treatments must be combined. One is local, one is constitutional, but both are important, both essential.

Dr. Shoop's Night Cure is the Local.

Dr. Shoop's Restorative, the Constitutional.

The former—Dr. Shoop's Night Cure—is a topical mucous membrane suppository remedy, while Dr. Shoop's Restorative is wholly an internal treatment. The Restorative reaches throughout the entire system, seeking the repair of all nerves, all tissue, and all blood ailments.

The "Night Cure", as its name implies, does its work while you sleep. It soothes sore and inflamed mucous surfaces, heals local weaknesses and discharges, while the Restorative, eases nervous excitement, gives renewed vigor and ambition, builds up wasted tissues, bringing about renewed strength, vigor, and energy. Take Dr. Shoop's Restorative—Tablets or Liquid—as a general tonic to the system. For positive local help, use the well

Giving the Bride a Tip.

"Here's a little pointer for you," said the bride of last year to the bride of this year. "I'll tell you my own experience, and you can judge for yourself what to do. When we returned from our wedding trip and I began to rummake through George's belongings I found six or seven pairs of gloves and at least nine pairs of silk hose, things that he had never had on. They had been tucked away in all sorts of places. Most of them I at once recognized as presents I had given to him from time to time. Besides them, I found a lot of handkerchiefs still unused, handkerchiefs that I had embroidered his initial on with my own hands.

"What do you suppose I did? Foolishly I gathered them all together and spread them out on the bed where he would see them when he came home and feel ashamed of himself for never using my presents. Just think what a lack of forethought I showed! Consider what a saving of pin money it would have been if I had put the things away and then doled them out to him for Christmas presents or birthday presents one by one. It would have served him exactly right too."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Are You a Beggar?

All the beggars are not holding out a hand to passersby in the street. You probably know the man who is ever whining for help. If a farmer, he thinks his neighbors should help him get in his grain or do his plowing. If in business, he is always trying to borrow or wanting some one to boost him or drum up customers. He never seems to think of relying on his own efforts. There is a well known fable about the larks in a grainfield. As long as the farmer depended on his neighbors and relations to come and cut his grain the larks felt perfectly safe. When the man determined to cut the grain himself the larks knew it was time to seek safety elsewhere.

There are times when every one needs help, but help should be asked only when one has made every possible effort for himself.

Too much help given a man weakens his character.—Milwaukee Journal.

A Quiet Rebuke.

An "object admonition" like the one described by Warren Lee Goss in his article, "Campaigning to No Purpose," published in Johnson's "Battles and Leaders of the Civil War," is often more efficacious than storms of reproach.

One day the colonel of the regiment noticed a soldier on parade wearing a badly soiled pair of gloves.

"Corporal," said the officer, "why do you set the men such a bad example as appearing before them in dirty gloves? Why is it?"

"I've had no pay, sir, since I entered the service," returned the corporal. "I can't afford to have them done up."

The colonel drew from his pocket a pair of gloves, spotlessly white. Handing them to the corporal, he said quietly: "Put these on. I washed them myself."

It was an unforgotten lesson to the whole regiment.

Von Holstein's Dress Coat.

Prince Bulow once invited Herr von Holstein to dinner, telling him that it was to meet the emperor. "But," replied Holstein, "I don't believe that I have a dress coat at present. I will try, however, to get one made in time, and if I can't perhaps the emperor will take me as I am." This, the Times says, was reported to his majesty, who said that Herr von Holstein was to appear in any garb he pleased.

When the meeting took place Holstein was in his usual frock coat, and the emperor laughingly tapped him on the shoulder and said: "I see that dress coat wasn't ready. It doesn't matter."—London Standard

Round About Dorking.

The neighborhood of Dorking, where George Meredith lived, has many literary associations independent of its connection with that famous novelist. It was at Burford Bridge, near Dorking, that Keats completed "Endymion" in November, 1817; close by, at the Rookery, was born Father Malthus, the popular economist, and at West Humble Frances Burney, after her marriage with General d'Arblay, built Camilla cottage with profits of her novel of that name and settled down. Sheridan resided at Polesden and John Stuart Mill at Mickleham, while other illustrious residents in the locality in earlier times were John Evelyn and Daniel Defoe. To most people, however, the chief literary association of Dorking is with Dickens, for was it not at the Marquis of Granby's, variously identified with the White Hart and the Old King's Head, that Mr. Weller, Sr., made the fatal blunder of proposing to a "vidder?"—Westminster Gazette.

English Difficult to Pronounce.

The difficulty of English for strangers does not lie in its orthography, but in its pronunciation. Abroad people will constantly say that they can read and write English readily, while unable to utter a word or to understand a word of the spoken language, as, of course, vice versa, a great many English and Americans can read and write French long before they can understand or make themselves understood. The other languages are just as difficult for them to pronounce as English is for others. The only difference is that English stands alone with its system or lack of system of pronunciation. When a Frenchman knows how to write German he is at the same time able to speak the language, if not beautifully, at least so as to be understood. The same holds for a German speaking French.—Professor Albert Schinz in North American Review.

The Battle of the Nations.

The conflict called the "Battle of the Nations" was the battle of Leipsic. It was fought on Oct. 16-18, 1813, between the soldiers of Russia, Prussia, Austria, Sweden, Denmark and Holland, under Schwarzenberg, on the one side, and Napoleon's army of allies, on the other. It was one of the greatest battles of modern times. A half million of men were engaged, and the casualties on both sides were 94,000. It resulted in overwhelming defeat for Napoleon and the liberation of Germany. Troops from every nation of Europe participated in it, hence the "Battle of Nations."

The Alexandrian Library.

Omar, a fanatical caliph who overran Egypt about the middle of the seventh century, proclaimed that, since the Koran contained everything that human beings ought to read, no other books had any right to exist, so he condemned to destruction the immense library at Alexandria founded by the Ptolemies and constantly enlarged by their successors until the advent of the Saracens. How enormous it was can be imagined from the fact that for six months the manuscripts supplied the fuel of 4,000 public baths. It was the most terrible blow ever inflicted upon literature.

"What do you mean?"

"Most tourists spend a week in Venice. He did it in a day."—Kansas City Journal.

The Acrobat Artist.

It is in the visible expression of strength, grace and vitality that the artist of the circus holds himself at one with the painter and sculptor, but his art, like that of the actor, is necessarily alive and impermanent. Let the painter set on canvas his fixed presentment of lion, tiger or leopard, and the trainer, by his dangerous medium of whip and training stick, will make the living animals exhibit endless graces of subtle line and lovely color. When he puts his head in the lion's mouth, believe me, he considers it nothing better than a concession to the groundlings, a mere vulgar, necessary potboiler. When he compels the great tawny thing to repeat the grace of a natural movement, the training of wild animals being always along the line of what they do naturally, and leap in a long, gracious curve across the arena to an unstable landing on a rolling sphere, he feels that he is doing something worthy of himself and his animals. Or, again, let the sculptor depict a flying Mercury; Mercury must at least have a point of arrival or departure. But for one brief moment the young woman of the circus, swinging through space from one trapeze to another, is the grace of the flying Mercury. To attain this moment of self expression she has given as long and arduous an apprenticeship as the artist who works in clay, bronze or marble.—Ralph Bergengren in Atlantic.

Wild Dogs in Africa.

The wild dogs in Africa are more feared by the natives than any other beasts, for, while they are not to be dignified by the term of game, they run in packs and seem to know that the native is afraid of them. Native burden bearers will often take their chances in passing around a buffalo herd and will hardly notice a lion, but when they hear the howl of the wild dogs they drop whatever they may be balancing on their heads and take to the trees. There they are frequently held captive until their cries summon assistance. Crossing the trail of large game, these dogs often interfere with the pursuit. At a distance the hunter is likely to mistake them for leopards or some of the smaller game. Intense disgust follows the wounding of a wild dog, for then, according to the ethics of the chase, the true sportsman must pursue and kill the beast. These dogs are not degenerates, but are natural mongrels. They have low bodies covered with hair of coach dog growth, bushy tails and powerful paws.—McClure's Magazine.

Cheering Him Up.

"Bill," said the invalid's friend, "I've come to cheer yer up a bit like. I've brought yer a few flahrs, Bill. I thought if I was too late they'd come in 'andy for a wreaf, yer know. No, don't get down'earted, Bill. Lummy, don't yer look gashly! But, there, keep up yer spirits, ole sport; I've come to see yer an' cheer yer up a bit. Nice little room yer 'ave 'ere; but, as I says to meself when I was a'comin' up, wot a orkard staircase to get a coffin dahn!"—London Globe.

Greatness Not Free From Shame.

The transcendent power and fame with which great genius has at different periods endowed various men do not always insure them from after misery and shame. This was strikingly exemplified in the cases of the four greatest of military conquerors—Alexander, Hannibal, Caesar and Napoleon. The general judgment of mankind has conceded them the first place in the lines of action for which they were severally distinguished. Yet they all met with melancholy deaths. Two of them suffered for years the keenest humiliations which a total destruction of their hopes could bring. Two perished at the zenith of their power, just as they might have expected a long enjoyment of the fruits of their tremendous achievements.—Exchange.

IMPLEMENT SHOW GREAT.

Superintendent Green of this Department at Michigan State Fair Says Exhibition Will Exceed All Former Attempts.

Superintendent V. V. Green of the implement and machinery department of the Michigan State Fair, says he has nearly 75 per cent more contracts signed at the present time with manufacturers who are going to exhibit at the Michigan State Fair than were registered a year ago in the closing week of August. Never in the history of the fair have so many manufacturing firms sought to display their products, he says.

"How do I account for it, do you ask? Simply this. The Wolverine state has been blessed with bumper crops and these manufacturers realize that farmers are going to spend their money for improvements. Implements that will be displayed are all of the latest design in labor saving devices and the tiller of the soil needs them. They have the money and are going to spend it freely for these necessities.

"Just to show that the farmer is no longer living the isolated life of forty years, I want to tell you that one of the leading electrical concerns of the country has closed a contract with us to display a miniature lighting plant that is especially designed for the farm. It is complete in every detail and will make the farm house, the barn, yards and in fact everything about the place as bright as a city street. The power plant also is able for running machinery which will do away with much of the hard labor connected with farm life.

"The Michigan State Fair this year will expect everything of the kind even held in this state. I am an implement man and deal largely with farmers throughout the state. They are all enthusiastic over the coming exhibition and plan to send the very best for display that they can command. Thousands have been preparing for the fair since the opening of spring. The finest products and the best cattle produced in the country will be on exhibition when the fair opens on Sept. 2. The crowds will be enormous and I have every reason to believe that the city will be taxed to accommodate the people who visit the fair next month. I think Detroit hardly realizes what the Michigan people are going to do during the fair. They are coming into the city like a great wave, but all will be cared for.

The Greatest Wealth.

Is there any compensation in money for a starved, stunted, dwarfed mind? Can lands and houses, stocks and bonds, pay a man for living a narrow, rutty, sordid life? How much money would match the wealth of a trained mind, of unfolded possibilities? Is the capacity for the appreciation of the teaching of life, of the lessons of civilization, worth no more than one's bread and butter and roof? Can any one conceive of greater possessions than an intellect well trained and disciplined, than a broad, deep, full orbed mind responsive to all beauty, all good?—Orison Swett Marden in Success Magazine.

CHAUFFUER SAVED SIX FROM DEATH

Automobile Collides With a Runaway Team.

Alpena, Mich., Aug. 26.—Six persons escaped death through the presence of mind of Chauffeur John Blanchard, when the big Welch touring car owned by W. B. Comstock collided with a runaway team on the Loon lake road near this city. Dr. S. T. Bell and Blanchard were badly bruised, but Cecil Corbin, Mrs. John Corbin, Mrs. Bell and Mrs. Charles Luce of Lansing were unhurt.

The auto had crossed the D. & M. railroad tracks in the vicinity of the round house and had slowed up to fifteen miles per hour when the horses detached from a livery rig dashed on it at breakneck speed. Blanchard set the brake and headed straight at the horses in an effort to separate them. The animals closed together as they struck the machine, the lighter horse coming over the hood on top of Dr. Bell and Blanchard in the front seat.

Both men were knocked from the machine. The horse's hoofs passed through the seat, grazing Dr. Bell's head. The auto described a half circle and slid into the ditch by the roadside. The occupants of the rear seat, although unhurt, were badly frightened.

MONEY TO STATE.

Detroit Agrees to Loan Sum to Tide Over Matters Until January.

Lansing, Mich., Aug. 26.—Negotiations have finally been completed for the loan of $250,000 to the state, to feather the state strong boxes till the taxes come in in January. Treasurer Albert E. Sleeper announced that the Detroit National bank had consented to furnish the entire amount in $25,000 installments at 3 per cent interest, and the first installment would be made immediately.

Treasurer Sleeper declared Michigan is fortunate in acquiring the loan at the price it did, as Grand Rapids, on whom it had depended, refused to loosen its purse strings for less than 3 1-2 per cent interest. The money will be used to carry on state affairs, as all employes have been paid.

Fabian Reaume was eighty-six years old. He was feeble in mind and wandered away from home Aug. 5.

Dog in Road Cause of Serious Accident Near Owosso—One of Party in Serious Condition—Another Is Not So Badly Hurt—Remaining Two Sustain Bruises.

Owosso, Mich., Aug. 26.—Four people were injured, two seriously, when an automobile speeding about twenty-five miles an hour went into the ditch about two miles' from here on the road to Chesaning. The car, containing Justin Shatuck, Harry Northway, Bruce Saterlee and Jay Terbush, all of this city, left Owosso at 4 o'clock for Chesaning. Shatuck was at the wheel, and while rounding a curve in the road a dog dashed across the path of the car. Shatuck was unable to avoid the animal, and it became wedged in one of the front wheels.

Becoming confused, the driver dropped the stearing wheel and the car shot to the side of the road. It struck the ditch and rolled over twice, pinning the four occupants underneath.

A farmer who happened to see the accident hurried to the scene and succeeded in pulling the imprisoned men from beneath the wreckage. The car was demolished, and all four men were unconscious.

They were placed in a farmer's wagon and carried to a house nearby, where several physicians from this city were called. They were later removed to their homes in another machine.

It was found that Northway had sustained the most serious injuries. He is suffering from concussion of the brain, his left wrist is broken, his hip sprained and he is otherwise badly bruised. His condition Wednesday night was reported serious.

Shatuck, who owned the machine, sustained a sprained arm, a severe gash over one eye, and his eyesight may be destroyed. The other two men escaped with severe bruises about the body.

Shatuck is the son of a prominent piano dealer of Owosso. Northway is the local agent for the Ford automobile and son of the ex-county treasurer. Saterlee is a well known music teacher and noted throughout the state as a violinist. Terbush is the son of a prominent merchant.

BIG DIAMOND GONE.

Saginaw Actor Has Fine Time Concerning "Sparkler."

Saginaw, Mich., Aug. 26.—Ralph McNaughton, twenty-six years old, a dapper young man, has been arrested accused of stealing a diamond valued at $70 from Mrs. Grace Elliott.

Mrs. Elliot told the police McNaughton was a friend of the family and she invited him to dinner last Sunday. While there she exhibited her diamond. The following night, she claims, McNaughton returned to her home and, entering her bedroom, lifted the stone from a dresser and left an imitation one in its place.

The police have recovered the gem from a pawn shop, where they claim $12 was loaned on it.

GERMANS ARE COURTEOUS.

Aid Waterways Commission in Their Inspections.

Berlin, Aug. 23.—The members of the national waterways commission, who have been in Berlin for several days, have just left for Dresden. Senator Theodore E. Burton of Ohio said before the departure of the commission that every facility had been afforded them by the government and they had been enabled to accomplish much valuable work here. For instance, Saturday, when the commission was sub-divided in order to examine in detail the various waterways not previously inspected, the Prussian minister of the interior assigned engineers to go with each party.

Before leaving the commissioners adopted a resolution of thanks, which Ambassador Hill will transmit to the government.

James Barclay Will Also Fight For "Incubator Baby."

DAUGHTER OF AN ACTRESS

This is Claim Set Up by Mrs. Barclay. Declares Mrs. Charlotte Bleakley is Not Mother of Little One—Juvenile Court Will Hold Child Until Trial on Sept. 7.

Kansas City, Mo., Aug. 26.—James Barclay of Buffalo, N. Y., husband of Mrs Stella Barclay, has arrived to help his wife in her fight for possession of Marian Bleakley, the kidnaped "incubator baby."

He went immediately to the police station, where his wife, foster mother of Marian, is awaiting the outcome of the tangled mass of circumstances arising from her kidnaping of the child from Mrs. Charlotte Bleakley, the mother, in Topeka last Sunday.

Barclay would make no statement other than to say that he would see the case through. Mrs. Barclay asserted that the child was the daughter of an actress and not the offspring of Mrs. Bleakley.

Little Marian will not know until Sept. 7 to whom she legally belongs. The five-year-old child, who has been kidnaped twice in her short life, once by Mrs. Barclay and once by Mrs. Bleakley, was ordered placed in the custody of the clerk of the juvenile court until Sept. 7, when Judge Porterfield will endeavor to decide whether she shall remain with Mrs. Bleakley or Mrs. Barclay.

Governor Hadley on Friday will give Mrs. Barclay and Gentry a rehearing in the extradition proceedings.

MUST NOT DO IT.

Railroads Forbidden Running Trains Backwards.

Lansing, Mich., Aug. 26.—The Michigan railroad commission has issued an order prohibiting state railroads from running any trains backwards or with cars ahead of the engine. The various lines are given ninety days to put in Y's and turntables, and it is probable that the order will cause a great wail because of the expense resulting.

The chief reason is that the engineer does not have a clear view of the track over the pile of coal on the tender.

FLIES NEARLY THREE HOURS

French Aviator Has Broken All Records.

FLEW IN WIND AND RAIN

Remarkable Flight Was Performed at Rheims by Paulhan—Kept Machine Going Until Gasoline Gave Out—Curtiss Makes Speedy Short Flight, Beating Own Previous Record.

Betheny Aviation Field, Rheims, France, Aug. 26.—Another sensational exploit was added to the marvels of aviation week Wednesday, when Paulhan, the plucky French aviator, broke the world's record in a wonderful flight of 2 hours 53 minute and 24 seconds. During twenty minutes of the time Paulhan had a heavy rain and wind storm to contend against. The previous official record for time in the air was made by Wilbur Wright at LeMans, Dec. 31, 2 hours 20 minutes and 23 1-5 seconds. The unofficial record was 2 hours 27 minutes and 15 seconds, made by Sommer at Marmelons.

Paulhan's new record for distance was about 134 kilometers, or 83 miles. He made thirteen circuits of the course, and the wind squall passed as he was coming down the home stretch for the last time. Simultaneously, the dirigible Colonel Renard appeared to the westward, plowing its way majestically through the smoke of the city of Rheims.

When Paulhan finally came down it was because the 58 litres of essence which he carried in his tank was exhausted. He said immediately after he landed that both the machine and the self-cooling Gnome motor had stood up perfectly and that he could have continued indefinitely if the tank had been replenished.

Aviation Has Glorious Future.

No one who witnessed the marvellously impressive flight now entertains the slightest doubt that aerial navigation with heavier-than-air machines has a glorious future. As the time approached when it was evident that he would beat the Wright record the excitement was intense, and the crowds rushed out of the tribunes each time he passed, cheering and shouting words of encouragement.

As Paulhan in turn broke the time and distance records the jubilation of the spectators was beyond description. The Americans joined the French and other foreigners in paying tribute to the courage of the daring aviator.

Exhibition flights meanwhile were being given by Sommer, LeBlan Latham and others. Glenn H. Curtiss, the American aviator, got out his machine for an effort to beat Bleriot's time of Tuesday, and he made a fast round, lowering his own time for the 6 1-5 miles to 8 minutes 11 3-5 seconds, or 7-15 seconds behind that of Bleriot.

Gladstone

Part First—The Last Great Englishman of His Time. His Magnetism as an Orator. Bryce's Estimate ..... of Genius—1809

Centenary

GLADSTONE'S TOWERING PERSONALITY.

EVERY one is familiar with the name of Gladstone. No one doubts his unique fame, yet comparatively few, even among his countrymen, whom he served during sixty-three years of glorious parliamentary life, are sufficiently familiar with the qualities and their masterly play on the political chessboard which lifted him to the plane of greatness. Gladstone cannot be portrayed in graceful outline or with the simple tints which suffice for most men of mark. The purpose of this faithful study of the last of England's nineteenth century giants is to put the reader in the position of both jury and judge and spread before his judicial eye the moving panorama of a character and career of equal fascination and perplexity.

The writer was born and trained in Gladstone's county of Lancashire and during a quarter of a century missed no chance of hearing him on ordinary and great occasions in the small house of commons and when he stirred in and out door throngs numbering up to 25,000.

The day after the death of the famous Victorian Liberal leader this pen wrote the following opening sentences

WILLIAM EWART GLADSTONE.
[Born Dec. 29, 1809; Died May 19, 1898.]

of a published article, on which hangs an interesting coincidence:

Of most public characters it is possible to take a summary view which shall be fairly comprehensive and impartial. This is literally impossible in the case of Mr. Gladstone for these reasons: His unexampled multifariousness demands consideration in detail if a just estimate is desired. His unique mentality must be understood before the results of its processes can be rightly seen and judged, and these together utterly fail to portray the Gladstone of history unless we study them as influenced by the mighty upheavals, economic, social political, religious and international relations, that marked the Victorian era, of which for nearly two generations he was the most conspicuous figure. No single student Gladstone is to be trusted, whatever his estimate may be. Even history is unlikely to do full justice to one who was not one, but many in one, many contradictory units in an enigmatical whole.

A few weeks later was published the masterly monograph, "William Ewart Gladstone—His Characreristics as Man and Statesman," by the Right Hon. James Bryce, author of "The American Commonwealth" and now British ambassador at Washington. He served in Gladstone's cabinet and was president of the board of trade in Lord Rosebery's ministry. These are his opening sentences:

No man has lived in our times of whom it is so hard to speak in a concise and summary fashion as Mr. Gladstone. His activity spreads itself out over many fields. No account of him could be complete without reviewing his actions and estimating the results of his work in all these directions. But the difficulty of describing and judging him goes deeper. His was a singularly complex nature, a character hard to unravel. * * * His was an individuality so far from being self consistent as sometimes to seem a bundle of opposite qualities capriciously united in a single person. He might with equal truth be called, and he has been called, a conservative and a revolutionary. He was dangerously impulsive and had frequently to suffer from his impulsiveness, yet he was also not merely wary and cautious, but so astute as to have been accused of craft and dissimulation. So great was his respect for authority and tradition that he clung to views regarding the unity of Homer and the historical claims of Christian sacredotalism which the majority of competent specialists have now rejected. [Yet] so bold was he in practical matters that he transformed the British constitution, changed the course of English policy in the orient, destroyed an established church in one part of the United Kingdom and committed himself to the destruction of two established churches in two other parts. He came near to being a Roman Catholic in his religious opinions, yet was for twenty years the darling leader of the English Protestant nonconformists and the Scotch Presbyterians. He was at different times the defender and the assailant of the same institutions, yet he sincerely seemed inconsistent in doing opposite things, because his methods and arguments preserved the same type and color throughout.

Passing now from this necessary preamble, we view the man in his habit as he lived. No player on the world stage in our century stirred an audience of nations with equal magnetism or trod the courts of kingship with truer majesty. There were phases of popular enthusiasm when he was not only adored, but almost "godded." his name, William Ewart Gladstone, being tacitly regarded as a human expression for the divine will. If his country still lacked some of the perfections of ideal rule they prayed heaven to vouchsafe, it was only because Gladstone had not yet gone up to send them down. Tory foes and Conservative scoffers might chill the morning air with icy criticisms as they read the reported speech but once we got them within the wall and under the spell of the speaker their cold storage philosophy melted into a sympathetic something which by and by glowed into fiery rapture. Let us waft ourselves across seas and years and hear him in his prime.

There is a crisis in national affairs. A general election is probable. The party in power is to be driven out by the more advanced apostles of progress, or change, which often passes for progress. It matters nothing to our present purpose whether we are going to hear Gladstone in attack or defense. Mr. Bryce puts it neatly, "His methods and arguments preserve the same type and color." A skillfuller debater there never was or is likely to be. Every rule, art, trick, comes into play in the very nick of time, usually impromptu. We shall weary, despite our enthusiasm and the contagious excitement of a vast, packed crowd, of the speaker's very frequent lapses into long winded sentences, 100, even more than 200 words long, the harder to grasp because he speaks in Latinised and not in the plain speech which was and ought to be the glory of our language. Sometimes his sentences will be so involved that he loses his thread and forgets to finish. The American speaker's way of introducing a funny story would be frowned down by a British audience bent on enjoying a continuous piece of serious pleading by experts primed with facts and figures used as battering rams. The speaker may flavor these with wit and humor if he has these natural endowments, but borrowed fun is not an acceptable substitute. Gladstone had little of either gift, and when a gleam of humor struck him he served it out in homeopathic doses.

If this is a faithful account of Gladstone as orator you will ask how the oratorical garland got place on his brow. Here is the answer: The secret of his greatness was his personality, apart from his work, and the secret of his reputation as orator was his personality. His spoken utterances owed all their power to his noble self, to the grace of his form, to the play of his marvelously eloquent and beautiful countenance and the fire of zeal that blazed in his eyes. Friend and foe fell alike under the witchery of that impressive personality glowing through and above all that he said. To the hearer came the feeling that such a face, form and voice must be the abiding place of all the virtues, and the all compelling fervor that animated every fiber of his body attested the inspiration of a lofty soul. And this is prosaically true.

It comes ungraciously to dim the glamour of such an influence, but even Gladstone was human. In so prolonged a career it is nothing to point to reversals of opinion, but to swear that yesterday's wrong is today's right and to oppose great causes until the eleventh hour and then turn about and become their enthusiastic convert champion were among some of his acrobatic feats which sorely puzzled his followers to interpret. Illustrations of this follow in another section. It was never difficult to make parallel passages from his speeches in which the argument of each proved the fallacy of the other, like the Jew and the Catholic who discussed their religious convictions with such irresistible force that at the end of three weeks the Jew became a Catholic and the Catholic a Jew.

Gladstone's voice was an instrument of pure music, farreaching as to space and our inmost chamber of delight. Mr. Justin McCarthy says in his ever welcome "History of Our Own Times" the first oratorical qualification was Gladstone's "exquisite voice. Such a voice would make commonplace seem interesting and lend something of fascination to dullness itself. It was singularly pure, resonant and sweet, not loud or of great volume, but strong, vibrating and silvery. Somebody once said that he was the only man in parliament who could talk in italics. He could, by the slightest modulation of his voice, give all the emphasis of italics of small print or large or any other effect he might desire."

Mr. Bryce enlarges on this voice and must be quoted in part lest the writer be suspected of exaggerating the relative importance of mere vocalism in estimating Gladstone's oratory. He says:

The vehemence of his feeling found expression in the fire of his eye and the resistless strength of his words. His utterance did not grow swifter nor the key of his voice rise as passion raised and sharpens it in most men. But the measured force with which every sentence was launched, the concentrated intensity of his look as he defied antagonists in front and swept his glance over the ranks of his supporters around and behind him, had a startling and thrilling power which no other Englishman could exert. The whole proud, bold, ardent nature of the man seemed to flash out, and one almost forgot what the lips said in admiration of the towering personality.

Before noting the little discount this very distinguished associate of Gladstone ventures to take off this praise one cannot but recall the charming and somewhat pathetic picture so familiar to us who went to hear his great speeches in various cities. Always by his side sat his devoted wife, one of those dear old ladies whose natural stateliness contentedly lost itself in sweet motherliness. There she would sit, glowing with wifely pride in her lifelong sweetheart's hour of glory, and every now and then, when he was silenced by the cheering, she would tug his sleeve or coattail and make him take a sip of her egg and sherry out of the wide mouthed bottle she cherished for the sake of that precious voice. Sweethearts in the good old fashion, turtledoves from the day she brought him the famous Hawarden home until hand in hand they went down to rest at the foot of the hill they had climbed and descended with the spirit of sweet childhood to the end.

HE COULD TALK IN ITALICS.

What, now, of the message apart from the oracle? Mr. Bryce continues:

People who read next day the report in the newspapers of a speech delivered on such an occasion could not comprehend the impression it had made on the listeners. "What was there in it so to stir you?" they asked. They had not seen the glance and gestures. They had not heard the vibrating voice rise to an organ peal of triumph or sink to a whisper of entreaty. Yet one must not forget that with him, as with some other famous statesmen, the impression made by a speech was in a measure due to the adhiring curiosity and wonder which his personality inspired.

FRANZ LISZT,

Reminiscences of this Remarkable Musician

By PROF. JAMES GILL.

(Second Article in the Series.)

There is no doubt but that the most remarkable musical figure of the 19th century was Franz Liszt, the Hungarian. He was scarcely nine years of age when he made his first sensation as a pianist before the public of Europe, and his success was so great that several noblemen guaranteed the money to enable him to persue his studies for six years in Vienna.

His masters were, Czerny, (piano) Salieri and Randhartinger, (Theory and Composition). He was acquainted with Schubert, and having played before Beethoven, Liszt was kissed by this great composer, who remarked that he would surely make his mark.

When he was 12 years of age he had published his first composition. At the age of 16 he lost his father, and being thrown upon his own resources, he began his concert tour. My readers can easily imagine what an extraordinary musical career he had during his early manhood, as he visited repeatedly every Capitol in Europe. He was simply the idol of all the people who listened to him. He fascinated everybody with the magnetism and weirdness of his playing. He was called a second Paganini. Then, his personal appearance was something remarkable—he was very tall, about six feet two inches, and very slender, with piercing eyes, very long arms, but small hands, he played without notes, technical difficulties of the most frightful kind did not exist for him, and his command of the piano was such that he could do anything and everything he wished.

This brief discription of Liszt is given in order that my readers may form an idea of this wonderful musical genius.

At the time I was studying in Leipzig, Liszt was living in Weimer, the teacher and inspirer of a large circle of very talented young musicians that flocked to him for instruction.

Among the students at Leipzig at that time, nothing could be heard but the name of Liszt, not only as a pianist, but as a composer. His Hungarian Rhapsodies were great favorites, and he had written fifteen of them. But alas, in the Leipzig Conservatorium, his compositions were not allowed to be studied, or played in public by any student of the Music School, but this vetoing of Liszt's works, instead of dampening the ardor of his admirers among the students, only increased the flame of their love for this extraordinary musician, and raised him just so much higher in their estimation.

Why Liszt's compositions were looked down upon, is a hard question to answer. But, doubtless the form and style of his works were not modeled after the strict manner of Beethoven, Mozart, Haydn or Schubert, and therefore were not considered strictly clasical.

One day it became known among the students that Liszt was coming to Leipzig. Herr Kappellmeister Riedel was going to give a first performance of Liszt's Legend of the Holy Elizabeth, at the Thomas Church, then the students and the people of Leipzig, became simply wild with excitement—nothing was talked about except Liszt, and when the day for the performance arrived every inch of space was occupied by a mass of people eager to see this man, and to listen to his composition.

Little did anybody think that this church was sacred to the memory of a greater musician than even Liszt, namely, John Sebastion Bach, who in his time had labored many years in this church, writing and performing some of greatest compositions within its sacred walls, but the multitude could only think of this one name, Liszt, and when the moment arrived that Liszt walked up the centre isle of the church, there was a suppressed murmur of voices over the sacred edifice: There's Liszt! there's Liszt!!

I can never forget the impression he made on me, almost supernaturally tall, his long black cassock seemingly added to his height, he walked with head erect, and his white flowing hair falling down square to his shoulders, his remarkable piercing eyes, and prominent features, all made the man a most extraordinary being. At his side as he walked up the isle, was his favorite pupil, Tausig, the one he fondly hoped his mantle would fall upon.

After the performance, which was highly successful, Liszt congratulated Kappellmeister Riedel and returned at once to Weimer.

The next time I saw Liszt was in Weimer, the Grand Duke of Weimer, had given permission to hold a Beethoven festival, and Liszt was to conduct Beethven's Mass in D. This mass is a frightfully difficult work to sing, and I never can forget how hard the chorus toiled to master this Mass, especially the fuque part.

Herr Kappellmeister Riedel called on the students of the Conservatorium to assist, and so I was one of a number that helped in the festival, our expenses were paid including board during our stay in Weimer.

When the time came for us to start for Weimer, the most vital question discussed was—would Liszt play? Some said yes, and others were as positive he would not, but we all hoped he would be induced to do so. On our arrival in Weimer, we were lodged in a large hall with cots provided, and our meals served on the floor below. Next morning bright and early we were up and ready for the day's work, but we did not know what the program would be, so two of the students and myself concluded to go to the theatre and find out. On arriving there we found some difficulty in getting in, but finally, we succeeded in gaining entrance by a side door and quietly sat down in the back seats of the theatre, and then we discovered for the first time that there were three persons on the stage, the first I recognised as Grutzmacher, the great violincelotst, the second was Helmsberger, the violinist, and the third was Liszt. They were talking about a new trio and Liszt had the manuscript in his hand; at length he gave the violin and violincelo parts to the two men and sat down at the piano himself. By this time we began to realize that we were trespassing, and were in danger of being put out, but evidently Liszt was going to play and so we determined to stay at all costs, and so sat as quiet as mice, and hoped and prayed we would not be discovered.

DISAPPEARS FROM THE PUBLIC EYE

Harriman's Retirement Sets Stock Market Fluttering.

New York, Aug. 26.—Two thousand feet above the sea level at his country estate near Arden, N. Y., Edward H. Harriman is resting in seclusion. Shielded from business cares, barred from visitors, practically isolated in his mountain home, he has disappeared from the public eye. All reports concerning Mr. Harriman's health his associates have made known are to come from his offices in this city. He has retired in the truest sense of the word for his "after-cure," and nothing is to disturb him.

Just as the country eagerly read the cables from abroad concerning the financier's health, debated thereon and bought or sold stock according to its interpretation, so it has gone on since the brief glimpse of him Tuesday. Although he is in what may be termed easy railroad distance of the financial district, uneasiness there continued and was strongly reflected in the movements of the stock market. With a weak opening Union Pacific and Southern Pacific, together with New York Central, now classed as a Harriman stock, underwent declines at the outset under rather heavy selling orders. Firmness followed the first losses, but it was only temporary and was followed by even greater declines as trading continued, and by noon nearly all active stocks were off from two and a half to five points.

It came to the street unofficially that Mr. Harriman was resting easily, but this did not serve to offset the general apprehension.

POSTAL SAVINGS BANK.

Taft Will Urge Congress to Pass Laws Creating System.

Beverly, Mass., Aug. 26.—President Taft has indicated in talks with callers that in his message to congress next December he will strongly urge the early establishment of a postal savings bank system. The president realizes that there is strong opposition to such legislation at this time, and while he does not propose to rush congress on too many matters at once he will ask that the platform declaration of the Republican party in favor of postal banks be fulfilled as speedily as possible.

President Taft believes that several hundreds of millions would be placed at the disposal of the government through postal savings banks. It is suggested that this money might well be employed in taking up the $600,000,000 or $700,000,000 of 2 per cent bonds which are outstanding and which have given much concern to the treasury department officials.

Two Lads Drown.

Detroit, Mich., Aug. 26.—Gordon Gates, twelve years old, of 7 Cooper street, and Robert Schemansky, fourteen years old, of 947 McClellan avenue, perished in the waters of Barry's canal, foot of Holcomb avenue yesterday afternoon, while in bathing. One lad sought to save the other, but they both went down.

Cures Dyspepsia; Trial Is Free

It is a popular mistake that only wealthy people who eat rich and highly-spiced foods suffer from dyspepsia, or, as it is also known, indigestion. The laborer in the street, the worker in the field also finds himself a victim of this disorder. Among the very greatest sufferers from it are women.

Dyspepsia is indicated by a constant feeling of laziness, by loss of appetite and troubled sleep, by sour stomach and distress after eating, by bad complexion and lusterless eyes.

There is no surer and speedier cure for this trouble than Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, which dyspeptics have been using successfully for twenty years. This great herb laxative compound cured Capt. Clark, of Buffalo, Ia., of dyspepsia and sour stomach that he had had for forty years, or until the lucky day that he heard of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. It cured Joel Adams, of Montgomery, Ala., after suffering continuously for sixteen months. These are only a few of the many. But it is not expensive to be cured with this grand remedy, as it can be bought at any drug store in a 50-cent or $1 bottle.

Your very neighbors are probably lifelong users of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, but if you want to know without expense what it will do for you personally, send your name to Dr. Caldwell and he will be glad to send you a free trial bottle. He is actually anxious to have you make a test of his remedy.

Thousands of families everywhere keep it in the house against such an emergency as constipation, sour stomach, indigestion, biliousness, dyspepsia, heartburn, torpid liver, etc., which may come on a member of the family any day. It is pleasant to the taste, acts gently and does not gripe. It is the great children's laxative tonic.

If there is anything about your ailment that you don't understand, or if you want any medical advice, write to the doctor, and he will answer you fully. There is no charge for this service. The address is Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 500 Caldwell bldg., Monticello, Ill.

To Make Buttons From Shells.

Portland, Mich., Aug. 26.—That the government is investigating the clam shell supply in various rivers with a view to recommending the building of button factories is made known here by Robert Coker, who says he is an expert sent out by the department of commerce and labor. Coker and two assistants are taking inventory of the bed of Grand river.

The Man in the Rain.

"Men," said a fashionable tailor, "are much more particular about their clothes than women, though few people realize this fact. Take a man in a light gray suit caught in a shower. Does he go blithely on, heedless of the elements? No. He seeks the nearest shelter and remains there till the downpour has stopped absolutely. But it is his straw hat that a man takes most care to preserve. I have seen men in pouring torrents hurrying along bareheaded, their straw hats carefully concealed beneath their coats. Did you ever see a woman go to those lengths? Often a man caught in a shower carries his hat sort of casually at arm's length at his side, as if he was doing it unconsciously, don't you know. And how often do we see them holding newspapers over their hats. Ever see a woman do that? No. Somehow women seem to be able to go through a shower without making conspicuous figures of themselves. They are always serene, never troubled, and they never seem to get as wet as men do."—London Answers.

KILLED.

FRED McCOY KILLED IN JACKSON THIS MORNING.

Word was received here this noon that Fred McCoy was killed sometime this forenoon, while at his work in the car shops in Jackson. The telegram contained no particulars

Fred McCoy is the youngest son of James McCoy of this village, and his death is a great shock to relatives and friends here.

Besides his parents, he leaves a wife and baby, one brother Robert McCoy of this place, and two sisters, Helen who resides at home, and Mrs. Waring of Kalamazoo. Robert McCoy went to Jackson this afternoon.

FRANCIS A. FERGUSON.

Have You Noticed?

THE COMMENCEMENT OF ONE OF TECUMSEH'S MOST PROFITABLE IMPROVEMENTS THE MODERN SEWER?

The contractors in charge will be pleased to furnish prices to everybody desiring private connections and on a basis which will be reasonable, both the material and construction guaranteed to be A No. 1 in every particular. All such connections should be made during the progress of the main sewer thereby preventing all mistakes and extending to those who desire the improvement to their property, the satisfaction of an immediate completion of the work, a saving in cost and additional annoyance. Call at the Barrett Hotel in the evening or on the works during the day.

It is curious how easily a woman can be deceived by a foreign suitor making his appeal through a cornet, when she would instantly spot a fellow American who was talking through his hat.

THE EDITOR'S TICKET.

What more cordial invitation could an Editor receive than the one sent out by the State Fair Association, which reads as follows:

When you reach the Fair grounds go to the press headquarters in the administration building and register. You will then be blindfolded while we force you to accept a pass which will admit you to all the Midway shows, get you a square meal, a "Hot Dog," a tag of peanuts, an ice cream cone, a sack of popcorn, a glass of ginger ale, a drink of orangeade, a glass of apple cider, and if you find anything else that you want that is not chained down help yourself.

It is certain that the editors will be the envied ones. The only item that seems to be omitted from the list is a doctor, and it would look as if his services might be wanted.

HOW TO CURE SKIN DISEASES.

The germs and their poisons which cause the disease must be drawn to the surface of the skin and destroyed. Salves and greasy lotions may give temporary relief, but they have not the power to destroy the germ life. ZEMO, a clean liquid for external use will draw to the surface and destroy the germ life, leaving a clean healthy skin. ZEMO positively cures Eczema, Pimples, Blackheads, Dandruff, Itching Piles and every form of skin or scalp disease. Messers Wright the druggists, endorse and recomend ZEMO and will give you a sample bottle.

WOMAN'S SUFFREAGE

COMES PRETTY HIGH

But We MUST Have It.

Mrs. O. H. P. Belmont by opening her palatial home for meeting of Suffragests, and placing admission at $5.00 a ticket and $1.00 to the grounds, has placed the suffrage movement on a different footing than it has been before, a new epoch has certainly opened.

The Rev. Anna Shaw was the speaker at this meeting held Tuesday of this week, Many times has she spoken on this subject in Tecumseh, but not at $5 a ticket—often to nothing a ticket, and empty seats. But we venture to predict a crowded house the next time she is here. Such is human nature.

SCHOOL DAY

Wednesday, Sept. 22 Will be School Day at the Adrian Fair.

Wednesday, Sept. 22 is School Day at the Lenawee county fair. AMUSEMENTS.

Every, man, woman and child is fond of the play in some form and most of us prefer the kind that furnishes us with a laugh or a touch of the bright side of life. The public are tired of the cheap clap trap sensation and poor plays given them by some managements and are now ready for something of a better class. The American Amusement Co. will present the dainty comedienne and Miss Myrtle Hebard and superior company in the newest of laughing successes the musical farce "Frivolous Bonnie" A merry musical jingle of rictious mirth with a wealth of singing and dancing around a plot of comical situations.

Miss Hebard who leads the fun makers has a part exactly suited to her talent and those who remember her in "The Land of Nod," "Buster Brown" and other plays will be more than satisfied regarding the artistic and fun qualities of "Frivolous Bonnie." Will appear at the Bradley Opera House on Aug. 31 for this engagement see ad in this paper.

LOST!---Civic Improvement Committee.

The Lawn and Garden Club of Adrian have done more to beautify their home city, than any other organization. Their work this year consisted in giving prizes for best kept lawn and garden, convicting anyone guilty of plant or flower theft. They have also made an effort to have the worms destroyed. This is work that our Town Federation might well take up, if we only accomplish one thing, namely, persuading Council to keep our Parks lighted and lawns mowed. What has become of our civic improvement committee?

NO CATARRH THERE.

No Hawking, Snuffing and Blowing in Inland Australia.

In inland Australia where grows the eucalyptus, king of all trees, and the tall majestic pines, catarrh, asthma and consumption are unknown.

This is because the air is filled with the antiseptic balsam's thrown out by these trees and being breathed in, this strongly antiseptic air prevents germ life from gaining a foothold and catarrh and consumption, both germ diseases, cannot exist.

Hyomei is the extract taken from the trees of pine and eucalyptus, and has exactly the same healing, soothing antiseptic power.

And now you can buy Hyomei at leading drug stores everywhere and here in Tecumseh. A complete outfit, including a hard rubber inhaler, is sold by C. A. Wright & Son for only $1.00, with a positive guarantee to cure or money back. All you have to do is pour a few drops of Hyomei into the inhaler and breathe it in; it cures catarrh, coughs, colds, consumption, asthma and hayfever in a few minutes. Try this pleasant treatment and forever rid yourself of that disgusting disease catarrh. Extra bottles cost 50 cents.

A. S. Nusbaum, Batesville, Ind., writes: "Last year I suffered for three months with a summer cold so distressing that it interfered with my business. Fortunately I insisted upon having Foley's Honey and Tar. It quickly cured me. My wife has since used Foley's Honey and Tar with the same success."

PAIN

Pain in the head—pain anywhere, has its cause. Pain is congestion, pain is blood pressure—nothing else usually. At least so says Dr. Shoop, and to prove it he has created a little pink tablet. That tablet—called Dr. Shoop's Headache Tablet—eases blood pressure away from pain centers. Its effect is charming, pleasingly delightful. Gently, though safely, it surely equalizes the blood circulation.

If you have a headache, it's blood pressure. If it's painful periods with women, same cause. If you are sleepless, restless, nervous, it's blood congestion—blood pressure. That surely is a certainty, for Dr. Shoop's Headache Tablets stop it in 20 minutes, and the tablets simply distribute the unnatural blood pressure.

Bruise your finger, and doesn't it get red and swell, and pain you? Of course it does. It's congestion, blood pressure. You'll find it where pain is always. It's plain, Dr. Shoop says.

We sell it for 25 cents, and cheerfully recommend

AVIATORS IN READINESS.

World's Noted Aeronauts Are Gathered at Rheims, France.

Rheims, France, Aug. 27.—A vast strange aerodrome city has arisen on the plains of Bethany, near this city, in anticipation of "Aviation Week" races, which begin next Sunday and run to the following Saturday and during which feats of skill and daring by aviators in heavier-than-air machines and aeronauts in spherical and dirigible balloon will be witnessed.

The aerodrome proper is 200 metres wide and extends 3,750 metres on one side and 1,500 on the other, making a circuit of about 1,000 metres.

The Marquis de Polignac, president of the committee on aviation, says:

"All we need is good weather and patience. The public should not be deceived. Aviation is a new science and a good deal of chance enters into such an audacious undertaking as 'Aviation Week.'"

Curtiss has been examined by a surgeon who declares that he would be entirely well of his sprained ankle within a few days.

The American was a prominent figure at the aerodrome. He tried out his motor, which ran perfectly, but the high wind sweeping over the immense field made it impossible for him or any of the other aviators to think of attempting a flight.

Count Lambert, Louis Bleriot and Hubert Latham, the French aviators, remained in their sheds Wednesday afternoon arranging their machines. Despite the wind, which at times suggested a tempest, thousands of persons visited the aerodrome and pressed about the sheds seeking to catch a glimpse of the aeroplanes and aviators.

A telephone system has been installed between the field and Rheims, but the telegraph wires are not yet ready. Workmen are energetically rebuilding the vast shed to hold Count Dela Vaulx's dirigible balloon Zodiac, which was levelled by the recent storm.

FORTY YEARS OF PROGRESS

North American Negro's Rapid Advance Since Slavery Days.

Louisville, Ky., Aug. 27.—A sketch of what the American negro has done since his emancipation in 1863 and a suggestion that the fiftieth anniversary of that emancipation be celebrated in 1913 were the features of Dr. Booker T. Washington's address before the National Negro Business league at its tenth annual meeting in this city last night.

"When the league began work," said the speaker, "there were a few drug stores owned or controlled by black people. Now we have nearly 200. A few years ago there were only about a half dozen negro banks in the country, now there are 47.

"A little more than 40 years ago—when the negro was made free—he had almost no acres of land. Now he has an acreage almost as large as New England. Then he had almost no homes; now he has 400,000 homes. Then he had few farms; now he has 200,000 farms. When the American negro was made free only about 3 per cent could read and write. Now 57 per cent can both read and write."

The need of racial optimism was impressed by Washington, who quoted that the North American negro was 100 years ahead of his brother in any other part of the world.

"But we must remember that in the south especially, hitherto we have had a pretty free field, but in the future we must prepare for competition—competition in the field, in the shop, in the store, in the kitchen. And to hold that what we have and gain more this competition must be met, not by race prejudice but by superior usefulness."

Died of Asiatic Cholera.

Rotterdam, Aug. 27.—The death of four children supposed to have been caused by poisonous sweets has been found, after a bacteriological examination, to have been due to Asiatic cholera. One man also died recently from a suspicious illness, and fourteen adults and fourteen children are under observation at the isolation sheds.

Noted Telegrapher Fatally Hurt.

Chicago, Aug. 26.—John A. Hurley, one of the best known and most expert telegraphers in the country, was fatally injured at Hammond, Ind., while in the act of boarding a train. His family live at Brooklyn.

Optimistic.

"My wife is a very optimistic woman."

"Indeed she is."

"Noticed it, have you?"

"Yes; when I was talking with her yesterday she said that if you ever died she would marry again because she felt sure that she could do better next time."—Houston Post.

JULY RECORDS ARE SMASHED

Domestic Shipments on Lakes Were Enormous.

BIG INCREASE IN IRON ORE

Movement of Metal This Year Totals 15,280,497 Gross Tons—Shipments For July of All Goods Amount to 12,398,550, Exceeding Year Ago by 2,500,000.

Washington, Aug. 30.—Never have shipments on the great lakes in the domestic trade aggregated such large amounts as during the month of July, according to statistics just made public by the bureau of statistics of the department of commerce and labor.

The total shipments in the domestic trade from all the lake ports during July were 12,398,550 net tons, which exceeded the total of the same month last year by more than 2,500,000 net tons and those of July, 1907, more than 1,128,666 net tons. Greatly increased shipments of iron ore from the Lake Superior and Lake Michigan ports was the cause of the immense increase in the volume of the shipping business.

The total domestic ore shipments on the lakes for the season ending with July were 15,280,497 gross tons, which is about 2,500,000 tons short of the 1907 record. But if shipments continue at the present rate it is likely that the 1907 record of nearly 41,000,000 tons will be equalled, if not exceeded.

Lake shipments of soft coal for July, 2,183,067 net tons, fell considerably below the business of the same month last year.

Shipments of wheat were 11,139,979 bushels, compared with 14,784,291 bushels shipped during the corresponding period of 1908.

The freight movement through the canals at Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., 8,706,666 net tons, was about 22 per cent in excess of the July, 1908 and 1907, trade. This increase was due exclusively to the heavier eastbound movement.

STRANGELY MISSING.

Girl Left Farm Six Weeks Ago; Parents Alarmed.

Flint, Mich., Aug. 30.—The police have been asked to search for Zelda Kimball, twenty years old, who disappeared six weeks ago from the farm of John Ross in Burton township. It was not found till Sunday that the girl was missing and her parents believe she has either eloped or met with an accident.

The Kimball family moved to Burton township from Rochester two years ago, and the girl went to the farm to work. Her parents asked her to come home for Sunday dinner six weeks ago, but when she did not appear they believed she was detained on the farm. Ross, however, says she left with the intention of going home and when she did not come back thought she had quit her position.

DIED OF HEART FAILURE.

Physicians Decide There Is No Mystery in Doherty's Death.

Muskegon, Mich., Aug. 30.—After a post-mortem examination of the body of Joseph H. Doherty, the Detroit ball player and catcher for a team of Detroit who died here Saturday, physicians have decided that the cause of death, which for a time appeared mysterious, was due to heart trouble. Nurses who were in attendance, however, still insist that Doherty was suffering from the effects of poisoning.

Doherty was twenty-two years old and a timekeeper for the Canadian Bridge company in Walkerville, Can. He left his work two weeks ago and joined the team, which is making a tour of the state. The team did not come here, and Doherty came alone. His wife, while looking for him to return home, received a letter from him saying that he had met an actor and his wife who had offered him an opportunity to earn some money by staying a few days here.

Camp Perry Shoot Ends Wednesday.

Camp Perry, O., Aug. 30.—The National Rifle association's tournament here probably will come to a close Wednesday. After a conference with the captains of the various teams, Lieutenant Colonel P. K. Evans said that weather permitting the matches would be completed by that time. The program today will dispose of the match for the Leech cup, the $500 Wimbledon cup and the individual long distance tyro match.

SAILS AIRSHIP INTO BERLIN

Joyous Was Greeting Given Zeppelin and His Craft.

HE REACHED THERE SUNDAY

Mishap Delayed Craft at Bitterfield. Emperor Welcomes the Count and Introduces Him to Orville Wright. Zeppelin Lunches With Ruler—Airship Starts For Home.

Berlin, Aug. 30.—The airship Zeppelin III., with Count Zeppelin at the helm, arrived safely at Berlin shortly after noon Sunday. The voyage from Friedrichshafen, where the start was made, at 4:30 o'clock Friday morning, was marked by an accident to the airship which caused a considerable delay at Bitterfield. At that point Count Zeppelin met the craft and was greeted by the crown prince, representing the emperor. The emperor himself witnessed the arrival of the airship here.

Two monarchs of the air, Count Zeppelin and Orville Wright, the foremost exponents of distinct systems of aerial navigation, met at Berlin Sunday afternoon for the first time. They were introduced to one another by the monarch of the German empire.

From one end of Berlin to the other the shout rang out, "Zeppelin is here!" The people's desire to see the giant dirigible with the count at the helm over the roofs of the capital at last was to be granted. Berlin was happy, as the count had announced that at 12:30 he would appear over the Tempelhof parade grounds.

Ten Men Aboard.

The airship left Bitterfield early in the morning, with the count, his nephew, Engineer Deurr, who had navigated her from Friedrichshafen, and eight others aboard. Some repairs had been effected, but only three propellers were working, the one which was lost not having been replaced. The motors worked perfectly, and the trip to Berlin was made without mishap.

Zeppelin on arriving here descended to a low altitude and carried out a series of intricate evolutions gracefully in full view of the people. The emperor and empress, accompanied by the princes and princesses, proceeded to Tegel, where a small company gathered around the imperial group on the shooting range, which was destined to be the landing place. The city councillors and foreign attaches, including Captain Harty, the attache of the American embassy, assembled there to await the arrival of the count. The emperor, who had specially sent Professor Hergesell, government commissioner on airships, invited Orville Wright and his sister to join the party and gave them a most hearty welcome.

Zeppelin Lands.

The balloon came slowly over the field; the motors stopped, and the vessel glided to the ground. The band played, and the emperor saluted as Count Zeppelin stepped forward. His majesty then advanced and shook hands heartily. He presented Mr. Wright to the count, and the American aeroplanist and Count Zeppelin exchanged congratulations. The mayor welcomed the count in the name of the citizens, and the emperor took off his helmet and called for three cheers for Zeppelin.

Later, with the count seated at his right, his majesty proceeded to the castle, where lunch was served. The spectators all along the route shouted themselves hoarse and waved flags until the procession disappeared.

The airship started at 11:24 last night on its return voyage to Friedrichshafen. Count Zeppelin returned by train.

PREACHES TO FANS.

Minneapolis Preacher Delivers Sermon Preceding Baseball Game.

Minneapolis, Aug. 30.—Baseball and religious services were combined, for the first time it is believed, when Rev. G. L. Morrill delivered a short oration at the American association grounds prior to the game Sunday afternoon between Minneapolis and Kansas City. The home team won, 8 to 0.

Another Dies.

New York, Aug. 30.—Laurent Grosse, driver of the Stearns car, who was injured in the twenty-four hour race at the Brighton Beach Motordrome Friday night, is dead. Leonard Cole, his mechanician, was instantly killed in the accident. Grosse's back was broken and his spine shattered. He was twenty-six years old and lived in New York.

ROAD OFFICIALS BLAME CONDUCTOR

Inquest Over Capac Wreck Is Delayed.

Port Huron, Mich., Aug. 30.—Although the inquest into the death of John Brush of Battle Creek, fireman of the Grand Trunk express train which collided with a work train a mile west of Capac at 11:40 o'clock Saturday night, has been postponed until Wednesday, officials of the road blame Conductor Callosi of the work train for the accident. He has disappeared, they say, and they are searching for him.

James McCarren of Battle Creek, engineer of the express, was severely bruised, and his left leg was so badly crushed that amputation was necessary. He will recover. McCarren crawled from beneath the wreckage and into the woods nearby. He was found by searchers.

Early Sunday morning a jury was impaneled and viewed the wreck. Coroner Schwickert and Prosecuting Attorney Brown of this city spent Sunday in Capac.

The express runs from Chicago to Montreal. It is declared that Callosi ordered his engineer, John Shumm of Battle Creek, to leave the siding they were on and pull onto the main line to pick up cars there. Shumm is said to have told Callosi that there was not time enough to make it before the express came through, but Callosi persisted and failed to even place flags on the main line to head off the approach of the express.

E. H. Rathman, fireman of the work train, was also badly injured about the legs, but will recover.

The express was running sixty miles an hour. Passengers were thrown from their berths and great excitement prevailed for a time.

ROAD TO USE 'PHONE.

Michigan Central Will Dispatch Trains With It On Jackson-Niles Division.

Marshall, Mich., Aug. 30.—Within the next six weeks all trains on the Michigan Central between Jackson and Niles will be dispatched by telephone, and the telegraph system dispensed with, although the telegraph wires will not be disturbed. For the present only one wire will be used for the telephone dispatch system. Linemen are at work now stringing wires. Each office will have a special ring, and the operator will not have to pay any attention to the telephone in his office except when his call is rung by the dispatcher. When he receives a message he will write it and then repeat it to the dispatcher.

MICHIGAN BRIEFS.

Mrs. Amelia Andrews, ninety years old, one of the oldest residents of Michigan, is dead. She had lived in Saginaw seventy years.

Monday was dog day in Saginaw. Seventy-five owners of canines were arraigned in the recorder's court charged with violating the license ordinance.

After an illness of eight months William Kyle Anderson, retired capitalist, for thirty-two years one of the most prominent and active business men of Detroit, is dead.

A petition has been filed in bankruptcy court by John Inch, a grocer of Holly, and his store has been closed pending an investigation. His liabilities are $2,000, and the present stock in the store is valued at $300.

H. A. Chamberlain, president of the state bank of Standish, has returned from Alberquerque, N. M., with the body of his uncle, William Bowes, who dropped dead in the mountains near Alberquerque. Bowes leaves considerable property.

In full view of scores of people, George Washington Krause, nineteen years old, son of Fritz Krause, a prominent German resident of Bay City, was killed by a bolt of lightning while swimming at Wenona Beach. Krause was in the water at the time.

Henry Schuur, a former employe of Otto De Young, a farmer near Grand Rapids, was arrested, charged with stealing a quantity of jewelry from the De Young home. The theft was committed while De Young was away. He suspected Schuur and notified the police. Sunday, however, Schuur called on De Young, said he was sorry he robbed him and returned the jewelry. The story didn't satisfy De Young, however, and he took Schuur to police headquarters himself.

Peace in Athens Now.

Athens, Aug. 30.—The crisis in political affairs here, which reached its height in the mutiny of the local garrison and the formation of a new cabinet, has subsided.

HUNDREDS ARE DEAD

And Thousands Are Homeless

MEXICO FLOOD AWFUL

Estimated Damage Totals Over $20,000,000.

Bodies Rapidly Being Recovered—Rich People Are Trying to Care For Unfortunates, Who Are of Lower Class. Police, Rurales and Soldiers Aiding in Rescue Work.

Monterey, Mexico, Aug. 30.—The number of dead in Saturday's flood will reach 1,200, and may be more. The river has fallen considerably, and, while still high, the danger is not over.

Fully 15,000 people are homeless and are being cared for by the city government in the best way possible. Conservative estimates of the property loss place the figures at $20,000,000.

Bodies are rapidly being taken from the debris and ruins in the path of the flood. More than 500 have been recovered.

Laredo, Tex., Aug. 30.—With partial re-establishment of communication with the flooded section of northern Mexico previous reports as to loss of life and property damage were confirmed. Semi-official advices state that 400 dead bodies were recovered in Monterey at noon yesterday.

The flood waters of the Santa Catarina river continue on their rapid course, and to add to the horror of the situation rain has fallen and caused untold suffering to the thousands of homeless people who had congregated on the various plazas.

The destructive flood, due to the continued fall of rain for the past ninety-six hours, swept everything before it, and hardly a vestige is left of what was a few days ago a conglomeration of small huts swarming with families belonging to the poorer classes. The number of dead, which cannot be accurately estimated for days—perhaps weeks, is variously placed at from 400 to 1,000.

Flood Crest Came Saturday.

The flood reached its crest between 1 and 3 o'clock Saturday morning. Many families were swept to death with hardly a chance for their lives. With the on-rush of the waters pandemonium reigned, and as the victims were swept from their homes, on the tops of which many had sought shelter never anticipating that the water would reach an unprecedented height, pitiful appeals for assistance could be heard by those on higher ground, but aid of any kind was impossible.

Every effort has been made by kind hearted people to shelter homeless women and children. Private homes have been thrown open to the sufferers. The police station, many hotels and clubs, as well as the rooms of several organizations, have been placed at the disposal of the authorities.

Already many bodies have been recovered, but it is impossible to state the exact number. A semi-reliable authority says the police records show that 400 bodies had been recovered. Scores of other bodies are believed to be still lodged at various points along the stream.

Pitiful Scenes.

Pitiful scenes are reported among the women and children. Many women have been separated from their husbands; mothers from their children, without knowledge of the whereabouts of one another.

The modern portion of the city is considered to be high enough to escape the ravages of the flood, but in view of the fact that the rise of the waters has been unprecedented a general warning has been issued.

The police, rurals and soldiers are playing a prominent part in guarding and caring for the city. While as yet there is no scarcity of food and the city is amply able to care for its destitute there is fear that a shortage will soon come.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

Gladstone Centenary

Part Second—His Career as Statesman—Change of Front on Home Rule. Gladstone the Man.....

By Oliver Leigh

Copyright, 1909, by the American Press Association

"I DENY THAT WE ARE AT WAR!"

THE speech-making part of a progressive statesman is in one sense the most important part, which justifies the prominence here given to it. It is the steam that makes the wheels move which run him into power or the bellows that fans the fire of popular enthusiasm. Now for the outcome of these mighty Gladstonian campaigns. What did he do with his power? What were his achievements?

Here brevity is imposed on any one who wishes to give a fair summary of Gladstone's parliamentary career. He was a busy statesman for sixty-three years, entered the house of commons in 1832, accepted office in 1834, and for twenty-seven years he was leader of the Liberal party. The son of a Liverpool merchant, born in that city in the memorable year 1809, he found an easy avenue into parliament by favor of the Duke of Newcastle on his reputation as a brilliant debater. His work on "The State In Its Relations With the Church" won compliments from Macaulay in his famous review congratulating the "stern and unbending Tories" on the advent of "their rising hope." But the marvelous insight and foresight of Macaulay in their daring and their complete fulfillment in Gladstone's career must speak for themselves. His reading of character in 1838 can be checked even in this epitome of its subject's career:

Whatever Mr. Gladstone sees is refracted and distorted by a false medium of passions and prejudices. He has a vast command of a kind of language grave and majestic, but of vague and uncertain import. * * * and in this way he deludes first himself and then his readers. * * * The more he reasons on his premises the more absurd are the conclusions which he brings out, * * * and he is reduced sometimes to take refuge in arguments inconsistent with his fundamental doctrines and sometimes to escape from the legitimate consequences of his false principles under cover of equally false history.

Now let us hear Gladstone illustrate this for himself. In 1884 he was asked as premier if the government was going to send a relief expedition to General Gordon, then trapped in Khartum—a very simple and direct question, to which the premier made this masterly reply, which was reported verbatim: "What we say is that we are not prepared to say at present that there is no obligation upon us to use, according to circumstances, reasonable efforts, if we can, for leaving behind us an orderly government in Khartum." But they were too late to save Gordon. Another brilliant answer to a question put by a member who referred to "the war we are waging in the Sudan." Gladstone jumped up and said, "I deny that we are at war!" "Then what are we at?" "We are engaged in military operations!" incidentally killing 2,000 Sudanese. Another member on another occasion charged the government with spending £11,000,000. Gladstone rose and indignantly denied it. On being challenged he rose again—"We have only given orders which will absorb that sum."

A more curious and significant answer was that given to one of the audience in a great meeting during the famous Midlothian campaign. Gladstone had spoken of the secrecy of the ballot. The man at the back asked what he should reply if his employer were to inquire how he voted. Gladstone said: "There is not a bad story about secrecy which is not inappropriate now. Sir Walter Scott when asked if he was the author of the Waverley novels said, 'No, I am not, and if I had written them I should have made you precisely the same answer.' I don't think any one can say that a person who gave that answer was guilty of any act of deceit. I do not see myself how you can object to it." This little episode was carefully omitted from the printed volume of those speeches. Sir Edward Hamilton was chief private secretary to Gladstone and his intimate friend for forty years. In his memoir he writes that Mr. Gladstone disliked and dreaded the rising "preponderance of plutocracy over hereditary aristocracy. I have heard him exclaim, 'I am a worshiper of the hereditary principle—hereditary title and hereditary possessions.' He was an absolute slave to precedent and tradition."

Between 1869 and 1886 Gladstone created seventy-four peers, mostly plutocrats. The rent roll of his cabinet ministers was larger than that of the Tory ministries. In 1869 he, as premier, appointed his then quite young Stephen to the family living of Hawarden church, then worth nearly $16,000 a year. He is there still, but the stipend was cut in half years ago.

The authorized biography by the Right Hon. (now Lord) Morley records Gladstone's penitence for his blundering speech in 1862, in which he said: "There is no doubt that Jefferson Davis and other leaders of the south have made an army. They are making, it appears, a navy, and they have made what is more than either—they have made a nation." Writing in 1896, Gladstone confesses: "I did not perceive the gross impropriety of such an utterance from a cabinet minister. * * * It illustrates vividly what my mind so long retained and perhaps still exhibits—an incapacity of viewing subjects all round and thereby of knowing when to be silent and when to speak."

His various and contradictory Irish policies are rich in illustrations of Gladstonian subtlety. From 1832 until 1885 he was a consistent coercionist, looking, indeed, to measures for the relief of the people without hurting the landed interest too severely. The Tories were in power from 1874 until 1880, during which period there were 1,961 agrarian outrages in Ireland. When Gladstone became premier again in 1880 these outrages increased in five years to 12,089. The Tory garrison of 18,684 soldiers Gladstone increased to 29,361 in two years. One public meeting in eight was now suppressed; under the Tories it was only one in thirty-three. In his first speech as premier he referred to Lord Beaconsfield's Irish policy during the past six years, saying "There is an absence of crime and outrage and a general sense of comfort and satisfaction such as is unknown in the previous history of the country."

In 1881 he introduced his land bill to improve on his predecessor. Picture his sad surprise when Parnell described the speech introducing it as "dishonest and unscrupulous" and characterized Gladstone to his face as "the greatest coercionist and most unrivaled slanderer of the Irish nation." Next day John Dillon said of him, "His reputation for honesty in politics is a false reputation and is based upon the power of skillfully misrepresenting facts." Three days later the writer heard Gladstone's triumphant announcement that these men had that day been clapped into jail. "It is idle to talk of law or liberty or religion or civilization if these gentlemen are to carry through the chaotic schemes they have devised." In jail they were kept for five months without a trial. By and by Parnell and his party held the balance of power between Tories and Liberals. Gladstone had made a characteristic utterance when in opposition, anticipating this dilemma, in which he discloses the working of what may be styled politicianism: "I tell you seriously and solemnly that, although I believe the Liberal party to be honorable, patriotic, sound and trustworthy, yet it would be in such a position as that it would not be trustworthy."

It came true. When he realized that the Irish party did hold the balance of power Gladstone amazed the country by declaring himself a convert to home rule. How that step ruptured his party, severed lifelong friendships, isolated him from his principal associates, alienated the sympathy of those he sought to win, split the nation into factions more imbittered than over any question in half a century and led to his own withdrawal from public life under a cloud without the spectacular farewell which parliament, the crown and the people would in happier circumstance have taken of their Grand Old Man needs no further elaboration here.

Of other memorable policies and, above all, his foreign policies we are glad not to expound. With the exception of his brave and honorable withdrawal from the Boer war in 1881, the record of his foreign policies is in the main a chapter of blunders. He opposed the purchase of the Suez canal shares. By buying them Lord Beaconsfield made not only a brilliant trading profit, but by giving England a sure footing in Egypt indirectly rescued it from financial and other ruin and established Britain's power where it tells with envied force. Gladstone was always the friend of Russia and other foes of his country. Although he roundly denounced the sultan over the Bulgarian and other "atrocities," he candidly declared, "I for one am still desirous to see the territorial integrity of Turkey upheld." As a free trader he went joyously out of his way to hasten the commercial supremacy of the United States, his country's powerful rival. "The United States can and probably will wrest from us our commercial prosperity. * * * I have no inclination to murmur at the prospect. America is passing us by in a canter." He also wrote that England "has no interest in India except the well being of the natives, and if some enemy destroys our short cut to India by the Suez canal we shall be the greatest losers, but it is a question of loss, and loss only." The expression is, however, somewhat vague.

We have perhaps sufficiently indicated the main features of Gladstone's character in sketching his public acts and words. In the stormy debates over his home rule somersault he heard the voices of candid friends at an age, seventy-six, when a man counts lovingly on tributes of affection. His own ablest minister and biographer, John (now Lord) Morley, was constrained to publicly utter the stinging criticism, "Mr. Gladstone's mind is a mint of logical counterfeits." The Right Hon. W. E. Forster, his secretary for Ireland, said before him in the house of commons, "He has the great advantage of being able to convince his friends of most things and himself of anything." Earl Russell, the Lord John Russell of the 1832 reform bill, protested that "by his foreign policy Mr. Gladstone has tarnished the national honor, injured the national interests and lowered the national character." Bismarck clinched this by his remark to the effect that if he had served Germany as poorly as Gladstone had served England he would not dare to show his face again in his own land.

An end to the hateful political view. The private gentleman was another being. He was one of the very few men one instinctively longed to greet with an act of reverence, as he might be met in a country road or a city park, striding along with the carriage of a soldier and the grace of a fairy. The sound and fury of public discussion once left behind, our imperious dictator of Westminster mellowed into the gentlest of men. One Sunday afternoon the writer was in a street near Westminster abbey. A group of children out of the nearby slums, from three to six year olds, were trying to pull the bell of a house closed for the summer. Mr. Gladstone was gayly tripping along toward the park when he saw the youngsters at their mischief. Delightfully ridiculous was the picture of the stately premier, alone, stopping to ask what the trouble was. Some had scampered off, the rest were in a fright, but he patted the wig of the biggest girl, carefully pulled the bell till he heard it ring, then stalked away, happy in thinking he had performed an act of mercy.

CAREFULLY PULLED THE BELL.

His friend and secretary, Sir Edward Hamilton, tells how the liberated gladiator would indulge his gluttony for reading when at Hawarden. He read everything slowly and never skipped a line. He had a system of marginal marks that fixed values in his mind which came near to being omniscient. This and his native facility in mastering details account for the national enthusiasm over his annual budgets when chancellor of the exchequer. For five hours at a stretch he used to make the endless tables of statistics as charming to hear as a love story. Gladstone, like his foeman the Earl of Derby, was a lover of Homer and wrote much about the Homeric poems, but he has not been accepted as an authority. "Homer," he used to say, "was poetry making, religion making and nation making all combined." Next to the Bible, he considered them "the greatest works ever composed." Homer, Dante and Shakespeare were the greatest of all poets.

Theological study, says Hamilton, was a still greater attraction to him, Bishop Butler being his favorite church writer. He held Scott's "Bride of Lammermoor" and "Kenilworth" to be works of such genius that no other man than Aeschylus could have written the first and only Shakespeare the second. The recreations of Gladstone were few and simple, excepting his tree felling exploits, which were turned against him as emblematical of his hewing down venerable institutions. Cards he detested from his horror of their gambling tendency. He enjoyed the theater, loved music, used to be a good singer and violinist and was always ready for a game of old fashioned backgammon. His piety was innate and strongly impressed all who knew him intimately.

Animals That Bloom.

Anemones, sponges, the sea cucumbers and certain other growths which bloom and apparently behave in all respects like plants are really animals.

The petals of the anemone, resembling those of a chrysanthemum, are really tentacles to catch food and put it into the hollow tube which forms the stomach, where it is digested. The sea cucumber has a flattened body. It occasionally moves at a snail's pace over the mud or sand, digging its petals or arms into the sludge for food, to obtain which it swallows a fair proportion of mud. It has power to sting and so keeps away its enemies.

The sea lily so exactly resembles the common lily that it is difficult to realize that it is an animal and belongs to the starfish family. It has a stalk two feet long, with a disk for a body. The tentacles close round the disk, which has a mouth, and completes the deceptive likeness. They are the oldest form of animal life on earth, and their fossils are called "stone lilies."

These creatures were believed to be plants, and many pople still refuse to believe otherwise.—London Standard.

Whose Servant He Was.

An American minister was spending his sabbatical year traveling abroad. Arriving in London, he made every effort to get an intimate view of the two branches of parliament in session. Of course no stranger is allowed on the floor of the house of lords, but the minister, not knowing this and with the usual amount of American push, tried to make his way in. There is a rule, however, that servants of the various lords may be admitted to speak to their masters. Seeing the minister walking boldly in, the doorkeeper asked:

"What lord do you serve?"

"What lord?" repeated the astonished American. "The Lord Jehovah!"

For a moment the doorkeeper hesitated and then admitted him. Turning to an assistant standing near, he said:

"He must mean one of those poor Scotch lairds."—Boston Record.

Optimistic.

"My wife is a very optimistic woman."

"Indeed she is."

"Noticed it, have you?"

"Yes; when I was talking with her yesterday she said that if you ever died she, would marry again because she felt sure that she could do better next time."—Houston Post.

Despair and Despondency

No one but a woman can tell the story of the suffering, the despair, and the despondency endured by women who carry a daily burden of ill-health and pain because of disorders and derangements of the delicate and important organs that are distinctly feminine. The tortures so bravely endured completely upset the nerves if long continued.

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is a positive cure for weakness and disease of the feminine organism.

IT MAKES WEAK WOMEN STRONG, SICK WOMEN WELL.

It allays inflammation, heals ulceration and soothes pain. It tones and builds up the nerves. It fits for wifehood and motherhood. Honest medicine dealers sell it, and have nothing to urge upon you as "just as good."

It is non-secret, non-alcoholic and has a record of forty years of cures. Ask Your Neighbors. They probably know of some of its many cures.

If you want a book that tells all about woman's diseases, and how to cure them at home, send 21 one-cent stamps to Dr. Pierce to pay cost of mailing only, and he will send you a free copy of his great thousand-page illustrated Common Sense Medical Adviser—revised, up-to date edition, in paper covers. MRS. FREDERICK FERGUSON

Died at her home on West Chicago St., in this city at mid-night, Wednesday, Aug. 25, The spirit of Mrs. Frederick A. Furgeson passed peacefully, and almost without warning, from its earthly to its heavenly home.

Frances Anna Wood was born in Adrian, Jan. 27, 1848. She was the youngest of three children of Harry and Hester Wood. She was reared and educated in Adrian, receiving her A. B. degree from Adrian college in 1869. Later, she also graduated from the State Normal school at Ypsilanti. Returning to Adrian, she taught several years in the city schools.

On Oct. 1, 1879, she was married to Frederick A. Ferguson, becoming a most devoted mother to his motherless little ones—Emma, now Mrs. White of Van Couver, B. C., and Frank of Macon.

Mrs. Ferguson was the mother of four children: Lee James, of Detroit; W. Ross, of Adrian; Margaret Cynthia and Frances Anna, of Tecumseh, all of whom with their father, were at home when the change came.

Besides her immediate family, she was survived by three little grandchildren of Detroit, and two brothers, Noah Wood of Birdsall, and Chas. Wood of Iowa.

Funeral services were held at the family residence, Saturday at 2 o'clock, conducted by her friend and former pastor, Rev. Blanche Young, of Holly, Mich., assisted by Rev. John Wirt Dunning. Elsworth Ellis sang the hymns of her selection, "The Lord is my Shepherd," and "Nearer, Draw Nearer."

The remains were taken to Adrian and laid to rest by the side of her father and mother, amid a profusion of beautiful flowers, the gifts of many friends whose deep sympathy they silently but eloquently bespoke.

Everyone came and all helped to ease the burden of the bereaved family as opportunity offered; and once more the heart of all Tecumseh beat as that of a great family for its stricken ones.

This strong sweet life that has been lived among us, is its own best eulogy. She was a true mother, no words can add to that tribute.

For many months she faced with calm courage, the inevitable, fatal out-come of her malady—but she never burdened her family by reference to it. Often however, as her hands were busy with some work of love for family or friends, they would overhear her repeating in clear steady tones:

Sunset and Evening Star—
And one clear call for me;
And may there be no moaning of the bar,
When I put forth to sea.

Twilight and evening bell,
And after that—the dark!
And may there be no sadness or farewell
When I depart.

For tho' from out this bourne of Time and Place—
The flood may bear me far—
I hope to see my Pilot face to face,
When I have crossed the bar.

There is nothing that will convince a lawyer except evidence.

Now, here is some rather startling evidence of a simple home cure for eczema which convinced one lawyer, F. C. Entriken, attorney at Moline, Ill. He tells how oil of wintergreen compound mixed with thymol and glycerine, as in D. D. D. Prescription, cured him in 80 days after 33 years of suffering.

"For 32 years," writes Attorney Entriken, "I was troubled with eczema, scabs all over my face, body and head. I could run a hair brush over my body and the floor would be covered with scales enough to fill a basket. I tried everything—salves, internal medicine, X-Ray—all without result."

"Just a month ago I was induced to try D. D. D. Prescription. The itch was relieved instantly; so I continued. It is just a month now and I am completely cured. I have not a particle of itch and the scales have dropped off."

"I can only say again cure discovered. I am now starting all eczema sufferer on the right track."

Cure after cure has been brought to our attention and always that instant relief from the awful itch.

FRANZ LISZT.

Reminiscences of this Remarkable Musician

By PROF. JAMES GILL.

(Concluded from last issue.)

After tuning up, the Trio was begun, with Liszt playing the piano part. He read the music as if he had known it all his life, and we sat spell bound, and scarcely seemed to breathe. At times his fingers glided over the key-board with lightning speed, and then again in the loud passages his tone was simply immense, while his pianissimos were like the most delicate whispers one could imagine.

Oh, it was no wonder I now thought, how this man had magnetized the whole world with his playing, and I felt as I sat there entranced, that I was listening to the greatest player that had ever lived. When the Trio ended, we could not contain ourselves, but sprung to our feet and shouted, bravo! bravo!

Liszt disclaimed any credit for what he had done, and we left the theatre feeling we had had the greatest desire of our hearts gratified, namely: WE HAD HEARD LISZT PLAY. That same afternoon Liszt conducted the Mass in D, in the largest church in Weimer, and here again appeared his wonderful personality in doing something that had never been done before. He conducted the Mass without music or even a baton. He stood before an orchestra of 80 men and 500 singers and led them from begining to end—FROM MEMORY—using his long arms as a baton.

Next day the Leipzig Conservatorium students resolved to serenade Liszt, and after a rehearsal of a selection from Wagner's Meistersinger, we walked quietly to his home, (given to him by the Grand Duke) and stole into his front garden, late in the evening, and with torch in one hand, and music in the other, we sang for the great Abbe Franz Liszt. He came out almost immediately, and with a beautiful smile on his face, listened with the greatest interest. After we had finished he thanked us with the kindest words in his heart. He gave us good advice, telling us always to keep the brightest ideals of music before our minds and then raising his long arms over us he blessed us and bade us all good night. We all felt very, very happy that night to think we had been blessed by the greatest musician of his age.

In looking back on the years that have passed since that festival (1870), I am inclined to believe that in this festival, Liszt achieved the greatest triumph of his life, for he was surrounded by the most eminent musicians of his time, and acknowledged by them all as their peer.

I have only a little more to add to these reminiscences. The last time I saw Liszt, he was walking on the promenade of Leipzig, with Tausig by his side. He had come from Weimer with Tausig, his favorite pupil, and Tausig was on his way to Baden Baden, for his health for some time had been very poor, and he hoped the waters would restore him to his usual vigor. Who knows what they talked about, as they walked together, but it was the last talk the two would ever have in this world. Tausig went to his hotel that night and Liszt went back to Weimer. Three days later Tausig died of typhoid fever, and Liszt returned to Leipzig, a broken hearted man, to take charge of his friend's remains.

The third article of this series will be on Student life in Leipzig.

SUFFOCATED IN A TRUNK.

Playing hide and seek in her home with several companions during the absence of her parents last Thursday, Viola, the five-year-old daughter of Edward Parks, who lives at Clark lake, twelve miles south of Jackson, met her death by suffocating in a trunk. The child was missed by her playmates and a search was begun. In the attic they found an old trunk and, lifting the lid, discovered the body. The girl had crawled into it, it is believed, and shut the lid, which locked.

She was five years old Thursday, and the mother had gone to Jackson to buy birthday presents. Her father conducted a restaurant on the lake shore.

Mr. and Mrs. Alfred James and two daugeters, Helen and Winnifred, are here this week, enroute from Sand lake, where they have been spending the summer, to their home in Detroit.

Why She Learned French.

"I had a new type of pupil last week," said a high priced French teacher, who has the reputation of taking infinite pains in the matter of pronunciation. "A young woman came in and wanted to arrange for a few lessons which would drill her into repeating a few phrases to absolute perfection. I thought it a strange request, but presumed she was going to take part in some theatricals and that the part required some short French phrases. What was my surprise when she quite frankly told me that she was a music teacher and almost all of her pupils spoke French fluently and that their pet dogs understood nothing else. To her pupils she could speak English, but to the pet dog it was impossible. She had her own list of phrases she wanted to learn. I drilled her on 'Good morning, dear little dog,' and 'Goodby, darling Bijou,' and several other expressions of equal importance until she spoke like a native. She also learned how to say 'Lie down' and 'Good dog' and a few endearing pleasantries. She was an apt pupil, and we had good times over the lessons, as we both saw the absurd side. It was the first time I'd ever heard of pet dogs to whom French was, as one might say, a 'native tongue,' but I've inquired since and find it's so."—New York Sun.

Cupid and the Cook.

When a stately cook showed up at the same employment agency for the sixth time on the lookout for a new situation the manager lost patience. Said she:

"What is the matter? That was a good place I found for you last time. Why are you leaving?"

The cook looked sheepish for a moment, then tossed her head, prepared to brazen it out.

"I'm going away," she said, "because I have no chance there. I've got acquainted with every clerk and every delivery man in the neighborhood, and it's plain that none of them means business. I can't afford to waste any more time there. I want to go into a neighborhood where I can get acquainted with a new set, where there may be something doing. I'm all alone in the world, you see, and I've got to look out for my chances the same as yourself."

The manager gasped, but promised to find a situation on more promising ground.—New York Globe.

Here is the way the papers will write up weddings ten years hence: "The bride looked very well in a traveling dress, but all eyes were centered upon the groom. He wore a dark suit that fitted his form perfectly and in his dainty gloved hands he carried a small rose. His curly hair was beautifully done, and a delicate odor of hair oil of the best quality floated down the aisle as he passed. The young people will miss him now that he is married. He is loved by all for his many accomplishments, his tender grace and winning ways. The bride commands a good salary as bookkeeper and the groom will miss none of the luxuries to which he has been accustomed. A crowd of pretty men saw him off at the depot."—Ex.

IT WAS A CORKER.

THAT RIDE FROM ADRIAN TO THE JUNCTION SUNDAY NIGHT, A POSER.

A Caboose Experience We Shall not Soon Forget. It lingers in our Memory Still.

Not long since, in order to fill certain agreements at Tecumseh early Monday morning, we were compelled to take the 8:15 p. m., train out of Adrian. Holy smoke! The train consisted of one engine and a single caboose. For convenience and comfort, the caboose was supplied with a very few non-upholstered chairs, two or three bunks or benches, together with an upper deck upon which three or four fellows were perched, their legs hanging over, while their old muddy boots were playing the devil with ladies' picture hats sitting underneath. Being a little early we had managed to secure an old splint-bottom rocker, all the rest of the seats being taken while quite a few remained standing. Just as the train was about to start a lady with her little one in her arms came aboard and as a matter of courtesy, we resigned old splint-bottom to her and sat upon our feet all the way to the Junction. Golly, but we were glad that the distance did not extend more than the four miles.

Electric lights! Oh, no. About the only light furnished was an old smoky lantern, borne in the hands of the conductor while collecting the fares—full fares mind you, and it seemed to be a little difficult for him to distinguish the date or destination of the tickets.

Now, when the Lake Shore was merged into the New York Central, we naturally concluded that even the freight trains would be provided with Buget and Observation cars—but narry a Buffet.

Of all the outfits for the accommodation of the public, that "caboose" business between A—— and the Junction Sunday nights, is a Holy Kindergarten. We do not mean to complain—we are easily satisfied—but such an outfit is certainly an after-Christmas greeting.

We have always held to the Lake Shore as our favorite, but if she continues the caboose as a passenger element—she is progressing the wrong way, and we will be obliged to make our return trip across lots and on foot. Good bye old "caboose"—good bye. X.

Perhaps the most famous Indian pueblo and communal building is at Taos, N. M., which gives added interest to the following item from the Santa Fe New Mexican: "Taos again has an English newspaper. It is the Taos Valley News. Taos has the distinction of having had the first newspaper in New Mexico, El Crepusculo, published by Padre Martinez. Since those days, the picturesque old city has had a varied newspaper history. Paper after paper has been established, both in English and Spanish, and departed in short time for lack of support until Jose Montaner made a success of La Revista de Taos. The fact that Mr. Montaner also is publisher of The Taos Valley News, the first number of which has been just received, augurs well for its permanency. J. Wight Giddings is the editor. He has made the first number a most interesting and attractive one."

HOW TO CURE SKIN DISEASES.

The germs and their poisons which cause the disease must be drawn to the surface of the skin and destroyed. ZEMO positively cures Eczema, Pimples, Blackheads, Dandruff, Itching Piles and every form of skin or scalp disease. The funeral occurred Sunday afternoon at 3:30. Burial in Jackson.

AMUSEMENTS.

Miss Myrtle Hebard who will be featured by the American Amusement Co. this season under the management of George Fletcher while a very young woman has had a widely varied experience in musical comedy and musical shows. Starting as a chorus girl in a number of stock productions at Delmar Theatre, Mo., was only a few weeks before she became understudy to Miss Stella Tracy, the soubrette and on Miss Tracy's sudden illness was called upon to assume the part of "Violet" in the "Belle of New York." This she did so well that at the close of the stock season she was engaged to play the "Reflection" in the "Land of Nod" the original production. Following the "Land of Nod" came a season of vaudeville with James Brockman, the well known singer. Then a season as principal soubrette with the big production of "Buster Brown" then another season of vaudeville as the song and dance team of "Devere and Hebard." At the close of their dates on the big circuit Miss Hebard was engaged as principal soubrette for the city company of "Ma's New Husband" and was the hit of the show, she winning the praise of press and public by her clever work. Her singing and dancing being specially mentioned. This season Miss Hebard has a play that is specially adapted to her talents and as Bonnie in Frivolous Bonnie promises to be the best and most successful season of her career. The management have surrounded Miss Hebard with a company of clever musical farce comedy players and with a complete scenic equipment, handsome costumes, pretty girls, tuneful music of the whistling kind, it promises to be one of the really delightful laughing successes of the comedy season. Bradley opera house one night. Tuesday, Aug. 31.

"I could not work nor get about," he writes, "and the doctors did me no good, but, after using Dr. King's New Discovery three weeks, I feel like a new man, and can do good work again." For weak, sore or diseased lungs, Coughs and Colds, Hemorrhages, Hay Fever, LaGrippe, Asthma or any Bronchial affection it stands unrivaled. Price 50c and $1.00. Trial Bottle free. Sold and guaranteed by C. A. Wright & on.

PEOPLE OF TECUMSEH

Here is what a resident says in praise of Mi-o-na, the mighty cure.

"For about two years I had a severe time from stomach trouble. The malady got me nervous and I could not sleep. Hearing Mi-o-na highly spoken of, I procured a treatment and after a short time the trouble left me. I can and have recommended the use of Mi-o-na, which is surely a wonderful remedy." Walter R. Eberly, Oneida St., Tecumseh, Mich., Oct. 16, 1908.

Mi-o-na cures dyspepsia. There isn' any doubt about it. Thousands of just such testimonials as the above from every city and town in America prove it. Mi-o-na does not digest the food in your stomach, but in a few days it tones up the walls of the stomach and makes it strong enough to digest its own food.

Digesters never cured dyspepsia and never will; they may help a tired stomach do its work temporarily, but that is all. Mi-o-na tablets are sold by C. A. Wright & Son for 50 cents a large box. And remember that Mi-o-na is guaranteed by C. A. Wright & Son to cure dyspepsia, sea or car sickness, vomiting of pregnancy, and all stomach ills, or money back.

THE CHILDREN LIKE IT

KENNEDY'S LAXATIVE COUGH SYRUP

August time tells on the nerves. But that spiritless, no ambition feeling can be easily and quickly altered by taking what is known to druggists everywhere as Dr. Shoop's Restorative. Within 48 hours after beginning to use the Restorative improvement will be noticed. Of course, full health will not immediately return. The gain, however, will surely follow. When a girl is going away on a visit the first thing she packs in her trunk is her photograph, in case she should become engaged.

A. S. Nusbaum, Batesville, Ind., writes: "Last year I suffered for three months with a summer cold so distressing that it interfered with my business. I had many of the symptoms of hay fever and a doctor's prescription did not reach my case and I took several medicines which seemed only to aggravate it. Fortunately I insisted upon having Foley's Honey and Tar. It quickly cured me. My wife has since used Foley's Honey and Tar with the same success."

M'HARG RESIGNS.

Assistant Secretary of Department of Commerce and Labor Quits.

Beverly, Mass., Aug. 30.—The resignation of Ormsby McHarg, assistant secretary of the department of commerce and labor, will be accepted. Secretary Nagel, head of the department, has had an extended conference with President Taft and discussed with the chief executive the question of a successor to Mr. McHarg. Secretary Nagel received a letter from the assistant secretary, saying that he must adhere to his first intention of remaining in the department only for a period of six months. This term of duty will expire Sept. 4, and by that time Secretary Nagel hopes to be ready to announce the choice of a new assistant.

Mr. McHarg announced some time ago that he soon would leave the government service to engage in private business.

It is understood Mr. McHarg's resignation does not come as a result of his recent attack on the Roosevelt policy as applied to forest reservation.

Cough Caution

Never, positively never politick with your lungs. If you cough—even from a simple cold only—you should always heal, soothe, and ease the irritated bronchial tubes. Don't blindly suppose it with a stupefying potion. It's suicide! Dr. Shoop has constantly warned people not to take cough mixtures or prescriptions containing Opium, Chloroform, or similar poisons. And now—a little late though—Congress says "Put it on the label, if poisons are in your Cough Mixture." Good! Very good! Hereafter, in this very respect, mothers, and others, should insist on having Dr. Shoop's Cough Cure. No poison marks on Dr. Shoop's labels—and none in the medicine, else it must by law be on the label. And it's not only safe, but it is said to be by those that know it best, a truly remarkable cough remedy. Take no chance with, particularly with your children. Insist on having Dr. Shoop's Cough Cure. Compare carefully the Dr. Shoop package with other kind note the difference. No poison in the Shoop! You can always be on the safe side by demanding

The Sinister Chameleon.

A chameleon which had been a long while in a cage had become so entirely the color of the wood that it was not easy to distinguish it. I placed it among plants and on the grass, but it did not turn green again, and then I left it on a vase of flowers, in the center of which I placed a tall, stiff spray. Soon the creature found its way to the very summit, and there it remained, as "still as death," until a fly happened that way. Then there was a very slight movement, a click was heard, and the chameleon resumed its silent observation as if no fly had been swallowed.

There is something cunning and weird, almost sinister, in the expression of that very small eye in the center or apex of its mobile globe, now turned upward, now downward, so quietly, yet so watchfully, rarely the two eyes looking the same way. The chameleon must surely be endowed with duality of brain, for it certainly must take in two ideas at once through its two eyes, or why should it move both so ceaselessly in contrary directions? Motionless is the animal hour after hour, the eye being the only sign of life it displays. The one at the top of a spray in the vase of flowers remained in the same position day after day, only throwing out its tongue to catch a fly when one flew by and otherwise moving only its ever restless eyes.—Exchange.

HARRIMAN IS MUCH IMPROVED

Authentic Report Comes From His Chaplain.

Arden, N. Y., Aug. 30.—"Mr. Harriman is better; you may say that Mrs. Harriman and all of us are very happy over the steady improvement in his health since he came to Arden House. So far as I know this is the first authorized statement made by any member of the Harriman household, and I am most solicitous that it should be printed precisely as I present it."

The foregoing statement was made by the Rev. J. Holmes McGuiness, E. H. Harriman's personal chaplain, who spoke conservatively and with authority after dining with the Harriman family and talking with its head.

"My position in this matter is very sharply defined," said Mr. McGuiness. "I am Mr. Harriman's personal chaplain. If you think an announcement as positive as I can give you would put an end to sensational rumors I will do what I can to help you, and I speak as a Christian clergyman—all that I can tell you is that Mr. Harriman is better now and that we are all very happy over it."

All that has been heard here seems to echo the cheerful opinion of the Rev. Dr. McGuiness.

TRAIN HITS AUTO.

Five of Its Occupants Are Killed—Accident Near St. Louis.

St. Louis, Mo., Aug. 30.—Five persons, four of them closely related, were killed when an automobile in which they were riding was struck by a fast passenger train of the Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific railway, west of Vigus station, St. Louis county.

All were residents of St. Louis. The dead:

Theodore Witte, 2324 Whittemore place.

Theodore Witte, Jr., aged three years.

Mrs. Carl Klinge, 1714 Missouri avenue.

Miss Halcyon Campbell, 2321 Whittemore place.

Frederick O. Witte, 5335 Vernor avenue.

The two men were brothers and officials of the Witte Hardware company, one of the oldest mercantile establishments of the city. Mrs. Klinge was their sister-in-law.

The party had been at Creve Coeur lake, a resort twelve miles west of the city, and were speeding homeward when killed. Theodore Witte was driving the machine, with his brother beside him. The locomotive struck the automobile squarely.

STARVED INTO STRIKING.

Federation Official Makes Startling Report Concerning Conditions at McKees Rocks.

Washington, Aug. 30.—That the laborers employed by the Pressed Steel Car company at McKees Rocks, Pa., the scene of the present strike, are not paid the share to which they are entitled under the protective tariff system, is asserted by Secretary Morrison of the American Federation of Labor. The charge is embodied in a request forwarded by Mr. Morrison to Secretary Nagel for an investigation into conditions at McKees Rocks.

Mr. Morrison takes the position that as the company is enabled by the protective system to charge much higher prices for its products than otherwise it would receive, the government is under obligation to make inquiry for the protection of the laborers.

Pointing out that the strikers are aliens and are not members of any labor organization, Mr. Morrison declares that their wages have been "reduced by the officers of the Pressed Steel Car company to the extent that in sheer desperation they decided to cease work until their many grievances, which they could no longer bear, and a higher wage rate was paid."

COOK HAS REACHED THE POLE

Tells How He Planted Flag There.

HIS ACCOUNT GRAPHIC

Endured Great Hardships to Reach Coveted Goal.

ESQUIMAUX HIS COMPANIONS

Success Comes to Intrepid Explorer on April 21, 1908.

He Made Start From Greenland Shore on Feb. 19, 1908—Says Winds Were Worst Foe Encountered—All Conditions Were at Their Best to Make the Attempt a Success—Feeling of Intense Solitude Fell Upon Them While Standing at Pole.

Brussels, Sept. 2.—The observatory has received the following telegram dated Lerwick, Shetland Island:

"Reached North Pole April 21, 1908. Discovered land far north. Returned to Copenhagen by steamer Hans Egede. (Signed)
"FREDERICK COOK."

The American officials at the observatory state the dispatch is surely authentic and that the North Pole has been reached for the first time, and by an American.

Paris, Sept. 2.—The Paris edition of the New York Herald this morning publishes a signed statement from Dr. Frederick Cook, which is dated "Hans Egede, Lerwick, Wednesday," on his experiences in the Arctic regions.

"After a prolonged fight with famine and frost," says Dr. Cook, "we have at last succeeded in reaching the North Pole. A new highway, with an interesting strip of animated nature, has been explored and big game haunts located which will delight sportsmen and extend the Esquimaux horizon.

"Land has been discovered on which rest the earth's norternmost rocks. A triangle of 30,000 square miles has been cut out of the terrestial unknown. The expedition was the outcome of a summer cruise in the Arctic seas on the schooner Bradley, which arrived at the limits of navigation in Smith sound late in August, 1907. Here conditions were found to launch a venture to the pole. J. R. Bradley liberally supplied from his vessel suitable provisions for local use. My own equipment for emergenies served well for every purpose of Arctic travel. Many Esquimaux had gathered on the Greenland shores at Annatoak for the winter bear hunt. Immense quantities of meat had been collected, and about the camp were plenty of strong dogs.

Lucky Combination.

"The combination was lucky, for there was good material for equipment. All that was required was conveniently arranged for at a point only 700 miles from the Boreal center. A house and workshop were built of packing boxes by willing hands, and this northernmost tribe of 256 people set themselves to the problem of devising a suitable outfit. Before the end of the long winter night we were ready for the enterprize and plans had matured to force a new route over Grinnell land northwest along its west coast out onto the Polar sea.

"The campaign opened with four scouting parties being sent over the American shore to explore the way and seek the game haunts. Their mission was only partly successful because of the storms. At sunrise of 1908 (Feb. 19) the main expedition embarked on its voyage to the pole. It consisted of eleven men and 103 dogs drawing eleven heavily laden sledges.

Rush Westward.

"The expedition left the Greenland shore and pushed westward over the troubled ice of Smith sound. The gloom of the long night was relieved only by a few hours of daylight. The chill of winter was felt at its worst. As we crossed the heights of Ellesmore sound to the Pacific slope the temperature sank to minus 83 centigrade. Several dogs were frozen, and the men suffered severely, but we soon found the game trails, along which the way was easy. We forced through Nansen sound to Landsend. In this march we secured 101 musk oxen, seven bears and 335 hares. We pushed out into the Polar sea from the southern point of Herbert island on March 18. Six Esquimaux returned from here.

"With but four men and forty-six dogs moving supplies for eighty days, the crossing of the circum-polar pack was begun. Three days later two other Esquimaux, forming the last supporting party, returned, and the trials had now been reduced by the survival of the fittest. The two best men and twenty-six dogs were picked for the final effort.

Goal Lay Ahead.

"There before us, in an unknown line of 460 miles, lay our goal. The first days provided long marches, and we made encouraging progress. A big lead which separated the land from the ice of the Central pack was crossed without delay. The low temperature was persistent, and the winds made life a torture.

"For several days after the sight of known land was lost the overcast sky prevented an accurate determination of our position. On March 30 the horizon was partly cleared, and new land was discovered. Our observations gave our position as latitude 84.47, longitude 85.36. Our main mission did not permit a detour for the purpose of exploring the coast. Here was seen the last signs of solid earth; beyond there was nothing stable to be seen.

"We advanced steadily over the monotony of moving sea ice and now found ourselves beyond the range of all life—neither footprints of bears nor the blowholes of seals were detected. Even miscroscopic creatures of the deep were no longer under us. The extreme cold compelled physical action. Thus, day after day, our weary legs spread over big distances."

Continuing, Dr. Cook gave further description of the hardships encountered. In relating the reaching of the goal—the pole—he gave an exceedingly graphic account. He said:

Pole is Reached.

"On April 21 we had reached 89 degrees, 59 minutes 46 seconds. The pole was in sight. We covered the remaining fourteen seconds and made a few observations. I told Etukishook and Ahwelsh (the accompanying Esquimaux) that we had reached the 'great nail.' Everywhere we turned was south. With a single step we could pass from one side of the earth to the other; from mid-day to midnight. At last the flag floated to the breezes at the pole. It was April 21, 1908. The temperature was minus 38 centigrade, barometer 29.83, latitude 90; as for the longitude, it was nothing, as it was but a word.

"Although crazy with joy, our spirits began to undergo a feeling of weariness. Next day, after taking all our observations, a sentiment of intense solitude penetrated us while we looked at the horizon. Was it possible that this desolate region, without a patch of earth, had aroused the ambition of so many men for so many centuries? There was no ground, only an immensity of dazzling white snow, no living being, no point to break the frightful monotony.

"On April 23 we started on our return."

RETURNING TO COPENHAGEN

Report He Has Discovered Pole Given Full Credence by Danes.

Copenhagen, Sept. 2.—That Dr. Frederick Cook, the American explorer, reached the North Pole in his expedition which has just ended, was given full credence here, although details are lacking of his intrepid dash across the ice.

A message has been received at the colonial offices via Lerwick, Shetland islands, announcing that Dr. Cook had reached the pole April 21, 1908. This dispatch was sent by a Greenland official on board the Danish government steamer Hans Egede, which passed Lerwick at noon Wednesday en route for Denmark, and read as follows:

"We have on board the American traveler, Dr. Cook, who reached the North Pole, April 21, 1908. Dr. Cook arrived at Upernavik in May of 1909 from Cape York. The Esquimaux of Cape York confirm Dr. Cook's story of his journey."

Director Ryberg, head of the Greenland administration bureau, says that he did not expect to receive any further details of Dr. Cook's achievement before the arrival of the Hans Egede at this port, which probably would be Saturday afternoon. The vessel will make no stops on the voyage from Lerwick to Copenhagen.

Director Ryberg proceeded to the American legation and informed the minister, Dr. Maurice F. Egan, that Dr. Cook had reached the North Pole. The announcement caused the greatest enthusiasm throughout the city, and many Americans called at the legation to congratulate the minister. Among these was Alexander Kouta of New York, a warm personal friend of Dr. Cook, who said that he had believed the explorer had perished long ago.

The noted explorer, Commander Hovgoord, leader of various North Pole expeditions, was convinced that the message that Dr. Cook had reached the pole was true, but remarked that it was strange that no mention was made in the cable as to whether or not there is land at the pole. It is the intention of the people of Copenhagen, on Dr. Cook's arrival, to give him a most enthusiastic reception.

THINKS OF WIFE FIRST.

Dr. Cook Sends Her a Message From Lerwick.

New York, Sept. 2.—"Successful; well. Address Copenhagen.
"FRED."

Full of meaning if "successful" were interpreted to indicate that he had reached the North Pole, the foregoing cable message, exasperating in its briefness, has been received in New York from Dr. Frederick A. Cook, the American explorer, whom the latest table advices credit with having accomplised what no man ever did. The message was sent not to any scientific society nor to any of his associates interested in his expedition from a scientific viewpoint, but to his wife, who has been counting the days and hours and praying for his safety since his departure from this city on July 4, 1907.

But by chance Mrs. Cook was not at her Brooklyn home, but spending the summer at Harpswell, Me., so the dispatch was received by Dr. R. T. Davidson, a personal friend of the explorer, who made its contents known, then flashed the good news on to Mrs. Cook. Brief as it was it was the first news that she had from her intrepid husband since March 17, 1908, when he wrote from Cape Hubbard, on the edge of the Polar ice sea, on the northwest side of Ellesmere land.

No official action has as yet been taken by the Arctic club, the Explorers' club or the American Geographical society, for none of these associations had received any formal notification of Dr. Cook's success.

ROBERT E. PEARY.

Commander Peary is somewhere in the Arctic ice fields, seeking the North Pole. His expedition went out in 1908. A relief expedition was sent out a few weeks ago to search for him and for Dr. Cook. Cook's first Arctic experience was gained as surgeon of a previous expedition.

OPEN HOURS EXTENDED.

Grand Rapids Saloons Must Close at Twelve, However.

Grand Rapids, Mich., Sept. 2.—The council, by a vote of 13 to 9, Wednesday night fixed the hours for saloons to open at 6 o'clock in the morning and close at midnight.

The "drys" fought to make the hours 7 to 11. Mayor Ellis signed the ordinance at once. It cannot take effect for thirty days because of the referendum clause in the charter.

If 12 per cent of the voters petition the ordinance must be submitted to a vote of the people. It is not likely the Anti-Saloon league will ask a referendum, being content to center its efforts on the local option fight coming off next spring.

LAW LIBRARY BURNS

West Wing of Toronto Parliament Building Destroyed.

Toronto, Ont., Sept. 2.—The west wing of the parliament building here has been completely destroyed by a fire. The loss to the building is about $10,000, fully insured, but the fine Mowat law library, one of the best collections in the dominion, is a total loss with no insurance.

The cabinet council was in session when the fire broke out. Premier Whitney, in his shirt sleeves, directed the preliminary fire fighting.

LIKELY BRING HER BACK TO DETROIT

"Flying Rollers" Want Madame Diss de Bar.

Detroit, Mich., Sept. 2.—Ann O'Delia Diss de Bar, head of the weird Mahatma cult that has provided New York with a sensation, and former leader of the "Flying Rollers" of Detroit and Windsor, may return to the scene of her former "triumphs." If she does, however, the manner of her re-entry will be much different than that of her first appearance. It will be in charge of detectives from the central station.

The matter of preferring charges

"WHITE MAHATMA" AND "CUPBEARER."
[The famous Ann O'Delia Diss De Bar has been rediscovered under the name of Ah-Diva Ved-Ya.]

against "Mother Elinor," the name under which Diss de Bar went here, has been taken up seriously in the local colony of "Flying Rollers." The final decision has been left to John R. Swinden, the leader, who was one of the most humiliated when the seeress vanished into thin air, covering with the same cloak of invisibility David Livingstone MacKay, the suave gentleman who in the absence of Prince Michael conducted the affairs of the colony and some thousands of dollars in money and jewels.

The only question that stands in the way of a determination to prosecute the former leader is—has she any means to repay? It is the belief that Mother Elinor, as the chief of the Mahatmas, was not long enough in New York to mulct her followers, although she, admittedly, did a quick job here.

FAIR IS OPENED.

Governor Fires First Gun by Wireless From Lansing.

Detroit, Mich., Sept. 2.—At 7 o'clock this morning Governor Warner sent a wireless flash from Lansing, which, when caught at the new receiving tower at the fair grounds, ignited a cannon, and its booming formally opened the state fair for its customary run of nine days.

That the fair will be the biggest success than ever before is positively assured by the officials of the association.

"We have one of the most beautiful fair plants to look at this year that a man could ask to see," said President Postal. "It alone is worth going out to look at. We have spent $20,000 in improvements this season. In ten years, if the present idea of steady improving is kept up, Detroit will have at its door a superb park and exposition ground."

CUTS DOWN EXPENSES.

Chief Neil Lets Deputy Oil Inspector Sprague Go.

Owosso, Mich., Sept. 2.—Otto L. Sprague, for the past six years deputy oil inspector for Livingston and Shiawassee counties, has been relieved of his duties by Chief Oil Inspector Neal. Alton M. Birmingham, who for five years has handled the affairs of the office in Clinton and Ionia counties, has been assigned to the vacated section.

Chief Neal in relieving Sprague stated that his work was entirely satisfactory, but that the expense of the department had to be cut.

M. C. R. R. Seeks Bond Approval.

Lansing, Mich., Sept. 2.—The Michigan Central railroad will appear before the railroad commission today to secure the approval of the board for the issue of $4,500,000 bonds in accodance with the new law which went into effect Wednesday which makes it necessary for all public utilities organizations to have their bond issue approved.

Foley's Kidney Remedy will do the same for you.

Some people never run into debt; they jump into it.

Many people delude themselves by saying "It will wear away," when they notice symptoms of kidney and bladder trouble. This is a mistake. A RIVAL'S DOWNFALL

Out of Bitterness the Lovers Snatched Happiness.

By ESTHER AINSLEE.

[Copyright, 1909, by Associated Literary Press.]

If Dalzell's store advertised a sale of silk dress goods in the Monday issue of the Rosemont Banner it was a certainty that the paper's Tuesday night number would contain an ad. from Thompson's store across the street telling of bargains in satins, with a side line of embroideries, at which Rosemont smiled appreciatively and reaped the benefit.

The town was proud of the proprietors of the two leading dry goods stores, for most of the young men left for the adjacent big city when it came time to make their way in the world, but Malcolm Dalzell and Lewis Thompson within a year of each other settled down to make a living in their home town.

Perhaps it were better to say Rosemont was proud of their enterprise, for Lewis Thompson was not the type to inspire affection in the hearts of his townsmen. A man cannot be blamed for lack of magnetism and an attractive nature, but nevertheless he suffers for it, and Thompson possessed besides these drawbacks a hot headed, quarrelsome disposition and a theory that every man had a right to look out for himself to the exclusion of any possible rights of others.

His aggressiveness made him enemies where Malcolm Dalzell won friends by his mere cheerfulness and diplomacy. But each flourished on his own side of the street.

Not only were they rivals in business, but from the days of carrying schoolbooks there had seemingly been but one girl in the world in the eyes of each, Milly Wainwright, with the waves of soft brown hair and eyes that matched, with the sweet voice and appealing little ways.

Shrewd people even said the reason both boys stayed in Rosemont was that each was afraid to leave the other a clear field with Milly, who had never shown any preference between the two.

Lewis Thompson was a different man with her. Her mere presence smoothed and softened the aggressive young business man, and she smiled incredulously when stories of his cold shrewdness and overreaching deals came to her ears.

Yet unknown to herself Malcolm Dalzell occupied a place in her life from which no one could dislodge him. Milly was in the delicious and dreamy state of indecision which a girl always prolongs unwittingly. Life was sweet to her, and even the growing wildness of her younger brother, Dick, which was aging her father and mother, had not power to do more than depress her momentarily.

"It's only because Dick is young," she told her mother half indignantly. "He will see the mistake of his ways before he ever does anything really wrong. Why, Dick wouldn't be really bad. It's absurd!"

She was great chums with the handsome eighteen-year-old brother, and because she did have faith in him the boy turned to her always in his rare spells of repentance. At present he had gone to work in a bank in the next town, six miles distant.

The Rosemont Banner had two columns of description, speculation and denunciation when Thompson's store was robbed. Malefactors were rare in Rosemont, and the night watchman's work was perfunctory, but nevertheless Lewis Thompson discovered a back window pried open and nearly $200 worth of silks and laces missing.

Three weeks later he was reduced to explosive rage by the discovery that again his store had been entered. This time a hundred dollars' worth of goods vanished. In his wrath the owner of the store telegraphed for a city detective and established a night patrol for the block. The city detective looked important, smoked good cigars of the leading citizens, who wanted to tell him their theories as to the robbery, had a very pleasant time and departed with dark hints as to future developments.

"At any rate," Lewis Thompson said vigorously, "with Maloney on hand as a watchman the thief won't get another chance!"

"It's hard luck, Lewis," sympathized Malcolm Dalzell with his business rival. Thompson regarded him coldly. Of late Milly had been in Dalzell's company more than he liked.

"Thanks," he said. "It's funny the thief doesn't attack your premises, Malcolm. I don't understand such faforitism unless it's because he knows where the best goods are!" He smiled somewhat maliciously as he made the fling.

"Superiority has its drawbacks, then," Dalzell said quietly, holding his temper. He understood Thompson's grudge against him and could afford to be magnanimous, for he had begun to cherish a certainty that he had distanced Thompson with Milly. For her he would endure much.

Lewis Thompson did not relax his vigilance as the weeks went by. One Thursday night, as he made one of his personal trips of inspection, about 1 o'clock he started for his store on a run after finding the watchman, Maloney, knocked senseless at the corner. And he was rewarded. The revolver in his hand covered the dark form of the man standing at the rear window with the faint gleam of a dark lantern on the floor beside him.

Yet even Lewis Thompson was speechless when after his trembling fingers had turned on the rear light he saw the man before him was none other than Malcolm Dalzell, who stood white and quiet facing his captor.

"I—I can't comprehend," Thompson almost stammered, still covering the marauder with his revolver. "You—of all people!"

The man before him moistened his lips. "Lewis," he said at last, "will you believe me if I say, in spite of this, I'm not the robber—that it's just unfortunate circumstances that have brought this about? Will you?"

Lewis Thompson recovered his coolness, and he laughed shortly, sarcastically, glancing significantly at the dark lantern, the fallen jimmy, the goods piled at hand for removal.

"I don't see any one but you, Dalzell," he said curtly. "You've got to take your medicine. You can plead kleptomania, you know. Rising young business man, easy circumstances, no need to rob—why, of course, it's kleptomania!"

There was a little triumph edging into his laugh as what this meant to his rival dawned upon him. And it was likewise dawning upon his captive, who shut his jaw when the marshal, hastily summoned, almost refused to obey Thompson's command to take the prisoner to the jail.

"Go ahead, Smith," was all that Malcolm Dalzell would say, and he walked to the lockup with his head in the air.

The whole town shared the sensations of Smith the next morning, and the Rosemont Banner exhausted all its heavy black faced type that evening and paused only for absence of more space. It was paralyzing, horrifying, this downfall of a man like Malcolm Dalzell, one of those queer croppings out of hidden tendencies that sometimes destroy the world's best.

The three days that intervened before his preliminary hearing drew lines in Dalzell's face and gave him a pallor that usually it takes age to bring. Yet he maintained those close shut lips and, further than stating he was not guilty, refused to talk.

When he faced his friends and neighbors at the preliminary hearing there was a trace of proud defiance in his glance that yet was strangely hurt, for on many faces he read a dawning wavering in allegiance to him.

Much talk had bred suspicion, and every one knew of the long rivalry between the two men. What more natural than that Dalzell should attempt to harass, to ruin his opponent? So they waited for the sensational disclosures.

The sensation came. As usual with sensations, it was quite different from what was expected. This white faced girl, with eyes reddened by tears, who suddenly presented herself struck pity from the heart of the hardest. She spoke rapidly, breathlessly.

"Malcolm did not do it!" she protested, with tight clasped hands. "If he won't tell I will, now that I know the truth! It was Dick, my brother, and Malcolm, who also was watching, saw him and entered Thompson's store to save him, to get him away, to help him, and when Lewis Thompson came upon him—he, Malcolm, would not tell because"—

Milly Wainwright's voice died away, but the end of the sentence was furnished by Malcolm Dalzell's quick step to her side and hiding her tears on his shoulder. Both had made their sacrifice for each other and out of the bitterness had snatched happiness. And Rosemont, with the fickleness of the human race, said it served Lewis Thompson right and he should have had more common sense.

QUEER HOSPITALITY.

A Curious Experience in the Wilds of Arabia.

Of the curious ideas of hospitality held by some of the natives of that wild country lying between Bagdad and Damascus two travelers, Captain Butler and Captain Aylmer, tell in the Geographical Magazine: "We found Feysul Ibn Rashid (a minor ruler of Arabia) sitting in a low room, the roof of which was supported by wooden pillars. All round the sides of the room were spread carpets, on which sat his viziers and members of his court. He is a man of thirty-three years, with a dark, pointed beard, good, regular features, but eyes that are cold and cruel, and he has a nervous, fidgety manner and was all the time arranging his abba (cloak) and combing and curling his mustache and beard and admiring himself in a small, cheap looking-glass that hung just behind him. Above his head on the wall hung his silver mounted walking stick and a sword, the sheath of which was also covered in silver. He was very richly dressed.

"On our arrival at the house placed at our disposal we congratulated ourselves on our good fortune in having such a cordial welcome, but we were speedily disillusioned. We had not been there more than five minutes when Feysul's head slave, a richly dressed personage called Dahm, came to tell us that the emir would not take our camels or our money as he had plenty of both, but that he would like things of European make or of interest that we happened to have. This was only too true and during our five days' stay there there was a continual procession of slaves and hangers on from the castle demanding things for the emir and his viziers and favorites and demanding them in such a way that it was impossible for us to refuse. At last we had practically nothing of any value left, having been fleeced of watches, revolver, compasses, various clothes and other articles of our kit.

"Apart from this system of more or less polite robbery we were well treated by the emir and had our food sent us from the castle by him. About three or four times a day we had a royal command from him and used to go up to the castle and drink many cups of coffee and excellent sweet tea with him and talk about his country and Europe. He was always very genial on these occasions, and I honestly think he considered he was treating us very well in not taking all we had and turning us adrift to die in the desert."

Contradictory.

"There is safety in numbers," quoted the wise guy.

"Yes, until you discover that too many cooks spoil the broth," added the simple mug.—Philadelphia Record.

Why He Came Back.

"Wasn't you here a few weeks ago?" asked the woman of the house at the back door.

"Yes'm," replied the wanderer, "but I understood from a pal that you've got a new pastry cook since then!"—Yonkers Statesman.

The Surer Way.

"How can we interest her?"

"Tell her it's a worthy cause," suggested one.

"Tell her it's getting to be a popular fad," interposed a wiser head.—Louisville Courier-Journal.

Despair and Despondency

No one but a woman can tell the story of the suffering, the despair, and the despondency endured by women who carry a daily burden of ill-health and pain because of disorders and derangements of the delicate and important organs that are distinctly feminine. The tortures so bravely endured completely upset the nerves if long continued.

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is a positive cure for weakness and disease of the feminine organism.

IT MAKES WEAK WOMEN STRONG, SICK WOMEN WELL.

It allays inflammation, heals ulceration and soothes pain. It tones and builds up the nerves. It fits for wifehood and motherhood. Honest medicine dealers sell it, and have nothing to urge upon you as "just as good."

It is non-secret, non-alcoholic and has a record of forty years of cures. ASK YOUR NEIGHBORS. They probably know of some of its many cures.

If you want a book that tells all about woman's diseases, and how to cure them at home, send 21 one-cent stamps to Dr. Pierce to pay cost of mailing only, and he will send you a free copy of his great thousand-page illustrated Common Sense Medical Adviser—revised, up-to date edition, in paper covers. In handsome cloth-binding, 31 stamps. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N.Y.

REUNION.

Moore Family hold Reunion in Adrian.

Friday, Aug. 27, '09, was the annual reunion of the Moore family, which convened at the pleasant home of Mr. and Mrs. Chester Kaynor, 62 Michigan Ave., Adrian, Mich.

The day was pleasant as usual, and by noon 66 invited guests were made welcome and a sumptuous dinner was served on the lawn, where the physical strength of the guests was renewed for the business meeting, which was called to order by the President, Charles W. Moore of Pontiac, about 3 p. m.

The program was made shorter than usual and more time was given for renewing old acquaintances and forming new ones.

Mr. Joseph Wickersham and wife of Wilmington, Del., came as a complete surprise. Joseph S. Simmons and wife of Monterey, Mexico, were there and escaped the great floods and fire of their town, also Mrs. Mary E. Kunkel of Springfield, O., Charles E. Gorton of Mont Claire, New Jersey, with other cousins from different parts of Michigan, were present.

There was a bride and groom of 13 years in attendance, and a token of remembrance was given them.

Aunt Hannah Moore, the principal one and almost 80, was the center of attraction as she is the only one left of that generation. Mrs. Thomas Hanley, her sister, Mrs. Kunkel, and their brother, Joseph Simmons, met for the first time in 34 years.

Taking all things together, and peculiar circumstances connected, this was one of the best reunions, but as each one passes all feel bound by closer ties of love, and it is so hard to say good bye. Evening came and those who must go were seen waving their hands and saying good bye, wishing each and all a safe journey home with many returns for Reunion day.

Officers were chosen: Fred Westgate of Adrian, for President. Mrs. Thomas Hanley succeeded herself for the 11th time as Secretary and Treasurer, with a reqoest for an assistant to become acquainted with the work and history of the family. Miss Florence Kaynor of Adrian was appointed for the year. Guests from away were:

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Simmons, Monterey. Mex.; Charles E. Gorton, Montclair, N. J.; Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Wickersham, Wilmington, Del.; Vera and Harold Westgate, Onaway, Mich.; Mrs Jessie Moore and children, Bay City, Mich., Mrs. Ella Kunkel, Springfield O.; Mrs. Elizabeth Chase, Otsego Mich.; Aunt Hannah H. Moore and Mr. and Mrs. Chorles Moore and daughter Elva, Pontiac, Mich.; Mr. and Mrs. George Miller and children, Toledo, O.; Mrs. Elizabeth Moore, Ann Arbor, Mich., Mr. and Mrs. Martin Moore, Union City, Mich.; Mr. and Mrs. George Moore and two grandchildren, Ypsilanti, Mich.; Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Hanley, Tecumseh, Mich.

This college professor- like many other men of erudition- was fond of Lewis Carroll. While visiting his sister he asked his niece, a miss of fifteen to get "Through the Looking Glass" for him from the public library. She evidently did not like the task, and he asked her the reason. With some hesitation she replied: "Oh, I'll get it if you really want it. But I don't like to have the librarian think that I read children's books."

He has been married 40 years," said an editor, writing the obituray of a deceased citizen, "and was prepared to die.

PAINTS CHARLES THE ACME QUALITY KIND STARS & STRIPES

If it's a surface to be painted, enameled, stained, varnished or finished in any way, there's an Acme Quality Kind to fit the purpose.

5 Strong Reasons for Fall Painting

1. The wood is thoroughly dry.
Summer's sun has removed all moisture.

2. Paint penetrates deeper into dry wood.
The deeper it goes the better it holds.

3. Fall weather is warm, dry and dependable.
Little danger of cold, damp, rainy days, which endanger the durability of the paint.

4. Wet weather decays and destroys unprotected surfaces.
Lack of paint means unsightly and less valuable property.

5. Fall painting keeps out winter moisture.
The greatest enemy to the life and beauty of all structures.

Ask us about ACME QUALITY HOUSE PAINT (New Era). It insures the greatest protection and beauty, at the least cost per year of service. Questions cheerfully answered.

NINETY DAYS

Was the Sentence Imposed upon Mark Miller by Justice Humphrey

For the Theft of Richard Mead's Bicycle.

Mark Miller, who was tried in Justice Humphrey's court Tuesday, on a charge of stealing a bicycle of Richard Mead of this place, Saturday night July 31, was given 90 days in the Detroit House of Correction.

On cross examination, Miller retold his story of killing a man down in Tennessee.

He claims the trouble arose over the "eternal feminine," and claimed the other fellow fired at him. Miller ducked and escaped injury and at the same time grabbed a shot gun, and blew the fellow's head off.

Miller will probably hear from Tennessee authorities when he gets out of Detroit.

FRED MERKLE

HAS "MADE GOOD" IN FRED TENNEY'S ABSENCE.

Yet Under 21 years of age, but plays with the Ease of a Veteran.

The whole world knows Fred Merkle as the man—really, the boy—who failed to touch second. That one indent has so overshadowed any of his other deeds that fans have almost overlooked the fact that he is a wonderful ball player. In a few weeks he has done what few base ball players in America would be able to do if they tried a year. He has stepped into the shoes of Fred Tenney, the pioneer of the present style of play at first base, and has held down the difficult position with credit. Fans forget that on the day when Merkle failed to touch second that it was his bat that put the Giants in the running and gave them a chance.

Fred Merkle is yet under 21 years of age, but handles himself with the ease of a veteran. Some of his work at first base has been little less than marvelous and he is a dangerous man with the stick when called upon in a pinch.

Merkle's work at first has been so eminently satisfactory that on the recent trip the players began to look upon him as their mascot. New York won the first nine games in succession in which Merkle took part. It was his beautiful fielding and his heavy hitting that crippled the Cubs in two of the games that the Giants won.

KILLED

MRS. BEN STADLEMAN STBUCK &Y LAKE SHORE TRAIN

While Going to the Carnival at Blissfield.

A sad accident happened just east of Blissfield shortly after 1 o'clock Wednesday in which Mrs. Ben Stadleman was instantly killed by being struck by the 1:01 train on the Lake Shore road, which passes Tecumseh at 1:37.

Mr. and Mrs. Stadleman had left their home just east of the village and started to walk to town to attend the carnival. They started down the track and had not proceeded very far when the train came along at lightning speed. Her hosband noticed the train and tried to warn his wife but it was a vain attempt. The engineer also saw the woman and blew the whistle to attract her attention but was unable to do so.

From all appearances the woman was killed instantly. Her body was thrown some distance and was badly cut and mangled. The remains were taken to Blissfield and later were taken to her home. She leaves one child.

And now you can buy Hyommei at leading drug stores everywhere and here in Tecumseh. A complete outfit, including a hard rubber inhaler, is sold by C. A. Wright & Son for only $1.00, with a positive guarantee to cure or money back. NEEDFUL KNOWLEDGE.

TECUMSEH PEOPLE SHOULD LEARN TO DETECT THE APPROACH OF KIDNEY DISEASE.

The symptoms of kidney trouble are so unmistakable that they leave no ground for doubt. Sick kidneys excrete a thick, cloudy, offensive urine, full of sediment, irregular of passage, or attended by a sensation of scalding. The back aches constantly, headaches and dizzy spells may occur and the victim is often weighed down by a feeling of languor and fatigue. Neglect these warnings and there is danger of dropsy, Bright's Disease, or diabetes. Any one of these symptoms is warning enough to begin treating the kidneys at once. Delay often proves fatal.

George D. Chaplin, Ottawa St. Tecumseh, Mich., says: "I used Doan's Kidney Pills, procured from C. A. Wright & Son's drug store and they lived up to the claims made for them. When I procured this remedy I was feeling miserable but after a short use my health was greatly improved. I have no hesitation in recommending Doan's Kidney Pills, as I know they are a reliable kidney remedy." For Sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. VENEZUELA COMES UP WITH CASH

American Companies to Get Over a Million Dollars.

Caracas, Sept. 2.—W. W. Russell, American minister, has received from the foreign office a cheque for $59,375 which is to be paid to the New York and Venezuela company. He also received the signed protocol by which the Venezuelan government binds itself to pay $415,625 more in seven yearly installments.

These $475,000 are the first of several large sums which the present government of Venezuela must pay in atonement for the confiscation and destruction of American property rights in Venezuela by the late Castro government. The whole amount will be more than a million dollars, as a large monetary indemnity will probably be paid also to the Orinoco corporation. The New York and Venezuela company releases all of its rights in Venezuela in view of the indemnity.

GOMPERS SPEAKS AGAIN.

Denounces International Strike Breaking Before Paris Congress.

Paris, Sept. 2.—Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, addressed the International Trades Unions congress again Wednesday. He denounced international strike breaking and declared the systematic immigration of workmen in times of depression and strikes in other countries to be one of the greatest menaces of organized labor.

Mr. Gompers' proposal for the organization of an international federation of workingmen could not be discussed because the American Federation of Labor is not affiliated with the European unions, but a British resolution of the same import was adopted.

The conference adjourned yesterday to meet at Budapest in 1911.

RHEUMATISM.

One Course of Treatment For the Cure of the Disease.

To cure rheumatism it is necessary to rid the system of the excess of uric acid, and to do this a proper diet is even more important than the use of drugs, though in very severe cases the latter are not to be despised in conjunction with the dieting that is absolutely essential.

The Massachusetts General hospital of Boston allows the following diet for its rheumatic patients: Graham or brown bread, white bread (limited to one-half slice daily), corn, rice, milk, eggs, flour, puddings, crackers, beans, peas, all kinds of vegetables, except potatoes, tomatoes and asparagus, rhubarb, fresh fish, butter, cheese, buttermilk, cream, alkaline waters and toast. Avoid red meats, starch or potatoes, white bread and sugars.

The sensible use of water both internally and externally plays a large part in the prevention or cure of rheumatism. One or two glasses, either hot or cold, taken before breakfast every morning is excellent to start the organs of digestion for the day, and at least one glass should be taken between meals. Often the plain water will be enough to move a slightly constipated person, but if not a mild medicated water may be taken instead. It is very essential to keep the bowels open in cases of rheumatism.

Uric acid in the system is a poison, and it must not be forgotten that poisonous waste matter is also eliminated through the skin. The pores of the skin must be kept freely open and not allowed to become clogged if we hope to obtain the best results with rheumatic cases. A hot bath at bedtime is often very helpful.—Delineator.

Maddening Snuff.

On the Amazon river several Indian tribes use snuff, called pareca, which is made of the seeds of a species of plant. When a bout of snuff taking is determined on the people become highly intoxicated and then use the snuff. The effect of pareca is so violent that the taker drops as if shot and lies insensible for some time. Those more accustomed to it are highly excited, dancing and singing as if mad. The effect soon subsides. Other tribes use it to repel ague during the wet season.

Plenty to Do Them.

"Oh, I know that. But the things you can't do with money are being done by so many other people that there's no reason why one should want to do them."—Chicago Record-Herald.

Sightseeing.

"How did you manage to see everything in Rome inside of two days?"

"Well, you see, we got up early, my wife went to the shops, my daughter to the picture galleries, and I took in the restaurants. In the evening we compared notes."—Fliegende Blatter.

Liver Trouble Remedy Free

Any intelligent person can be his own doctor in the ordinary case of liver trouble, for the symptoms cannot be mistaken. If the white of the eye becomes yellowish, if the skin becomes sallow, if pimples and blotches appear, if the bowels do not move, if you have sick headache, if you are bilious, you may be sure that your liver is torpid or inactive.

The quickest and surest remedy yet found for the cure of liver trouble or any of its symptoms is Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, the great herb laxative compound. This wonderful remedy is not only a laxative, but a tonic as well. It will start the flow of gastric juice, thereby soon enabling the liver to do its work naturally. A bottle of this great liver remedy can be bought of any druggist for 50 cents or $1, and in many cases a single bottle has cured a chronic case.

For example, John W. Lee, 419 S. Pennsylvania ave., Indianapolis, Ind., had a stubborn and very long-standing case of liver trouble, with pimples, blotches, jaundice, etc., and it cured him. Mr. B. Flinchum, Jackson, Ky., says the taste of it. Thousands of families keep it in the house against just such an emergency, as you can never tell when some member of the family will need a good laxative.

In order to have you or any other sufferer from the liver make a test of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin without personal expense, Dr. Caldwell will send you a free test bottle if you will send your name and address. The sample will show you how pleasant it is to take, how gently it works. It will start you on the cure of your trouble and convince you that you have found a cure. That is the object of the sample, and the doctor urges you to send for it today.

If there is anything about your ailment that you don't understand, or if you want any medical advice, write to the doctor, and he will answer you fully. There is no charge for this service. The address is Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 500 Caldwell bldg., Monticello, Ill.

SAVE STATE SOME MONEY

Prison Board Hopes to Buy Sisal Direct.

SAVE ABOUT $8,000 YEAR

Twine Plant at Jackson Uses Nearly 8,000 Bales Each Season—Enough on Hand to Last Three Months. Present Quarters of Plant Are Too Small.

Jackson, Mich., Sept. 2.—It became known during the session of the prison board Wednesday that an attempt is being made to buy the sisal used in the binder twine plant direct from the grower instead of through commission house as has been done heretofore, and thus eliminate an expense of about $8,000 a year. Should this be possible, and from present indications it appears that the plan will be carried through, it will put the plant in a better position to place the finished product on the market and thus fight the "trust" with better results.

It is figured that the plant consumes between 7,000 and 8,000 bales of sisal each season and that the brokerage fee for handling is $1 a bale. The prison has been receiving its sisal through Martin Daley of Chicago, recently indicted by the grand jury, and who was implicated in the confession of Warden Armstrong of accepting a bribe of $1,500. Daley has been receiving the sisal from Yucatan, where the best quality is grown. After his indictment the prison negotiated with a Boston firm.

Also Make Rope.

At present there is enough of the product on hand to last three months, and when this supply runs out it is figured that negotiations will be finished with a grower in Yucatan to furnish it direct. This will also make it possible for the plant to manufacture manila twine in larger quantities, and also rope. A small amount is now being turned out, but the facilities are inadequate.

So great has been the business since the opening of the plant that the present quarters are becoming too small. George Merriman, president of the plant, has been directed to increase the size of the factory. Last year $30,000 was cleared, and with the added improvements and better facilities the output is expected to be still larger the coming season.

According to the data in the books, the annual consumption of the finished product used in Michigan is 12,000,000 pounds. During the season of 1910 it is estimated that the plant will turn out 3,000,000 pounds.

MEN QUARRELED.

One Finally Shoots Other Dead at Beulah.

Traverse City, Mich., Sept. 2.—Walter Bliss shot Herbert Roe through the heart at Beulah. After the shooting Bliss gave himself up and was taken to Frankfort.

The tragedy was the result of a quarrel which has been going on between the two men for some days. Roe was a livery man. The two men met on the street, and bystanders saw them come together. Bliss drew his gun and fired but one shot.

SEVERELY PUNISHED.

Youthful Joy Riders Get Heavy Fines and Sentences.

Detroit, Mich., Sept. 2.—The joy riding craze received a severe jolt in Justice Stein's court when he gave the four boys, sons of well-to-do parents who were arrested for "borrowing" Irwin Schrimger's auto last week, the maximum penalty, fining them $100 each and sentencing them to ninety days in the house of correction. The boys are Ernest Clemens, Harvey Huntoon, Frank Miner and Oliver L. Lau.

Forest Fires Threaten Menominee.

Menominee, Mich., Sept. 2.—The chain of forest fires in Menominee and Marinette counties, partly extinguished by recent rains, have again been fanned into threatening conflagrations by the fierce wind storms. Marinette county is circled by flames, and half a dozen fresh fires are reported in the vicinity of Menominee. Scores of farmers who returned to their homes several days ago, after fighting fires for a week, are again battling with the blazes.

Officials Quit Olds Concern.

Lansing, Mich., Sept. 2.—A change has been announced in the management of the Olds Motor works here. Fred L. Smith, vice-president and general manager, and his brother, Angus, secretary and treasurer, with Ralph Owens, factoy manager, have resigned. Bentley J. Mead was appointed to fill the place of secetary and general manager.

TESTIFIES AFTER FOUR YEARS.

Carlisle Center, N. Y., G. B. Burhans, writes: "About four years ago I wrote you that I had been entirely cured of kidney trouble by taking two bottles of Foley's Kidney Remedy, and after four years I am again pleased to state that I have never had any return of those symptoms, and I am evidently cured to stay cured." Foley's Kidney Remedy will do the same for you.

Some people never run into debt; they jump into it.

Many people delude themselves by saying "It will wear away," when they notice symptoms of kidney and bladder trouble. This is a mistake. Take Foley's Kidney Remedy, and stop the drain on the vitality. It cures backache, rheumatism, kidney and bladder trouble, and makes every trace of pain, weakness, and urinary trouble disappear.

As the mind is bent so is the tongue inclined.

WARNING

Do not be persuaded into taking anything but Foley's Honey and Tar for chronic coughs, bronchitis, hay fever, asthma, and lung trouble, as it stops the cough and heals the lungs.

Dr. Abernethy, the great English physician, said, "Watch your kidneys. When they are affected, life is in danger." Foley's Kidney Remedy makes healthy kidneys, corrects urinary irregularities, and tones up the whole system.

Whiskey straight makes a man crooked.

A NARROW ESCAPE.

Edgar N. Bayliss, a merchant of Robinsonville, Del., wrote: "About two years ago I was thin and sick, and coughed all the time and if I did not have consumption, it was near to it. I commenced using Foley's Honey and Tar, and it stopped my cough, and I am now entirely well, and have gained twenty-eight pounds, all due to the good results from taking Foley's Honey and Tar."

I have noticed that the man who wants the lid put on his town is always the one who thinks he is entitled to sit on the lid.

HOW TO CURE SKIN DISEASES.

The germs and their poisons which cause the disease must be drawn to the surface of the skin and destroyed. Salves and greasy lotions may give temporary relief, but they have not the power to destroy the germ life. ZEMO, a clean liquid for external use will draw to the surface and destroy the germ life, leaving a clean healthy skin. ZEMO positively cures Eczema, Pimples, Blackheads, Dandruff, Itching Piles and every form of skin or scalp disease. Messers Wright the druggists, endorse and recomend ZEMO and will give you a sample bottle.

The Shorter Word.

The day before Christmas Edith, aged ten, had a number of packages tied up for distribution. The doctor felt of one intended for "Uncle John"—and the rest is as the New York Sun prints it.

"That's some tobacco," said the doctor, as he fingered the package.

"How can you tell?" asked Edith.

"Because I am a good diagnostician," he replied.

Then, as Edith seemed somewhat dazed at the big word, the doctor inquired:

"Do you know what a diagnostician is?"

"Yes," she answered promptly. "It's a good guesser."

Not Personal.

Count d'Orsay had an explosive temper. Sir Algernon West says that the count "once called on the publishers, Messrs. Saunders & Otley, on Lady Blessington's behalf and used very strong language. A beautiful gentleman in a white neckcloth said he would rather sacrifice Lady Blessington's patronage than stand such personal abuse. 'I am not personal,' said D'Orsay. 'If you are Saunders, then —— Otley; if you are Otley, then —— Saunders.'"

A LETTER.

Mrs. Joseph Hicks Writes of the Free Press trip to Seattle, Washington.

As one of the winners of the Free Press trip across the continent, I wish to tell a few facts in regard to the piece published Wednesday night in the Detroit News. There were twenty-four ladies who took this trip and as in almost every party as large as this there were a few "kickers." The people who were not satisfied with the accomodations kicked from the time they left Chicago until they arrived home, threatening at every stop on the way to Seattle that they were going to get off and take the first train back home but I noticed none of them made good their threat but took in the entire trip. They did not enjoy the trip as the rest of us did for they were too busy kicking to have time to enjoy the pleasures.

The manager of the party could not have been nicer to every one of the party and no one could have done more to make us enjoy ourselves. He was busy every minute looking after our pleasures, trying to smooth all annoyances and relieving us of all care possible.

When we reached Chicago we transferred from the Pullman to a tourist car, keeping the same car until we reached Chicago on the return trip. Some kicked on the sleeping accomodations but Joseph Smith, who took a trip to Seattle said he had a tourist sleeper part of the way and the berths were just as comfortable as in the Standard Pullman. Mr. Smith also stated that one night they had to go without supper as the diner was so crowded and it was so late before they could get in, there was nothing left.

We had good meals and served in fairly good style and if we expressed a wish for anything the porter and waiters did their best to get us what they wanted. When we had our meals in the diner on the way to and from Chicago, we did not have luncheon until 3 o'clock, while on the tourist car we were served at 12 or 1 o'clock as we preferred, so I think we were well served as regards to meals.

As regards to the car not being aired before breakfast some of the party did not get up early enough to have all the berths made up before breakfast. In regard to the slur about "all those who had ever travelled first class were just as indignant as the writer," there were several in the party who had traveled as much and more and they were not dissatisfied. One of the conductors made the remark that, "those kickers could never have traveled before, to judge from their actions."

At Chicago, the girls were asked to carry their suit cases to the platform but as some were not equal to this exertion, their suit cases were carried out for them but the majority of the party carried their suit cases to the door where a man was ready to lift them down.

It was a hot, dusty, ride part of the way, as it could not help but be when crossing the alkali plains during the dry season but the weather man and not the Free Press should be blamed for that.

I found the porter pleasant and courteous at all times, always ready to do everything he could to promote the pleasure and comfort of the party.

Now, while I fully agree with Miss Nellie Elcome that the car and hotel accomodations were not as we were led to believe by the Free Press they would be, still I enjoyed every minute of the trip and I wish to thank the many friends who so kindly helped me with their coupons, subscriptions and influence.

I felt fully paid for my work for the Free Press and think the majority of those who took the trip will agree with me.

Thanking again those who helped me, I am respectfully and sincerely.

A PLEA FOR SUNSET SERVICE AT SAND LAKE.

BY A COTTAGER.

At some of our smaller inland lake resorts we have noticed this year that they have been having a Sunday evening "sunset service" which seemed the more impressive and enjoyable from being held where "The groves were God's first temples."

At Sand lake over fifty years ago the Rev. Mr. Lyster built himself a home under an old oak tree where an eagle had her nest and where Indians had a camping ground. He was the pioneer preacher of that day and it was his hope and ambition to build little chapels at the nearby settlements where the homesick first settlers could gather and read the service and hear the church bell on Sunday mornings. A little straggling path still is to be seen climbing up the west bank of Sand lake through the woods where that courageous minister builded his home and lived "near to nature's heart."

Some locust trees mark the spot and a few foundation stones still remain where a pioneer woman reared a little family and laid some of them to rest there under the locusts. The oldest settlers in that region knew these gentle people well or have heard their fathers tell of their efforts to supply the spiritual wants of the hard working pioneers. The "sunset service" that we are reading of this year at different resorts in Michigan recalls the Rev. Lyster's effort in that direction and suggests that we might have such a service again at Sand lake, where not Indian canoes but cottagers boats would bring the worshippers to a simple song service of a Sunday evening.

We hear, particularly in our church papers, the fact admitted and deplored, that Sunday as a day of rest and of religious trend is passing. If this is a fact and if it is to be regretted would not a little effort on the part of our clergy give a beautifying and spiritual touch to the life at our nearby lake which would leaven the lump of humanity which is now turning to motor cars, base ball, fishing excursions and beer drinking for Sunday recreations.

Consider for a moment the effort made by that solitary and devoted preacher who made the first home at Sand lake and who gave his time and his money to lighten the lot of those people of the early time. A song service and a scripture reading in which all creeds might join would surely attract many people who have no interest in the other attractions mentioned and might be a pleasant memory and a message which some homesick traveller would carry to his home and retain for years.

Let us try this experiment another year, if this season is too far advanced and have a little service in memory of that brave spirit, Rev. Lyster, who chose our beautiful lake for a home where no white settlers were nearer than Brooklyn and Tecumseh. We are told that he rode to these places on alternate Sundays to hold service and was not only not requited for his work but gave of his own money liberally for both these churches and his happiest moment was when a sufficient amount had been gathered for a bell for our church here and for the one at Brooklyn so that the settlers might hear its welcome music on Sunday morning.

That must have been a long and lonely ride, on a pony's back sometimes, and sometimes by ox team drawn from his home in the woods to the place to read service. The roads are better now and no doubt if our village preachers would return the compliment and carry the word back again to the summer dwellers beside Mr. Lyster's pretty lake they would find easier transportation.

We are told in the pioneer history of this county that one of the first Methodist ministers had a very extensive circuit which reached from Toledo to Blissfield. He was strong and muscular and travelled about twelve hundred miles, and was obliged to ford or swim the Maumee river twice in making his circuit. We would not expect anything like this of our village preachers. There are good bridges between here and the lake and we would guarantee to furnish them an automobile if they will undertake the mission.

Having rounded out its first five hundred months of existence with the August number, Lippincott's Magazine starts out with September as though it could see a far longer vista of months and years of life ahead of it. And there is no reason why it shouldn't, so long as its present high quality is sustained. The novelette for September has a surprising plot, and is called "A Bride for Casey." Ella Middleton Tybout stands sponsor for it, and those who have read her books "The Wife of the Ambassador," etc., can testify that she knows how to write a good story. The September short stories are a strong collection.

Anyone who enjoys a first class play presented in a first class manner should not fail to see W. F. Mann's production of Mary J. Holmes' popular novel, "Tempest and Sunshine," dramatized by Lem B. Parker to be seen at Bradley opera house on Friday, Sept. 10. The scenery is beautiful, everything used in the representation being carried by the company. The costuming is quaint and pretty, made in the fashion of 1850 which is the period of the play. The story is both strong and interesting dealing principally with the southern aristocracy and is relieved with much comedy. Southern melodies are introduced throughout the play.

NEW FALL DRESS

For the Tecumseh HERALD.

The Tecumseh Herald comes to its subscribers, today with its new fall dress. The new type assures its readers of a clean printed paper, easily read. The Herald always endeavors to print the latest news, first, and communications from former residents of Tecumseh in order to interest the older readers.

Aside from this, advertisements from all our prominent business men will be found in the paper, thus keeping the subscribers in touch with the happenings of the village and surrounding country. We will continue to make our regular twice a week visits.

Dr. W. B. Hartzog of Bowling Green, O., will speak in the Baptist church Sunday, Sept, 12th, both morning and evening. Dr. Hartzog was here four ago on the lecture course. The pulpit committe would like to see a large crowd present.

AMUSEMENTS.

One of the most successful Southern plays, "Tempest and Sunshine" will be seen at the BRADLEY OPERA HOUSE for an engagement of ONE NIGHT on FRIDAY, Sept. 10. "Tempest and Sunshine" is played by one of the highest salaried companies playing on local stages, consequently the production will be something worth seeing. "Tempest" and "Sunshine" are two very beautiful Southern girls. The former having an uncontrolable temper and always taking pleasure in making trouble for others, and the other just the opposite of her sister; gentle and patient and trying to undo the trouble her sister has caused. A beautiful love story is woven throughout the play, making it of such an intensely interesting nature that one forgets they are only in a theatre and not down in the South. The costumes are all of the old fashioned style, quaint and pretty, the gowns being of airy crinoline stuffs made in the fashions of Dolly Madison times, which is the period of the play.

Beautiful Southern melodies are introduced with striking effect. Anyone who is interested in seeing a beautiful play sumptuously mounted and presented in a first-class manner should not fail to see "Tempest and Sunshine."

NIGHT ON BALD MOUNTAIN.

On a lonely night Alex. Benton of Fort Edward, N. Y., climbed Bald Mountain to the home of a neighbor, tortured by Asthma bent on curing him with Dr. King's New Discovery that had cured himself of asthma. This wonderful medicine soon relieved and quickly cured his neighbor.

Later it cured his son's wife of a severe lung trouble. Millions believe its the greatest Throat and Lung cure on earth. Coughs, Colds, Croup, Hemorrhages and Sore Lungs are surely cured by it. Best for Hay Fever, Grip and Whooping Cough. 50c and $1.00. Trial bottle free. Guaranteed by C. A. Wright & Son.

A NEW FIRM FOR TECUMSEH

FRED ROSACRANS & SONS WILL START A NEW DRY GOODS BUSINESS.

Tecumseh can justly feel proud of this New Enterprise.

The Herald wishes to announce that Fred Rosacrans & Sons will start a New Dry Goods store about the 1st of October in the Bidwell Block, on the corner formerly occupied by Harris & Hiteshu.

The firm will consist of Fred Rosacrans and his sons, Leon, Harry and Eugene Rosacrans.

THE CHILDREN LIKE IT
KENNEDY'S LAXATIVE COUGH SYRUP

It's a pity when sick ones drug the stomach or stimulate the heart and kidneys. That is all wrong! A weak stomach means weak stomach nerves, always. And this is also true of the heart and kidneys. The weak nerves are instead crying out for help. This explains why Dr. Shoop's Restorative is promptly helping stomach, heart and kidney ailments. The Restorative reaches not for the actual cause of these ailments—the failing "inside nerve." Anyway test the Restorative 48 hours. It won't cure so soon as that, but you will surely know that help is coming. Sold by all druggists.

Tickling or dry Coughs will quickly loosen when using Dr. Shoop's Cough Remedy. And it is so thoroughly harmless that Dr. Shoop tells mothers to use nothing else even for very young babies. The wholesome green leaves and tender stems of a lung healing mountainous shrub give the curative properties to Dr. Shoop's Cough Remedy. It calms the cough and heals the sensitive bronchial membranes. No opium, no chloroform, nothing harsh used to injure or suppress. Demand Dr. Shoop's. Accept no other. Sold by all druggists.

And herein lies the popularity of this Remedy. It is winning defenders everywhere. Tablets or Liquid. Sold by all druggists.

NEEDFUL KNOWLEDGE.

TECUMSEH PEOPLE SHOULD LEARN TO DETECT THE APPROACH OF KIDNEY DISEASE.

The symptoms of kidney trouble are so unmistakable that they leave no ground for doubt. Sick kidneys excrete a thick, cloudy, offensive urine, full of sediment, irregular of passage, or attended by a sensation of scalding. The back aches constantly, headaches and dizzy spells may occur and the victim is often weighed down by a feeling of languor and fatigue. Neglect these warnings and there is danger of dropsy, Bright's Disease, or diabetes. Any one of these symptoms is warning enough to begin treating the kidneys at once. Delay often proves fatal.

George D. Chaplin, Ottawa St. Tecumseh, Mich., says: "I used Doan's Kidney Pills, procured from C. A. Wright & Son's drug store and they lived up to the claims made for them. When I procured this remedy I was feeling miserable but after a short use my health was greatly improved. I have no hesitation in recommending Doan's Kidney Pills, as I know they are a reliable kidney remedy." For Sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. ODD JOBS ON WARSHIPS.

Many Ways For the Bluejackets to Make Extra Money.

The possible methods of making extra money on shipboard are manifold. "Tailorizing" is one of the most profitable. While a ship's tailor is detailed to most of our ships, his duties are limited to making necessary alterations in the uniforms which are issued to the members of the crew. Many enlisted men own sewing machines, upon which they do repair work, and they also do odd jobs for officers, such as pressing and cleaning. A handy man with the needle can also make a handsome sum by doing fancy work. Some of the most delicate embroidery work has been done by sailormen.

The ship's barber also makes a comfortable living in addition to his regular pay, and the distribution of prizes at target practice enriches the coffers of the gun crew by a considerable sum. Men who are detailed to duty on board submarine boats are allowed an additional $5 a month and besides $1 a day for every day the boat is submerged. Bluejackets detailed as signalmen, as coxswains of power boats or in charge of holds are allowed extra pay. A crew messman receives $5 a month for performing that somewhat menial function, and the man who is not ashamed to "take in washing" can easily double his navy pay. Every bluejacket is expected to perform the laundering himself, but there are always men who prefer to pay for having the service done.

One of the novel methods of earning an honest penny is for a man with a descriptive knack—usually a yeoman—to prepare an interesting letter upon the cruise of the ship or some of the strange ports visited, the honors paid the vessel, the entertainments offered and describing the customs of the inhabitants. These letters are manifolded and sold to the members of the crew for 50 cents to $1 a copy—and usually cheap at that. The parents or relatives of the sailor boy thus are kept informed of his adventures and experiences and he is relieved of a task that is irksome to most boys.—John R. Cox in National Magazine.

Weak Women

To weak and ailing women, there is at least one way to help. Two ways that will prove beneficial, but both are important, both essential. Dr. Shoop's Night Cure is the tonic.

Dr. Shoop's Restorative, the Constitutional. The former—Dr. Shoop's Night Cure—is topical, mucous membrane surface, or remedy, while Dr. Shoop's Restorative is wholly an internal treatment. The Restorative reaches throughout the entire system, building and repair of all nerve, all tissue, and all blood elements.

The "Night Cure" is for quick relief. Does its work while you sleep. It soothes sore and inflamed mucous surfaces, heals local weakness and discharges, while the Restorative eases nervous excitement, gives refreshing sleep, and builds up wasted tissue. Together they should restore strength, vigor, and energy. Make Dr. Shoop's Restorative—Tablets or Liquid—a general tonic to the system. For positive local help, use as well Dr. Shoop's Night Cure.

STAR GAZING.

The Study of the Constellations as a Pastime.

Probably every reader has often admired the beauty of a starlight night. A little careful observation on such a night will show that the brighter stars may be divided into groups or "constellations," as the astronomers call them, most of which are known by the names of animals or legendary persons, such for example as "the Great Bear," "the Swan," "Hercules," "Andromeda," etc. The easiest method of learning these "constellations" is from some one already acquainted with them, but if the beginner is not fortunate enough to know any such person the majority can be learned from any cheap star maps such as are sometimes contained in almanacs.

Now, if the budding astronomer will notice the position of any of these groups or constellations at a particular hour of any night and then look a few hours afterward he will see that during the interval the stars which appeared low down in the east have risen to the south in a somewhat similar manner to the apparent motion of the sun and moon, while closer attention on several evenings will show a circular or rotary movement around the north pole of the heavens, the motion being the opposite way to the hands of a clock.

Near the north pole is a bright star called the "Pole star." This star is easily found when the observer has once noted the seven bright stars of the "Great Bear," the two outer stars of the four forming the "square" known as the "pointers" point almost directly to the Pole star. This majestic movement of the stars around the pole of the heavens is a most sublime and wonderful sight.—Country Side.

The learned man conceals his erudition, the silly man clothes himself with it.—Houssaye.

Despair and Despondency

No one but a woman can tell the story of the suffering, the despair, and the despondency endured by women who carry a daily burden of ill-health and pain because of disorders and derangements of the delicate and important organs that are distinctly feminine. The tortures so bravely endured completely upset the nerves if long continued.

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is a positive cure for weakness and disease of the feminine organism.

IT MAKES WEAK WOMEN STRONG, SICK WOMEN WELL.

It allays inflammation, heals ulceration and soothes pain. It tones and builds up the nerves. It fits for wifehood and motherhood. Honest medicine dealers sell it, and have nothing to urge upon you as "just as good." It is non-secret, non-alcoholic and has a record of forty years of cures. ASK YOUR NEIGHBORS. They probably know of some of its many cures.

If you want a book that tells all about woman's diseases, and how to cure them at home, send 21 one-cent stamps to Dr. Pierce to pay cost of mailing only, and he will send you a free copy of his great thousand-page illustrated Common Sense Medical Adviser—revised, up-to date edition, in paper covers. In handsome cloth-binding, 31 stamps. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N.Y.

C. A. Wright & Son are pleased to announce to their customers that they have secured the agency for Zemo, the best known remedy for the positive and permanent cure of Eczema, Pimples, Dandruff, Blackheads, Piles and every form of skin or scalp disease. Zemo is a clean liquid for external use, gives instant relief and cures any form of skin or scalp diseases by destroying the germ that causes the disease, leaving a clean and healthy skin. Messrs Wright will gladly show you proof of many remarkable cures made by Zemo.

NOTED BY A TOURIST.

Some of the Queer Things That Were Observed Abroad.

About half one's time in traveling abroad is spent in buying stamps. No matter how many I put on a letter I had no faith to believe that it would reach America. I found that I could send a letter with one stamp on it if I paid enough for it, also that I could get a denomination of which it would take twenty. In Cairo I put fifteen sphinxes and pyramids on the front of a letter and five on the back. As for postal cards, imagine asking for one in the Belgian language—Wereldpostvereeniging!

But it is in a Mohammedan country that an American mind needs readjustment. We woke one morning in Constantinople and found our calendar nine days ahead of theirs, our watches seven hours behind and the name of the month Ramadan. The Mohammedans seem to live up to their religion in a more definite way than we do, and we soon learned what to expect. The porter would drop one's trunk when the muezzin called to prayer. The sacredness of animal life compelled us to walk around the hundreds of lazy dogs asleep on the sidewalk. We were required to take off our shoes instead of our hats when entering a mosque. Women were not allowed to pray, because they "have no souls." Friday was the day for Sunday, and a camera was an "evil eye" and could not be carried into any sacred place. Our artist was once charged 20 cents extra for keeping an evil eye in his room all night.

Before the journey ends the tourist has lost his identity completely. At first he is from "Kalamazoo, Mich.," then from "Michigan," later "the United States," soon the "States," and the writer was once introduced to a gentleman from Tuscany as "the lady from North America." — Delineator Magazine.

THE KINGFISHER.

A Bird Whose Ways Are Most Difficult to Observe.

Perhaps there is nothing in nature more difficult to observe than the ways of the kingfisher. Any one may see him glancing down midstream or making his sudden arrow flight from bank to bank under the bright June sunshine, but to track him down to his secret fishing place and watch him at work is a vastly more difficult thing.

You come from the gold clad meadows into the shady river path as into a cathedral aisle. The willows crowd down to the water's edge. In the green reeds a sedge bird is fretting. There is a low twittering song of nestlings all round you. And now, in the shadiest deep of the willow wood, a shrill, piping note cuts the silence, a flash of emerald passes, a kingfisher has gone by on his way to his favorite pool.

A common notion is that he sits perfectly still on some branch overhanging the water, a picture of crafty vigilance. But this is rarely if ever the case. The truth is, says a writer in the London Chronicle, that the kingfisher, like the master he is, sets about his work with an easy surety, almost a nonchalance. Peering down upon him warily through the screen of branches you would judge that the last thing in the world he was thinking about was the gliding brown water below him. He twirls round on his perch, making his vivid green and turquoise and amber plumage scintillate like a dewdrop in the one beam of sunlight that has found him out.

He preens his feathers, stretches a lazy wing now and again, looks about him with a casual eye, and then, as if it were the merest trifling detail in life, he suddenly points his two inch long fishing spear of a bill at the water beneath him, plunges and is gone.

The Withering Wind.

The name of harmattan has been given a periodical wind which blows from the interior of Africa toward the Atlantic during the three months of December, January and February. It sets in with a fog or dry haze, which sometimes conceals the sun for whole weeks together. Every plant, every bit of grass and leaf in its course is withered as though it had been seared by heat from a furnace. Often within an hour after it begins to blow green grass is dry enough to burn like paper. Even the hardened natives lose all of the skin on exposed parts during the prevalence of this withering wind.

Painful Ailment.

Though gout is generally reckoned a disease of rich men and free livers, one of the worst of sufferers from it was a well known English minister who died not long ago.

A friend once said to him, "Dr. So-and-so, what is gout like?"

The clergyman smiled sadly. "If you put your hand in a vise," he said, "and let a man press as hard as he can, that is rheumatism, and if he can be got to press a little harder, that is gout."

Not to Him.

MISS CLEM.

The Doubting Lover and His Uncle's Affianced Wife.

By CLARISSA MACKIE.

[Copyright, 1909, by Associated Literary Press.]

Major Stewart lighted another cigar and pushed the box toward his nephew.

Oliver was staring out of the window with a set white face. Suddenly he turned toward the older man.

"Do you really mean, uncle, that you are going to marry Clementina Miles?" he asked in a low tone.

The major bristled indignantly. A slow red suffused his good looking face to the very roots of his white hair.

"I am, sir! I may be sixty, but I am still capable of loving a true, good woman—such as I know Clem Miles to be. I love her, and she says she loves me! Isn't that enough, sir?" He fixed piercing black eyes upon the young man.

Oliver winced. "Yes, indeed, Uncle Dick; I hope you will forgive me. I was surprised. I hope you will be very happy, and here's my hand on it!"

The major grasped it warmly. "That is the way to talk, my boy. If you'd been home looking after your old uncle instead of gallivanting around the world you might have seen which way the wind was blowing, eh?"

The young man smiled ruefully. "That's so, sir. When is—when is it to be?" he asked hesitatingly.

"In the fall—bless her sweet heart," beamed the major as he got up from his chair. "And now, Oliver, suppose you ride over to the Magnolias and take a bunch of roses to Clem with my compliments? You know all the family, of course?"

Oliver nodded. "You know I almost lived there ever since I was born," he said quietly.

"That's so—that's so. We'll saddle Firefly and renew old acquaintances and tell the ladies the latest fashion news from Paris. I'll cut some roses for Clem." The older man bustled away, while the younger with miserable eyes and reluctant feet made his way to the stables.

"ARE YOU PLEASED BECAUSE YOU ARE TO HAVE AN AUNT, OLIVER?"

Fifteen minutes later Oliver was riding away from the pillared portico where the major waved a brisk farewell.

A great sheaf of yellow roses rested on the pommel of the saddle, and their delicious fragrance assailed Oliver's nostrils with haunting memories of the last days before he had sailed for Europe.

He had walked with Clem Miles, his old playfellow, in the rose garden the very night before his departure, and Clem had promised to wait for his return, and now she was engaged to an old man—his uncle!

Oliver's thoughts were chaotic as he entered the familiar gates. His blue eyes were dazed with pain, and his kindly heart was filled with bitterness. He was torn with pity and contempt.

A white gown fluttered down a shady walk bordered with tall box.

In an instant Oliver had tied his horse to a tree and was after her with a stern, relentless face.

She turned at his quick step on the path, and a rare smile curved her beautiful lips.

"I am glad to see you," she said simply. "We have been expecting you. The major said you must come today!"

Oliver did not smile. He took her outstretched hand in his own for one brief instant and then dropped it. His eyes took in the contrast of creamy skin and blue black hair, the velvet dark eyes and rose leaf mouth.

"My uncle sent these roses with his compliments," he said, with sudden awkwardness. "He has told me of his engagement to you, and I have come to tender my best wishes."

Clementina buried her face in the roses. "Thank you, Oliver," she said at last, lifting her blushing face to his.

Oliver frowned. "My uncle is very happy," he said deliberately. "His home has always lacked a mistress, and I am sure that no other could fill that position more charmingly than you."

Clementina sat down on a rustic bench and absently pulled the yellow roses to pieces. Her eyes watched the falling petals as they fluttered to the turf.

"Are you pleased because you are to have an aunt, Oliver?" she asked suddenly.

"An aunt!" Oliver stared at her. "Of course—I had forgotten the relationship—what a mockery!" he said thickly. He dropped down on the bench beside her. "How could you, Clem, after what you said that night?"

Clementina did not reply. The roses dropped to the ground with a rustle as she fled down the box bordered path and disappeared.

Oliver sat in miserable silence while the shadows lengthened. At last a light step sounded on the path, and there came into view a woman gowned in white, with snowy hair and a sweet, youthful face, much like Clementina's.

The young man rose to his feet as she approached.

At last she paused and stretched out a slender, jeweled hand. "You must be Oliver Stewart," she said graciously.

Oliver bent low over her hand. "And you—I must know you!" he stammered helplessly.

She laughed and shook her head. "You never set eyes on me before, Master Oliver. I am Clementina Miles—Mr. Miles' only sister—from Louisiana. I wonder if you know now."

A light came into Oliver's troubled eyes. "And you—you are to make my uncle the happiest man in the world," he replied with a smile.

Miss Clem blushed and nodded acquiescence. "Come and talk to me awhile," she said, leading the way into the rose garden.

"I thought it was Clem," explained Oliver at the end of a half hour. "She did not deny it."

"Perhaps little Clem thought that a man who had no faith in his sweetheart's loyalty needed a little punishment," said Miss Miles gravely.

Oliver reddened. "Oh, of course I know I acted like a duffer! I hope Clem will forget it."

At that moment Clementina herself came toward them. Her eyes were dancing with mirth.

"You are becoming acquainted with my Aunt Clem," she said demurely.

"My Aunt Clem to be—on both sides of the family," asserted Oliver as he took her willing hands in his, while Aunt Clem stole softly away and left them alone.

A BISMARCK STORY.

Playing the Role of Cousin Was Just to His Liking.

In his university days Bismarck was as jolly and boisterous as the least promising youth of his generation. According to the author of "The M. P. For Russia," he enjoyed dancing and singing better than study and was as full of fun as his chosen companion, Count Keyserling, was deficient in it, and on this difference in temperament hangs a tale.

One day the shy and reserved Keyserling came to Bismarck in great agitation.

"What is the matter?" demanded Bismarck.

"My mother writes that an aunt and two cousins are coming for a week to Berlin, and, as they are very young and inexperienced, I must go about everywhere with them, offering them all sorts of amusements. It is most annoying," groaned Keyserling, "as I have to prepare myself for examinations and have no time for pretty country cousins."

Bismarck saw his chance and immediately inquired:

"Have you ever seen these young girls? Have they ever seen you?"

"Never in my life."

"Capital! Nothing could be better. Let me be Count Keyserling for the time being, and you become simple Bismarck. You stay at home, and I shall become a first class cicerone during all the time of their visit."

Keyserling eagerly accepted the proposition. When the young ladies arrived, Bismarck met them as Keyserling and placed himself at their disposition during their stay in Berlin. Keyserling buried himself in his books and thought no more about it until the girls had gone home to the Baltic provinces.

A week or two later he was disconcerted by receiving a letter from home in which his mother expressed her great delight in hearing from the young ladies and their mother how immensely they had enjoyed themselves and how very agreeable and kind their cousin had been.

"I am overjoyed," continued the fond parent, "to hear from their description that you have grown quite stout and robust during your stay at Berlin."

Prisoners Tortured.

Tangier, Aug. 26.—By the sultan's order, according to advices from Fez, the prisoners captured at the defeat of El Roghi have been barbarously tortured.

He Took the Cake.

"Mike," said Plodding Pete, "dere's wuss t'ings dan gold bricks."

"What's happened?"

"De lady up de road said dat if I'd chop an armful of wood she'd gimme a cake."

"Didn't she keep her word?"

"Yep. She handed me a cake of soap."—Washington Star.

When It Started.

"Captain, what time does the boat start?"

"It starts, madam, when I give the word."

"Then I've always had the wrong idea. I thought it started when the engineer pulled a lever or did something. Thank you ever so much."—Chicago Tribune.

HEALTH AND BEAUTY AID.

Cosmetics and lotions will not clear your complexion of pimples and blotches like Foley's Orino Laxative, for indigestion, stomach and liver trouble and habitual constipation. Cleanses the system and is pleasant to take.

Don't expect to find your field of labor full of shade trees.

TESTIFIES AFTER FOUR YEARS.

Carlisle Center, N. Y., G. B. Burhans, writes: "About four years ago I wrote you that I had been entirely cured of kidney trouble by taking two bottles of Foley's Kidney Remedy, and after four years I am again pleased to state that I have never had any return of those symptoms, and I am evidently cured to stay cured." Foley's Kidney Remedy will do the same for you.

Some people never run into debt; they jump into it.

Many people delude themselves by saying "It will wear away," when they notice symptoms of kidney and bladder trouble. This is a mistake. Take Foley's Kidney Remedy, and stop the drain on the vitality. It cures backache, rheumatism, kidney and bladder trouble, and makes every trace of pain, weakness, and urinary trouble disappear.

As the mind is bent so is the tongue inclined.

WARNING

Do not be persuaded into taking anything but Foley's Honey and Tar for chronic coughs, bronchitis, hay fever, asthma, and lung trouble, as it stops the cough and heals the lungs.

Dr. Abernethy, the great English physician, said, "Watch your kidneys. When they are affected, life is in danger." Foley's Kidney Remedy makes healthy kidneys, corrects urinary irregularities, and tones up the whole system.

Whiskey straight makes a man crooked.

A NARROW ESCAPE.

Edgar N. Bayliss, a merchant of Robinsonville, Del., wrote: "About two years ago I was thin and sick, and coughed all the time and if I did not have consumption, it was near to it. I commenced using Foley's Honey and Tar, and it stopped my cough, and I am now entirely well, and have gained twenty-eight pounds, all due to the good results from taking Foley's Honey and Tar."

I have noticed that the man who wants the lid put on his town is always the one who thinks he is entitled to sit on the lid.

Elderly People Helped Here

The last years of life are the happiest, and yet the most old calls on them long. It is then that the greatest care is exercised in [illegible] health. But the chief care should always be with regard to the food we eat and whether you are digesting it properly. You should not allow yourself to become constipated.

No doubt you have used some cathartic pills or other laxatives and have found them violent in their action and not good. Listen, you do not need to experience with violent cathartics. Use a mild laxative, Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. It is not new, only we are trying to find new friends for it.

A. A. Fels, of Johnston City, Ill., suffered for years from constipation and found his cure in Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. His wife uses it too with success. We could name hundreds of others. Some heard of it first through neighbors or friends; others through the doctor's offer to send any sufferer from a stomach, liver or bowel complaint a free sample bottle for trial, without charge. If you will send your name and address we will send you a trial bottle free of cost to your home. If the person thus favored claims then continue the treatment by buying a 50-cent or $1 bottle of your druggist, as all of them sell it. The people like children, should look to their health, it is well to mention that the purity of this remedy is vouched for without the U. S. government. Also, though a free bottle is sent to prove its merits, results are always guaranteed from the regular bottles bought of druggists, who will refund your money if it does not satisfy you. Send at least for the free test bottle today.

If there is anything about your ailment that you don't understand, or if you want any medical advice, write to the doctor, and he will answer you fully. There is no charge for this. Address Dr. Caldwell, 356 Caldwell Building, Monticello, Ills.

HOW TO CURE SKIN DISEASES.

The germs and their poisons which cause the disease must be drawn to the surface of the skin and destroyed. Salves and greasy lotions may give temporary relief, but they have not the power to destroy the germ life. ZEMO, a clean liquid for external use will draw to the surface and destroy the germ life, leaving a clean healthy skin. ZEMO positively cures Eczema, Pimples, Blackheads, Dandruff, Itching Piles and every form of skin or scalp disease. Messers Wright the druggists, endorse and recomend ZEMO and will give you a sample bottle.

THE ATLANTIC LINERS

Signs, Signals and Flags Used by the Various Companies.

COLORS OF THE BIG FUNNELS

In Some Cases They Are Very Much Alike, but the Night Lights Used by the Vessels of the Different Lines Are Quite Distinctive.

It is said that but comparatively few of the many thousands of persons that each year patronize the various lines of steamships crossing the Atlantic are familiar with the various distinguishing signs and signals employed by the vessels of the respective companies. Yet it is a very easy thing to tell at a glance to what line any given ship belongs—the American line, for instance.

About all that one must remember in the case of the vessels of our own line is that the funnels are black, each with its white band. When you see an Atlantic liner at night with a blue light forward, a red light amidships and a blue light aft you know at once that she is of the American line.

All Cunarders show a red funnel with black rings and a black top, while the night signals consist of a blue light and two roman candles, each throwing out six blue balls.

There are but two of the leading transatlantic lines the ships of which carry cream colored funnels—the North German Lloyd and the Holland-America lines. The first employs a perfectly plain funnel without any other color than cream, and the latter shows a cream funnel with a white band and green borders. Signals displayed at night by these lines are, in the case of the North German Lloyd, two blue red lights, one forward and one aft, and, in the case of the Holland-America line, a green light forward and aft, with a white light under the bridge.

Two lines use buff tunnels, the White Star and the Hamburg-American, the difference between the two being that, while the former shows a black top, the latter is plain buff throughout. White Star night signals are two green lights flashed simultaneously.

Quite a number of lines carry black funnels—the American with a white band, as mentioned above; the Anchor, which is entirely black; the Bristol, with a variegated and fancy touch, the black smokestack being relieved by a white band in the center and a blue star in the middle of the white band. In the regular service of the Hamburg-American line, as distinguished from the express service, we find that the color is plain black, while the Red Star is black with a white band and a black top.

The Scandinavian-American and the Wilson lines have red and black funnels, black in the first case with a red top and red funnel with a black top in the second.

The red funnel of the French line has a black top similar to the funnels of other lines, but with different proportions of color. On this line the night signals are a blue light forward, a white light amidships and a red light aft, forming the French tricolor.

At night the Anchor line of vessels shows a white light, then a red. The Bristol displays a green light only. The Hamburg-American ships for both services, regular and express, show two red-white-blue lights in quick succession at the stern. The Red Star displays three red lights, one forward, one aft and one amidships, all flashed together. The Scandinavian line employs one white-red, followed by one red-white light, and the Wilson puts out two red lights about sixty feet apart.

It will be observed from the foregoing that the night signals of all the different lines vary, while the funnels in some cases are very similar. This, however, does not lead to confusion, for in determining the line to which a vessel belongs one must also take into consideration the flag or pennant she flies. Every line, of course, carries a different "house flag," as it is called.

The flag of the Cunard line is red with a golden lion in the center, while that of the White Star vessels is of the same color, but swallowtail in shape and containing a white star. The house flag of the Red Star line is exactly the same as that of the White Star company with the colors reversed—flag white, star red.

The Atlantic Transport line flies a pretty flag of red, white and blue horizontal bars, with stars.—Edwin Torrisse in Cincinnati Commercial Tribune.

DRY GOODS FIRMS OF WEBSTER ANDERSON COMPANY AND ANDERSON & SON.

TECUMSEH AGAIN TO HAVE A FINE DOUBLE STORE.

Change to Take Place In a Very Few Days.

The many friends of the Webster Anderson company and S. W. Anderson & Son, will be glad to know that in a few days the two firms will be consolidated, an archway being cut between the two stores.

To the older friends, this will carry them back fourteen years, when the firm of Anderson & Co. was considered the largest in the county, people coming for miles around to trade and they expect again to attain that popularity, which was gained by their honesty and courtesy in their endeavor to please all customers.

The capital stock has been increased and the two stores will be filled to overflowing with new fall goods, at the most reasonable prices.

Indian Maid Promising.

W. F. Mann, in a recent interview, averred that of the ten offerings he now has upon the road, As Told in the Hills, is much beyond all the others in the matter of box-office earnings. Princess Wah-ta-Wasa, whom he is this season featuring, in the production, has proven a genuine surprise by her graceful and minute portrayal of Pamnena and is exhibiting a thorough mastery of the lines that gives promise of an amount of talent heretofore unsuspected in the Iroquois forest child. The company opened at the Columbus Theatre, Chicago, August 23, and has met with good returns all through the middle West. At Aurora, Ill., they gave two performances to S. R. O, and broke the house record at Mendota, turning several hundred people from the doors.

If any of the people of Tecumseh care to meet Princess Wah-ta-Wasa, she will entertain in the parlors of the Barrett hotel, Tuesday afternoon from 4 to 5 o'clock. You are invited to call and meet this charming little Indian girl.

HOME CURE FOR ECZEMA

Oil of Wintergreen, Thymol, Glycerine, Etc., Used as a Simple Wash.

It really seems strange that so many people suffer year in and year out with eczema when it is now no longer a secret that oil of wintergreen mixed with thymol glycerine, etc makes a wash that is bound to cure.

Old obstinate cases it is true cannot be cured in a few days, but absolutely no sufferer from eczema who ever used this simple wash and did not find immediately that wonderful soothing calm, cool sensation that come when the itch is taken away. Instantly upon applying a few drops of the wash and did not find immediately that wonderful soothing calm cool sensation that comes when the itch is taken away. Instanty upon applying a few drops of the wash the remedy takes affect, the itch is allayed. There is no need of experiment the patient knows at once.

Instead trying to compound the oil of wintergreen, thymol, glycerine, etc., in the right proportion ourselves we are using a prescription which is universally found the most effective. It is known as the D. D. D. Prescription, or oil of wintergreen Compound. It is made by D. D D. Co of Chicago and our long experience with this remedy has given us great confidence in its merits.

INQUEST

Over the Remains of James E. Lowry.

The inquest over the death of James Elliot Lowry was held in the council rooms Tuesday morning by Coroner Stevens. The jury, composed of Dr. E. E. Hendershott, A. S. VanWinkle, James Elliott, James Lowry, C. A. Everetts and O. B. Finch, decided that James Elliott Lowry came to his death by being hit and run over by D. It is a curious and significant fact that men who can be satisfied with distorted and unreliable news in other departments will instantly resent the falsifying of sporting news. Those interested in the sporting events of the world long ago discovered that THE CHICAGO RECORD-HERALD is a reliable authority in this field, printing all the news, day by day, year in and year out, with a steady accuracy and terse completeness unsurpassed anywhere. It has a large staff of editors and reporters, who devote all their time and skill to this department alone. THE SUNDAY RECORD-Herald has a separate sporting supplement of four full pages—a newspaper in itself—in which the athletic events of the whole country. reported by telegraph to the last moment of going to press, are presented with numerous illustrations. All that is of interest in baseball, football, racing, athletics, hunting, automobiling, yachting, golf, tennis, boxing and other sports can always be found in reliable form in THE RECORD—HERALD. Every man on the sporting staff is an expert trained to see straight and write the truth without bias. This is the good and sufficient reason why THE RECORD—HERALD is the favorite paper among the true lovers of sport.

AMUSEMENTS

One of the most successful Southern plays, "Tempest and Sunshine" will be seen at the BRADLEY OPERA HOUSE for an engagement of ONE NIGHT on FRIDAY, Sept. 10. "Tempest and Sunshine" is played by one of the highest salaried companies playing on local stages, consequently the production will be something worth seeing. "Tempest" and "Sunshine" are two very beautiful Southern girls. The former having an uncontrolable temper and always taking pleasure in making trouble for others, and the other just the opposite of her sister; gentle and patient and trying to undo the trouble her sister has caused. A beautiful love story is woven throughout the play, making it of such an intensely interesting nature that one forgets they are only in a theatre and not down in the South. The costumes are all of the old fashioned style, quaint and pretty, the gowns being of airy crinoline stuffs made in the fashions of Dolly Madison times, which is the period of the play. Beautiful Southern melodies are introduced with striking effect. Anyone who is interested in seeing a beautiful play sumptuously mounted and presented in a first-class manner should not fail to see "Tempest and Sunshine."

Coughs, Colds, Croup, Hemorrhages and Sore Lungs are surely cured by it. Best for Hay Fever, Grip and Whooping Cough. 50c and $1.00. Trial bottle free. Guaranteed by C. A. Wright & Son.

At the end of July there were but 362 girls in this home, as compared to 382 for the previous month. DON'T SWALLOW DRUGS TO CURE CATARRH.

Hyomel (pronounced High-o-me) is a germ killing vapor of air which when breathed either through the mouth or nose will kill catarrh germs and sooth and heal the inflamed and mutilated membrane. Hyomel is such a powerful germ destroyer that it penetrates every fold and crevice of the mucous membrane of the nose and throat. And it kills the catarrh germs because it gets where those health destroyers are. Hyomel is pleasant to use; it is made from concentrated extract of pine and eucalyptus taken from trees in inland Australia where catarrh was never known.

Breathe in this pleasant, healing yet germ killing air (you'll like to use Hyomel) through a small hard rubber inhaler that comes with each outfit and relief will come quickly. Hyomel is guaranteed by C. A. Wright & Son to cure catarrh or money back; it gives most wonderful relief to consumptives. A complete outfit which includes an inhaler, a bottle of Hyomel and simple instructions for use costs $1.00, and extra bottles if afterward needed cost 50 cents. Leading druggists every where sell Hyomel.

KENNEDY'S LAXATIVE COUGH SYRUP

It's a pity when sick ones drug the stomach or stimulate the heart and kidneys. That is all wrong! A weak stomach means weak stomach nerves, always. And this is also true of the heart and kidneys. NEEDFUL KNOWLEDGE.

TECUMSEH PEOPLE SHOULD LEARN TO DETECT THE APPROACH OF KIDNEY DISEASE.

The symptoms of kidney trouble are so unmistakable that they leave no ground for doubt. Sick kidneys excrete a thick, cloudy, offensive urine, full of sediment, irregular of passage, or attended by a sensation of scalding. The back aches constantly, headaches and dizzy spells may occur and the victim is often weighed down by a feeling of languor and fatigue. Neglect these warnings and there is danger of dropsy, Bright's Disease, or diabetes. Any one of these symptoms is warning enough to begin treating the kidneys at once. Delay often proves fatal.

George D. Chaplin, Ottawa St. Tecumseh, Mich., says: "I used Doan's Kidney Pills, procured from C. A. Wright & Son's drug store and they lived up to the claims made for them. When I procured this remedy I was feeling miserable but after a short use my health was greatly improved. I have no hesitation in recommending Doan's Kidney Pills, as I know they are a reliable kidney remedy." For Sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster & Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, Sole Agents for the United States.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

JAPAN A LAND OF COLOR.

Farms of Two or Three Acres Divided Into Many Tiny Fields.

Land is so scarce in Japan and the people so numerous that a farm rarely consists of more than an acre or two. These little farms are divided up into tiny fields. During the season of the year in which we made our journey one of these fields was filled with sprouting barley, light green in color; another field, perhaps the next, with vetch, a lavender colored, cloverlike fodder; a neighboring field with a dark green grass from the seed of which a lamp oil is manufactured; another with the pale yellow flowers of the mustard, and scattered here and there fields filled with what looked like a variety of lily, some white, some red, some yellow, but all equally brilliant.

Then to get the complete picture you must imagine patches of flowering azaleas dotting the roadside; towering, round topped camellia trees breaking the sky line with frequent splashes of bright green; usually in the shade of these trees houses with white plastered walls and red tiled roofs; about the more pretentious of these houses white plastered walls, above which appeared a profusion of palms, roses and strange native flowers, and in the doorways of the garden walls kimono clad Japanese girls, the kimonos as many and as gayly colored as the garden that framed them.

I have traveled in but one other country that is so gayly colored, and that was some few years ago, when, in the company of a number of other youngsters and in evil smelling magic lantern, I used to make frequent visits to the Land of Primary Colors.—George MacAdam in Outing Magazine.

Good Kitchen Company.

One housewife in this town doesn't know anything about the servant problem, at least so much of it as has to do with the keeping of a maid of all work, the quality of such service not being counted. This is because her servants always become devoted to her because of her brightness and magnanimous treatment of them. Having only the one servant of doubtful skill and accomplishments, this housewife has to spend a good deal of time in her own kitchen. The other day Julia expressed her appreciation this way: "Miss Fanny, yo' ce'tinly is good kitchen comp'ny."—Louisville Times.

Two Hamlets.

Sir Beerbohm Tree and Wilson Barrett gave London their production of "Hamlet" almost contemporaneously. A well known wit who was asked his opinion of the dual Hamlets nonchalantly made answer: "Tree's Hamlet is funny without being vulgar, but Barrett's is vulgar without being funny."

Weak Kidneys

Weak Kidneys, surely point to weak kidney Nerves. The Kidneys like the Heart, and the Stomach, find their weakness not in the organ itself, but in the nerves that control and guide and strengthen them. Dr. Shoop's Restorative is a medicine specifically prepared to reach these controlling nerves. To cure the Kidneys alone, is futile. It is a waste of time, and of money as well.

If your back aches or is weak, if the urine scalds, or is dark and cloudy, if you have symptoms of Brights or other distressing or dangerous kidney disease, try Dr. Shoop's Restorative a month—Tablets or Liquid—and see what it can and will do for you. Druggists recommend and sell

THE CAMERA.

Some of the Wonderful Things of Which It Is Capable.

The camera, which divides time into thousandths of a second and records the impressions of each, makes permanent pictures of events which pass too quickly for the dull human retina to recognize. It is only through the camera that the motions of the wings of flying birds and of the legs of swift running animals have been analyzed. To the camera the fuzzy drivers of the swiftly speeding locomotives stand out clear cut and stationary, while each flying drop of rain in the driven storm is distinct and seems frozen in its place. The tarpon fisherman, familiar with the first wild leap of the frenzied fish as it casts hook and bait fifty feet in the air, sees first in the finished picture the outstretched gills, the convulsive opening and closing of which had escaped his eye, however closely he may have looked for it.

Often the eye of the camera will decipher documents of which the writing had been substantially obliterated by age, and I have successfully copied with the camera the utterly faded photograph of a classmate of forty years previous and thereby been enabled to present to a grizzled veteran a likeness of his curly haired youth. Changes in the pigment of the skin undiscoverable by the eye appear with distinctness on the sensitive plate, and it is said that ample warning of approaching disease has been thereby given.

By means of the invisible rays lying beyond the violet of the spectrum objects may be photographed in the darkness and, with the aid of the so called X rays, through substances otherwise opaque. When from the darkness of night and storm the forked lightning flashes, the camera makes a vivid and permanent picture of each fiery trail. Creatures that travel by night can be "caught" in the brief blaze of a magnesium charged pistol, the flash of which is of too short duration for the creature to move or the dull human eye to recognize the subject.—A. W. Dimock in Van Norden's.

Learned It by Ear.

The dear little girl arose, bowed and recited it in this manner:

"Lettuce Denby up N. Dewing,
Widow Hartford N. E. Fate;
Still H. E. Ving, still per Sue Wing,
Learn to label Aunty Waite."

Then, with the tumultuous applause of the audience ringing in her ears, she sat down in happy confusion.—Chicago Tribune.

Her Doings.

"His wife made a fool of him."

"What reason have you for saying that?"

"I have his own word for it."

"Get out!"

"I have. He says that all he is he owes to his wife."—Houston Post.

A FINDING OF HEARTS

Financial Reverses That Brought Their Recompense.

By MARION CHOLMONDELEY.

[Copyright, 1909, by Associated Literary Press.]

The big automobile jarred slightly as it went over the crossing, and the woman, tucked in one corner of the cushioned seat which would have held three comfortably, frowned. Little things had a wonderful power to annoy Marcia Weatherby.

Always she had had more than she wanted, and the deprivation of having nothing to wish for is a far greater one than the ordinary person imagines. From a girlhood home of luxury she had gone to one even richer in the comforts of life when she married Jack Weatherby five years before.

Her path was hedged by people patiently waiting to do her will, to smooth all roughnesses, to anticipate her very thoughts. Yet her latent irritability had grown, fed by a weariness which was becoming chronic.

And Jack himself was no less bound and hampered. She realized dimly that he, too, was helpless through duties and demands custom had fastened on him.

Today as she rolled swiftly along she was overwhelmed with a sudden swift vision of the emptiness of it all. They were forever doing things about which they cared nothing at all simply because it was expected of them to do so. And further and further apart would they grow, even as the last five years had shown her. Marcia Weatherby bit her lip to keep back the tears, for she had cared deeply for Jack when they were married. Perhaps she will now, but she never had the leisure to even wonder about it. And he—his kindness seemed abstracted, secondary.

The machine turned noiselessly into the drive leading up to the big pile she called home. She knew just the process of entering it. First the chauffeur would open the door of the car and help her to descend, the huge front door would swing open, disclosing the footman with his chin at the correct angle, and at the door of the tiny gold and white elevator leading to her rooms Felice, her maid, would be waiting to take her wraps and hand bag and conduct her to the tiresome mysteries of another toilet.

The chauffeur and the footman performed their expected duties, but the program was varied when she stepped from the elevator. Instead of Felice, Jack stood waiting for her.

Marcia's surprise died away when she saw his face. That face, with its look of haggard trouble, silenced her. Without a word she swiftly followed to her sitting room, and the door closed behind them.

"What is it?" she demanded breathlessly, terror clutching her heart as she looked at him.

Jack Weatherby had good stuff in him and could dare much, but his throat contracted as he took in her beauty, her fragileness, her costly array. Helpless, sheltered—that was what Marcia was. Then he spoke almost curtly.

"I'll make it short," he said. "Listen, Marcia, and see if you can comprehend. It doesn't seem possible a man could take a fortune the size of mine and drop it into the middle of the ocean, but that's what I've done. Stocks. It's all gone. We haven't a penny to our name. Even this house is gone. Maybe the grocer 'll trust us, but likely not! How many meals do your think your pearls would buy?"

He flung himself into a chair, with a laugh bitter and hopeless, and waited, just what for he hardly knew—hysterics probably.

The woman before him bent forward, with lips parted. "I can't quite realize"—she gasped. Then she straightened out and walked to the window, gazing out over the lake. When she turned and came to him she was smiling. Besides the smile, there was a look he had never seen on her face before, an expression of interest, of energy.

"Jack," she said, slipping down beside him, her arms about him, "I don't know why, but somehow the only thing I can feel is relief. I believe I'm glad. Why, it leaves us—only each other. Do you see? I'm so deadly tired of all this, of this life! Do you remember the Colorado ranch my father left me? How he held it when the crash came I'm sure I don't know, but he did. Well, we'll go there."

Jack Weatherby laughed even as his heart warmed with joy at the way Marcia had met the blow. "You," he cried, "on a ranch, and a small, insignificant one at that—in a calico dress possibly, and one servant, maybe none, and neighbors ten miles away! Oh, no, Marcia; you don't know what you are talking about! I'll begin again here!"

Marcia Weatherby got to her feet, with an excited little laugh. It was novel to have something to do. "You will not," she declared. "It is the ranch for us!"

And, much to his surprise, Jack Weatherby found it was indeed the Colorado ranch. Never had Marcia been so animated, so busy. Her generous impulsive friends were always indignant because she had laughed at their condolences.

"This is the happiest day of my life," she told her husband when the train pulled out of the Chicago station and they were bound for the west with only a few hundred dollars to their names, but with health and courage and work before them.

One year later Jack Weatherby came home at a gallop, swung from his horse at the door to the rough but comfortable house that was home. His face was brown, his eye keen, his dress negligee.

On the porch stood a woman little, graceful, in a linen shirt waist suit that had the air Marcia's clothes could not avoid having. There was color in her cheeks, a sparkle in her eyes, and she laughed like a girl as she ran down to meet him. Arms about one another, they turned to watch the sun set across the distant mountains and were silent before the glory of it.

As the chill of coming evening suddenly itself felt they turned toward the house, a peace enveloping them which needed no words.

"And you thought," Marcia said proudly, "I couldn't do it, Jack! That I didn't mean it! I love the life!"

"You are a wonder, Marcia! And so am I, if you did but know it!" he said half seriously. "The best of it all, dear, is that we've found how much we really are to each other. There's time for that out here in this space!"

BREWERY RAIDED.

Officers Believe They Found Beer in Jackson Institution.

Jackson, Mich., Sept. 13.—Sheriff Bean and his deputies Sunday raided the plant of the Eberle Brewing company and brought nearly a dray load of alleged beer and near-beer to the basement of the county jail, where it will be stored, to be used later as evidence.

While no warrants have been issued, it is understood that complaints will be made against officials of the brewing company.

Since the "dry" law went into effect in this county May 1 the brewery has been turning out a product known as "temperance beer."

Building Many Vessels.

Detroit, Mich., Sept. 13.—Lake shipyards now have orders for eighteen steamers for delivery in 1910. The value of these vessels is between $6,000,000 and $6,500,000. This large amount of work is about equally divided between the American Shipbuilding company and the Great Lakes Engineering works, the former corporation having ten boats for its various yards, while the Detroit concern has eight vessels on its books.

W. B. Thompson, president of the New Orleans cotton exchange, has issued a circular letter to farmers, wherein he offers a new plan for the marketing of the cotton crop. He urges farmers to market their crops at the rate of 10 per cent a month. According to Mr. Thompson, this would create a stable market for both buyer and seller.

MAY RENEW ROMANCE.

Both Duke of the Abruzzi and Katherine Elkins Are in France.

Marseilles, Sept. 13.—The Duke of the Abruzzi has just arrived here on board the steamer Oceana. An immense crowd gathered at the wharf to greet the distinguished Italian, about whom clings the popular idea that his trip to the Himalayas was the direct result of the rupture of his romance with Miss Katherine Elkins.

The duke later received several correspondents. He quietly checked the attempts of several American to ascertain whether he intended to go to Paris, where Miss Elkins was known to be. The greatest curiosity exists as to the duke's destination.

Paris, Sept. 13.—Neither Miss Katherine Elkins, her mother, nor her brother, who have arrived here, would make any statement to newspapermen as to their plans. The arrival of the Duke of the Abruzzi at Marseilles has created much speculation in the American colony as to whether this does not mean a renewal of the romance which many Americans here believe never was really broken off. It is reported that the duke, after going to Italy, will proceed to Switzerland, where he will meet Miss Elkins.

Beverly, Mass., Set. 13.—When President Taft motors into Boston Tuesday afternoon to be the guest of the chamber of commerce at a dinner that evening he will have actually started on one of the most notable trips ever taken by a chief magistrate of the United States. After spending the night at a hotel in Boston, the president will leave at 10 a. m. on Wednesday on the first stage of his journey, the first stopping off place being at Chicago, where Mr. Taft will be entertained part of the day by the Commercial club and the remainder of his stay by the Hamilton club.

Brescia, Italy, Sept. 13.—Glenn H. Curtiss, the American aviator, who won the international cup at Rheims, has added further honors to his brilliant record by capturing the grand prize in the aviation meet here. Curtiss, in his flight for the grand prize, covered 50 kilometres (31.05 miles) or five times around the course in 49 minutes 24 seconds. His share of the $10,000 prize is $5,000.

Rosier, the French aviator, also competed for the grand prize, making a flight of 50 kilometres in 1 hour 10 minutes and 18 seconds. To him was awarded the second prize.

Curtiss also won the prize for quick starting, his time being 8 1-5 seconds. Leblanc was second in this contest in 9 3-5 seconds.

The last day of the international contest brought out an immense crowd of spectators. Princess Letitia, the stepmother of the Duke of the Abruzzi, was present. She warmly congratulated Mr. Curtiss and asked if he would take her with him.

Mr. Curtiss replied that he would be delighted if his machine were fitted for carrying passengers.

GOES TO MEET PEARY.

Associated Press Sends Tug Carrying Correspondents.

Bonne Bay, N. F., Sept. 13.—After a run of 270 miles from Sydney, N. S., the tug Thomas H. Douglas, chartered by the Associated Press and carrying several correspondents, arrived at this port at 6 a. m. Sunday morning and departed again at noon toward Battle Harbor, Labrador, to meet Commander Robert E. Peary on his ship, the Roosevelt.

Bonne Bay is a trading and fishing village of 500 souls.

Inquiry as to whether Peary's ship, the Roosevelt, was still at Battle Harbor, met with conflicting replies, and no reliable information could be obtained by wire.

Germany's Big Army Assembles.

Mergentheim, Wurtemberg, Sept. 13.—The annual maneuvers of the imperial army commenced here today. One hundred and twenty thousand men and twenty-nine thousand horses will be engaged under the supervision of Emperor William.

PEARY'S ARRIVAL ANXIOUSLY AWAITED

Still Held Up at Battle Harbor For Repairs.

Sydney, N. S., Sept. 13.—All Sydney awaits the coming of Commander Robert E. Peary, to give welcome to the finder of the "Big Nail" when he first sets foot on the American continent after his long but successful search for the North Pole.

Mrs. Peary, wife of the Arctic explorer, received word directly from her husband Sunday. She stated that a wireless telegram from Commander Peary at Battle Harbor said that he was well and would keep her posted. She added that she assumed her husband was still at Battle Harbor and that no definite time had been set for his departure for this city. Miss Marie Peary received a telegram from her father, congratuatling her on her sixteenth birthday.

Commander Peary is moving southward in the same precise manner that that characterized his methodical and well calculated dash for the pole. The Roosevelt is being overhauled and painted at Assizes Habor, near Battle Harbor, and her commander has ordered that every injury sustained in her long stay in the ice cradle of Cape Sheridan shall be removed before she sails for this port. The bunkers of the Roosevelt are being filled, as it is calculated that it wil take nearly five days steady steaming before she reaches this port.

Commander Peary, in all probability, will remain here two days and then go with his family to his home on Eagle Island, in Casco Bay, Me., where he will rest for a day or two, proceeding thence to Washington to make his official report to the government. That That Commander Peary is prepared to substantiate by evidence his statement that Dr. Frederick A. Cook did not reach the pole is stated by nearly everyone of the large colony of Arctic explorers, scientists and others who have gathered here to greet him.

State Commissioner of Highways Ely and Deputy Rodgers, who have been inspecting newly built roads in Saginaw county the last two days, have approved of six roads upon which the state will pay to the county a bounty of $3,232.

Northern Michigan promises a light cabbage yield this fall. Harvest of the crop has commenced, and the indications are that not more than half the usual output will be gathered.

Bert Selby, a well known employe of the Kern Brewing company of Port Huron, has been missing from his home for a week. This is the second time that he has left home, the first occasion being about three years ago.

The public domain commission at Lansing has drawn a line on the northern boundaries of Mason, Lake, Oscecola, Calre Gladwin and Arenac counties and decided that 110,000 acres shall be selected north of that line for the new forest reserve of the state.

Death stopped the preparations for a golden wedding at the summer home of Mr. and Mrs. George R. Barnes, at Muskegon, Mr. Barnes dying suddenly. Mr. and Mrs. George Barnes would have celebrated their fiftieth anniversary in a short time.

While on a freight run north of Cadillac, G. R. & I. Brokeman Tom Sheridan was the victim of an unusual accident. As a warning to on-coming trains, Sheridan was about to light a fuse and place it on the rear of his train. Just as he was lighting it, the thing exploded, burning his hands, arms and face so severely that he will be unable to work for some time.

Ball Players Injured.

Rochester, Mich., Sept. 13.—A peculiar occurrence took place here Sunday, when two ball players of the local team sustained injuries to their hands, one of them serious. Paul Confer, eighteen years old, catcher on the team, smashed the index member of the right hand so badly that it had to be amputated. Marvin Wright also broke the ring finger of his right hand.

BELIEVE THEY HAVE RIGHT MAN

Prosecutor and Police Chief Think Dr. Fritch Implicated.

IN MILLMAN GIRL'S DEATH

Fritch is Cheerful Despite Probability of Long Trial Ahead—Is Not Held as Blind In Order to Capture Another Physician—Inquest Over Dead Girl's Body Adjourned.

Detroit, Mich., Sept. 13.—When Dr. Fritch is taken to police court today he will face Prosecutor Van Zile and Captain McDonnell, who believe he is the man who treated Maybelle Millman, the Ann Arbor girl whose dismembered body was found in Ecorse creek. Fritch, however, is confident of his discharge.

Captain McDonnell states that his theory of the case is unchanged. Prosecutor Van Zile says evidence will soon be secured against the doctor which will make a conviction very certain. Here are the words each used:

Captain McDonnell: "Fritch is the only man concerned in this case. In him we believe we have the man wanted. We are not looking for a young man."

Prosecutor Van Zile: "Fritch is the man we want, but we want more proof. He will be taken to police court today, but will be remanded to the custody of the police. We are not ready to make the complaint."

Fritch is as cheerful as a cricket, denies any knowledge of the treatment and says he is as safe as anyone could be. He stated he did not know what action is to be taken, and didn't care.

The work of the detectives is proceeding on the same lines that have been followed in the past few days. The statement made by Dr. Clark that no visible indications were present that the young woman had not been treated has not upset the officers in the least.

It was stated that Fritch was possibly being held as a blind until the police could nab another physician who might be taken unawares, thinking that the police had settled on Fritch, but Captain McDonnell said last night that as far as a blind was concerned there was none to his knowledge.

Mrs. Alice Renaud, Miss Henning and Mrs. Nellis are not being held, but it was said by Captain McDonnell that they could be called at any time.

The inquest over the death of Miss Millman will be held in Justice Torango's office, in Ford City, Sept. 24. The inquest was to have been held last Friday, but at the request of Prosecutor Van Zile it has been postponed.

Ann Arbor, Mich., Sept. 13.—Local police officers working on the Millman mystery are of the one opinion that the statement made by Dr. Neil A. Gates of 117 Liberty street to the effect that when the slain girl visited his office a day or so prior to her leaving here she complained only of stomach trouble, will add great strength to the assertion of Dr. George Fritch that he is innocent. Dr. Gates said:

"I have known the Millman family for some time and saw Maybelle on the streets now and then. I returned from my vacation on July 28, and the next day she called on me, complaining of stomach trouble. I took her in charge, and she made two visits after that, the last one being just before she left."

Dr. Gates is one of the most reputable physicians in Ann Arbor.

PEARY TOOK COOK'S STORES

Dane Sets Up Claim In Defense of Cook.

LATTER APPARENTLY RETICENT

Would Not Publicly Tell of Affair Wherein Peary Took Over House In Which Goods Were Left—Put Big New Foundland Sailor on Guard. Had to Use His Fists to Get In.

Copenhagen, Sept. 13.—A remarkable letter, giving Dr. Frederick A. Cook's version of the trouble with Commander Peary over supplies, appears in the newspaper Politiken. The letter was written by Dr. Norman Hansen, a prominent Danish physician, who several times visited Greenland.

Dr. Cook told practically the same story to one of his closest American friends just a week ago, before Commander Peary reappeared on the scene, but said that he did not intend to make it public because it might lead to unpleasantness.

Dr. Hansen was with Cook for some time in Greenland and returned with him on the Danish government steamer Hans Egede. In his letter he says:

"Now that Dr. Cook has gone, I am no longer under any obligation to keep silence and will exercise my right to publish the story about the house in Annatok, a story which Dr. Cook himself had too much delicacy to relate to the world.

Whitney In Charge.

"Dr. Cook had built his house for stores in Annatok, north of Etah, and it was this depot which he started to reach in February, 1909, crossing Smith sound. It was a pretty large house, the walls being built of heavily filled provision boxes, so that Dr. Cook knew that when this important points was reached everything was safe. He had, before the start, arranged with a young friend named Whitney that he have the right to use the house while hunting musk oxen for sport in the winter of 1908-09.

"When Dr. Cook and his two Esquimaux, exhausted and half starved, came within a shot's distance of the house in Annatok young Whitney came out to bid him welcome, but inside the house was a stranger, a giant Newfoundland boatswain, on watch. This man had been placed in Dr. Cook's house by Peary when the latter passed Etah with his ship bound north. Peary had given the boatswain a written order, which commenced with the following words: 'This house belongs to Dr. Frederick A. Cook, but Dr. Cook is long ago dead, and there is no use to search for him. Therefore, I Commander Robert E. Peary, install my boatswain in this deserted house.'

Copied the Document.

"This paper the boatswain, who could neither read nor write, exhibited to Dr. Cook, and the latter took a copy of this wonderful document. This copy, however, he does not intend to publish if Peary's course does not force him to do so. Dr. Cook gave me a lively account of how the young millionaire, Mr. Whitney, during the whole winter was treated like a dog by the giant boatswain and how he had calmly witnessed the sailor bartering Dr. Cook's provisions for fox and bear skins for himself. Dr. Cook also had to put a good face on the unpleasant situation. He had to beg to get into his own house and had to make a compromise with the boatswain with strong fists.

"Dr. Cook made a present of the house, with all its contents, to his two faithful Esquimaux, with the proviso that Whitney was to have the use of the house as long as his hunting trip lasted, but he was compelled to let the Newfoundland boatswain continue his watch. The boatswain, however, received strict orders not to exchange any more of the provisions or guns.

Where Is Whitney?

"Now, I suppose the sailor will celebrate his triumphal entrance into New York aboard Peary's ship, while Whitney is, where? Aboard his own yacht Jeannie? Or, perhaps, he has not wanted to wait for his own boat and has gone aboard Peary's ship.

"To Mr. Whitney he gave his instruments and his observations, as he thought, those precious things were safer there than on the long sledge trip in the spring across Melville bay; but all his notebooks and greasy and soiled record books, which have been closely written upon, he kept and carried with him."

If a small boy is quiet his mother wonders what ails him.

TESTIFIES AFTER FOUR YEARS.

Carlisle Center, N. Y., G. B. Foley's Kidney Remedy will do the same for you.

Some people never run into debt: they jump into it.

Many people delude themselves by saying "It will wear away," when they notice symptoms of kidney and bladder trouble. This is a mistake. Take Foley's Kidney Remedy, and stop the drain on the vitality. It cures backache, rheumatism, kidney and bladder trouble, and makes every trace of pain, weakness, and urinary trouble disappear.

PRINCESS SUSETTE AND THE SENTRY.

A Spell of Genuine Joy For the Royal Baby.

By HARRY C. CARR.

There was a vivid flash in the sunshine as the sentry by the palace gate raised his saber in salute to the Princess Susette.

Her highness had run away from her nurse and stood peeking out curiously into the great world beyond the gates. The children of the lodgekeeper were making mud pies in the creek that skirted the palace grounds. The Princess Susette wished that she, too, might make mud pies.

The flash from the sentry's saber caught her eye. The Princess Susette meditatively sucked one little pink thumb and surveyed him with round eyed wonder. He looked big and terrible on his great gray troop horse.

"What makes you do that?" inquired Princess Susette plaintively, for the long saber at "present arms" was glimmering with little hot flashes of light.

"I WISH I COULD MAKE MUD PIES," SAID HER HIGHNESS.

"Because you are a princess," said the sentry briefly.

A wave of discontent swept over the face of the Princess Susette.

"I don't want to be a princess," she wailed. "They won't let you do nossin' when you are a princess."

The sentry sat in frozen silence.

The eye of the princess wandered back to the lodgekeeper's children making mud pies by the creek.

"I wish I could made mud pies," said her highness wistfully.

The Princess Susette came timidly out from the gateway and touched the sentry's hussar boot with a tiny dimpled hand.

"Mr. Soldier," she said softly, "I wish I could make mud pies."

"The orders are that nobody can pass the gate," growled the sentry.

The sweet lips of the Princess Susette quivered, and the big blue eyes of the Princess Susette filled with tears.

"Oh, Mr. Soldier," she sobbed, "I'm such a lonely little girl! I wish I had some one to play wiz."

The heart of the Princess Susette overflowed with woe. Her highness leaned heavily against the shoulder of the big war horse and wept bitter tears on the sabertache of the sentry. The boot of the sentry was streaked with royal tears, and the black from the sentry's stirrup strap begrimed the face of the princess.

The sentry glared straight out to the front and center through a strange mist that dimmed the outlines of the gatepost opposite.

The gray troop horse bent his head and softly nozzled the plump, heaving shoulders of the unhappy little Princess Susette.

The light of an inspiration came into the tear stained face of the princess. She sat down in the middle of the road and peeled off her shoes and stockings. The little barelegged maid in stiff white lawn presented a queer figure of a princess as her highness paddled back to the sentry.

"Mr. Soldier," she began tentatively, but the speech died on her lips. She had just discovered that making figures in the dust with one's bare toe is the most fascinating amusement in the world. She was recalled from her absorbing occupation by the distant rattle of pony hoofs. Her nurse was in pursuit.

The princess looked up eagerly at the sentry.

"Mr. Soldier!" she said.

The sentry looked straight out to the front and center and paid no heed.

"Mr. Soldier!" this in a breathless panic.

Still the sentry would not look, so she gave his leg a vicious pinch.

The sentry's saber flashed again to "present arms."

"Can I go now?" asked the Princess Susette.

"Nobody can pass," said the sentry gruffly.

The princess looked up at him slyly.

"Mr. Soldier, nursy wouldn't let me go barefooted because she said only little nobodies went barefooted. I'm nobody now."

And the Princess Susette held up her shoes and stockings for him to see.

On one side the sentry could hear the hoof beats growing louder, and through the shrubbery he caught a glimpse of a pony cart driven hard. On the other side he heard the splash of water and the happy shout of the lodgekeeper's children. The lips of the lonely little princess were beginning to quiver again when the sentry's saber flashed a defiant gleam as it rose in salute.

"Pass!" said the sentry shortly.

The Princess Susette, barelegged, ran down the road and shyly made her way into the bakery business with the lodgekeeper's children. The sentry glanced out of the corner of his eye to the right of him, to the left of him. No one was nigh.

Then he called cautiously after the Princess Susette: "Build a dam across the creek. That's more fun than making mud pies."

When the pony cart came dashing up in hot haste, with a groom and a frightened nurse, the sentry, without a trace of expression in his face, was staring at the gatepost opposite.

"Where is the Princess Susette?" gasped the white faced nurse.

The sentry sat in stern silence. It was against his orders to talk.

"Where is the Princess Susette?" demanded the nurse in sudden terror.

The sentry stared on at the gatepost opposite, but beyond the gate came a childish treble that the nurse knew. The Princess Susette was shrieking with delight over her first mud pie.

The nurse grabbed the lines from the groom and urged the pony forward by jerking the lines backward after the manner of women. The sentry's horse moved majestically out from the gatepost and blocked the way.

"Get out of the way!" ordered the nurse furiously.

"You cannot pass!" said the sentry coldly.

"I want the Princess Susette!" cried the nurse wildly.

She jerked the pony's head and tried to turn by the sentry, but a great gauntlet caught the pony's bridle and held it in a vise. The pony, bewildered by the whip behind, began to plunge, and the groom had to run to his head.

The distracted nurse scrambled from the cart and ran with flying skirts toward the gate, but the gray troop horse felt the dig of sharp spurs and plunged desperately out to head her off. Crowded into a corner by the palace gate, the nurse called to the groom to drive on and get the Princess Susette.

The troop horse wheeled, and the sentry whipped out a gleaming pistol from his saddle holster.

"Halt!" he thundered, and the order rang in the ears of the groom like a pistol shot. The pistol looked big and black, and the gaunt soldier by the gate with his bearskin hussar cap and the scarlet dolman over his shoulder was terrible to look upon.

The groom slunk back, and the nurse wept in despair.

* * * * * * *

It was the best time the Princess Susette ever had in her whole life.

When she came back the hair had straggled down into her highness' face and there was a smudge of blue black mud across the tip of her highness' little snub nose. Her highness' stockings, wet as a dish rag, were slung around her highness' neck in a lovely way that the lodgekeeper's children had shown her. The princess carried one shoe in her hand; the other had floated off down the stream after a tempestuous career as an ocean liner, plying across the creek and carrying pebbles. The princess sniffed with a cold in her head, but the heart of the princess was glad.

The nurse, on the verge of hysterics, waited on the other side of the sentry line, like a football player ready to tackle.

But the Princess Susette turned back to the sentry.

"Mr. Soldier," she said.

The sentry was staring fixedly at the gatepost.

"Mr. Soldier," she said, tugging at his boot—"Mr. Soldier, I fink I would like to kiss you."

The sentry looked down out of the corner of his eye at the sweet little flushed face. The sentry sheathed his drawn saber with a clang. The sentry reached down his two big gauntlets to the Princess Susette.

The nurse and the groom were horrified at the spectacle.

The Tenderfoot Farmer

It was one of these experimental farmers, who put green spectacles on his cow and fed her shavings. His theory was that it didn't matter what the cow ate so long as she was fed. The questions of digestion and nourishment had not entered into his calculations.

It's only a "tenderfoot" farmer that would try such an experiment with a cow. But many a farmer feeds himself regardless of digestion and nutrition. He might almost as well eat shavings for all the good he gets out of his food. The result is that the stomach grows "weak" the action of the organs of digestion and nutrition are impaired and the man suffers the miseries of dyspepsia and the agonies of nervousness.

To strengthen the stomach, restore the activity of the organs of digestion and nutrition and brace up the nerves, use Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It is an unfailing remedy, and has the confidence of physicians as well as the praise of thousands healed by its use.

In the strictest sense "Golden Medical Discovery" is a temperance medicine. It contains neither intoxicants nor narcotics, and is as free from alcohol as from opium, cocaine and other dangerous drugs. All ingredients printed on its outside wrapper.

Don't let a dealer delude you for his own profit. There is no medicine for stomach, liver and blood "just as good" as "Golden Medical Discovery."

THE TRUE BLUEBEARD

He Was a Cruelly and Malevolently Maligned Frenchman.

NOT A MURDEROUS MONSTER.

He Had Matrimonial Misfortunes, It Is True, but He Seems to Have Been the Only One Who Came to Grief on Account of Them—His Tragic End.

The supposedly detestable Bluebeard, the monster of murderous polygamy, the very name of the ogre into whose mouth one used, if one could, in childhood's happy hour, to throw india rubber balls, was in truth a man who has been as cruelly and malevolently maligned by history as Nero, Richard III., Macbeth, tutti quanti. So says M. Anatole France—and pray who can speak with higher authority on the real facts of faery?—in "Les Sept Femmes de la Barbe-Bleue et Autres Contes Merveilleux." One knew already that Charles Perrault first wrote, in about 1600, the historical biography of Bluebeard, but one did not know until now how deeply Perrault, probably through false information, wronged the memory of an excellent and ill treated personage. From M. France we learn that M. Bernard de Montragoux, of old and noble descent, lived in 1650 or thereabouts at the ancestral Chateau Les Guillettes, on his estates between Complegne and Pierrefonds. The castle, of frowning outward aspect, was inside a treasure house of taste and wealth. Its owner, contrary to long existing tradition, wore no beard, only a mustache and a little tuft below the lower lip. He was known through the countryside as Bluebeard because his hair was very black, and therefore his close shaven cheeks and chin were markedly blue. He was a fine figure of a man who, in spite of his manifest advantages as a good match, did not get on well with women of his own rank in life. This was due to an incurable shyness on his part. Pleasant and pretty girls who had been well brought up attracted him immensely, but also filled him with an indescribable terror.

The first notable result of this affliction was that the unfortunate orphan, for such he had been since his early youth, incapable of making proposals for the hand of any of the attractive and high born ladies in the neighborhood, married a certain Colette Passage, a fascinating girl in her way, against whose character nothing seems known, who was going round the country with a dancing bear. Things went well enough for a few months, and then Colette, who had at first reveled in being a lady of quality, began to long for her old freedom. The longing became irresistible, and at last she took her departure secretly with her justly beloved bear. It is noteworthy that they made their escape by way of a room that had a door leading to what had been water meadows, and so to open country. Perrault called this room "le petit cabinet," but it was also known as "the wretched princesses' room," because a Florentine painter had covered its walls with the most lifelike figures of Circe, Niobe and Procris. The tragic effect of these paintings was enhanced by the porphyry flooring of the room, which suggested bloodstains.

Montragoux appeared inconsolable at the disappearance, which was complete, of Colette, his first wife, and doubtless his lot would have been far less unhappy if he had never tried to console himself. This, most unfortunately, he did by marrying one Jeanne de la Cloche, who turned out to be a violent dipsomaniac. Bluebeard was of a nature so kindly and noble that, although in a fit of mad passion she nearly killed him with a kitchen knife, he continually hoped to reclaim her by kindness. But one day she strayed into the generally shut up princesses' room, took the painted figures for real people and was so terrified that she rushed wildly into the open fields, tumbled into a deep pool, and so was drowned.

So things went on, a new affliction with each new wife, and in each case the final catastrophe was associated with the princesses' room. The climax to the unhappy career of the more than worthy and lovable Bernard de Montragoux came with his seventh wife, Jeanne de Lespoisse, cleverest and most fascinating of a family of utterly unscrupulous adventurers. No one knew anything about the supposed late husband of the mother. Of the two brothers, a dragoon and a musketeer, one was a low rascal and a mere sponge; the other lived on gaming and on the good nature of women to whom he made love. Anne, the sister, was the incarnation of malicious cunning. Associated with this precious family was a certain Chevalier de Merlus, who had a great deal to do with the final tragedy of M. de Montragoux's career. The nature of this tragedy may be inferred, but it is curious that, while Perrault represented Bluebeard as taking a journey in order to lay a trap for his wife, the fact was exactly opposite. Both before and after his marriage he had heaped benefits on all these wretches. When he was obliged to go away in the matter of an inheritance he gave all his keys without reserve to his wife, warning her out of pure love against the unhappy associations of the princesses' room. As soon as he was out of the way a trap was laid for him, and it was in that very room that he was most treacherously assassinated. The worst and the best of it was that M. de Merlus, after marrying the wealthy widow, became an exemplary husband and subject of the king.

DRIVING A NAIL.

More to It Than Simply Hammering It Into the Wood.

One who thinks that the driving of a nail consists simply in getting the whole length of it out of sight has little conception of the real nature of the operation, says the Scientific American. A nail driven by an expert will often hold several times as much as one ill driven, while, too, it is often made to draw the parts into place. If you have ever watched a mechanic driving nails you have doubtless noted that he rarely drives one at right angles with the face of the work. There is a reason for this. Suppose that he is nailing the "sheeting" on the frame of a building and desires to draw the board down tightly against the one below it. He points the nail downward, and a few well considered blows at the last produce the desired effect. If the board is bent edgewise, so that much force is required, probably he will start the nail in the upper edge, pointing very sharply downward. Again, two nails driven in a board at different angles will hold it in place much more firmly than the same nails would if they were driven at right angles with the face of the board.

Did you ever notice that in driving a nail in very hard wood one man will do it successfully, while another succeeds only in doubling the nail up before the point has fairly entered the wood? The difference lies in the fact that the expert strikes the nail fairly and not too hard, "coaxing" it in, while the other strikes too hard and with indirection. It may be properly mentioned right here that in driving a nail into very hard wood it is usually profitable to dip the end in oil or grease. This will not sensibly interfere with the holding qualities of the nail, while it will be found to very materially facilitate its driving.

His Condolence.

An English lord used to tell a story of a sheriff substitute he once knew slightly.

Although he was a very religious man, the sheriff had his faults, and one of these was that he had a habit of using strong language without realizing what his words implied. The sheriff's best friend was the minister of the parish, and a great misfortune befell the reverend gentleman by the death of his wife.

The sheriff wished to express his sympathy, but he found himself quite at a loss to know what to say. He sat for a long time scratching his head and puzzling himself to know what he could say to the minister. At last he blurted out, "Well, minister, this is a d—l of a business."—London Express.

THE MILITARY SQUARE.

A Formation Borrowed by Wallace From the Flemings.

The greatest of all Scottish anniversaries is that of Bannockburn, fought in the year 1314. Apart from its bearing on the independence of Scotland, the battle will always have an exceptional interest from the military point of view, as Bannockburn may be said to have been the birthplace of the British square. "Proud Edward's" army mainly consisted of cavalry, while that of the Scots, on the other hand, was almost exclusively composed of foot folk armed with the spear, and these Bruce threw into "schiltroms," or oblong squares, a formation borrowed by Wallace from the Flemings, who had employed it with success at Courtray to resist the charge of the English cavalry.

Hitherto the mounted mail clad knights had carried everything before him, but Courtray and Bannockburn proved that he was powerless to break resolute spear armed infantry drawn up in "schiltrom," or hedgehog, formation, and these two battles revolutionized the tactics of the continent and of our own island. Profiting by the lesson which had been taught them at Bannockburn, the English applied the tactics of the Scots with brilliant success at Crecy and still more at Agincourt. As it was the Scots who may be said to have originated the British square at Bannockburn, so it was they again who at Balaklava were the first to discard it with their "thin red line," and now, owing to our changed conditions of warfare, it is discarded altogether.—London Chronicle.

MOHAMMEDANS OF INDIA.

Superstition Seems to Govern Most of Their Actions.

Mohammedans of India are very superstitious. No Mohammedan will take a bath on Sunday or Tuesday. But if one bathes on Wednesday all misfortunes and misery that are in store for him till the next Wednesday will be averted. As a rule, all Mohammedans bathe on Fridays before going to perform the jumma prayers. For donning new clothes Saturday, Sunday and Tuesday are regarded as bad days. If any one dons a new dress or puts on a new cloth or allows his tailor to cut a piece of cloth on these days, he will live a miserable life till that dress or cloth gets torn or is thrown away. If a shirt is torn and if the wearer wants to stitch it, it must be taken off, for if it is stitched while on the body the person will soon die. A Mohammedan will never allow a barber to come near him on Tuesdays, for Tuesdays and Saturdays and Sundays are bad days for shaving. If absolutely necessary he will get himself shaved on Saturday or Sunday, but never on Tuesday, as his star is supposed to fall in blood if he does so. If one receives money or some valuable thing, it is taken with the right hand, for if it is taken with the left the person receiving it is said to forget all about it very soon or to mislay it. A devout Mohammedan will not start on a journey on Wednesdaay, for it is believed he will never return home safely if he does so. And it is said that even a snake never ventures out of its hole on this day.

A Snake Story.

The family were at dinner when there came a tap at a door seldom opened. Winning no attention, it was repeated and again a third time, though more softly, and then the door was swung back and, behold, there was a snake, knocking at the portals of hospitality! Down upon its head, in conformity with the decree of tradition and with Ezra's understanding of scriptural direction, crunched a British boot. It was a mother snake, who, having bravely overcome her fear of man, was seeking sustenance, not for herself perhaps, though she was starving, but more likely for the little ones that were found in the grass by the brook. Thus for once, at any rate, did the craftiness of the devil succumb to the instinct of motherhood.—George B. M. Harvey in North American Review.

The "Macaroni."

The "macaroni" were exquisites or fops who in England and France led the fashions from 1780 to 1785 and were distinguished by an immense knot of artificial hair worn on the top of their heads. A small cocked hat which perched ridiculously on their topknot, satin or brocade coats and small clothes fitting tightly to the body and silk stockings with ribbon garters composed the costume of these fashionable gentlemen, who invariably carried a long walking stick with tassels attached and frequently a bouquet tied to the handle and encouraged a mincing and affected gait and manner. There was during the war for independence a body of Maryland soldiers who on account of their showy uniforms were called "macaroni."

FIRST PLAYING CARDS

They Seem to Have Sprung From the Naibis of the Saracens.

INVENTION OF A VENETIAN.

The Evidence Appears to Prove That Games With Cards Originated Toward the End of the Fourteenth Century—The Cards of Charles VI.

The earliest direct mention of playing cards discovered so far is in the "History of the City of Viterbo," says the New York Telegraph. The author quotes Covelluzzo, who wrote about the end of the fifteenth century:

"In the year of 1379 was brought into Viterbo the game of cards, which comes from the country of the Saracens and is with them called naib."

It is worthy of remark that Covelluzzo did not write at that date he mentioned, but a century later, in 1480, and it is quite possible that he may have been mistaken in attributing the cards to Saracenic origin or may have simply been quoting a popular tradition. The Saracens were familiar with naibis, the predecessor of cards, but they did not invent the game of cards, of which naibis were only a part.

The earliest date about which there can be no dispute at which playing cards are directly mentioned by a writer as a matter of his personal experience is that discovered in the register of the court treasurer of France, in the reign of Charles VI. The entry is under the date of Feb. 1, 1392, as follows:

"Given to Jacquemin Gringonneur, painter, for three packs of playing cards, in gold and various colors and ornamented with several devices, to carry before the lord our king for his amusement 56 sols of Paris."

This is the foundation upon which is based the popular notion that playing cards were invented for the amusement of a crazy French king. Critics have pointed out that the amount paid is simply for the hand painting and decoration of the cards. There is nothing in the entry that gives ground for supposing that the cards themselves were new.

There are on exhibition today at the National library in Paris what are supposed to be seventeen of these cards that were painted for Charles VI., and this has strengthened the impression that they are the original model from which all playing cards have been copied. Unfortunately for the fame of the exhibit, it has been proved that the cards shown in Paris are really very fine Venetian tarok cards and are part of an edition made at least as late as 1425.

During the twenty years that follow this date of the royal treasurer's (1392) literature is full of references to playing cards. Almost every author that mentions games of gambling paraphernalia particularizes one or more games of cards. But before that date no allusion has been found to a game that could be construed as a card game, although there are several writers who might reasonably be expected to mention cards if they were acquainted with them.

Hugh von Tymberg, who wrote in the second half of the thirteenth and the beginning of the fourteenth century; Petrarch, who wrote in the first half of the fourteenth century; Chaucer, who wrote in the second half of the fourteenth century, made no mention of cards, although in the writings of all of them there are references to gambling tables and implements.

In the Escurial library there is a manuscript composed by order of Don Alphonso the Wise, dated 1321, which gives the rules for a number of games, especially chess and dice, but does not contain a word about cards.

But one naturally asks if the earliest mention of cards is to be found in the register of the royal treasurer of France where did cards come from if they were not a new thing to him?

To go back a little, it is well known that there existed long before the date of any mention of playing cards a series of emblematic pictures called naibis, which were used by gypsies and others for the purpose of fortune telling and sorcery. It is probably these naibis that were brought to Europe by the Saracens, and perhaps they were supposed to be of Saracenic origin.

Authorities seem to be pretty well agreed that toward the end of the fourteenth century some inventive genius, probably a Venetian, selected a number of these naibis or pictures and added to them a series of numeral cards so as to convert them into implements by which the excitement of chance and the interest of gaming might be added to the amusement afforded by the original naibis.

The principal reason for assuming that cards originated in Italy and not in France is that the names of the cards themselves and the names of the earliest known games played with them are all Italian and that these Italian terms were carried all over Europe. If they were of French origin the nomenclature might be expected to be French.

There is an abundant evidence that the playing cards which rapidly found their way all over Europe were made in Venice. As each country got to making its own cards the emblems of the suits were changed to please the national fancy until there is nothing left today of the original faith, charity, justice and fortitude which were represented on the first Italian packs.

A Dandy of 1770.

From an English newspaper printed in the year 1777 is the following description of a dandy: "A few days ago a macaroni made his appearance in the assembly rooms at Whitehaven, dressed in a mixed silk coat, pink satin waistcoat and breeches covered with an elegant silk net, white silk stockings with pink clocks, pink satin shoes and large pearl buttons, a mushroom colored stock covered with fine point lace, hair dressed remarkably high and stuck full of pearl pins."

Word From The West

HERE AND THERE AMONG THE MOUNTAINS.

A Letter from Long Branch California from a former Tecumsehite who sends greetings.

My last letter to the Herald was printed Jan. 15, '09, but I am not egotistical enough to think that I have been missed by its readers. We are so far away that we have few interests in common. Yet, I often think that if I only knew just how to tell it in an interesting manner, there is much in this section of California that would interest eastern people who have never visited here, and especially in our little city by the great "Deep Sounding Sea."

Certainly, Southern California has a fine all the year round climate.

After a residence here of 15 years, I can most heartily recommend it to any and to all who desire a change from the extreme heat and cold of Eastern sections. While at the present time many eastern cities and villages are suffering from the extreme heat there that kills, we are having just the most enjoyable weather possible.

Now and then for a day or two, it is what one calls hot for a few hours during the middle part of the day, but it is not such heat as exhausts one, and the moment you step into the shadow, the heat of the sun is forgotten.

We are entirely free from those fearful electrical storms so destructive to life and property.

While it is almost impossible to distinguish between the seasons by the climatic conditions. Yet, we know that in the winter we have our rains and can prepare for it, and in the summer we know that we will not have rain and so do not need to prepare for it. We can go where we please, when we please, and stay for days and weeks without the fear of getting caught in the rain.

Of course, the country has its drawbacks. What country does not? But I believe we have as few unfavorable conditions as anywhere in this broad land, to my mind, it is an ideal country in which to spend your declining years.

By the many grey heads that appear in any public gathering, it would seem that a goodly number have come to realize this fact and are taking advantage of it. I, however, repeat that for persons to gain a correct estimate of the country, they must remain here a year and visit different parts of the country.

Some like the foothills best. Others the valleys and some the sea-shore best. We have lived in all three localities. We would choose the foothills for certain bodily ills and for scenery—the valleys for farming, and the sea-shore for comfort and pleasure.

Long Branch is the gem of all for an ideal home in this and surrounding country. Our little city has been we, think, very appropriately named, "The Queen of the Beaches." Why?

1st. We are a highly religious and moral community. There are thirty or more religious denominations holding services here. The Baptists have a fine stone structure, the Methodists have just dedicated a stone edifice, one of the finest in Southern California, and will seat 2,500 people.

The Christian church is also a modern structure of stone and cement.

The Presbyterians are erecting another granite house of worship at a cost of $25,000. It will be the third largest church of this denomination in the state, seating 1900.

We have a large and active W. C. T. U., Y. W. C. A., and Y. M. C. A. We have six very fine, large two story school buildings.

The Y. M. C. A. and Y. W. C. A., own their building jointly, a fine two story, with basement, composed of brick and are doing good work among the young people. All the churches have their young peoples' societies. None of these organizations were known in my boyhood days. We knew nothing of the present, pleasant and attractive features of our present modern schools. I often think that, if the present day Sabbath schools were conducted as they were in Tecumseh in my Sabbath school days there, the number attending would be very much smaller than at present. I often think it does not mean as much, is not so serious a matter, to join the church now as then.

With all of our churches, we havn't a church bell, except the Catholics. We think that church bells are al "out of date now." It has been many, many years since the old, old custom of ringing and tolling the church bell for every death, this being done at all hours of the day—and night even. If the death occurred in the night—so many strokes for a man, so many for a woman and so many for a child, would be given. I have forgotten the numbers, but I can hear the bells yet, especially those in the night. Then followed the slow tolling of the age. After the bell ceased and we had listened and counted the strokes, we would say, that must be Mr. A. or Mrs. B. or little C. or D., whom we happened to know was sick and not expected to live. Then too, the tolling of the bell from the time the procession left the house, or church, until it had reached the cemetery. And how different the scene then and now, the ceremony at the grave—the latter lined with evergreen, the unsightly heaps of dirt covered in like manner, with a canopy over all, the casket lowered by machinery and stopped before it is out of sight and the closing ceremony repeated, which is a happy change from the old harrowing details of death and burial.

If there were no loafers in this old world of ours, the police courts would not have much to do.

People who are always harping on their own troubles do not dispense a very high grade of music.

Don't carry your Christian Science so far that you imagine your ills.

NATIONAL DAIRY SHOW.

The directors of this year's National Dairy Show have adopted Progress as its motto. Every progressive feature of the dairying industry will be shown. Every man responsible for this condition, dairy farmer, creameryman, butter maker, cheese maker, machinery manufacturer, utensil maker, college instructor, milk-man, freight agent, commission man, in fact everybody that handles milk from the cow that gives it up to the consumer will be there.

The directors plan something unusual this year in addition to the machinery, live stock exhibits and the entertainment program. There will be present some of the foremost men of affairs of the country, who will talk on topics pertaining to dairying. These speakers will come from all parts of the country and will include governors of dairy states, United States senators, congressmen and presidents of railroads, who have helped up-build these dairy states and districts. Among those invited to address the dairy farmers and others attending the several conventions that will be held at the same time, will be: Hon. James J. Hill, President of the Great Northern Railway, Hon. Wm. Jennings Bryan, Senator Robert M. La Follette, Secretary of Agriculture Wilson, Senator Cummings of Iowa, Hon. Wm. Alden Smith, of Michigan; Speaker of the House of Representatives Cannon, Governors: Davidson, Wisconsin; Johnson, Minnesota; Deneen, Illinois; Warner, Michigan; Hughes, New York; Harmon, Ohio; Hon. W. D. Hoard, editor of "Hoard's Dairymen."

President Lillie is arranging the details for the monster dairy farmer's banquet which will be held in the auditorium. Hon. W. D. Hoard, editor "Hoard's Dairyman" will be toast master and it is confidently expected that 2,000 dairy farmers will attend this function.

REFLECTIONS

The fat hog is the one sent to market.

The pacemaker gets more substantial rewards than the peacemaker.

No man can serve two masters, and few masters are fit for two men to serve them.

It is not wise to put all your eggs in one basket. They can be transported with much less danger in a safety egg-box.

The reward offered for a man's return after his disappearance is often more than the salary paid him for a year's work.

"Good weather is mighty essential to raising a crop," said the Nailkeg Philosopher, "but the best weather ever seen will not grow corn that was never planted."

Don't do it to-day. It may be the wrong thing to do at any time.

HOW TO CURE SKIN DISEASES.

The germs and their poisons which cause the disease must be drawn to the surface of the skin and destroyed. Salves and greasy lotions may give temporary relief, but they have not the power to destroy the germ life. ZEMO, a clean liquid for external use will draw to the surface and destroy the germ life, leaving a clean healthy skin. ZEMO positively cures Eczema, Pimples, Blackheads, Dandruff, Itching Piles and every form of skin or scalp disease Messers Wright the druggists, endorse and recomend ZEMO and will give you a sample bottle.

The family tree sometimes bears pretty poor fruit.

BASE BALL--WHITE CITY.

The latest effort on the part of the White City management, is the addition of an excellent base ball ground where amateur ball players can indulge in the national game to their hearts content. Every Sunday there are ball games between local and other teams and no charge is made to witness the game. The swimming pool is one of the most popular rendezvous in all Toledo, and all day long the happy bathers splash and plunge in the limpid waters of the lagoon.

The steep toboggan slide is a real delight to both sexes and it is a pleasing sight to watch the merry swimmers as they speed down the steep schute and glide like water nimphs far out upon the ripples of the lake.

The swimming pool at White City is one of the sights of Toledo and is worth a visit. In the dance hall the young folks glide around the highly polished floor and waltz to the strains of the really good music which is furnished by an excellent ladies' orchestra.

The picnic grove is an ideal place for a pleasant open-air meal and hundreds of tired Toledoans take advantage of the pleasant trolley ride and the many attractions which White City has to offer over other local resorts.

BRAVE STUNT.

By Acting Promptly Floyd Ager Saves His Life.

Wednesday forenoon Floyd Ager wen to the brewery after a load of malt and while he was loading it his team became frightened and started to run. Floyd hiked out after them and running ahead caught each horse by the inside line but that did not stop them and he soon was taken off his feet. He grabbed the neck-yoke and wound his legs around the wagon pole and did some hard thinking. All the time the team was dashing down the road and people gazed with fear and trembling expecting to see the young man trampled to death by the charging steeds or killed by the heavy wagon wheels.

Realizing that whatever he did must be done quickly Floyd made a desperate effort to crawl over the end of the tongue and neckyoke and at last crawled upon the back of one of the horses and their speed was quickly checked. They were stopped in front of the Catholic church and the young man, bruised and trembling from the excitement resumed his work. His friends are congratulating him on his pluck and probable escape from death

Mr. Ager is a former Tecumseh boy and friends here are pleased to learn that he was not injured.

APPALLING!

THE NEWS OF THE TERRIBLE DEATH OF EUGENE CAMBURN IN ADRIAN, SUNDAY.

KILLED BY A D. T. & I. PASSENGER TRAIN, WHILE WALKING HOME ON THE TRACK FROM A TRIP DOWN TOWN.

Mr. Camburn was a Highly Respected Resident of this Village and a former Prominent Farmer in Franklin.

Body Was Brought to Tecumseh Sunday Evening and will be taken to Tipton for Funeral and Burial, Wednesday.

The residents of this village were shocked to learn on Sunday morning that Eugene Camburn, the genial, good natured and big hearted man that everyone knew and liked, had been killed in Adrian at 9:30 by a D. T. & I. excursion train. Mr. Camburn was totally deaf and had stooped down to either tie his shoe or adjust some of his wearing apparel while walking down the track when the north bound passenger train which he was facing, struck him, killing him almost instantly.

Mr. and Mrs. Camburn went to Adrian Saturday to remain with their daughter's, Mrs. Eva Tieman's children while Mrs. Tieman visited her husband in Fort Wayne. Mrs. Tieman went to Fort Wayne Sunday morning and a little later Mr. Camburn went down town to get the Sunday paper and was on his way home following the tracks between College and Michigan avenues when killed. The injuries were below the knees on both limbs, the left limb being almost entirely severed and the right limb being badly cut and bruised. He lived only a few minutes. Coroner Thomas did not think an inquest necessary. Undertaker Belding drove to Adrian Sunday afternoon and brought the body to Tecumseh. Mrs. Camburn, Mr. and Mrs. Tieman came over from Adrian Monday morning, the latter being summoned at once from Fort Wayne. A short service will be read at the house Wednesday morning at 8:30, when the body will be removed to the Congregational church in Tipton at 10:00 where the burial service will be conducted by the Knights of Pythias of which order deceased was a member. Burial in Tipton cemetery.

Mr. Camburn was born 63 years ago being a son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Camburn and resided in Franklin until a few years ago, when he sold his farm and purchased a home in Tecumseh where he has since lived. Beside his wife and foster daughter, Mrs. Tieman of Adrian, he leaves two sisters, Mrs. Henry Bowen Sr. of Adrian, Mrs. Ruth Smith of Manchester, and one brother, Thomas Camburn of Dowagiac, who arrived here yesterday afternoon. Many friends mourn with Mrs. Camburn and daughter in their sad bereavement, for Mr. Camburn made countless friends by his cheerful disposition.

FINE REPORTS

SHOWING THE VERY SATISFACTORY CONDITION OF THE M. E. CHURCH

As Given at the Quarterly Conference held Sept. 10th. '09.

The Fourth quarterly conference of the M. E. church of Tecumseh, Mich., for this conference year was held in the church parlors at 1 o'clock p. m., today, Rev. Dr. Dawe presiding. All the reports show the church to be in a prosperous condition. The amount raised during the year for church benevolence were $632.00 including the W. F. M. S. and the W. H. M. S. contributions.

Our beloved and much esteemed pastor, Rev. D. Stanley Shaw, received an urgent and unanimous invitation to return to us for another conference year.

His work in the church and community, both as a pastor and a citizen, has been highly appreciated during the year that he has been with us. His sermons have always been clear, concise, evangelical and spiritual.

As a pastor his work has been of the highest type—diligent, helpful and inspiring to all the church membership. Has made many friends during the year that he has been with us, and is loved by all with whom he came in contact, both in the church and community and has proved himself to be a christian gentleman, a first-class citizen, and an exemplary man. As a leader in all the various departments of church work, he has been very efficient, vigilant, helpful and instructive.

Sister Shaw has been all that we could ask of a pastor's wife in all the departments of church work and in the community. At a meeting of the Woman's Foreign Missionary Society, held Sept. 9, she was elected president of the society for the coming year, and we sincerely hope and expect that they may be with us, and that the coming year may be fraught with as good results to both pastor and people as the year just ended.

SICK HEADACHE

Sour Stomach, Heartburn, and Canker Sore Mouth Cured by Mi-o-na.

Where there's a will there's a way. Sick headaches are caused by indigestion and a general disturbed condition of the stomach. Cure the indigestion and the headache, nausea, heartburn, sour stomach and that "all in" feeling will vanish. Mi-o-na tablets will cure indigestion or any other stomach trouble. C. A. Wright & Son have so much faith in them that he will give you your money back if they don't. Mi-o-na cures by making the stomach strong enough to digest its own food by putting new life and energy into the overworked and played out walls of the stomach. Use Mi-o-na for a week and you can eat what you want any time you want it and take pleasure in doing it. Your blood will be richer, redder, purer after taking Mi-o-na. 50 cents a large box.

"I have for years had at sundry times, attacks of billousness which made me about down sick. I tried Mi-o-na and the use of this great remedy cured my trouble. There has been no recurrence since I used Mi-o-na; therefore, I praise it highly." Mrs. L. R. McIntyre, Maiden Lane, Tecumseh, Mich. Oct. 16, 1908.

NEEDFUL KNOWLEDGE.

TECUMSEH PEOPLE SHOULD LEARN TO DETECT THE APPROACH OF KIDNEY DISEASE.

The symptoms of kidney trouble are so unmistakable that they leave no ground for doubt. Sick kidneys excrete a thick, cloudy, offensive urine, full of sediment, irregular of passage, or attended by a sensation of scalding. The back aches constantly, headaches and dizzy spells may occur and the victim is often weighed down by a feeling of languor and fatigue. Neglect these warnings and there is danger of dropsy, Bright's Disease, or diabetes. Any one of these symptoms is warning enough to begin treating the kidneys at once. Delay often proves fatal.

George D. Chaplin, Ottawa St. Tecumseh, Mich., says: "I used Doan's Kidney Pills, procured from C. A. Wright & Son's drug store and they lived up to the claims made for them. When I procured this remedy I was feeling miserable but after a short use my health was greatly improved. I have no hesitation in recommending Doan's Kidney Pills, as I know they are a reliable kidney remedy." For Sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster & Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, Sole Agents for the United States.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

Some women never put checks to their purchases. They leave that for their husbands.

A COOK'S CREST.

The Decoration Worn by a Pompous Persian Chef.

A quaint story from Persia is given in a book by Mr. James. The author had missed from his saddle the brass plate inscribed with the maker's name, Souter, and was wrath at his loss, since the name went for much in the judgment of the east.

"One day," he says, "I was sitting in my favorite teashop with my friend Hassan Ali, discussing as usual England's perfidy in abandoning north Persia to Russian machinations, when a most dignified Persian entered the auberge. He was preceded by a well groomed boy carrying his dust coat. The Persian bowed to me with great civility and passed into an inner apartment. As both man and boy bore burnished gilt crests upon their tall astrakhan hats I took them to be public functionaries of no small importance.

"'Who was that, Hassan Ali?' I asked. 'I do not remember having seen him before, yet evidently he recognized me.'

"'That,' said my friend, with his small, beady eyes twinkling, 'is your cook—yes!'

"'My cook!' I answered in astonishment. 'I took him to be at least the governor's chief of staff.'

"'Well, he is cook's chief of staff, which to him seems a higher degree—yes!' And Hassan Ali smiled his inimitable smile.

"'But what in the name of good cookery is the impertinence that he wears upon his hat?'

"'That must be your crest. It is a badge of yours!'

"'On my honor, Hassan Ali, you must not make fun of me! I have given the man no crest, and I have never set eyes on him before!'

"'I have seen the badge!' Hassan Ali continued. 'It is undoubtedly your own. It has the motto "Souter," which is doubtless the old heraldic contraction for the more contaneous, and also the subtile, "By royal appointment"—yes!'

It was, of course, the missing saddle plate, which the ingenious cook had "conveyed" as a heraldic decoration.

WEDS HIS "AFFINITY"

Leaves Woman and Eleven Children to Do So.

SAGINAW MAN'S ODD MOVE

Quits Mother of His Children After Thirty-five Years and Marries Woman Fifty-three Years Old—First Mrs. Hallick Promises to Give Them a Stormy Time.

Saginaw, Mich., Sept. 16.—Frank Hallick, the fifty-eight-year-old citizen who lived with the mother of his eleven children for thirty-five years as her common law husband, and then suddenly started out as an "affinity-seeker," has been married to the lady of his second choice, according to the statement of himself and his attorney. Hallick and the "soul-mate," who was Mary Dubay, fifty-three years old, are living in a cottage by themselves. They declare that the wedding ceremony was performed by a minister, whose name they refuse to divulge.

Brooks & Ott, attorneys for the first Mrs. Hallick, say, however, that Frank and his new bride have a stormy time due them. The lawyers say that Mrs. Josephine Hallick, wife No. 1, was duped into signing an agreement whereby she gave up her husband in exchange for half of the latter's property and the promise of $10 a month from him as long as she remained single. The woman cannot read, write, speak nor understand English, the attorneys claim, and she did not know what she was signing.

PRESIDENT TAFT REACHES CHICAGO

Addresses Crowds at Stations Along Route.

Chicago, Sept. 16.—After traversing the states between Boston and Chicago the past twenty-four hours, President Taft arrived here at 11:30 a. m. today to make his first important stop on a 13,000 mile tour of the west and south.

Wherever the train stopped on its run from Boston there were large crowds at the railway stations, and the president was greeted with enthusiastic cheering. The president was prevailed upon to make a number of five minute speeches from the rear platform of his car at points not included in the itinerary. In Massachusetts Mr. Taft spoke at Worcester, Springfield and Pittsfield. Entering New York state he was greeted at Albany by Governor Charles E. Hughes, and both made little talks to the depot throng, which cheered the state and federal executives with equal enthusiasm. Governor Hughes became the president's guest on the run from Albany to Syracuse and had dinner with him on the car Mayflower.

President Taft is in rare good humor. A large crowd greeted his arrival here. He seems thoroughly happy that the journey toward which he has been looking for several months had at last begun. He thanked those who came to greet him in the different cities and said he believed that the long and arduous trip would bring him into closer touch with the people than any other plan which could be devised.

AGAIN ON STRIKE.

Over Three Thousand Car Works Men Are Out.

Pittsburg, Sept. 16.—The car workers' strike at the plant of the Pressed Steel Car company in Schoenville, which was thought settled on Wednesday of last week, after costing nine lives and heavy financial loss, has begun anew. Between 3,000 and 4,000 employes of the car works walks from their work and quietly dispersed to their homes.

The workmen now allege the car company officials have broken faith with them regarding the discharging of imported bosses brought here during the recent eight weeks' labor dispute.

It was announced by the car plant officials that they would probably discharge what few imported workmen are yet in the plant in a second effort to resume business and keep their plant running.

There are fifty deputy sheriffs on guard at the car plant. Little or no trouble is anticipated.

WENT WITH HIM TO NORTH POLE

Peary's Colored Lieutenant Saw "Secluded" Spot.

TELLS OF HIS EXPERIENCE

American Flag Was Twice Raised, He Declares—Peary Found, on Second Observation, That He Was 150 Yards Off—Says Eskimos Showed Great Pleasure on Reaching Pole.

Battle Harbor, Labrador, Sept. 16.—By wireless telegraph, via Cape Ray, N. F., Sept. 16.—"We hoisted the Stars and Stripes twice at the North Pole," said Matthew Henson, Commander Robert E. Peary's colored lieutenant, and the only other civilized man, according to Peary, who ever reached the pole.

Henson has given to the Associated Press an account of the one night and two days he and Commander Peary and four Eskimos camped at 89 degrees north latitude. Henson personally assisted in raising the American flag, and he led the Eskimos in the cheers, and an extra cheer for Old Glory, in the Eskimo tongue.

"Having spent eighteen years with Commander Peary, and a considerable portion of that time in the arctics," said Henson, "I have acquired a knowledge of the dialect of the northern Greenland Eskimos, who probably are superior to any other. As is commonly known to travelers in the far north, the Eskimo entertains a strange prejudice toward any tongue but one, and it is therefore necessary for successful dealing with them to study their unwritten language.

Bartlett Didn't Have Flag.

"We arrived at the pole just before noon, April 6, the party consisting of the commander, myself, four Eskimos and thirty-six dogs, divided into two detachments equal in number and headed respectively by Commander Peary and myself. We had left the last supporting party at 87 degrees 53 minutes, where we separated from Captain Bartlett, who was photographed by the commander. Captain Bartlett regretted that he did not have a British flag to erect on the ice at this spot, so that the photograph might show this as the fartherest north to which the banner of Britain had been advanced.

"I kept a personal diary during this historic dash across the ice field. Our first task on reaching the pole was to build two igloos, as the weather was hazy and prevented taking acurate observations to confirm the distance traveled from Cape Columbia. Having completed the snow houses, we had dinner, which included tea made on our alcohol stove, and then retired to rest, thus sleeping one night at the North Pole.

"The arctic sun was shining when I awoke, and found the commander already up. There was only wind enough to blow out the small flags. The ensigns were hoisted toward noon from tent poles and tied with fish lines.

"We had figured out the distance pretty closely and did not go beyond the pole. The flags were up about midday, April 7, and were not moved until late that evening. The haze had cleared away early, but we wanted some hours to make observations. We made three close together.

Moved the Flag.

"When we first raised the American flag its position was behind the igloos, which, according to our initial observations, was the position of the pole, but on taking subsequent observations the Stars and Stripes was moved and placed 150 yards west of the first position, the difference in the observations being due perhaps to the moving ice.

"When the flag was placed, Commander Peary exclaimed, in English, 'We will plant the Stars and Stripes at the North Pole.' In the native language I proposed three cheers, which were given in the Eskimos own tongue. Commander Peary shook hands all around, and we had a more liberal dinner than usual, each man eating as much as he pleased. The Eskimos danced about and showed great pleasure that the pole at last was reached. For years the Eskimos had been trying to reach that spot, but it was ever with them 'tiquelgh,' which translated means 'get so far and no closer.' They exclaimed in a chorus, 'ting neigh timah ketisher,' meaning 'we have got there at last.'"

Henson, who reached the fartherest north with Peary three years ago, said that conditions were about the same at the pole as elsewhere in the arctic circle. All was a solid sea of

PRISON IS IN FIERCE SHAPE

Federal Convicts Taken Away From Allegheny.

INTESTIGATION WAS MADE

Found That Institution in Western Pennsylvania Was Overcrowded. Three Hundred of Inmates Have Tuberculosis—Half of Them Idle. Food Supply Is Not Best.

Washington, Sept. 16.—Conditions at the western penitentiary of Pennsylvania, at Allegheny, have been found so distressing and intolerable as to require the immediate removal of all federal prisoners whose transfer is practicable, and to demand the most serious consideration of the proper public authorities. This is disclosed in the report of C. H. McGlasson of the department of prisons and prisoners, to the attorney general.

At the direction of the attorney general, Wade H. Ellis, acting head of the department of justice, has just made known the results of the investigation which McGlasson conducted.

"The population on the first of this month was 1,301," says Ellis in his statement. "Of this number more than half are confined two in a cell, and more than half are at all times idle. The cells are unusually small, and the cots take up almost the entire length of each, the room for moving about being a space eight feet long and eighteen inches wide.

WADE H. ELLIS.

"There are more than 300 prisoners suffering from tuberculosis, and seventy-nine cells are now occupied by those showing advanced stages of this disease. The prison is filled with vermin of all kinds, although the officials are making an effort to eradicate them.

"An unusually large number of the prisoners are of the lowest possible character, mentally and morally, and there is but one general mess provided for all. Almost universal complaint is made about the quality of food served, especially the meats.

"A copy of the abstract of the report made by the agent of this department will be sent to the governor and the board of inspectors of the penitentiary. It is not intended by this action to assume any official duty in the matter. It is merely intended to call to the attention of the proper authorities a situation so grave and pitiable as to justify prompt and earnest consideration."

Watching Dread Disease.

Washington, Sept. 16.—So widespread has interest in the strange malady, pellagra, become among medical authorities and others throughout the country that Surgeon General Wyman of the public health and marine hospital service has decided to issue a weekly bulletin dealing exclusively with the developments of that disease. This step has been decided upon as a result of requests from practically all of the state boards of health, who are watching the progress of the disease, particularly in the south, with much concern.

Moon Worship in China.

The fete of the moon is celebrated in China in the eighth month of the year, and this lasts six days. Presents are then made on which the figure of the moon is apparent, and a large pagoda is illuminated. Firecrackers and music and family reunions prevail. A midnight banquet on the last night terminates the feast, and then the descent of the goddess of the moon, which we call the man in the moon, is awaited. She is supposed to visit the earth at this time to grant the wishes of mortals. The moon with the Chinese is the patroness of poetry, and autumn is the poet's favorite season.

"JACK TARS" HAPPY.

All Work on Shipboard on Sunday Reduced to Minimum.

Washington, Sept. 16.—"Free Sunday," for so many years the hope deferred of "Jack Tar" in the United States navy, is about to become a reality. Acting Secretary Winthrop has issued an order having this object in view. Its purpose is to reduce the work aboard ship on the Sabbath to a minimum consistent with requirements of the service, to the end that that day may be generally observed as a day of rest.

Hereafter the commanding officers' inspection of ship and crew is not to be held on Sunday. Ship inspection is to be held on any other day most expedient, while the inspection of the crew will take place on Saturday before noon, or as soon after the dinner hour as practicable.

MONEY IN PILLOW.

Two Thousand Dollars Found In House of Pioneer Lumberman.

Bay City, Mich., Sept. 16.—In tearing down an old homestead built by William Whipple, a pioneer lumberman who died twenty-nine years ago, Contractor William Jackson found an old pillow slip which aroused his curiosity. Ripping open the slip with his jackknife, found $2,000 in gold coin mingled with feathers. The money was turned over to Whipple's son.

Much Married.

The following, taken from "Evelyn's Diary," refers to a Dutchwoman who lived in the seventeenth century: "Towards the end of August I returned to Haarlem. They showed us a cottage where, they told us, dwelt a woman who had been married to her twenty-fifth husband and, being now a widow, was prohibited to marry in the future; yet it could not be proved that she had ever made away with any of her husbands, though the suspicion had brought her divers times into trouble."

HEALTH AND BEAUTY AID.

Cosmetics and lotions will not clear your complexion of pimples and blotches like Foley's Orino Laxative, for indigestion, stomach and liver trouble and habitual constipation. Cleanses the system and is pleasant to take.

Don't expect to find your field of labor full of shade trees.

TESTIFIES AFTER FOUR YEARS.

Carlisle Center, N. Y., G. B. Burhans, writes: "About four years ago I wrote you that I had been entirely cured of kidney trouble by taking two bottles of Foley's Kidney Remedy, and after four years I am again pleased to state that I have never had any return of those symptoms, and I am evidently cured to stay cured." Foley's Kidney Remedy will do the same for you.

Some people never run into debt; they jump into it.

Many people delude themselves by saying "It will wear away," when they notice symptoms of kidney and bladder trouble. This is a mistake. Take Foley's Kidney Remedy, and stop the drain on the vitality. It cures backache, rheumatism, kidney and bladder trouble, and makes every trace of pain, weakness, and urinary trouble disappear.

As the mind is bent so is the tongue inclined.

WARNING

Do not be persuaded into taking anything but Foley's Honey and Tar for chronic coughs, bronchitis, hay fever, asthma, and lung trouble, as it stops the cough and heals the lungs.

Dr. Abernethy, the great English physician, said, "Watch your kidneys. When they are affected, life is in danger." Foley's Kidney Remedy makes healthy kidneys, corrects urinary irregularities, and tones up the whole system.

Whiskey straight makes a man crooked.

A NARROW ESCAPE.

Edgar N. Bayliss, a merchant of Robinsonville, Del., wrote: "About two years ago I was thin and sick, and coughed all the time and if I did not have consumption, it was near to it. I commenced using Foley's Honey and Tar, and it stopped my cough, and I am now entirely well, and have gained twenty-eight pounds, all due to the good results from taking Foley's Honey and Tar."

PURVEYORS TO ROYALTY.

Their Signs Constitute One of the Sights of London.

The American in London, on his first visit to that marvelous city, is struck by the number of signs over shops with the royal arms painted thereon and announcing that the tradesman is a purveyor to their majesties. Yet, when the matter is sifted, the number is not so large.

Officially, according to the London News, there are about 200 tradesmen in London who hold the royal warrant and are entitled to use the royal arms as a shop sign, with the accompanying words, "By royal appointment." The royal warrant has to be received, signed and sealed in due form; otherwise, if a tradesman styles himself a purveyor to a member of the royal family without this formal permission, he is guilty of an offense which is punishable by a fine not exceeding £20. Moreover, he is liable to a similar fine if he uses arms so nearly resembling the royal arms as to lead people to believe that he is carrying on his business under the authority of royalty. Several instances have occurred of the enforcement of these penalties.

The warrants are exhibited in the shop windows, headed by the royal arms and bearing the signature of the lord chamberlain, the comptroller of the royal household, the treasurer of the latter, or of the master of the horse, etc., according to the circumstances.

SMOKING A PIPE.

It Is Said to Give the Face a Square Jawed Effect.

"There is one question I always ask a man who wants a job," remarked the business man who has to hire several hundred men for different positions each year.

"The question I always ask them is, 'Do you smoke a pipe much?' Of course the answers are various. Some of them smoke a pipe a great deal and others not at all.

"Why do I ask about the pipe? Well, not that I have the least interest in their habits or that I have any prejudice one way or another in the matter. The reason is that I want to know whether the formation of their lower jaws is natural or acquired.

"A man with a firm lower jaw is always a man of parts and of will. I say 'always'—anyway, most always. If he does not smoke a pipe his square jaw, back near where it hinges on to the upper one, is natural. If he is a pipe smoker the looks are deceiving, and I have to judge his caliber some other way.

"Pipe smokers always have strong muscles back on the face about the place a man stops when he makes the first stroke downward in shaving. These are the muscles that hold the jaws together. They often give a square jawed effect to a man who hasn't any square jaw characteristics. My men think I ask funny questions, but there's a reason."—New York Times.

British and German Physique.

Ten millions of our people inhabit dwellings inferior to the kennels provided for the hounds in a well managed hunt. The results of living in dwellings unfit for human habitation and the prevalence of a dietary scale from which English meat, bread and milk are excluded are fatal to successful rivalry with a virile and healthy race where agriculture is fostered for strategical reasons.

Having spent hours in watching the arrival of the early morning trains in Berlin and Hamburg, I am appalled with the contrast between the vigorous and well set up, broad chested and healthy looking clerks, brawny shopmen and stalwart laborers on the other side of the North sea and the champagne shouldered, cow hocked, pigeon chested, lack luster trainfuls of men of the same classes landed at Liverpool street, Victoria and Charing Cross.—Arnold White in London World.

He Studied It.

H. Rider Haggard in "A Winter Pilgrimage" tells this anecdote:

"When I was a 'soaring human boy' my father took me up the Rhine by boat with the hope and expectation that my mind would be improved by contemplating its lovely and historic banks. Wearying of this feast very soon, I slipped down to the cabin to enjoy one more congenial, that of 'Robinson Crusoe.' But some family traitor betrayed me, and, protesting even with tears that I hated views, I was dragged to the deck again. 'I have paid 6 thalers,' shouted my justly indignant parent as he hauled me up the steamer stairs, 'for you to study the Rhine scenery, and, whether you like it or not, young man, study it you shall.'"

Rounded Knife Blades.

Until the seventeenth century knife blades had pointed ends, as can be readily understood when the knife of those days was used for hunting and table purposes indiscriminately. The rounded end was introduced from France in a curious way. It happened that Cardinal Richelieu was compelled to entertain at his table a certain Chancellor Sequier—a vulgar and unmannerly man, who at the close of the meal proceeded to use his knife as a toothpick. This vulgar act so upset the cardinal that he ordered the end of every knife in his possession to be rounded, and so great was Richelieu's influence that the fashion was soon adopted all over the country. This is the vulgar, but nevertheless interesting, origin of the rounded knife of today.—Pearson's Weekly.

A Dinner For Titles.

In his autobiography, "A Fragment," Professor Max Muller tells the following anecdote of the Duke of Wellington: "His servant had been sent before to order dinner for him at an out of the way hotel, and in order to impress the landlord with the dignity of his coming guest he recited a number of the duke's titles, which were very numerous. The landlord, thinking that the Duke of Vittoria, the Prince of Waterloo, the Marquis of Torres Vedras and all the rest were friends invited to dine with the Duke of Wellington, ordered accordingly a very sumptuous banquet, to the great dismay of the real duke."

Alaskan Moonshine.

Up here in Alaska the moon rises in the south and sets in the north. Its beams are liquid and they enamel the landscape with a porcelain loveliness. It casts a spell more potent than e'er did the magicians of the east. Under its wizardry the rocks turn to silver and the brown old mountains are conjured into giant pearls. True wealth exists in the mind, and whoever beholds an Alaskan moonlight is thrice hundred times a millionaire.—Ketchikan Miner.

The Tenderfoot Farmer

It was one of these experimental farmers, who put green spectacles on his cow and fed her shavings. His theory was that it didn't matter what the cow ate so long as she was fed. The questions of digestion and nourishment had not entered into his calculations.

It's only a "tenderfoot" farmer that would try such an experiment with a cow. But many a farmer feeds himself regardless of digestion and nutrition. He might almost as well eat shavings for all the good he gets out of his food. The result is that the stomach grows "weak" the action of the organs of digestion and nutrition are impaired and the man suffers the miseries of dyspepsia and the agonies of nervousness.

To strengthen the stomach, restore the activity of the organs of digestion and nutrition and brace up the nerves, use Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It is an unfailing remedy, and has the confidence of physicians as well as the praise of thousands healed by its use.

In the strictest sense "Golden Medical Discovery" is a temperance medicine. It contains neither intoxicants nor narcotics, and is as free from alcohol as from opium, cocaine and other dangerous drugs. All ingredients printed on its outside wrapper.

Don't let a dealer delude you for his own profit. There is no medicine for stomach, liver and blood "just as good" as "Golden Medical Discovery."

SPARED BY THE ENEMY.

A Dramatic Incident in the Career of General de Gallifet.

It was on that fatal day, Sept. 1, 1870, that General de Gallifet distinguished himself by commanding the cavalry charges intended to clear the elevation at Illy, with the view of opening a passage toward Floing, where it was hoped the army might retreat. The first charge overthrew the Eighty third regiment of the Prussians and penetrated among the German troops, but the latter formed again rapidly after the retirement of the French cavalry.

General Ducrot then asked if they could renew the charge with what remained of the light cavalry and hussars, and then Gallifet answered in the words that have become historic, "As often as you wish, general, as long as a man remains!" The second charge was not so successful as the first. Only a few men, with their general at their head, succeeded in penetrating the first ranks of the enemy. It is known that the king of Prussia, who was watching the battle from the top of the hill of Marfee, exclaimed with admiration, "Oh, les braves gens!"

Just at this moment an astonishing event occurred in the midst of the battle. As Gallifet was returning with a few survivors, their horses for the most part wounded or foundered, he passed before the Nassau regiment. The Prussian officers ordered their men to cease fire and even struck up some of their guns. The French saluted and shouted, "Vive l'empereur!" and the German officers acknowledged the salute, some of them applauding.—Westminster Gazette.

SCIENTIFIC FEEDING.

Health as a Primary Factor in Intelligent Living.

Health and success are so largely dependent upon balance, upon symmetry of development, physical and mental harmony, that we should do everything possible to secure that physical poise which also means mental and moral poise. A large part of our ills come from one sided development, caused by overstimulating some tissue cells and starving others—overfeeding and underfeeding. Scientific feeding, therefore, is of vast importance.

Overeating and improper eating are among the curses of the world. Think of the people who put all sorts of incompatibles into their stomachs at the same time and then use all sorts of nostrums to get rid of their bad effects.

One of the most pathetic sights in the world is that of a human being struggling hard to carry out his ambition, yet handicapping himself by his ignorance of physical laws.

What a pathetic figure Carlyle cut in the world—a one sided giant who might have been a symmetrical power, possessor of a colossal brain largely controlled by a dyspeptic stomach! He was cross and crabbed and did just the things that he did not want to do, things that he knew it would be better not to do, but he was the victim of starved nerves, of exhausted brain cells largely for want of common sense feeding.—Orison Swett Marden in Success Magazine.

A "Mite."

The difficulties experienced by our forefathers in trying to reckon money in very small proportions appear in the various values given to a "mite" in the sixteenth and seventeenth century books of commercial arithmetic. The original "mite" seems to have been a third of a Flemish penny, but the use of the word for the widow's coin of the New Testament made its regular English meaning half a farthing, and some old people may remember applying the name to the short lived nineteenth century coins of that value. In those old arithmetic books "mite" stands for various values not represented by actual coins, but obviously used in reckoning. A work of 1706 makes it one-twelfth of a penny, two sixteenth century books one-sixth of a farthing, and in 1674 Jeake's arithmetic made it as little as one sixty-fourth of a penny.—London Chronicle.

In Mourning.

A peer, who was the master of a fine hunting pack, died, and his widow refused to let the hounds go out. Whereupon a friend asked a former chief justice of England, who was himself a huntsman, whether any harm would be done if the hounds were allowed to run with pieces of crape round their necks. "I can hardly think that even crape is necessary," was the reply. "It would be sufficient if the hounds were in full cry."—London News.

ALEXANDER'S SNAKE.

A Story of Magic and Credulity in the Olden Days.

No snake that ever lived won greater fame for the time than Alexander's. Lucian tells the story. Apollonius, a master of the magic arts, had many disciples, among whom was a practicing physician who lived in Abonotichus, a small town on the shore of the Black sea. There Alexander was born of humble parentage and imbibed from the old doctor all that he had learned from Apollonius of medicine and magic. He was a lad of striking appearance, tall, handsome, with a fine head of hair, lustrous brown eyes and a voice sweet and limpid. "God grant," wrote Lucian, who knew him, "that I may never meet with such another. His coming was wonderful, his dexterity matchless. His eagerness for knowledge, his capacity for learning and power of memory were equally extraordinary."

Such was the well favored young peasant who sallied forth from his native town in search of fame and fortune. Soon he fell in with one Coconnas, a shrewd tipster for the races and somewhat of a juggler. The two rogues joined forces and meandered about telling fortunes. Arriving at Pella, they found a great number of huge, harmless snakes which lived in the houses, played and slept with the children and destroyed poisonous rats. Alexander promptly purchased one of the largest, a veritable monster, so tame that it would coil about his body and remain in any desired position. Then he made a human face for it out of linen, painted it ingeniously and shaped it so that the mouth would open and shut by an arrangement of horsehair, letting the forked tongue shoot in and out at the will of the master. Having no further use for Coconnas, he either administered poison to him or let him die from some infection and returned with his snake to his native town. There he declared himself a prophet and announced that the god Aesculapius was about to appear. The people were credulous, excitable and eager for a new divinity.

When the great day arrived Alexander pretended to discover in a puddle of water a goose egg which he had placed there after removing the contents, substituting a small embryo snake just born and carefully sealing the shell with wax. When the multitude had gathered he broke the shell and produced the tiny creature, which in a few moments grew to be the monster from Pella by the simple process of substitution. Thereafter the big snake, believed to be Aesculapius, led a busy life. He gave seances, told fortunes in writing and even spoke freely, with the aid of the prophet's ventriloquial powers. Alexander grew rich and powerful, kept a small army of retainers and spies, wielded no little influence over the government even at Rome and died at a ripe old age in the fullness of his renown. What became of the snake nobody knows. Probably at the last the prophet dispatched the faithful creature to prevent the discovery of his deception after his death.—George Harvey in North American Review.

The Kind Cat.

A neighbor of old Mrs. Harrington killed a fine pig one day. He cut it up and hung the pieces in his woodshed. Mrs. Harrington's cat climbed into the shed that night, stole a large pork chop and carried it home to her mistress. The minister happened to call on the old lady the next day. She was just frying the chop. She told the minister how miraculously it had been brought to her by the cat.

"And, oh, sir," she said piously, "it was almost beautiful to see the way the sweet animal brought me the pork chop. It quite recalled to my mind what we read in Holy Writ about Elijah and the ravens."—Exchange.

The Courtship Gate.

We have been shown a design for an upholstered front gate which seems destined to become very popular. The footboard is cushioned, and there is a warm soapstone on each side, the inside step being adjustable, so that a short girl can bring her lips to the line of any given mustache without trouble. If the gate is occupied at 10:30 p. m., an iron hand extends from one gate post, takes the young man by the left ear, turns him around, and he is at once started toward home by a steel foot. The girl can, if she likes, set this part at a later hour than 10:30.—Jones County (Ga.) News.

Gibraltar's Searchlight Battery.

For ships to pass around Gibraltar, England's and the world's greatest fortress, without being observed even at night is a practical impossibility, owing to the great battery of searchlights arranged along the bottom of the rock. A ship running either in or out runs into one of the fixed beams of light and is revealed. A moving beam of light then follows her until the lookout officers are satisfied as to her intentions.—Popular Mechanics.

TEXAS LETTER.

Houston, Texas, Aug. 22, '09.

Dear Friend:

Assuming that you will be interested in a short account of my travels, observations, and impressions, since leaving the "Biggest Little Town on Earth," I shall make an attempt to tell you in my own peculiar way:

First, The weather in St. Louis was hot, hotter in Kansas and Oklahoma, and hottest in North Texas, but on nearing the coast, the cool Gulf breezes make life endurable—almost enjoyable.

I passed through some fine country, and Oklahoma especially, was a revelation to me. That new and prosperous state has as many fine farms, modern and up-to-date towns as in Mich., and the towns, some of them, as large as Tecumseh, Adrian or even larger, have all modern improvements, electric lights, paved streets, street cars, water works, etc., all built within the past few years and all paid for by the products of the soil.

As you pass through or stop at these towns, the land boomers hand you leaflets, descriptive of the surrounding country and saying: "Get off here and stay with us—you won't find anything better, etc., etc. And, one is tempted to follow the advice, for everything looks so good.

Coming down through Northern Texas, the banner cotton section of the state, general crops were small and I learned that no rain had fallen for eight months. The arrayas or creek-beds were as dry as the "dryest county" in Michigan.

For the past two weeks I have been scouting around in Harris, Fort Bend, and Wharton counties, which, outside of the towns, consist principally of large general farms, cattle ranches and rice farms. The rice country is wet for rice is raised in water which is distributed wherever wanted through irrigation canals, several times the size of the River Raisin.

I was not favorably impressed with those counties mentioned, for the drinking water is bad, mosquitos and snakes were swarming by the millions and so I came back to Houston, where living conditions are better. Here I shall stay until the weather becomes cooler and then take a jaunt through Matagorda and Brazoria counties, where, (so I am told), I will find the large fruit and vegetable farms.

But, speaking of the weather again, all records here were broken this past week. In this vicinity, where we have the gulf breezes, too, it has registered as high as 110 degrees, and up in the interior of the state, 115 in the shade was noted. Eggs were cooked by being placed on strips of tin exposed to the sun. And yet, the people here don't seem to notice it. They attend to their work and pleasures, perspire freely, but dress according to the weather.

The men don't wear coats or stiff collars, but light, neglige shirts and trousers and a large hat, either felt or straw, which are all becoming, and suitable. As to the ladies wearing apparel, I cannot fully describe it or even attempt it, but I know that they look sweet and comfortable.

The Southern woman of good breeding, is a dream and a delight to the senses. She has charming manners, beauty of face and figure and nature has not slighted her in any way.

I meet a great many Northern people here, from various states. What do they come here for? Well, some for health, some for wealth and some, like myself—because they can't stay long in any one place. A great many come here for the climate. "Climb it, my boy, climb it!" as one old resident said to me.

Talking with a former Ohio man the other day, I asked him if he liked to live here? "Well yes, I like it, he replied, I like the climate, but——"

Another one from Illinois said: "I don't like the water—can't get a good well as we are only 40 feet above sea level and I don't fancy the septic cistern water."

The septic cistern is a large tank of galvanized tin, placed above ground at the side or back of house, which filters the rain water from the roofs. Not bad water when you become accustomed to it and better than none at all.

Artesian water is sold in large towns and you can also buy "Paddy's eye-water," made in Kentucky. I cannot express myself freely as to the quality of this beverage, but hardly think it is equal to "Dolly" Wallinger's private stock or Barrett Bros. best. Now a few words about land. Did I say land?

Friends, there is enough vacant land, good land, in this state to support several million people. The real estate men are hustling, have agents all over the country, and advertise freely. They expect a great rush of northern people this fall and one of them is quoted as saying that he would not be absent from his office during the next two months for $10,000.

Some of these agents will sell you land that is covered by the Gulf of Mexico. The character of the soil varies in different sections, the open praries showing light gray, dark brown, black sandy loam, etc. Some of it they describe as, chocloate hued and black waxy. The loams are pliable and easily worked, but the black waxy is hard to subdue. All of this land has the chemical constituents necessary for plant life of every description and is very fertile. I saw men cutting and baling alfalfa in the fields and this can be done five times a year. It is one of the most profitable crops and in some sections that I passed through, I saw it growing in the village commons and parks, (President Wightman, please take note.)

As to the general character of the people already here and arriving daily, well—some of them are like the soil, i. e., chocolate hued and black waxy, and equally as fertile and productive, but the majority are Americans, with a sprinkling of Germans and Scotch-Irish. All sober, industrious people, who have not found ideal conditions in northern and eastern states, but who are striving to secure homes and independence, peace, prosperity and plenty in this modern utopia.

In the city of Houston, a hustling town, about the size of Toledo, O., I talked with a business man who has lived here twenty years and learned much that I cannot express in detail, but the jist of our conversation was something like this:

Pretty good class of people you're getting here now, I suggested, by way of an opening.

"People! He yelled—Well now, you said something, Mr. Jay! There ARE people with a big P. We want good people. We don't want the loafer, the grafter, or the idle rich. We want those who reach accomplishment by industry, and we're gettin' 'em. Take a look around town, see the new court house going up, notice the office buildings, and warehouses in course of construction, ride out in the suburbs, and watch those substantial houses grow, feast your eyes on that new Turning basin and the traffic on Buffalo Bayou, the railroads, etc. Yes, we're waking up. Rice is being harvested, cotton picking has started, and although crops are short in some sections, yet, in a few weeks, we'll all have money and be happy. And we don't have to worry much about a large supply of winter coal, etc.

Well, all of us; farmer, merchant, manufacturer, work all winter,—something doing all the time. We call our town "The City of Prodigeous Performances," and after being here awhile, you will like the town and the people."

Well, I traveled about town and found that the above statements could be verified, for there is unusual activity for a southern town. There is still room for improvement, however, in some ways.

For instance, the postoffice is small and overcrowded and was evidently built when the town was young. I suggested to the Postmaster that he send for our genial and energetic P. M., "Bid." to put "His House in Order."

Taking everything into consideration, there is much to praise and much to condemn about this big, growing state, and I cannot as yet, say whether I like it or not.

After a few days here, suffering from heat, bad water, and other bodily discomforts, I was tempted to say, as A. E. Kennedy said when he left the state of Missouri: Goodbye, the whole d——d state of Texas, I'm going North." But I haven't said it yet and always have the thought in mind that I can endure it if others can.

I should dislike to do as others from Tecumseh have done, i. e., go to a strange city or state, stay a few days, and then go back home with all sorts of wails and woes.

They say that the Fall and Winter climate here is delightful, and perhaps, when I become acclimated and accustomed to conditions generally, I may be able to say, with all sincerity, that I like it in Texas.

I should like to write more concerning this interesting country and people, for it is not such a barren waste as some imagine, but a hustling, healthful, vigorous, out-door western life, combined with the wild climate and luxurious vegetation of the south.

I have not mentioned all that I intended, but as my knowledge and time is limited, will say good bye for the present. Hoping that this will find you all in good health and spirits, I am,

Sincerely yours,

SAM JAY.

HOW TO CURE SKIN DISEASES.

The germs and their poisons which cause the disease must be drawn to the surface of the skin and destroyed. Salves and greasy lotions may give temporary relief, but they have not the power to destroy the germ life. ZEMO, a clean liquid for external use will draw to the surface and destroy the germ life, leaving a clean healthy skin. ZEMO positively cures Eczema, Pimples, Blackheads, Dandruff, Itching Piles and every form of skin or scalp disease. Messers Wright the druggists, endorse and recomend ZEMO and will give you a sample bottle.

HOME CURE FO RECZEMA

Oil of Wintergreen, Thymol, Glycerine, Etc., Used as a Simple Wash.

It really seems strange that so many people suffer year in and year out with eczema when it is now no longer a secret that oil of wintergreen mixed with thymol glycerine, etc makes a wash that is bound to cure.

Old obstinate cases it is true cannot be cured in a few days, but absolutely no sufferer from eczema who ever used this simple wash and did not find immediately that wonderful soothing calm, cool sensation that come when the itch is taken away. Instantly upon applying a few drops of the wash and did not find immediately that wonderful soothing, calm cool sensation that comes when the itch is taken away. Instanty upon applying a few drops of the wash the remedy takes affect, the itch is allayed. There is no need of experiment the patient knows at once.

Instead trying to compound the oil of wintergreen, thymol, glycerine, etc., in the right proportion ourselves we are using a prescription which is universally found the most effective. It is known as the D. D. D. Prescription, or oil of wintergreen Compound. It is made by D. D. D. Co of Chicago and our long experience with this remedy has given us great confidence in its merits.

DR. GEORGE HOWELL.

Dr. George Howell died at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Irwin Conklin, in Macon, Tuesday evening at 9 o'clock, after a long illness.

On his father's side, Mr. Howell's ancestors were of Welsh descent, his great great grandfather, Charles Howell, coming from Wales in 1735, and settling in New Jersey. Dr. Joseph Howell, the father of our subject, was born in Seneca county, N. Y. He married Lutitia Vanduyn, of Holland descent. She was born in New Jersey, Oct. 19, 1803. Her parents removed from New Jersey to Seneca county, N. Y., and on Nov. 5, 1826, she married Joseph Howell. In Aug. 1831, they removed from New York to the Territory of Michigan, and settled in what afterward came to be the township of Macon, Lenawee county.

It was here, in a little log cabin, that George Howell was born Nov. 4, 1838, and grew up amidst the scenes and incidents of pioneer life.

Although engaged in all kinds of farm work, yet not being very strong, physically, he was permitted to attend the summer terms of district school until fifteen years of age, and the winter terms until nineteen.

While at work on the farm and attending the district school, he became the possessor of Comstock's Botany, Flint's Surveying, and an old compass and chain. With these he became quite proficient in the Sinnaean System of Botany, and so skilled in the use of the compass as to do surveying for the neighborhood. There ran across his father's farm, the Macon, and as much of its course lay through wood lands, abounding in game, it gave an opportunity for hunting and trapping. With his gun and traps, his compass and chain, his botany and wild flowers, in the quiet stillness of the woods, George Howell found greater enjoyment than in society.

When 19 years of age, his father gave him his time and permitted him to work the farm on shares. At the end of two years he entered Hillsdale college, attending five terms, then attending one term at the Tecumseh High School.

In 1860 he entered the medical department of the University of Michigan, and graduated in March, 1863.

Dr. Howell was married to Miss Ann Amelia Remington, a schoomate, Jan. 7, 1864. Mrs. Howell was born Feb. 8, 1844, and died at her home in Tecumseh, about two years ago.

To this union were born three daughters, Edith, the wife of Walter Triplett, of Bangor, Me., Veva, wife of Irwin Conklin, Macon, and Gertrude, wife of Dr. H. R. Conklin of this place, all of whom survive.

Dr. Howell has held many offices in the county and state. In 1881, he was elected supervisor and re-elected in 1883. In 1882, at the November election, he was elected to the state legislature, in the first representative district of Lenawee county. In 1884 he was re-elected to the House, and in 1886, he was elected to the state Senate. Dr. Howell introduced a medical bill to the Legislature, the intent of which was to prevent the further admission of incompetent persons to practice in the state. It became a law.

In September, 1886, with his family, Dr. Howell moved from his native township to Tecumseh, and continued to practice here, until he was obliged to retire on account of failing health. Since the death of Mrs. Howell, he has made his home in Macon with his daughter, Mrs. Conklin, to spend his declining years among the scenes of his childhood.

Dr. Howell was a member of the Methodist church, and a faithful worker in all its departments.

The funeral will be held from the home in Tecumseh, Sunday at 2 o'clock conducted by Rev. Scarlett of Macon. Burial at Brookside.

B. I. LAING.

Benjamin I. Laing, one of the pioneers of Raisin, passed away after a lingering illness from paralysis, Friday Sept. 10, at the home of his daughter, Mrs. J. L. Richard, who has ministered to him with untiring devotion since the death of his wife in April last.

Mr. Laing was the son of Smith and Abbey Laing, who came from New York, in 1831, taking up land from government at Raisin Valley, making a home in the wilderness.

He was born on this farm March 27, 1834, and lived there except for a few years spent in Rome and Adrian till 1883, when he moved to Palmyra.

In 1892, he came to Holloway to live, to be near his daughter, and for the past four years has lived with her.

He was married Jan. 30, 1855, to Miss Mary Jane Cone, by whom he had three children, Alice M., wife of Charles Slayton of Tecumseh, Inez M. wife of J. L. Richard, Holloway, and Elmer E. who died in 1867, aged 3 years. Mr. James Murphy of Toledo, was also made one of this family for 10 years.

Born of Quaker parents, Mr. Laing attended that church till he was 33 years of age, when he joined the M. E. church at Adrian, and was a member of its official board for 14 years, as class-leader and trustee.
